Miss Viola White, 59, died at her home in Ashford early Monday morning. She was born in Ashford April 9, 1866, a daughter of John and May Eddy, Smith. She leaves no relatives.

Preceding the Flag day exercises of Washington Lodge No. 1301, B. P. O. E., Monday evening, the B. P. O. E. band under the direction of Charles N. Wheeler gave a brief concert on Main street in front of lodge headquarters. The band played "Old Glory Triumphant" by C. E. Dawble, "Memories of the War" by Lavendean and "Stars and Stripes" by Sousa. John W. Meehan was heard in a trombone solo, "Cottage Small." The exercises were held in the town hall. Town Clerk Frank P. Bacon delivered the oration on the flag. James P. Mustard gave the history of the flag. There were instrumental numbers and songs. The officers of the lodge were in charge of the ritual work. Exalted Ruler Clarence M. Mathieu presiding. The committee of arrangements consisted of Roy W. Downer, chairman; Michael E. Sullivan, George Bedgord, Egbert A. Case and J. Francis Moriarty.

The new crop of time-table adjusters took another shot at the Providence and Willimantic line, with the result that the schedule put in operation Monday morning leaves only one train each way available for the considerable daily revenue travel between Jewett City and Providence. The morning train west only comes as far as Washington and as a result the over 1000 copies of Boston dailies due here via the Lisbon station Sunday morning failed to arrive.

If local people wish to go by train to Providence, 4:32 a. m. is the unholy hour at which the train leaves here. The only west train that runs through is the 3:10 p. m. from Providence. Practically, nowadays it is the bus or shanks's mare.

The train as recalled when a fine 7 train a day each way schedule gave Jewett City passengers a fine service to and from Providence.

MEN AND WOMEN USE SILPH TO REDUCE

It Chews Like Gum

"I have taken off 18 lbs. of excess fat with SILPH and feel like a new man." Signed W. H. M., Brooklyn.

No Dangerous Drugs— Guaranteed Harmless!

Why shouldn't men as well as the fair sex care to have a normal figure? There is an old saying, "Nobody likes a FAT man." Who knows better than the one overburdened with excess weight that this is true.

A man's appearance means much to his social success or in business—Wives should encourage their husbands to reduce if they see the threatening signs of a double chin—a bulging stomach coming on—A trim, well proportioned figure is an asset that no man can afford to scoff at. Excess weight is recognized to be dangerous by insurance companies and physicians—If a man is overburdened by fat he cannot enjoy perfect health and he is in constant danger of a sudden death.

It should now be easy and pleasant for anyone to reduce—SILPH is used by thousands of people—It comes in form of a pleasant, refreshing chewing gum—two or three pieces of SILPH a day generally gives most satisfactory results.

Beware of Cheaper Imitations

Silph is the name of the original and genuine gum which is used in New York by most beautiful actresses and dancers to keep trim and slender. It is the only one we personally guarantee to be safe and harmless.

Prof. Budlong states, "I have lost 25 lbs. with SILPH and have been relieved from high blood pressure from which I suffered greatly."

SILPH sells at all good drug or dept. stores for 50c a box. If your druggist is out of it send direct to the SILPH CO., 9 W. 60th St., N.Y.C.

I've signed up with P.A. for life

TWO months ago, I would have told you that I was pretty well satisfied with my smoking tobacco. I didn't know Prince Albert then! Gee, what a lot of tricks I missed without even knowing it. Never mind. I'm making up for lost time now. My jimmy-pipe is working double shifts.

I load up the minute breakfast is cleared away and hit it up from then until "lights out." That's one of the fine things about Prince Albert. You never tire of it. Each pipe-load tastes better than the last, if such a thing is possible. I know I'm set for life now.

Prince Albert is cool as a dip in the lake. No matter how hard you drive it, you never burn out a bearing. It is sweet as a check in the morning's mail. Fragrant, too, like fresh-picked flowers. Fragrant in the tin, and fragrant as you smoke it. Real tobacco, I tell you.

Maybe you think you are all set in the matter of smokings. I wouldn't stop there. Because, if you haven't smoked P. A., your best bet is still to be collected. On my say-so, and that of millions like me, why don't you try Prince Albert? I'll guarantee you'll be glad you did.

P. A. is sold everywhere in tidy red tins, pound and half-pound tin humidors, and pound crystal-glass humidors with sponge-moistener top. And always with every bit of bite and parch removed by the Prince Albert process.

DANIELSON

WEDDING DECORATIONS ON CARS VIOLATE LAW

(Special to the Bulletin)

DANIELSON, June 14—Once again the police are finding it necessary to hold conference with motor car drivers who decorate the windshields of their machines. The custom is more or less general with wedding parties. Streamers, cards and various other devices are in favor and all of these more or less obstruct the view of a driver. Such decorations are not permissible under the law, unless they in no way interfere with the driver's vision. A year ago, or thereabouts, the diving girl stickers that were in such great vogue called forth a ruling of the motor vehicle department against them, and this ruling applies also to all other decorations that may come into use or that are in use. Chief John McFarland Monday took up with the driver of one wedding party car that was in town the matter of having such obscurers of vision. It is held that a car can be decorated without obscuring any part of the windshield, and it will be insisted that this be done.

EMERGENCY LANDING FIELD STILL A POSSIBILITY

(Special to the Bulletin)

DANIELSON, June 14—Walter Anderson said Monday that the matter of developing an emergency landing field for aeroplanes on the borough farm has not been abandoned and that work will be done in due time. The borough is to do considerable excavating on the farm this year incident to changing the filter bed system of the sewage department and much of the dirt removed will be so distributed as to allow of making a good landing field for planes. A south shore view will be used as the starting field and the field will be extended northward in easterly direction. It will be the first field of its kind in this corner of the state. An air mail service that will be inaugurated between Boston and New York in July will have a route directly over Danielson. This is one of the reasons why, with an eye to future developments, it is regarded as wise to develop the landing field.

While awaiting notification as to the exact date on July when they will leave for Tobyhanna, Pa., for the annual period of field service, officers and enlisted men of the Service battery are getting everything in order for the long summer trip. As was done last year, the Service battery will travel in the six motor trucks that is part of the company equipment. The run from Danielson to Tobyhanna is 275 miles and as the limited speed which the trucks are able to travel the journey will require something over two days. The first leg of the journey will bring the battery to Hartford and from that city the convoy will head across Connecticut to the New York state line. The men are exhibiting the usual interest in the journey, which they found to be considerable of a novelty last year.

In the town court Monday morning, Adelard Morin of Norwich Falls was fined $10 and costs a total of $20.40 after he had pleaded guilty to speeding—a reckless driving charge. Mr. Morin was ordered to court by State Officer E. V. Streamers.

John I. Bryant, who spent some of his boyhood days on the Dexter farm, at Elmville, before he left to enter the civil war as a boy of 16, is visiting here for a few days. Mr. Bryant is one of the distinguished residents of Fair Haven, Mass., and two weeks ago, on the observance of his golden wedding anniversary he and Mrs. Bryant were presented various gifts of gold, one of these gifts being $50 from the town. Mr. Bryant has been a town official for 40 years and a county commissioner for the past 26 years, and is still holding office.

The members of Sarah Williams Danielson chapter, D. A. R., are to have their annual picnic at the home of Mrs. George M. Kent in Brooklyn, Thursday afternoon of this week. Each member is privileged to bring a guest. Those going over from Danielson are to leave from the railroad station at 2:15.

Something new in the way of a motor truck cargo, seen in a nearby town, was a huge elephant, evidently enjoying his journey over the highways. It was understood the animal was being taken to Hartford.

Half holidays for the store forces of Danielson will begin with July and continue through August. The stores will be closed Thursday afternoons, as has been the arrangement for several years during the real hot weather period.

Report of a narrow escape from an accident at the Franklin street crossing recalls that this heavily traveled crossing is protected only by an electric signal gong. View up the track to the north is poor from the approaches either side of the track.

Numbers in Danielson displayed the national colors on Monday, in observance of Flag day.

In accord with a new arrangement, members of the Service battery held a drill Monday night at the state armory. The company has been drilling on Tuesday evenings.

Mrs. Roger C. Stimson will leave today (Tuesday) for a visit with relatives in Pennsylvania.

Henry McDermott of Woonsocket spent the week end at his home in Danielson.

A newly organized Boy Scout troop here has a pleasant summer in prospect, as hikes and camping parties are to be arranged among various other diversions.

Lagoy Wood, who died Sunday in East Orange, is remembered by numbers of old residents here as a particularly fine singer.

John C. Brissette of Central Falls spent Sunday with friends in Danielson.

Graduating exercises of St. James' school are to be held next Sunday afternoon.

The Roundabout club will meet Wednesday afternoon with Mrs Orray E. Potter of Broad street.

Numbers of people from this town were in Providence Monday to attend the Ringling circus.

Through the creation of a special fund for the purpose, some band concerts on Davis park are assured for the summer season.

Strawberries from beds within the town of Killingly—real native berries—will be available in limited quantities this week.

Misses Emily and Harriet Hall of Providence have opened their summer home in Brooklyn for the season.

Mrs. Marie Taylor of Webster spent the week end with relatives in Danielson.

This week's schedule in the Twilight league calls for the following games. Tonight, Cleavers vs. Kneewates; Wednesday night, Connecticut Mills vs. Buddisco; Thursday night, Nail Drivers vs. Cleavers.

Walter C. Merrifield, Worcester was a week end visitor with friends in town.

Mr. and Mrs. Christopher Andrews of Candlebridge, formerly of Danielson were visitors here over Sunday.

Rev. Leonard R. Ricards of St. Al-bans church delivered an address at the Flag day observance of Putnam lodge of Elks in Putnam Monday evening. Many of the members of the order this town were in attendance.

Members of McGregor, W. R. C. have plans in mind for a picnic party, in accordance with a custom of a number of years.

On Wednesday evening of this week graduating exercises of the Wauregan grammar school are to be held in Wauregan hall.

Monday afternoon the Reading circle met with Mrs. M. V. Woodworth of Hawkins street.

Down at Bishop's crossing, in the town of Plainfield, steady progress is being made on the contract that calls for the elimination of that dangerous intersection of a trunk line highway and a grade crossing where a number of very serious accidents have occurred and where some have met death on the westerly side of the railroad a long approach that is to carry the highway high above and over the tracks has been far advanced and the fill on the easterly side now is underway. A steam shovel is at work excavating from an embankment nearly the thousands of cubic yards of earth that will be required to make the gradual ascents from each side of the railroad. Forms are being built into which concrete later will be poured to make the abutments on which will rest the steel construction of the overhead bridge carrying traffic over the tracks. While steady progress is being made with the work, its present stage of development would indicate that the contract will not be completed until toward the end of the summer season. Meanwhile, traffic over the crossing passes over a temporary roadway, a grade just north of the old trunk line highway, now buried under hundreds of tons of dirt.

Reaffirmation by the chamber of commerce of an old agreement means that solicitors for various advertising propositions that are of dubious standing and other solicitation of merchants for this and that, is not going to be very profitable from now on.

While a business man will not ordinarily be so frank as to say so, he is fully aware that many of the advertising propositions put up to him are nothing more or less than a hold-up. He gives, even as you and I because he cannot afford to offend someone, possibly a customer. He is fully sensible of the fact, giving as he does, than many program propositions and other such proposals, are really 100 per cent. worthless to him as business produces. Giving occasionally to such proposals might willingly be done, but with no restrictions a business man is solicited about every day for some sort of a scheme or another and at the end of the year, if he subscribes to many or all of them, he has given away—for nothing—a very sizable roll of money.

The chamber of commerce has, by vote, agreed that sledding for the solicitors is not going to be so easy from now on. It has not been until recently, for years past, but an old agreement seems to have broken down. It has been revived. The ban goes on stamps and premium propositions, as well as on the program propositions. Only such proposals as are submitted to the advertising committee of the chamber of commerce—the personnel of this committee secret—and are approved, will have a chance of doing well in Danielson. Another period of raiding the pocketbooks of the business men, under one guise or another,

WOMAN'S ARM FRACTURED WHEN CARS LOCK WHEELS

(Special to the Bulletin)

PUTNAM, June 14—Two Worcester automobiles, homeward bound, came together about 6 o'clock last evening on Brandy Hill. The car owned by Mrs. Nora Malloy was overturned and she sustained a compound fracture of the arm and several bad bruises. She was taken to Day Kimball hospital.

With her were her son and his five children, and her daughter, Mrs. Gladys Robertson, and two children, ten in all in the car. None of the others was hurt, beyond a few bruises.

The driver of the other car whose name was not given out, had one passenger with him. The state police, who were soon at the spot, put him under a bond of $200 to appear in court.

His story is that he tried two or three times to pass the Malloy car and the driver, although making much less speed, prevented him. He finally came to a portion of the road which he thought gave him sufficient room but the wheels of the two cars locked as he was turning back into the middle of the highway, after he thought he was safely past.

The occupants of the other car deny these statements and claim that after the accident he tried to get away. Chester M. Elliott was passing at time and he stopped his car and rendered what aid he could to the occupants of the overturned car.

SNAKE BITES LITTLE GIRL ROLLING IN THE GRASS

(Special to the Bulletin)

PUTNAM, June 14—Kay Macdonald, the three year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. S. Macdonald of Oak hill, while playing in the yard a few days ago was bitten on the shoulder by a snake. The child was taken to the hospital by her mother. Dr. Overlock cauterized the wound and she seemed to have suffered no ill effects from the bite. The child was playing with a little neighbor of her own age and as near as could be ascertained from the story told by the children they were rolling in the long grass on the side of the hill. It is thought the child rolled on the snake. When she told her mother that a snake had bitten her, little attention was paid to her as the children had often, according to their own tales, told of seeing bears and other animals while playing. However, Mrs. Macdonald decided to investigate and found the wound on the child's shoulder which had already begun to swell. Dr. Overlock said from the wound the snake must have been of considerable size.

The Social circle of the Congrega-tional church plans to hold a lawn social at the home of the Misses Warren. The First Grade Band of the Israel Putnam school under the direction of Miss Gertrude Warner is to furnish the entertainment and refreshments will be in charge of Miss Eleanor Carpenter, Miss Elizabeth Dingwall and Miss Gertrude Perry.

The June meeting of the Parent-Teacher association was held in Putnam high school library. A field day program was given by the grade school under the supervision of J. V. Mesic, principal of the Israel Putnam school. Following the field day program there was a short business meeting. The treasurer's report showed $46.36 on hand. The membership committee reported 111 paid up members. The following motions were made and carried. To hold a social and ice cream; to purchase new recording books for the secretary and treasure, to be paid for by the association; to subscribe for the Child's Welfare Magazine to be sent to the incoming president and secretary and to be paid for by the association. The following officers were elected. President, Mrs. Beatrice W. Wilbur, vice president, Dora Potter, secretary, Mrs. Ralph C. Jenks; treasurer, Mrs. Edward Scott Duffy; chairman membership committee, Mrs. J. R. Tatem; chairman program committee, Mrs. H. H. Sherriff; chairman press committee, Mrs. Walter Wheaton; entertainment committee, Mrs. George Rawley, Clarice Cummings, Mrs. Raymond Mellamy, Mrs. Winnifred Sherrill and Miss Sylvia Winchcomb. The past year has been a very successful one, the main objectives being the library fund and sponsoring the lyceum course.

Lee street in Putnam is beginning to take on the appearance of moving day. Five houses recently purchased by Charles Seder are being moved from the land which he leased to the Sea Realty company to some vacant lots which he has purchased from Mrs. and other owners. Henry N. Benoit of this city, who has been an assistant clerk of the U. S. senate at Washington, is spending a month at the headquarters of the National University Law school at Washington, D. C., has received his diploma. He is planning to take the Connecticut State Bar examination in the spring.

Past Exalted Rulers Lucius Parker Merriam, Archibald Macdonald, Jr., A. Graydon Sharpe, James A. Murray and Exalted Ruler A. Newton Vaughan of the Putnam lodge of Elks, attended the summer meeting of the Past Exalted Rulers' association held at New Haven.

The Treasury department at Wash-ington states that the report of the last quarter from Receiver George M. Coffin of the First National bank of Putnam was very encouraging. There seems to be ground for the hope of another dividend, bringing the payment to depositors to 75 cents on the dollar. It is even predicted that it may go higher than this.

With the arrest of Theodore Laparie on the charge of breaking and entering, the police believed they can account for several breaks at local stores in the last few months. Captain Jarvis and several more on the police force who have been at work for some time on clues believe that in the arrest of Laparie they have found the man who broke into Burt's Drug store recently and who is responsible for the break into the Putnam News company where a quantity of cigars and cigarettes, a revolver and some change was stolen. Laparie was presented in the city court, and through his attorney entered a demurrer to the complaint. This was overruled and he was bound over to the superior court. Tis bond was fixed at $1,000.

Miss Mildred Louise Gregg of Hart-ford, a graduate of this year's class at the Culver-Smith Kindergarden school at Hartford, and who was the president of her class, has been elected Kindergarten teacher in the Israel Putnam school for the coming year to succeed Miss Ruth Morrison, who is to teach near her home.

The floral meeting of the Thompson W. C. T. U. is to be held Thursday, June 17, at 2 p. m. King's Daughters' hall. The program will be in charge of the floral committee. The hostesses for the afternoon are Mrs. Emma Perkins, Mrs. Elizabeth Bixby and Miss Ena Huntington.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Chenette and daughter Emily and son Francis of Walnut street and Mrs. Peter Bebin of Providence street were recent visitors at Webster.

Miss Jennie Leonard is the guest of her sister at East Greenwich, R. I.

Mr. and Mrs. D. I. Newhall and chil-dren, of Philadelphia, were week end guests of Mrs. William C. Watson, at the Orchard cottage, in Pomfret.

Mrs. William Bradford and Miss Dorothy Bradford of Providence motored last week to Pomfret, where they have opened for the summer.

Mrs. Mabeth M. Kimball has returned after spending the spring months in England and is at Bark Meadow house, in Pomfret, for the season.

Announcements have been received of the marriage of Dr. Allerton S. Cushman and Miss Kay Macausland of New York city, June 2. Dr. Cushman is the father of Charles Van Brunt Cushman. Dr. Cushman's first wife was Miss Sarah Hoppin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur A. Hoppin of Pomfret; she died in Washington several years ago.

Dr. and Mrs. J. F. Kent of Larchmont, N. Y., formerly of Putnam are at their cottage at Crescent Beach for the season.

WIN $1,000

THIS is the second of a series of five educational advertisements, written by The Veteran Motorist for the Standard Oil Company of New York.

Each advertisement contains a definite question on lubrication, and the Standard Oil Company of New York will award $2,500 in cash to the 79 contestants who write the best answers to the whole series of five questions.

At the bottom of this column you will find Question Two. Question One was published in this paper two weeks ago today. If you missed reading it send your name and address, and The Veteran Motorist will be glad to mail you a copy.

The third advertisement of this series will appear in this newspaper two weeks from today. Watch for it.

Rules of the Contest

1st Award	$1,000
2nd Award	500
3rd Award	250
2 awards of	100 each
4 awards of	25 each
20 awards of	10 each
50 awards of	5 each
79 awards, totalling	$2,500

Any one may compete in this contest, except those connected directly or indirectly with the Standard Oil Company of New York.

The answers to the five questions may be typewritten or written with pen and ink—one side of the paper only—one answer to each question.

No single answer may be longer than 150 words, and each answer must be numbered to match the number of the question. All answers must be written in the English language, and are the property of the Standard Oil Co. of New York.

All five answers should be sent in together and the contestant's name and address should be plainly written on the first page of answers.

No answers will be considered which are received later than Saturday, July 17th, 1926. The awards will be made to those who write the BEST answers to the five questions. That is, to those whose answers, in the opinion of the judges, indicate that they have given most thought to the subjects covered by the questions and have learned most from The Veteran Motorist's instructions in the Standard Oil Company of New York's advertisements.

Address all answers to "The Veteran Motorist," c/o Standard Oil Company of New York, Room 411, 26 Broadway, New York City.

Question Two

"Of what service has a Lubrication Chart been to you?"

THE motor oil requirements for the various makes of cars vary widely. Cylinder bores vary in size and there are differences in the type of bearings and in the types of oil feed systems. Changes in motor specifications may require a change in oil specifications.

Socony Motor Oil is specifically refined and graded to meet these varying requirements.

From my studies I have also noted a great variety of temperatures in the motor. The explosion generates about 3000° F. The exhaust manifold is about 1000° F. Piston walls get up to 450° F., bearings as high as 250° F., and the underside of the piston head up to 700° F. One can readily picture the need of not only a superior motor oil but also the need of the proper grade.

A SUPERIOR OIL—OF THE PROPER GRADE

A grade of oil that will properly Lubricoat one motor may be too thick or too thin for another. If too thick, it acts sluggishly and may not flow to the bearings; power is wasted in internal oil friction. If it is too thin, it will flow too freely and will allow bearing wear; oil will be wasted and the car may be ruined.

Socony Motor Oil and the Socony Chart are your protection. Why trust to luck?

In cooperation with motor car manufacturers, the Socony laboratories, by shop and road tests, have determined and CHARTED the best consistency or grade of oil for each individual motor. A careful check of this data is made annually.

Therefore, I say, Chart Your Way to Safety by following the recommendations of the Socony Chart.

TONIGHT'S CITY MEETING

Tonight in the town hall there will be held the adjourned annual city meeting at which the citizens of Norwich are expected to take action upon [illegible] submitted by the court of common council.

By the estimates an expenditure of $1,736,733.53 is called for if the sums asked for in the various departments are approved. It is estimated that the receipts will amount to $1,376,693.84 leaving the sum of $359,039.69 to be raised by tax.

If all the departmental estimates are approved it will be necessary to lay a tax of 21 1-4 mills regardless of the fact that there was an increase of the grand list during the year, and such a tax would be a half mill larger than was recommended last year for the department expenses.

In addition to the regular estimates as referred to there is the list of extras amounting to $142,550 which if voted would mean an additional 3 1-2 mill tax, or a total for the city of 29 1-4 mills.

It must be evident therefore to the citizens of Norwich that tonight's meeting is an important one. It is well to understand what is in prospect and what it is possible for the meeting to do. If the people of the city think that all that is asked, including the extras should be voted, they should go to the meeting and lend their support and then be prepared later on to pay the resulting tax.

If on the other hand they do not believe that such a tax is justified, do not consider that the extras are warranted at this time and do not feel that the departmental expenditures should be approved without paring they should go to the meeting and make that feeling known. Tomorrow will be too late. By what is done tonight will the next city tax be governed and the question is as to whether there ought to be an increase or a decrease in our taxes.

The city has come to the time when the citizens are expected to express to the city fathers how they desire the city run. If they expect an economic and [illegible] conduct of city affairs it will be [illegible] they expect to have the documents of the city treasury opened and how expenditures made regardless as to where the taxes will go or where the money is coming from that also can be shown. The meeting tonight is of such importance that all who can get there should be in attendance.

RADIO CONTROL

Probably most radio fans have more or less of a fixed idea of what should be done in the way of legislation for the radio. Each one may have some plan which he believes should be incorporated into federal legislation. He at least knows [illegible] he doesn't like about broadcasting, programs, interference and the character of the entertainments provided and what he thinks ought to be done [illegible]

But [illegible] wise enough to know the impossibility of suiting everyone at all times, and the consequence is that [illegible]

But when it comes to the fundamentals there can be no doubt of the necessity of early legislation that will place the control of radio in hands that will be given authority to enforce the needed restrictions. It is necessary that such action have its own wave length and stick to it. They should not be encroaching upon someone else any more than they should be taking another's letters. But until there is a new authorizing such regulation such [illegible] can be expected.

[illegible] getting a bill that [illegible] before radio legislation is enacted is out of the question. It is time to think of it. The [illegible] to make a beginning, get regulation started and let other matters come as their necessity is discovered. Congress isn't going to be able to satisfy every radio fan by what it does a year from now any more than it would [illegible] It is going to be able to relieve a rebogginedly bad situation, now existing by dealing with the problems which need to be met right away and making a start possible in the [illegible] of national regulation of radio. There are certain [illegible] which can be accomplished through such legislation, while there are others which can be brought about through the manifestation of popular sentiment to the various states. But radio control is placed in some central agency [illegible] can be expected.

CURTAILING OPIUM

The fight against opium is not going to be won in a twinkling. It has gotten a grip as the result of the [illegible] many years in which it has been [illegible] that is not going to be easily shaken in spite of the widespread recognition of the demoralizing effect of the indiscriminate use of the drug.

Through steady pressure exerted against it and through some progress at each assault, there are reasons for believing that in time there will be sufficient educational work accomplished to bring about the desired suppression.

Some indication of the effect of the persistent drive against opium production and exportation is given by the announcement from the Indian government which is going to gradually diminish its exportation of opium so that at the end of a ten year period it will have ceased.

That doesn't of course mean the end of the opium problem, but it means noteworthy progress in the right direction, and is even better than was expected as the result of the understanding reached at the opium conference at Geneva last year. At that time there was a hesitancy about doing anything until the other fellow agreed to the his own hands though there was a willingness shown to stop exportations from India 15 years after China had stopped its excess production and smuggling of the drug. India does better than that by five years and in doing so it sets an admirable example and should have an important effect upon the drug consumption in many countries.

Cutting down the exportation of opium does not mean the stoppage of production. India itself still uses opium, but there's the chance that inasmuch as it has come to recognize the harm that is done to others by the use of the demoralizing drug it will take the lesson home and gradually do for itself what it is ready to do for others.

Constructive progress is what is needed in fighting such an evil and India is apparently aroused to the point of making a beginning.

FIRE AS A CRIME

On his return from a visit of several weeks in Europe, Richard M. Bissell, president of a large insurance company is firmly convinced that effective steps might be taken in this country for the stopping of so much carelessness concerning fires if a fire should be regarded as a crime and a severe penalty attached unless it could be proved that it was not due to carelessness, of any nature.

It is a well understood fact that a [illegible] proportion of the fires in this country are needless, that carelessness, bordering on the criminal at times, is responsible for too many of them and failure to overcome this carelessness is causing the annual fire loss to increase from year to year.

France is the country where a fire is regarded as a crime and where the punishment for carelessness in causing them is more than a slap on the wrist. Because of this the fire loss in France is extremely low. The effort apparently is to avoid the consequences of being responsible for a fire rather than anticipating the possible benefit that may be attached to the carelessness which results in the destruction of insured property.

It is a well understood fact that fires in Europe are fewer and cause less losses than are experienced in this country. There are conditions which operate to such an end across the water but there is that difference in the attitude toward prevention which counts for much. France's law goes much toward cultivating the habit of prevention. The need of something that will accomplish the same end is greatly needed in this country as the mounting fire losses plainly show.

JUDGE WALTER C. NOYES

Though it is some time since Judge Walter C. Noyes occupied the bench of the court of common pleas of New London county he made such a favorable impression during the year he [illegible] judgeship that it seems only a few years ago that he was actively engaged in hearing cases here.

It was in recognition of his merits that he was called to a judgeship on the federal circuit court, but even though he served with distinction there both to himself and the country it soon became apparent that there was a much larger field for the use of his ability. He had always been a close student of corporation law. This was made manifest in the books which he wrote and the way in which he disposed of cases. Recognition of that ability created demands for his services and it was in response to those that he felt called upon to give up the duties of a judge in the administration of which he was most successful and for which service he was admirably fitted by education, training and temperament.

That he has been taken by death, when just entering his sixties, will be deeply deplored. He was a gentleman of the finest type, companionable and modest, a lawyer among the leaders, a fair and upright judge and a man whose friendships were many and lasting. Though making his home at Old Lyme only part of the time New London county feels a distinct loss in his death.

EDITORIAL NOTES

The man on the corner says: Are you going to the city meeting tonight?

We are close to the time when the pigeons of New England never fail to appeal to the vacationists.

The time for the discussion of taxes is before they are laid instead of afterwards.

Those who are joyous over quitting school this June will be wishing they were back again before many years.

Tonight the adjourned annual city meeting will be held and all who can get into the town hall should be there.

Information to the effect that the governor of New York is considering running again is only what was expected when he declared he would not seek office again.

The Cambridge judge who sent a robber to prison for 25 to 30 years cannot be accused of treating the criminal leniently when conditions deserve otherwise.

Will the fact that the United States treasury is not obliged to borrow to meet its obligations this month be the signal for a new drive in congress to increase appropriations?

WASHINGTON AFFAIRS

(Special to The Bulletin.)

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 14.—One day President Coolidge remarked to the group of 100 or more newspapermen gathered at the white house in conference he could select but one summer residence, but doubtless the score of owners of places offered for that purpose, would find their estates well advertised for the market. It bids fair to be the same with temporary presidential quarters in Washington when the extensive repairs on the white house begin within the coming year.

The public seem to expect President and Mrs. Coolidge to go house hunting after the manner of ordinary mortals. That is not likely to be the case. The camp in the Adirondacks has never been seen by the President or Mrs. Coolidge; the site seemed to offer attractions, then scouts were sent from the white house staff to look it over; they agreed on its desirability. Then Frank Stearns, the president's best friend, went up and took a look at it; he, too, found it delightful, and gave it his O. K.; then the secret service men detailed to safeguard a president went to the camp, and not until they expressed approval was the decision made.

Undoubtedly all those details will be repeated regarding a temporary home in Washington, although of course President and Mrs. Coolidge can take a peep at it without attracting over due attention, after preliminary observations have been made by others.

Extensive repairs must be made on the white house, and although they begin immediately on the departure of the president for camp, it will not be long before the white house will be in such a state of upheaval, that another home must be selected, at least for a few months.

The white house was first occupied by a president while it was yet unfinished, and the president's wife, complained that the great east room was the only place where the family wash could be dried. From that time up to the Roosevelt occupancy, it has been necessary for repairs that took the presidential family away for a time; but since the Roosevelt administration nothing has been done, and now temporary quarters must be again provided. The Roosevelts lived, during the repairs, less than a block away from the white house, the windows of the temporary home overlooking the white house ground. Since then, however, Washington as a city, has spread out over much territory, and it may be that the Coolidges will find it wiser to go up into the new northwest section, as the houses there will probably be better adapted to the need of the presidential household.

President Coolidge is said to have been exceedingly reluctant to have the extensive repairs made, not wanting so much money used if possible to avoid it, but experts declare the structure must be repaired, for safety and for preservation, so the president is said have heaved a mighty high, and signaled for them to "go ahead."

And now offers of houses are pouring in by the score and bid fair to outrank those for the summer camp.

The nomination of William J. Tilson, of Atlanta, Ga., as judge of the newly created federal court district in that state, was very gratifying to the republican senators. That Georgia democrats, through their two senators, Harris and George, should insist on digging to a republican president who he should nominate as judges and insisting on the nomination being given to a democrat was to be expected. The Georgia democratic fought the proposed nomination and very likely will fight the confirmation, although they have no ground for protest except they want a man of their own political faith.

Tilson is brother of Congressman John Q. Tilson and a man of exceptional standing and with every qualification for the judgeship.

Senator Bingham, McLean and the other members of the Connecticut delegation have been active in the closing days of the session, but it is on Tilson as republican floor leader of the house that the heaviest burdens have fallen. Tilson has had to hear and condole with every man, woman and child who has not got his or her pet measure up for consideration. He has had to fight battles for his friends and constituents; he has had to take the Lions share in framing legislation, and he has in every instance, performed his duty so well, that he stands today, as house leader, with the respect, admiration and confidence of every member of the house, regardless of party affiliations.

Some one has tersely summed up the recent Iowa defeat of Cummins, and the nomination of B. ckhart by saying "it was corn, not Coolidge, that was the issue in that election. It was farm relief, for which Brookhart was standing fast, that won him the election, coupled with resentment by the radicals, that Brookhart was unseated. The president, or his welfare or a desire to sting him, had practically nothing to do with the Brookhart victory." And nearly every one in Washington familiar with the senatorial situation, has the same opinion.

Apparently local questions have been the issue of the primary campaigns in every state thus far, where men now holding the office of senator have been defeated for renomination. And it will not be surprising if local issues continue to govern the outcome of the June primaries, as well as those of the early fall.

Sometimes it will be farm bloc, sometimes a contest between wets and drys, but although the democrats predict they will fight on tariff lines, we hear practically nothing of tariff, either in primary elections or in congress, while farm bloc, wet and dry issues have coupled the majority of time and discussion, whether as to primary candidates or congressional legislation.

The entrance of former Senator Pomerene, democrat, of Ohio, into the lists as senatorial candidate against Willis, bone dry republican, is the outstanding feature of the Ohio situation today. If Pomerene should win the nomination and election, he will undoubtedly attempt to run as presidential candidate two years hence. Pomerene wanted to do so in 1924, but his defeat as senator, by Fess, republican, put him out of the primary race which he again hopes to enter next time.

The proverbial tempest in a teapot was outclassed this week by what may properly be called a tempest in a milk can. The bill to prohibit importation of milk and cream from Canada spurred up any amount of strife among members of congress, and the persons who testified before the agricultural committee.

New England came to the front in the matter, the New England Milk Producers association standing for the bill, and the Cream Dealers association of New England fighting for its defeat.

The weather bureau forecasters need to be diplomats as well as scientists, judging from the variety of questions they receive by letter and by telephone.

A day or two ago, the forecaster answered a phone call only to hear a faint voice ask "can you tell me what the weather will be on June 17th?" The forecaster grinned and popped back "That's your wedding day, I believe."

The lady chuckled then said "Yes, but how did you know it?" "Well," replied the forecaster, "it will be the brightest day you ever knew." Then he said to the man at the desk, "That girl would have worried all the intervening time, if I hadn't said the right thing, now she can't worry but one day, and moreover the chances are pretty good for a fair day in the middle of June, so I guess I was right."

Washington has been full of rumors of changes in the Cabinet, but apparently they are without foundation. There is one to the effect that Senator Pepper will become attorney general when Sargent retires. But the idea of a Sargent retirement was nipped in the bud a few days ago, when it was announced that Attorney General Sargent has purchased a delightful residence in surburban Washington to near Red Gables, which was the Cleveland summer home.

1904—More than 1,000 persons, the most of them women and children, perished in the burning of the excursion General Slocum in the East River, New York.

1916—Woodrow Wilson and Thomas R. Marshall were nominated by the democratic national convention for president and vice president, respectively.

1925—Julius Kruttschnitt, former executive head of the Southern Pacific company, died in New York city.

Today's Birthdays

Mme. Johanna Gadski, celebrated operatic and concert singer, born in Prussia, 54 years ago today.

Lieut. Gen. Sir Charles Carmichael Monro, a prominent British commander in the World war here 56 years ago today.

Rear Admiral Hugo Osterhaus, U. S. N., retired, born at Belleville, Ill., 78 years ago today.

One reason the majority of women do not take any stock in the wisdom of Solomon is because they have heard that he had 700 wives.

WOMEN'S WORK

The minute the orchestra finished playing a long and intricate selection the man who had been dragged to the concert against his will burst forth bitterly.

"Look!" he insisted. "Look at the lady harpist up there! Take a good look and then say, if you dare, that women are overworked and abused and put upon in this life and that it is a man's world!

"All the stout, earnest gentlemen in uncomfortable dress clothes who have been tooting and saving and pounding away for dear life have looked upon the matter in the right light and have earned ther money and are now exhausted, as honest workmen should be—but I'll eat my necktie of that lady harpist has so much as lifted a finger to justify her presence on the stage."

"Silly!" reproved the young woman who was interested in improving him. "She just sat there idle because the the music didn't call for a harp! She would have spoiled the sonata if she had begun playing where she wasn't needed."

"That's the point," went on the embittered man. "Whenever there is a chance for anybody to rest up and enjoy looking around it's always a woman who draws the ticket! Why, when that violinist in the front row stopped playing a while ago and settled back in his chair the conductor nearly had a fit! He leaned right over toward him, waggled that stick in his face in a threatening way and you should have seen the player jump to attention and begin sawing away for dear life! A man can't get away with that sort of thing for a minute, but a woman always can put it over!

"This girl knows her power, you can easily see, because she doesn't even glance toward the conductor! She isn't worried, not she! She has been picking out all the good-looking men in the audience all this time and fixing her hair and regarding her new evening slippers, which are gold ones and hurt her.

"As for working and earning her salary, that's the last thought in her head. I don't see why they want to—"

"I'll bet she's goin to play in this next one because she's tightening up some of the harp strings and loosening others—look!" pointed out the man who was invariably hopeful.

"Aw, she's tightened those strings every dow and then ever since the concert began!" disgustedly said the man who had been dragged to the affair. "It doesn't mean anything at all! After she does it she just settles back and looks around some more. Why, I'd think she was the winner of a prize beauty contest the airs she gives herself!"

"I think she's real pretty," said the hopeful man, craning his neck interestedly. "I like to watch her."

"But it distracts you from the music!" insisted the first man, who had learned some of the patter from the young woman who was trying to improve him. "Not only does the girl not labor herself but she interferes with the production of others, and as for me I don't think she's so much for looks."

"Oh, don't you?" asked the young woman in quite gratified tones. "Of course her nose is crooked and her chin sticks out, but she seems a very nice girl—"

"She's luvly!" said her escort positively. "She—"

"Hush!" admonished the man who always was pleasant and hopeful. "They're getting ready to play again! It's Gompali's 'Forty-Eighth Symphony' in B2."

"That may be," the embittered man said distinctly amid the rustle of programs as the audience settled down again. "And there won't be the sound of a harp all through it! That bobbed haired young grafter up there will continue to pose and look the audience over for admirers and survey her milkwhite hands and that'll be all. And I suppose her mother is going around sobbing to her friends because father lost his money and poor Susie has to work so hard to support the family—"

"Hush!" hissed the young woman anxious to improve him. "Look! She's playing! See her hands sweep the strings?"

"Uh-huh," said the disgruntled escort after looking intently. "I can see her hands move, but the other instruments are making so much noise I can't hear the darned thing after all!" —Exchange.

From Small Beginnings

Paul Cuffee, a Great Philanthropist

Shortly after the close of the American revolution a group of people in New England stood on a wharf and looked at a sailing vessel that had just come in from the open sea.

"That's Cuffee's boat," said one of the men. "He's a strong man, and a good sailor. He comes and goes and he always wins in from storm and danger."

"Aye, and he always makes for ports where money is to be gained," laughed the other man.

"Unless I am mistaken he is piling up a fortune."

"Whatever else he is, he's a true man," came the answer. "He is a man of religion, a friend, and not one of these rip-roaring captains that come in from the sea, and do little except drink and gamble and carouse."

"Aye, black though he is, he is a real man."

The one of whom they were speaking, Paul Cuffee, the master of the ship that had just come to anchor, was indeed a remarkable man, one of the most remarkable men in the history of the United States. One of his parents had been a negro; the other an American Indian. Paul Cuffee, the son, had been brought up without money and without other advantages than he could gain from hard work. At an early age he had gone to sea, and there had lived the intensely rough life that all sailors lived in those days. He had by nature a masterful way and keen ability. His half-Indian eyes saw opportunities where others would not have seen them. He rose in position until he commanded ships of his own. Then he still continued to rise in worldly ways. And by means of successful voyages to distant lands he brought together what at that time was looked upon as a great fortune. He had been brought up as a Quaker, he continued in that faith all his life. Even the roughness of the sea voyages did not shake from him his deep faith in the principles of the Society of Friends. He was at heart and in his actions a deeply religious man. He looked around him and saw the hard life that the negro-slaves were living and he resolved to do something for them. He urged the negroes to go to Sierra Leone, in Africa, and he gave liberally from his means in order to aid them. In addition to this he took a number of negroes on his own expense and transported them to the African coast. He was engaged in this charitable work at the time of his death in 1818 at the age of 59. All in all, Paul Cuffee was one of the most remarkable of self-made Americans.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Voter Wants Real Names of Other Writers

Mr. Editor: The writer among hundreds of others begins to wonder if the authors of recent letters published in The Bulletin and signed "Taxpayer," "Justice," and "Burdened" are really and truly voters and taxpayers of the city of Norwich.

Will "Taxpayer," "Justice," and "Burdened," come forth from their smoke screens of unmeaning names and favor us with their real names as we may know how much taxes they are paying in the city of Norwich? Perhaps the authors of the above named letters live just over the city line and by paying one tax think they are entitled to all the benefits enjoyed by those within the city of Norwich. Will "Justice" sell his "home" for what it is placed on the tax list for or does he want it's real value? If "Justice" and others would pay taxes on the real value of their property then we would have lower taxes right away. Unequal taxation is the real cause of a high tax rate in Norwich. When property is assessed at it's real value then our taxes will be lower.

The city of Norwich can well get along without such gloom dispensers as "Taxpayer," "Justice," and "Burdened," and if they will reveal the dark secret of their names and have any so-called "homes" to sell the writer will speed them on their way.

If "Taxpayer," "Justice," and "Burdened," will calmly take pencil and paper and figure it out they will find that all the combined salaries of our present city employes together with the proposed 50 cent a day increase to our policemen and firemen will not be the increase of our taxes to any extent. The salaries of city employes does not increase taxes, to a gigantic rate as "Taxpayer," "Justice," and "Burdened," decide to lead the unthinking voter to believe. "Taxpayer," "Justice," and "Burdened," don't worry about the city of Norwich ever going bankrupt for the Rose of New England will carry on and pay its just bills and obligations now and when you are no more.

The writer holds no brief for the policemen nor the firemen of the city of Norwich, but honestly believes that they are entitled to more salary as they are giving us the best of service. Norwich is very fortunate in having policemen and firemen who are on the job, from the chiefs down, at all times and all hours of the day or night. The decrease in crime shows that the Norwich police department is right there with the goods and none better while our small fire loss proves our fire department ranks with the best in the world.

The life of a policeman or fireman is not a bed of roses. They are subject to unknown dangers at all times when the call comes and they never know whether they will see their loved ones or not after going on duty. They are like soldiers—enlisted in a great war—the eternal war against crime and grt. Policemen and firemen are the guardians and protectors of our property, our loved ones, and our lives and our homes.

Before writing any further rambling letters to mislead voters, "Taxpayer," "Justice," and "Burdened," had better investigate and be sure of their facts.

The New London firemen have the two platoon system with shorter hours which the men in Norwich have not. Some of the firemen are paid while mostly are volunteers in the New London department. The men of the Norwich fire department are on duty 24 hours a day with three hours off for meals. They are subject to calls at all times, even when they have a day off and cannot leave the city without giving notice to the captains. Mr. Voter and Taxpayer, are you going to refuse Tuesday night to give the firemen the small increase of 50 cents per day—which is about a trifle over two cents per hour—which is little enough for their long hours of service?

In the dark days of '61-'65 the voters and taxpayers of the city of Norwich backed up the "Boys in Blue" to the limit. Is Norwich going to fail now in giving the "Boys in Blue" what they want? On next Tuesday night let us all go to the city hall and vote to give the firemen and policemen—our "Boys in Blue"—what they want and to back them up to the limit in their eternal war against our greatest enemies—crime and fire!

VOTER.

Norwich, June 13, 1926.

Yearly Holdup By City Employes

Mr. Editor: Well, I see the stage is all set for the yearly holdup by the city employes. This year they have scaled their demand 50 per cent so it may seem less painful and not so noticeable.

It is a fact that the city employes of Norwich are much better taken care of than the average taxpayer, who has no guarantee of a steady job, no holidays with pay nor any pension to look forward to. These things our city employes have and when they have nerve to try to squeeze more from an over-taxed public, they are going too far.

It would be more to the point if the taxpayers should organize to cut the salaries of all our public employes and office holders and refuse to pass any extras or appropriate any monies except what are needed for the general expenses in running the city. We were promised a reduction of taxes under a merger of the school districts. This was an utter failure; they increased. We were promised lower insurance rates by maintaining paid companies; they increased the rates. The weary and overtaxed citizens should have a breathing spell from the mad orgy of spending recklessly and turn down every extra of any nature and keep the tax at the official estimate. Another item is, they ask from $50 to $200 more per year on nearly every appropriation. This should be stopped.

INDIGNANT TAXPAYER.

Little Talks on Thrift

CARELESSNESS

Carelessness and lack of thrift are much the same.

The vice of carelessness, which may seem trivial, is capable of serious consequences. The national board of fire underwriters has recently issued some instructive data on the effects of lack of care. According to these figures, the destruction of property in the United States from fires due to the careless handling of matches amounts to $30,000,000 a year. It was a little more than that for the year 1924, the last annual period for which figures are obtainable. During the five years from 1920 to 1924, carelessness with matches caused the loss of $171,000,000 or enough to erect 50,000 homes at $3,500 each.

The insurance organization tells us that Americans use 770,000,000 matches daily. This means 770,000,000 times that we must be careful. The percentage of carelessness, therefore, does not need to be very great in order to bring about disastrous results.

The destruction of property is of small consequence compared with the destruction of human life due to carelessness in the use of matches. A few years ago 145 girls were burned to death in a New York skirtwaist factory because of a carelessly tossed match. At Binghampton, N. Y., 35 workers lost their lives because someone was careless in disposing of a lighted cigarette, and the same cause led to the destruction of 15 lives in a paper box factory in Pittsburgh.

America has not forgotten the tragic story of the Windsor hotel fire in New York. An old man, lighting a cigar, tossed the flaming match into a lace curtain.

The United States forest service estimates that the careless smoker alone is responsible for upwards of 20 per cent of all fires in the national forests.

Bear in mind always that constant carefulness is a part of true thrift.—American Society for Thrift.

Stories That Recall Others

Where He Gets It

Albert has at times been a bit active in politics, had a nomination or two and done some speaking. He has a daughter Margaret who takes part in a great many programs at school and Sunday school.

Some parents were telling their seven year old daughter about a party they attended the evening before, and that Mr. Albert X had given a talk. The little girl said, "Oh, yes, mother, and I know where he gets it, he takes after Margaret. She speaks pieces and so does he."

Polly Wasn't Hungry

Workers going homeward were attracted by a kindly looking gentleman standing and looking upward into a tree.

In his hand was a cracker and he was calling gently, "Come down Polly. Polly want a cracker?"

Then shrilly out of the dusky fathoms of the tree top came the words. "Oh, go jump in the river! Oh, go jump in the river!"

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

Rt. Rev. Henry St. George Tucker, who has accepted election as bishop coadjutor of the Episcopal diocese of Virginia, was formerly bishop of Kioto, Japan, where he made a splendid record of achievement. When he first went to Japan, after graduating from the University of Virginia, he was assigned to work in the northern part of the empire. He had been there about four years when all northern Japan suffered from the failure of crops. Largely through the efforts of the missionaries, under the leadership of Bishop Tucker, a vast amount of famine relief was secured from abroad and distributed among the sufferers. For some years the Rev. Dr. Tucker was president of St. Paul's college at Tokio, and in 1912 was consecrated bishop of Kioto. Bishop Tucker is the son of the Rt. Rev. Beverly D. Tucker, bishop of Southern Virginia, father and son sitting in the American house of bishops, the first case of the kind in the history of the organization.

The Squeaky Butterfly

Strange things you'll find, but bear in mind
That there are stranger things to find.

You all know how very curious Peter Rabbit is. You all know how he is forever poking that wabbly little nose of his into all sorts of places and into the business of all sorts of people. But Peter says that if he wasn't curious he wouldn't know so much. That sounds as if he were bragging, but he doesn't mean it that way. He means that curiosity leads to trying to find out things, and finding out things is gaining knowledge. Of course, there are some things that it would be just as well not to know; but there are many other things it is a good thing to know.

It was Peter's curiosity that led him to find out that there are butterflies who appear to be perfumed. It is quite as if they carried with them the perfume of the flowers they visit, but this is not the case. Then there are other butterflies that have a disagreeable perfume, and others that have no perfume at all. As Peter says, the only way you can tell which is which is by smelling of them. For a while Peter had a lot of fun chasing butterflies in order to find out if they were perfumed, and, of course, he had to tell everybody he met what he had found out.

"Buzz-z-z-z-z, have you just found that out, Peter Rabbit?" asked Busy Bee, as she busily worked at a clover head, extracting sweets to make honey.

"Buzz-z-z-z-z, of course I knew it. I've known it ever since I've known a clover head from a buttercup," buzzed Busy Bee. "Did you ever hear one make a noise?"

"What's that?" cried Peter.

"Buzz-z-z-z-z, I don't like saying things over. It's a waste of time," asked you if you had ever heard a butterfly make a noise," retorted Busy Bee.

"No, and I don't ever expect to," replied Peter.

"Well, there's one that does," retorted Busy Bee. "There's one that squeaks."

"Which one is it?" cried Peter, ones more filled with the liveliest curiosity.

But Busy Bee had drained that clover head of its sweets and went buzzing off without answering Peter's question. "Oh, dear!" muttered Peter. "Oh, dear! Now I suppose I'll have to run around listening to all the butterflies in order to find the one that squeaks. Here I've been chasing them to find out if they're perfumed, and I might have been listening to them at the time."

So once more Peter began running about in the Green Meadows, chasing butterflies. Having learned how to approach them so as not to scare them when he was trying to find out if they were perfumed, he now made easier work of it. Whenever he saw a butterfly resting on a flower he would softly steal as near as possible and then listen with all his might. But all his listening was in vain. They didn't hum; they didn't squeak. They didn't make a sound of any kind. So finally Peter came to the conclusion that Busy Bee was mistaken, or else had just been trying to "stuff him," as the saying is. So then he went hunting for Busy Bee. At the same time he asked everybody he met if they knew of a butterfly that squeaked and everybody laughed at him. It got to be a joke with everybody on the Green Meadows and in the Old Orchard. Whenever Peter met an acquaintance, that acquaintance would be almost sure to say, "How are the squeaky butterflies today, Peter?" And all Peter could do was to make up a face and say, "If there is a squeaky butterfly, I'm going to find it."

WEDDINGS

Lanoie-Rousseau

At 8 o'clock Monday morning Armand L. Lanoie, son of Mr. and Mrs. N. Lanoie of this city, and Miss M. R. Anna Rousseau, daughter of Mrs. Mary R. Rousseau of Providence, were united in marriage in Providence, by Rev. Father Thomas. The wedding took place in the St. Charles Borromeo church which was prettily decorated with palms, ferns and roses.

The maid of honor was Miss Rose B. Cima Mars, a cousin of the bride, and the best man was Leo N. Lanoie, brother of the groom. Edzar Rousseau and Edward Larivee were the ushers. The bride's gown was of white flat crepe, trimmed with lace and rhinestones and she carried a shower bouquet of roses and lilies of the valley. The maid of honor wore handsome georgette trimmed with silver lace and she carried Ophelia roses.

Following the ceremony there was a wedding breakfast and reception at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. Rousseau and her sister received. The house was prettily decorated with roses and ferns. The grooms gift to the bride was platinum wrist watch and his gift to the best man was a gold pen and pencil. The bride's gift to the maid of honor was a bracelet of sapphires. The bride received numerous beautiful and useful gifts including silver, cut glass, furniture, china, substantial checks, linen, clocks and household furniture.

Following a wedding trip Mr. and Mrs. Lanoie will reside at No 129 Brigham street Providence. The bride's traveling costume was of green and tan flat crepe. Guests were present from Nova Scotia, New London, New Haven, Fall River and Providence.

Mr. Lanoie is a graduate of St Patrick's school, this city, and is employed as an optician at Hamilton's Providence. His bride is a graduate of the Pawtuxet school.

Calkins-Myers

Monday afternoon at 3 o'clock at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Myers of 235 Laurel Hill, occurred a pretty wedding took place when their daughter Margaret May, became the bride of Earl Calkins, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Calkins of 265 Main St. The bride was given away by her father and the ceremony was performed by Archdeacon J. Lloyd Brown under an arch of lilacs and ferns, the bridal couple entering the parlor to the music of the wedding march played on the harp by Miss Doris Ward of Branford a cousin of the groom. During the ceremony Miss Verne Barnes of Branford sang O Promise Me.

The matron of honor was Mrs. Earl Lewis sister of the bride and the groom was attended by Mr. Lewis. The bride was charmingly gowned in white georgette with white picture hat. She carried a bridal bouquet of white roses and lilies of the valley. Her attendant was gowned in June rose georgette and wore a Leghorn picture hat trimmed with a rose. She carried an arm bouquet of June roses. John J. Flaherty of New London, brother of the bridegroom was best man.

Following the ceremony a reception was held and a wedding breakfast served at the home of the brides parents to immediate members of both families. House decorations were of cut flowers and palms.

Mr. and Mrs. Flaherty left for a wedding trip to New York and Atlantic City. On their return they will be at home to their friends at 83 Ocean avenue, New London. Mr. Flaherty is connected with the firm of Murray and Maher in New London, and has a host of friends. Mrs. Flaherty is well known in this city. They were the recipients of many handsome wedding gifts.

LUMBER AND TWO CARS BURNED AT WINDHAM CENTER

(Special to the Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, June 14—A Paige touring car and a Chevrolet roadster were destroyed in a fire which burned a large barn belonging to William F. Maine at Windham Center; also burned in the blaze were 10,000 feet of lumber. The main residence was scorched by the blaze. Both the Willimantic fire department and the South Windham fire department responded to a summons for assistance. Mr. F. B. Watrous a neighbor discovered the fire, which started about 11:15. The fire was still burning at press time. No estimate of damages could be given tonight. The reflection of the blaze was plainly visible in this city.

New Canaan will observe the nation's sesqui-centennial and its own 150th birthday on July 5.

HUTCHISON GYMNASIUM FUND NOW $8,400, REPORT TO ACADEMY ALUMNI

Report that the Hutchison Memorial gymnasium fund had now reached a total of $8,400 and an informal talk by Harold H. Thresher, '04, representing the Norwich Society of New York were two of the specially interesting features of the annual meeting of the Alumni association of the Norwich Free Academy, which was held Monday evening at Slater hall, with a good sized attendance, which included graduates of other years and the class of 1926, which graduates today (Tuesday.)

During the informal reception hour that preceded the business meeting, the Academy orchestra, under the direction of Frederic H. Cranston, rendered a programme of such acceptableness that the alumni meeting passed a vote of thanks to the musicians and their director.

President Guy B. Dolbeare, '80, opened the business meeting with words of greeting and a reference to the pleasure of meeting old schoolmates, and went on to speak of the great debt which Academy graduates owed to the founders of the school and to that citizen, Mr. Slater, whose generosity had made this meeting place possible. Mr. Dolbeare said he felt that we should never allow this to become an old story. He went on to compare the broadening field of activity in the school life of the present day as compared with the years when he was in school and made reference to a debating society which flourished among the boys of his school years, which he felt was of considerable educational value.

George Houghton Gilman, '83, read the secretary's minutes of the last annual meeting which were approved, and Treasurer Raymond V. Congdon gave his annual report, showing a balance on hand of $552.75, after expenditures in the year amounting to $666.90, of which $500 had been in a payment to the Hutchison gymnasium fund.

Mrs. Elizabeth Brewster Davis made the report for the Hutchison fund, stating that she was still strongly optimistic of final success, although the fund had not increased as fast as desired. A year ago, she said, the report was that $1,000 was on hand. Tonight there is $7,200 in the bank and unpaid pledges of $1,200 in hand, making the fund $8,400.

Mrs. Davis said that the responses to a circular letter asking each graduate to give $25 had been encouraging, and that the need of the school should be the incentive for every graduate to respond even if Principal Hutchison were unknown to those of the more recent years.

Election of Officers

Secretary Gilman presented the report of the nominating committee and the list named was elected as follows when the secretary cast one ballot by vote of the meeting:

President, Joseph C. Worth; vice president, Philip A. Johnson; treasurer, Raymond V. Congdon; secretary, Bruce F. Rogers; assistant secretary, Raymond B. Sherman; members of executive committee for four years, Miss Dorothy Lord, Charles L. Stewart.

Mr. Thresher was introduced by President Dolbeare, responding by giving an interesting talk about the Norwich society in New York, whose members, he said, were largely Academy graduates and were drawn together by the bond of loyalty to the city and the school. The society was unique among New York organizations in that it was the only society with membership drawn from a single city. Mr. Thresher spoke in particular of Charles F. Noyes, the millionaire real estate operator, of Winslow Williams, of Olin Howe, a well known writer and others, all having such interest in the Norwich society that they never missed a meeting. He also referred to an address by Principal Tirrell made at one of the society meetings which had the effect of crystallizing the society's purpose of showing a practical interest in Norwich, which was accomplished by establishing the endowment from which to provide a prize for current history at the Academy.

Greetings From Two Classes

Brief greetings from the present graduating class were brought by the class president, Miss Bernice Church, and from the class of 1916, which held a reunion at the Wauregan hotel, by Attorney Henry C. Brogan of Groton.

Principal Tirrell Speaks

Principal Henry A. Tirrell was the concluding speaker, covering in his remarks something of the size of the Academy registrations and giving the information, which is always awaited with interest as to changes in the teaching staff for next year.

There were 5[illegible] pupils at the opening of the year, he said, the shrinkage was from five to six present and there would be 145 to graduate. If the next entering class were as large as last years, there would probably be 200 pupils next year. It is the problem of the school how to give this increasing number of pupils the same personal attention as with the smaller number.

There have been 40 teachers with assistants, in the past year. As to changes in the teaching staff Principal Tirrell said that Miss Mosley who was at the library, has already gone to a Hartford school. Miss Eshbaugh will be here next year. Mrs. Charles M. Olsen's place in the physical department will be taken by Miss Helene Wulf, assisted by Miss Gertrude Platt. Miss Perry's place will be taken by Miss Maybelle Talcott and Miss Flora Davidson will be away for a course of study. Mrs. Eastman will be back at the art school, replacing Miss Heyer, who has been her substitute, and Miss Faith Leavens will give at least one course there. Courtland Whitney will be away for a year to complete his college course, but will then return to the Academy. He will be here, however, for part of the football season. Matthew Sheridan, who is graduating from Holy Cross will be on the Academy faculty. Miss Miriam Gordon and Miss Isabel Mulcahy are to be here, and two former teachers, Miss Edna Stewart and Miss Helen Newton, are to return. It will be the strongest as well as the largest faculty the Academy has had.

In concluding, Principal Tirrell referred to the great need of the Hutchison gymnasium for the physical department and said that he could see no reason to be pessimistic when he compared the young people of the present day with those of the past.

The alumni meeting concluded with dancing in the gymnasium in the school building.

GIFTS TO A. C. BROWN FROM FALLS MILL EMPLOYES

A Chester Brown, who recently resigned his position as agent of the Falls mill, was given a pleasant surprise by the overseers and employees of the mill Monday evening at 6 o'clock when he was presented several handsome gifts as tokens of their appreciation and affection. Mr. Brown was requested to be at the mill office at 6 o'clock Monday evening and when he arrived he found the overseers and employees gathered in a body.

The overseers presented him a platinum Shrine pin set with diamonds, a gold solid knife with Shrine emblem and a gold pen and pencil set. The gifts from the employes were a 32nd degree Masonic platinum ring set with a diamond and a box of cigars. With the gifts Mr. Brown was presented the following testimonial:

"We the undersigned, employes of the Falls company, deeply regretting your departure from among us, desire your acceptance of the accompanying gift in testimony of our affection and respect for you and as a faint expression of our appreciation of your kindly efforts to render our connection with this factory not only pleasant and agreeable to ourselves but profitable to the company. Deeply regretting that our connection must be severed we shall gratefully remember our association in the past and hope always to be held in pleasant remembrance by you."

BLACKMAIL IS CHARGE AGAINST GILES WATSON

Giles F. Watson, former state police officer, and recently dismissed from the state police department, will be presented in the city court this (Tuesday) morning to stand trial on a charge of blackmail. Monday morning he was presented before the city court at a hearing in chambers and Judge Arthur F. Libby continued the case until Tuesday morning. Watson has retained Attorney George Curtis Morgan as his counsel. He is out on bonds of $3,000.

The ex-state police officer is charged in the complaint drawn by Prosecuting Attorney Lee Roy Robbins with extortion of $200 from Barbara Wunderlich of Taftville on May 3, after accusing her of selling home-brew in violation of the liquor law. The $200 which Mrs. Wunderlich paid over to Watson was returned to her through sources which have not been given out. Four members of the Wunderlich family have been summoned as witnesses for the state in the trial.

Lebanon Memorial Day Exercises

The memorial day exercises held in Lebanon May 29, in the auditorium in the Lebanon High school building were under the direction of Lebanon town officials as usual.

The graves were decorated by Town Clerk C. J. Abel, and two sons of a veteran under the supervision of Lebanon's only remaining veteran, C. L. Pitcher, now eighty-six years old.

The D. A. R. with outside help solicited the flowers and made them into bouquets. The flowers were mostly gathered by school children, a good share of whom were children of foreign born parents. The graves of forty-four Civil war soldiers, eighty-seven Revolutionary war soldiers, and one of the war of 1812 were decorated also the memorial of one world war soldier.

Two hundred and twenty one enlisted in the Lebanon regiments in the Civil war and 41 from Lebanon in the World war.

The D. A. R. have placed markers on thirteen revolutionary graves the past year.

CONN. AGRICULTURAL COLLEGE HONORED WAR HEROES

Eight alumni of Connecticut Agricultural college died in the service during the World war, and portraits of three of these, which were secured through efforts of the alumni association, were unveiled in the college dining hall at the graduation exercises at Storrs on Saturday. The three U. S. Connecticut College

A delightful pageant, "Distinguished Women" was presented by the senior class of Connecticut college on Monday afternoon at the Class Day exercises. The pageant was given on Knowlton house terrace. Two Norwich girls participated, Miss Elizabeth Higgins of Union street, as a nun of the American group, and Miss Lois Latimer as Ariel of the Elizabethan group. Miss Latimer rendered a charming solo dance.

After the pageant the seniors escorted by the juniors, carrying the laurel chain, filed to the entrance to the college on the state road where Miss Helen Hood president of the senior class presented President Benjamin T. Marshall the class gift to the college, a set of lights for the entrance to the college from the state highway.

Comencement exercises begin this (Tuesday) morning at nine-thirty.

DEMPSEY LOSES OPENING ROUND WITH THE LAW

CHOWCHILLA, Calif., June 14—(AP)—Jack Dempsey, world's heavyweight boxing champion, faced on trial in justice court here today on a charge of willfully permitting his chauffeur to break the speed laws, testified he was not aware his car was doing more than the legal limit when a traffic officer waved it down on a Madera county highway March 28, last.

Dempsey told the jury of nine men and three women he had not noticed the speed and felt no vibration. He said his chauffeur Robert A. Gates, who recently was fined $50 on the speeding charge, had remarked that if he had had a mirror on the car he would never have been arrested.

"I told him he had better get a mirror, or he would be doing ten days in jail," Dempsey said.

Traffic Captain M. A. Harrison testified he closed the Dempsey automobile at 70 miles an hour, but wrote out a ticket for only 65 miles because the champion and his chauffeur were courteous. Dempsey's wife was in the car.

The legal bout drew a record house. Dempsey lost the first round when Judge R. G. Cornell who several years ago sent Ralph de Palma, the automobile race driver, to jail for ten days for speeding, overruled a motion for a non-suit.

The purse will go to the town treasury if the prosecution wins, while if Dempsey comes out on the long end, it will be one fight where he won't collect a red cent for his efforts and he'll consider himself lucky at that. The maximum penalty is a $500 fine and six months in jail.

SINGLE FOOT SCORES SENSATIONAL VICTORY

NEW YORK, June 14—(AP)—Single Foot, Maryland-Bred colt owned by J. E. Griffith, scored sensationally in the Brooklyn, Handicap, feature event of the Aqueduct opening today.

R. L. Gerry's Peanuts was second and Dangerous third. The race being marred by a poor start in which the favorite American Flag, had scant chance after the rise of the barrier. The race was described by many followers of the sport as the most unsatisfactory Brooklyn Handicap in years.

American Flag went to the post at even money with Sarazen second choice. After the poleaxing Single Foot was 12 to 1. Sarazen was away fast, setting a terrific pace, and appeared to have the field beaten as they headed into the stretch, but Single Foot came fast on a road to bold dash with Dangerous [illegible] Peanuts [illegible] Danger-ous. [illegible] winnings was $[illegible].

EAGER SHOPPERS THRONG STORES

Salesgirls Dread Bargain Days

Louisa was tired. From morning until night she had been on her feet in the busy department store. No matter how she felt, she must serve her customers with a smile. Her head throbbed and her feet ached. Week after week, she felt her strength ebbing until she was in a run-down condition, not fit to work.

"My mother suggested that I try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound," she writes. "I took only three bottles and it brought me about all right." Through the Vegetable Compound, she found better health to do her work and she told the other girls about it.

That was several years ago. Louisa is now Mrs. L. J. Van Dyke of 1246 Spring St., Morrell Park, Baltimore, Md. She is the mother of three healthy, active children. She says that she found the tonic effect of the Vegetable Compound helpful to her during this entire period.

Every working girl knows that to do her work properly and easily she must have good health. She can not afford to lose time from her work.

Girls who suffer from a run-down condition should try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

BEECHAM'S Sweeten the Stomach PILLS

SUSIE AND THE BOY FRIEND SPEND THE WEEK END AT GROTON LONG POINT

Susie and the Boy Friend spent the week end as the guests of friends at Groton Long Point and Susie writes of her many experiences at the seaside resort as follows:

Dear Sports Editor: I been out of town over the week end and I ain't been to no sporting events unless you call learning to swim a sport. From where I sits I call that pleasant occupation of trying to be a Aileen Riggin a near tragedy. I can see without the aid of a telescope that I ain't never going to be no human fish nor yet a mermaid. Hereafter all the bathing what I do is going to be in the bath-tub and the kitchen sink and not in the arms of Old Neptune. Well, Ed, I suppose you is wondering what's this all about so I'll try and tell you in my own sweet way.

Me and the Boy Friend gets a bid to spend the week end with a party what's going to Groton Long Point and we promptly accepts cause it ain't often we gets a chance to spend a couple days down by the briny deep where the cool breezes blow an' the hot sun blisters your skin, and the sand gets in your ears, eyes and nose without no trouble. Well now I knows why they call 'em weak end parties. Its because when you gets home you is so weak that it takes you a week to get over it. That's the way I feel now. They has a system in the beach hotel of a evening where everybody meets up and the one and only time I seen a good time to view how low down I can be is a good time to view how low down I can be is a house party. They was Mary and Johnny, it being their outings week we went to, Alice and Tom, a newly married, Etta and Harry, unmarried, being brother and sister. Nobody said Harry married Lydia and George. Very much married, if you know what I mean. She and Ed. also a couple what's stood before the minister and heard the sentence. Mary and George, married but happy, and me and the boy, unmarried but with strong hopes and a husband.

Now it was no good a bunch of flappers as a rule would [illegible] and relieve me I [illegible] of unmarried folks don't have near the fun at a [illegible] game what's [illegible] upon the seas of matrimony and [illegible] mates. Of course there [illegible] of telling how when [illegible] of the little crafts 'cause [illegible] good. Well, Etta and [illegible] and me and the boy friend [illegible] down earlier than the rest of [illegible] to have supper on Saturday night. I says I, be the hostess and set the supper and everything so I gets a couple cans of beans, beans being a regular Saturday night part of the menu, a can of crabs meats for [illegible] and some lettuce and some [illegible]. Of course there was [illegible] and butter. Well I loads all [illegible] into the auto and we four starts. [illegible] a couple flat tires and a balky motor we has a wonderful happy [illegible]

Well we gets there and I starts getting the feed ready. The cottage is a palace of a place and everything is O. K. but not knowing where things [illegible] I looks para'ticular. When I [illegible] to get some water from the [illegible] I find there ain't none and its a law prohibition. So I sends the boy friend out to get some while I opens the tin cans. Well here's where I finds out that a can is a tough baby if you ain't got the right tools to work with meaning a can opener. I seen hes everywhere but I don't find nothing what looks like it was any relation to said tool. The only thing I finds is a axe. Well a axe in the hand of a maid is a powerful weapon so I attacks the beans. I sets the can down on the concreto walk and then attacks it with the axe. Them cans is tough things and the first wallop only smashes the sides together but the second cuts the can in two and the beans run out on the walk before I can pick them up. Well the second can of beans and likewise the crabs meats is removed from their tin overcoats in said manner. Well by that time the boy gets back with the water, or what little didn't slop over into his shoes he having to walk a half a mile with it. Well I gets things ready and sets the table and calls the folks to eat. I feels pretty proud of my culinary accomplishments everything looking so nice. "Dig in folks" I tells them. And they dug. Well I is looking at Harry when he takes his first crack at them beans. He bites down on them and there comes a horrible expression over his map. He looks at me and I looks at him and he gets up and goes to the door. About that time I hear the boy crunch something under his teeth and he mutters something that sounds like "Sell," and he beats it for the door. I hears them two boys choking and spitting at the door but I don't know what it's all about till I tries them beans. Then I knows. They is full of rocks and sand. When I gets open them cans I musta got some beach sand in 'em. Well we has to throw them away and all we has for supper is the strawberries and coffee, which is pretty good, only the coffee is so strong it can walk.

Well just as we gets the dishes washed the rest of the crowd gets there and when they asks had we a good supper the boys is very truthful and says it was delicious. Right there I says men aint so black as they is painted. Well we spends the evening playing pinochle and we winds up by having hot dogs and ice cream, but I don't volunteer to do no cooking. By the time we gets the hot dogs in their hands its time to think of hitting the hay. They being only five beds and a couple cots what bends in the middle we has to do some figuring how we is going to get some rest. If I knew then what I know now there wouldn't need to be no worry about rest 'cause you don't get none anyhow. Well we lines it up something like this. The two Harrys and George shares a cot and a bed in the living room, me, Marie and Etta takes a bed in one of the beds rooms, Tom, Johnny and the boy has another room, as does Lydia, Alma and Nancy. George and Mary don't stay for the night so Sue and her husband takes another room. Well maybe you think we got some sleep but you is wrong. Didja ever sleep three in a bed whats only big enough for one? Well if you did you know how much sleeps I gets. Well I is in the middle and I was the target for everything what was aimed my way. First Etta let fly a hand and it would catch me in the nose, and then Marie would kick out with a hoof and I steps it with my stumick and so far into the night the battle rages. When it was just coming dawn I dozes off into a snooze dreaming I was Jack Dempsey fighting Harry Wills and I was getting licked.

I don't know how the boy friend makes out but by the sounds what come from that room I guess them boys was pooling their cars all night. First you'd hear a snore in a kind of deep voice which was Tom and then Johnny would tune in with a baritone, while the boy would have a kind of cracked soprano. But they don't harmonize anymore than some of 'em does what I have heard. Imagine trying to sleep with the air filled with horns caused by that happy trio. They was some fewthe shores, too, but I ain't saying who they belonged to cause it ain't known that women is addicted with the noisy sleeping habits.

Well I gets along forty winks when everybody wants to eat. Four more gets up and I tries to get forty winks and don't I get nobody sleep from then on. We gets breakfast as I is being not one of the cooks. Breakfast is fine only somebody gets the salt and sugar mixed and me puts some of it over eggs and says it is powdered sugar. Well I never eats no more that. After I has kissed my husband and the boy friend good bye and [illegible] I helps clear up the [illegible] and then I [illegible] and [illegible] and [illegible] and

ELKS' FLAG DAY EXERCISES INSPIRE PATRIOTISM

(Special to the Bulletin)

WESTERLY, R. I., June 14—Members of Westerly lodge, Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks, held their annual flag day exercises at Wilcox park before a big assemblage tonight. The observance was featured by an address given by Major Joseph H. Gainer of Providence, who delivered a patriotic tribute to the American flag, telling of its history and significance to the American people.

The exercises were preceded by a parade through the business streets of Westerly and Pawcatuck, the following groups participating: Westerly lodge, B. P. O. of Elks, Exalted Ruler Alfred H. Chapman; Battery E, 243rd Coast Artillery, Lieut. Francis Spry, Westerly band, Charles O. Gavitt director. The program included special flag exercises, conducted by members of the Elks and Battery E.

Introductory remarks were made by Exalted Ruler Alfred H. Chapman. A history of the flag was delivered by Past Exalted Ruler James McCormick. Members of Battery E assisted in the latter observance by holding the various flags tracing the development of American history, while Mr. McCormick narrated the histories of the individual emblems.

The complete programme follows: March, "Star Spangled Banner", by Westerly band; introductory exercises by Exalted Ruler Alfred H. Chapman and other officers of the lodge; prayer, Chaplain Salvestro Murano; music, "Columbia, the Gem of the Ocean"; Land; history of the flag, Past Exalted Ruler James McCormick; after service, exalted ruler and other officers; music "Auld Lang Syne," southern airs, band; tribute to the flag, Alfred Martin; patriotic oration, Hon. Joseph H. Gainer, mayor of Providence; music, "America," Westerly band and members of lodge.

PLEDGES $1,000 TO POST TO ERECT WAR MEMORIAL

(Special to the Bulletin)

WESTERLY, R. I., June 14—A contribution of $1,000, the largest single gift to date, was pledged this evening to Harley P. Chase post, Veterans of Foreign Wars of Pawcatuck by the Pawcatuck fire district department. According to the provisions of the resolution the fund is to be used entirely in the erection and beautifying of the Memorial.

The fund has steadily increased within the last few weeks from individual subscriptions and returns from Sunday moving picture shows. Sketches of the type of memorial planned are being prepared and will soon be submitted for consideration to a committee from the local veterans' organization.

NEW HAVEN ROAD ENGINEER CONFERS ON UNDERPASS PLAN

WESTERLY, R. I., June 14—Members of the board of trade were in conference this afternoon with I. D. Waterman, assistant chief engineer of the New Haven Railroad over the proposal of widening the underpass of the railroad at West Broad street, Pawcatuck and the possibility of having the Road construct an underpass at the foot of Moss street, Pawcatuck. They were given the assurance that officials of the company are considering plans to determine whether or not both improvements can be made.

Mr. Waterman was accompanied by Engineer Lyons, another assistant of the New Haven road. The two went over the grounds of the proposed improvements with the following members of the board of trade: Frank L. Furness, A. R. Stilman, H. M. Barber, LU. C. Furtil, A. W. Bell and William Crandall.

Frank Furness, chairman of the committee from the Board said after the conference that Mr. Waterman expressed his doubts as to the possibility of the Moss street project being effected, although a plan of it would be drawn up to arrive at the approximate extent of the improvement. One of the unsatisfactory features of completing the project, Mr. Waterman said would be the problem of keeping the underpass, when constructed, clear of water.

Under the plan of the improvement, the culvert to be installed under the railroad bed at the foot of Moss St., would have to be laid underneath the proposed roadway. This would mean Mr. Waterman said, that water from the Pawcatuck river might back up into the drain because of the lower level of the culvert.

Concerning the West Broad street bridge project, Mr. Waterman said that the underpass there is as wide as any other in the state, including that at Hartford. To effect the widening of the pass completely, the cost, he said, might be $180,000.

Mr. Waterman offered the suggestion that by removing the sidewalk on the north side of the underpass and constructing a tunnel for pedestrian passage on the inside of the support the wall, a six foot addition could be made to the present width of the highway at the pass.

Such an improvement he stated would mean that the Frank Cella property at the junction of West Broad and Mechanic streets would have to be taken over by the town, to permit rounding off the curve.

Plans of this suggested improvement will be drawn by the company and submitted for the further consideration of the board of trade, according to Mr. Waterman.

A fine of $200 and costs was imposed on Arthur Kenyon of Mechanic street Pawcatuck who pleaded guilty to a charge of driving while under the influence of liquor in Westerly, Saturday afternoon. He was presented in Third District court, Westerly, Monday. He paid the fine.

Kenyon was arrested by George L. Madison of the Westerly police after his car collided with another driven by Dr. Harold F. Doyle of Westerly. Dr. Doyles car was damaged at the rear left fender.

Angeline Dunn, who has been living on Main street, Westerly for a short time pleaded guilty to a charge of revelling. She was arrested by Patrolman Robert Kessel. Sentence was also suspended in the case of Wilfred Telber who pleaded guilty to a drunkenness charge.

The only new and different pipe tobacco in a generation

We have sponsored fine tobaccos for a generation.

We know tobacco! And we state with absolute conviction that "Half and Half" is the first really new, different and distinctive pipe tobacco brought out in years.

"Half and Half" is a mixture of two already universally known tobaccos—Lucky Strike, made famous by its exclusive toasting process—and ripe, rich, fragrant Buckingham.

If you love good tobacco and are hard to please—if you seek something different and far superior to the brand you now use, try "Half and Half." We already know the verdict.

You'll agree that "Half and Half" is the greatest pipe smoke you ever enjoyed.

BUILDING OPERATIONS IN NORWICH

Building activities in Norwich during the past week showed rapid progress and several new projects were started during the week. Work has been started on two new houses in Thamesville while in Norwich Town three others have been started and the excavation work is nearly complete. The present year has been one of the slowest years so far in building since before the war but the indications are that within the next few months a large amount of new building will be accomplished. Contractors who were very pessimistic as to the years building are beginning to be optimistic as regards the last half of the year.

The bulk of the new building that is underway at the present time is outside the city limits and there is every indication that the record for new buildings in the town will not fall below the average. This will not be the case in the city for there is very little building being done outside of alterations and remodeling at present buildings. A large number of new garages are being erected but they are small and of the one and two car size. Several new gas stations have been erected and a new brick garage will be started this month for Isaac Fishkin on Washington square.

Work has been started on the grain elevator and storehouse for the Yantic Grain and Products Co on Cove street. The work will entail an outlay of about $15,000.

The work on the garage and service station for David Goodberg at the corner of Franklin and Willow streets is well along and will be completed during the next week or ten days.

The work of remodeling the old Chelsea boathouse into a garage is practically complete and will be ready for occupancy. The entrance to the garage which is below the street level is a ramp.

Westerly

Westerly Zoning Building Inspector Louis J. Rossi has issued the following zoning permits in Westerly for the second week in June, 1926:

June 7—Augustine T. L. Ledwidge, 9 Spring street, one-car garage, 12x20 feet, 9 Spring street.

June 7—Mr. L. Mawdsley, Westerly, A one-car frame garage on the southeast side of Post road at Dunn's Corners, near Manhattan Filling station. Garage business portable.

June 8—E. B. Greene and Wife, Westerly, Taunton Manufacturing Co., Taunton, Mass. Move one-car garage from their present location to the north side of East street on Dixon avenue.

June 9—Arthur Fraser, Westerly, R. I. Transport small building 12x16 feet from Pleasant View and locate on applicant's land, on Babcock road to Gun club, off Watch Hill road near Louis Leone development.

June 9—James Collins, 65 High street. Four small bath houses, size 4x10 feet, adjoining existing bath house on south side Atlantic avenue, Pleasant View hotel business section, Pleasant View, R. I.

June 11.—Mrs. Elizabeth Mellard, Ridgewood avenue, to Isaac Sherman. A shed, size 16x24 feet, on land purchased from Alexander Thompson, on East avenue.

June 11—Bradford Dyeing Association, Mark Pearson, engineer. Double residence, 50x25 feet, north side Bowling lane, Bradford, R. I.

REAL ESTATE SALES AND MORTGAGE LOANS

In Norwich during the past week there were 19 sales of real estate, an increase of four sales over the corresponding week in 1925. The mortgage loans for the respective weeks were $20,070 and $51,[illegible].

The number of real estate sales in New London during the past week totaled 24, a marked increase over the same week a year ago when there were only 10 sales. The mortgage loans for the respective weeks were $74,507 and $96,350.

State Building Permits

Building activity in this state, as indicated by the totals of permits issued and estimated construction costs, continued last week in excess of the same period a year ago. There were 402 permits issued during the week in the cities and towns covered by The Commercial Record, compared with 342 for the like week a year ago. The total estimated cost of construction work for the week was $[illegible] against $1,210,[illegible] last year.

New London

A local builder has been awarded the contract for alterations and an addition to the garage and showroom at 12 Montauk avenue for Thomas N. M. Latimer. The addition will be in the rear and will become part of brick and stone construction. Extensive changes will be made in the present building. Offices will be partitioned off for the offices, sales manager and service manager. There will also be a new parts department. The interior will be decorated and a 14-foot turntable will be installed in the garage. Bids are being received for alterations and additions to the present plumbing, heating and electric wiring. Separate contracts will be let for this work.

The contract has been awarded for the proposed print shop building to be erected in the rear of 17 Masonic street for Sullivan Bros. Goldsmith building. The plans call for a one-story brick building, 40x40 feet with an office 10x16 feet. Provision will be made for an additional story to be erected later.

The Gulf Refining Co. have taken a permit for a gasoline filling station at the corner of Church and Main streets. The building will consist of an office and salesroom building, of tapestry brick construction. There will also be a covered drive with steel girders.

The permit has been issued to Thomas F. Moran, 192 Montauk avenue, for a dwelling at 22 Linden street. The house will be of frame construction, 26x45 feet, arranged for two-six room flats. Steam heat and other conveniences will be provided.

Work has been started on a brick garage for the Alling Rubber company in the read of the Alling building on State street. The building will be 15x30 feet.

Building Permits

Frank Saunders, alterations, Vauxhall street, $300.

T. F. Moran, dwelling, 22 Linden street, $7,500.

Gulf Refining Co., gasoline station, corner Church and Main streets, $5,000.

J. W. Rogers, additions, 38 Tilley street, $500.

Morris Mallove, two-story veranda, Tilley street, $500.

Anthony Gigliotti, garage, Front street, $350.

T. C. Spears cement garage, Mohegan avenue $400.

Alling Rubber co., garage, rear State street, $1,000.

Number of permits issued for the week, 11; estimated cost of buildings, $13,725.

Westerly

Plans have been completed for a residence in Westerly for Louis Silverstein of Westerly. The house will be 20x32 feet, of colonial design, with a sunroom 10x25 feet. It will contain eight rooms, with tile baths, steam heat, fireplace, hardwood floors and other conveniences. The exterior will be of white clapboards. The owner is receiving bids for the proposed construction.

BOSTON STUDENT'S BATHING RIG OFFENDS NEW LONDON AUTHORITIES

(Special to the Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, June 14—Joseph Muscarella, a 20-year-old student at Boston university, who is spending some time in this city, was charged in the police court today with having violated a city ordinance in parading along the board walk at Ocean Beach in a swimming costume that was not of the so-called modest sort. Policeman Selianitzky approached Muscarella and the two had some discussion as to the modesty or immodesty of the bathing duds. Muscarella was sent away but he returned and the prosecutor represented that there were more heated words and the swimmer was arrested. The attorney said Muscarella was today sorry for what had transpired. He had been given to understand now that the authorities were disposed to have law and order enforced at the beach and that included the wearing of proper bathing garments. The prosecutor recommended that the complaint against Muscarella be nolled and the disposition was made of the matter.

SLACK MANAGEMENT BY CITY EMPLOYES SHOWN

(Special to the Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, June 14—Patrolman Michael Dorsey reported at the police station late last night that a danger spot existed in Pequot avenue, where the city is causing sewer construction work to be done. The officer stated that on one light there failed to illuminate the beginning and that the two lanterns that were beside the excavation were useless, as one lantern did not even contain a wick, while the globe of the other was smashed. An officer was sent to the place and placed two lanterns to mark the danger spot.

Louis Pettrini, residing in the Fort [illegible] was arrested last night charged with breach of the peace, upon complaint of his wife. This morning Pettrini was presented in the police court it was apparent that the accused was of unsound mentality. He was examined later by City Physician George P. Cheney to determine his sanity and in view of that fact Pettrini's case was continued six months. He was then committed to Norwich State hospital. Pettrini, several months ago, attempted suicide by slashing his throat with a knife and at that time his sanity was questioned.

Commissioner of Motor Vehicles Robbins B. Stoeckel today ordered the operator's license of Robert Muller, sailor, stationed at the submarine base, suspended. Muller was recently convicted of violation of the automobile law.

Bathhouse thieves operated at Ocean Beach Sunday, two thefts having been reported to the police Sunday night. Frank Buckley, 15 Denison avenue, stated that while he enjoyed the swimming his bathhouse was entered and his trousers stolen. In his pockets was $6, in a billfold, a fountain pen and fancy pencil and his Y. M. C. A. membership card. The other complainant was Arthur Gilmore, 146 Blydenburg avenue. Gilmore's only loss was his shirt.

Two marines stationed at the subbase were charged in the city court today with offensive conduct in the park, in throwing about the benches, when they were feeling that way after absorbing liquor. They were turned over to the authorities at the base for discipline after they were fined $10 each and the execution of the judgment was suspended for they had overstayed their leave of absence and were booked for discipline anyway.

Bonds were called in three cases of intoxication and in one case of violation of the rules of the road in the operation of an auto.

A couple of cases of trouble in families between husband and wife were continued, with the assurance that the offenders have learned wisdom and will lead proper lives in the future.

Three drunks, with William Dooley as chief offender, were arraigned. William was released from jail Saturday, and in jubilation over that good luck he tackled some of the stuff that goes for whiskey and some time later was found helpless. In explaining to the court Billy was funny, and wound up his statements with the assertion that "you know a few drinks go to the head," Judge Prince didn't know, but he smiled at the familiarity with which Billy alluded to cause and effect. Dooley is the fellow who at one time told the court his employment was "chambermaid in a saloon." He was the man then who attended to the cuspidors. The probation officer expressed the belief that Dooley had made up his mind to refrain from the use of liquor now so he was given a chance to make good.

Kenneth Smith of New London and Arthur Charbot of Waterford appeared for the first time charged with intoxication. They were released on suspended judgment.

LOUIS PALAU'S BOND $1,000— CHARGE IS TRANSPORTING

(Special to the Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, June 14.—Louis Palau, Essex, who was arrested Saturday night by Constables Fred Peabody and Charles Brighman, of Waterford, charged with speeding and who was later turned over to Prohibition Enforcement Agent Joseph Fitzpatrick to answer a charge of violation of the prohibition law in the transportation of liquor, was presented in the Waterford town court late this afternoon on the former charges. Judge Fred Dimmock imposed a fine of $10. A half hour after obtaining his freedom in the Waterford court, Palau was presented before United States Commissioner Russell H. Corcoran on the charge of transporting. He pleaded not guilty, but probable cause was found and he was held for trial at the next session of the United States district court. Bail was fixed at $1,000 and this he furnished. Palau stated that he had been to New London to obtain a quantity of alcohol, which he intended to use for "gin" at a party that was to take place Saturday night at Essex and that he was arrested in Waterford when on his way to the place of festivities. That might have been a true statement, but from the fact that the alcohol was in two one-gallon cans and 18 pint bottles, the belief of the authorities is that he intended to dispose of the alcohol in pint and quart quantities.

GROTON COAL CONTRACT STARTS TALK IN COUNCIL

(Special to the Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, June 14.—The city council held a session of an hour's duration this evening when contracts were awarded for the supply of coal the city is expected to need during the coming fall and winter. The contracts went to the Howard Street Coal company and to the Spicer Coal company of Groton, the former getting the anthracite contract and the latter the bituminous contract. A persistent effort was made by Councilor Streeter and Councilor May to have the coal supplied by New London dealers in both instances, but it was the opinion of the council, and forcefully stated by Mayor Fox that the charter of the city compelled the members to award contracts, where the sum of $400 was involved, to the lowest bidder, in answer to advertisements. Mr. May showed that the difference in the bids between New London and Groton dealers was only about $45. He said that it was his opinion that more than the difference in the price would be lost in the jarring of coal from the trucks in getting the coal from Groton to New London. Councilor Streeter endeavored to have all the bids rejected and new bids sought, but the council would not consent to that when Councilor Scott pointed out the provisions of the charter in relation to the matter. Mayor Fox strongly urged that the terms of the charter were positive in their language and said that they should be adhered to by the council. Other treatment was not fair to bidders. Councilor Whiton said that the competition in bids had been advantageous to the city in the past and he believed that if the city were to seek competition in what it bought the lowest responsible bidder should be given the contract. There was a question raised as to whether the coal to be bought should be fresh coal and the city manager said that he was assured that the coal would be freshened. It was also pointed out that the coal must conform to an analysis.

Twenty-four applications for gasoline pumps and tanks were made to the council and all were granted.

The council received a report on the application of a sign for Ellonsky's shoe store on Bank street, nearly opposite Golden street and would not grant it as the sign did not conform to the provisions of the ordinance that covers the matter. Applications from a score of parties to be allowed to sell fireworks were received and referred to the city manager with power. Three applications were received for the location of electric signs. They went to the city manager for action.

Councilor Streeter introduced a resolution, which was adopted, requesting the chairman of the committee on public works to notify the Bath and Beach club to make any proposition it desired to make to the city as to alleged encroachment upon city property on Pequot avenue. In the event that no proposition is forthcoming, it was stated that the action of the council would be to proceed in the matter. Charles Schall has represented that the Bath and Beach club is a trespasser and he has asked the council to proceed to obtain possession of its land.

Ten applications for permission to build were presented to the council and were granted. There were applications for permits for three garages, two dwellings, a couple of instances in which additions are contemplated and for additions to verandas. All were granted.

The council voted to expend the money necessary to provide band stands for concerts by the Coast Guard band during the summer months on the parks, either on Broad street, or on Hempstead street and at Ocean Beach.

COLUMBIA

Columbia has the distinction of being the first of the rural towns in this vicinity to hold a dental clinic for the school children. The matter was discussed at a recent meeting of the school boards, at which time it was stated by the school nurse, Miss Margaret Donahy, that the majority of the children were sadly in need of dental care. The board voted to back the movement to bring a dentist to the children, Mrs. Fannie Dixon Welch offering to guarantee the raising of the necessary funds. The money is being raised by popular subscription. The response has been very gratifying, very few refusing to help. The work has been done by Dr. Parent of Putnam, who has had many years of experience in working with school children. The work being somewhat of an experiment, it was not known to what extent the parents would cooperate, but the interest shown has much exceeded expectation. Miss [illegible] reports that every child in two of the schools was treated, 95 per cent in the others. In the sixth school, owing to a misunderstanding as to what day the dentist would visit them, the children had been dismissed, and it was possible to reach only 50 per cent of them. In addition to the school children, one mother and 15 children of pre-school age were treated, a total of 115. This work is receiving much favorable comment among neighboring towns, and it is expected that next year others will take up the work.

Breed Theater

Leatrice Joy's new star picture, The Wedding Song, a thrilling screen melodrama dealing with a band of crooks who are bent upon robbing an Islander of his treasure of pearls, will be shown at the Breed theater Wednesday and Thursday. Robert Ames plays opposite the star. The picture is Alan Hale's latest and best contribution to the screen. An excellent supporting cast has been provided.

Broadway Theater

Two splendid features are offered on the screen fare at the Broadway theater today and Wednesday that are scoring a decided hit.

George Sidney recently went to heaven. Not really, of course, but during the filming of Samuel Goldwyn's Partners Again—with Potash and Perlmutter, directed by Henry King, which is now amusing huge audiences at the Broadway theater, it became necessary for him to impersonate an angel.

It is just one of the funny situations in Partners Again, an adaptation by Frances Marion of the Montague Glass stage success, and which features George Sidney and Alexander Carr as the celebrated partners. United Artists corporation is releasing this cyclone of merriment.

Glenn Hunter has one of the most appealing roles of his career as Joel, the green young college freshman whose gullibility makes him the butt of each and every sophomoric joke in The Pinch Hitter, Associated Exhibitors production appearing this week at the Broadway theater as the second feature.

Joseph Henabery directed, with Glenn Hunter and Constance Bennett in the leading roles, supported by an all star cast including Antrim Short, Reginald Sheffield, and Jack Drumier.

Also new Kinograms can be seen. It will be time well spent to see this bill.

Hollywood has not yet recovered from the untimely death of Barbara La Marr. As an emotional screen actress, she has never been equalled. Her alluring, bewitching beauty coupled with her perfect acting placed her in a class all alone. The Heart of a Siren was not released until after her death. Its marvelous success seems a fitting tribute to this queen of the silver screen. Playing opposite Miss La Marr is another screen favorite Conway Tearle. The Heart of a Siren is an adaptation from the stage success Hail and Farewell.

Tom Tyler is sharing honors in this weeks programme in The Wyoming Wildcat.

See him now in this brand new western thrill show—a heart soothing love story—as sweet as the fragrance of apple blossoms. A roaring tale of adventure where men are quick on the trigger and slow to forgive!

UNITED STATES TIRES ARE GOOD TIRES

A group of factory buildings on the United States Rubber Company's plantation at Kisaran, Sumatra, including four Sprayed Rubber Producing Units. More of these plants for producing Sprayed Rubber are being built throughout the Far East by the United States Rubber Company.

Answering some Questions about the New "Sprayed Rubber"

Q—What is Sprayed Rubber?

A—It is an entirely new form of crude rubber produced from rubber latex without the use of smoke or chemicals.

Q—Who produces it?

A—The United States Rubber Company.

Q—Where?

A—In Java and at its rubber plantations in Sumatra and on the Malay Peninsula, by means of a special patented process discovered by its technical staff and by means of special patented apparatus also designed by United States Rubber Company technicians.

Q—What are its advantages?

A—It is used in just the same manner as any other form of crude rubber—but being produced without the use of smoke or chemicals, it is cleaner, more uniform in texture and has a higher tensile strength.

Q—Is it used in building United States Tires?

A—Yes. Millions of pounds of it have been used, and more and more will be used all the time as new plants for producing it are completed by the United States Rubber Company in the Far East.

Q—Does the United States Rubber Company make Sprayed Rubber only from rubber latex from its own plantations?

A—No. The Company considers that Sprayed Rubber is markedly superior to rubber derived from latex by the old methods. Therefore it has located factory units for producing Sprayed Rubber in various rubber producing areas in the Far East, thus supplementing the supply made from the latex from its own trees.

STOCK MARKET STRONG

NEW YORK, June 14—(AP)—The upward movement of stock prices entered upon its fifth week today despite a rather large volume of profit-taking. The selling was more effective in the rails than in the industrials, bullish demonstrations in the latter group lasting more than a score of issues of new high levels for the year or longer. Trading was in very active volume, the day's sales aggregating 1,984,600 shares, as compared with 1,662,200 on Friday.

Fears that heavy liquidation to provide funds to meet income tax payments tomorow could bring about a sharp recession, proved to be unfounded, neither was any attention paid to the further collapse in French francs. Operators for the rise apparently derived encouragement from the stiffening price tendency of certain basic commodities, the Bethlehem Steel corporation announcing an advance of $2 a ton in the price of structural steel while copper metal was slightly firmer at 14 cents a pound. Heavy melting steel scrap however, was reported 50 cents a ton lower in Pittsburgh.

General Motors resumed the leadership of the advance by crossing 141, the highest price on record, showing a gain of 3 points on the day and over 5 points above last Monday's low quotation.

Heavy buying of U. S. Steel common caused a rise of 1 3-4 or within striking distance of the year's high, but it lost all of the day's gain on heavy realizing. The independent steels showed mixed fractional changes. Oils received fairly good support.

Atlantic Coast Line, which advanced 3 points to 212 was one of the few prominent shares to move to higher levels. New York Central, Union Pacific, Southern Railway and most of the other high grade issues showed mixed fractional changes. Oils received fairly good support.

Most of the principal commodity markets displayed a firm undertone. Active wheat futures showed little change although distant options were inclined to ease off. Cotton advanced about $1 a bale in the early trading, but failed to maintain its gain, closing at net advances of 5 to 14 points. Raw sugar advanced 1-32 of a cent a pound. Coffee closed 1 to 9 points higher with trading featureless.

Call money renewed at 4 per cent and held steady at that figure all day. Time money and commercial paper rates were unchanged.

Foreign exchange weakness of French francs with a new record low point below 2 cents, or within a few points of the previous low record established last Friday, featured the unsettled foreign exchange market. Demand sterling, fairly firm around $4.86 1-2, European francs generally about 1-32 of a cent lower, Belgian francs around 3-32 cents and Italian lire around 5 points lower. Canadian dollars were narrow and dull.

Telher-Bellerose

Joseph S Telher, son of J. Omer Telher of Merchants avenue and Miss Avelina Bellerose of Terrace avenue, were married Monday morning at a nuptial high mass celebrated by Rev. Henri Chenard at Ste. Anne's church. The church was filled with relatives and friends of the bridal couple many coming from out of town. Miss Alice Brecheitz, the organist at the church played the wedding march when the entrance of the bridal party, and also played the accompaniment when Mrs. Omer Telher and Arthur Telher sang O Salutaris.

The bride wore a princess gown of white georgette with trimmings of silver. Her tulle veil was caught up with orange blossoms and she carried a bouquet of white carnations with a shower of white sweet peas. Her maid of honor was her sister, Miss Delia Bellerose who wore pink georgette and carried pink carnations. Wilfred Telher, brother of the groom was best man.

The reception and wedding breakfast at the home of the bride on Terrace avenue was attended by a large number. There was a lovely display of wedding gifts, testifying to the popularity of the couple in the community. The groom's gift to the bride was a silver toilet set and to his best man he gave gold cufflinks. The bride presented the groom's adjoining and to her maid she gave a silk umbrella.

The groom is the son of J. Omer Telher of Merchants avenue, and has always resided in Taftville where he is well known. He has taken a prominent part in the activities of various social organizations of Taftville orders of the village. His bride was born in Canada and has been a resident of the village for the past few years, being employed in the weaving department of the Ponemah Mills.

The happy couple left on a wedding tour to points of interest in Canada, and upon their return will reside in Occum as Mr. Telher is employed by the Plaut-Cadden Company.

A Reo truck belonging to the New Sanitary Wet Wash and dryers in Hamilton Inn, an employe left the road when coming down Fox Hill in Norwich and crashed into the stone wall and stopped on Lovers Leap Grounds. There was not much damage to the wagon or car as the former has its cab and fenders on the right side badly damaged.

On Sunday a Ford coupe attempting to turn around from Norwich to Norwich Town at a high rate of speed left the road and went into a ditch on the left side of the road. When the passengers alighted the car was on about 45 degrees. Through the kindness of a resident who chanced along about the time the accident happened, the car was towed out of the ditch and went along under its own power, no damage having been done.

Furlong-Fontaine

At a high mass at St. Joseph's church, Occum, Monday morning, Rev. Frederic Dessureault the pastor united in marriage Miss Blanche Fontaine, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Fontaine, and Walter Furlong, son of Mr. and Mrs. Austin Furlong of Norwich. The bridal chorus was played by Miss Milner, the organist, and Arthur Dessureault sang Ave Maria, and O Perfect Day.

The bride was charming in a gown of white georgette with pearl trimmings and she carried a bouquet of bride's roses and lilies-of-the-valley. For her maid of honor, she had her sister, Miss Alice Fontaine who wore turquoise georgette with hat to match and carried pink carnations. Joseph Furlong, brother of the groom was best man.

A reception and wedding breakfast for 100 guests was held at the home of the bride's parents, following the ceremony. There was a wealth of wedding gifts. Later in the day, Mr. and Mrs. Furlong left for an extended wedding trip which will take them to Boston and New York and upon their return they will live in Occum where the groom is in the employ of the Inland Paper Board company.

MULE SPINNERS' TREASURER GONE AND UNION'S $20,000 MISSING

Frank Durr, treasurer of the Taftville Mule Spinners' union, is missing with $20,000 in cash and Liberty bonds, the entire funds of the union, according to a statement authorized Monday night by Thomas Addison, secretary of the union. The local police have a warrant for Durr's arrest.

According to Secretary Addison, Durr disappeared Friday night, leaving the union's treasury empty. As soon as it was discovered that Durr and the funds were missing officials of the union immediately took steps toward his arrest and a warrant was sworn out. According to the warrant the amount alleged to have been taken by Durr is $4,000 but Mr. Addison said late Monday night that the total is $20,000.

Durr has a wife and family residing on South Bridge street, Taftville. Secretary Addison stated Monday night that immediately on notification of the disappearance of the treasurer and the funds, the executive board of the international union placed $10,000 at the disposal of the local union. Mr. Addison is in charge of this fund. The missing funds were on deposit, it is stated, in the Chelsea Savings bank.

BROUGHT GOSPEL MESSAGE TO MEN AT THE JAIL

Under Y. M. C. A. auspices a religious service was conducted at the Norwich jail Sunday morning at 9:45 o'clock. Hugh Kinder rendered vocal selections and played for the hymns following A Thousand years the sixpence and offered prayer General Secretary Edwin Hel gave the talk, taking for the topic "How", based on the scripture in Hebrews, "How shall we escape if we neglect so great salvation".

Mr. Hel spoke in part as follows: The word of the topic is very short and very significant in many of its connections. Away back there in history we read of ungodly men deciding to build a tower. They doubtless talked of how they could build it over the mountain, they built for a while and then there was a great cause because they had not found out how correctly to build it. The two men, one of whom built a house on sand and failed and the other built upon a rock and the water ran on the sand, and we know he found the latter highway and sure was the safest.

Men are acting at the meetings of the nations in these days, and continuing to find out how it can be done and long in universal peace on the have not yet found the way to accomplish it. Several years ago, men decided to build an extremely large and the people said: they figured out to do this and how to do it, and the great craft, the Titanic was launched and we all know what then happened how it could be done. Some years ago a ship and we went down with a couple loss of life. Some students years since the Dean of Dartmouth College was in my home. He began a few years ago to read and study the Bible and he found a way and I [illegible] one [illegible] he found much and started read the Bible and won a great victory.

Men began a few years ago to find out how they could cross the ocean and the speed floating in the air and the radio, the telephone and I am sure in the use of [illegible] time through the air beautiful strains of sweet voices sang to me over the radio. I appeal to you to be the master of men. Last night I heard of men who had planned how they might [illegible] break the law in some way and many of us [illegible] but they will no longer say that [illegible] for whites can [illegible] and [illegible] said he had [illegible] the question asked in the scripture. How shall we escape if we neglect so great salvation? I answer it cannot escape if you [illegible] God's promises. Men have tried [illegible] but there is no escape [illegible] and they who neglect [illegible] and the word of Jesus Christ [illegible] to call on God for help [illegible]

SEC'Y MELLON HAS AROUSED SUPPORTERS OF FARM BILL

Champions of the McNary Measure in the Senate Are Preparing Replies to the Views of the Secretary of the Treasury —Senator Norbeck Warned That the Wheat Farmers of the Northwest Would Tear Down the Tariff Wall if They Were Not Given the Benefit of the Tariff.

WASHINGTON, June 15—(AP)—With supporters of the McNary farm bill [illegible] criticism of its provisions, the senate ploughed along today [illegible] which materially changed the $1,837,000 total for all candidates.

Representative Vare, who won out in the race for the senatorial nomination with Senator Pepper and Gov. Pinchot, his state-wide treasurer, Thomas E. Watson, Sr., a Philadelphia coal dealer and Harry A. Mackey, also of Philadelphia, generalissimo of the whole campaign, were the witnesses.

Vare and Watson were subjected to a merciless cross-examination, but, during most of the time he was on the stand, Mackey was permitted to tell in his own way how he organized the state for Vare and carried the campaign to a successful conclusion. His cross-questioning, particularly by Chairman Reed was reserved for tomorrow, the committee departing from its part of night sessions.

During the examinations of Vare it was brought out that besides his personal expenditures of $51,000, heretofore reported, he had become surety for a note for $100,000, of which Albert M. Greenfield, of Philadelphia, chairman of a Vare finance committee, was the maker. The senatorial nominee declared however, he was quite sure Greenfield had since paid the note.

Discussion of the discussions of the campaign spread from the committee room to both the senate and house where the McNary-Haugen coming in for attacks in both houses on the basis of his statement of yesterday that such expenditures as were made in Pennsylvania were essential under the prevailing system.

After adverting to this statement Senator Caraway, democrat, Arkansas, introduced the celebrated resolution for the seating of Truman H. Newberry, as a republican senator from Michigan, but condemning his expenditure of $195,000 on his behalf. The senator expressed that he had erased the 195,000 and left a blank so that Senator Watts, republican, Oklahoma of the Newberry committee, might fill in the figure which he now regarded as hostile to the best way of the senate and the safety of American institutions.

This led to a brief [illegible] with Senator Bingham, republican, Connecticut, declaring that there was no further case against Vare and Watson could be shown.

Senator Johnson, republican, California would up the day's session with a vigorous defense of the farm relief system which he came under attack from Senator Reed republican, Pennsylvania a Pepper supporter, and others, as a result of the Pennsylvania case issues. He declared it was better for a candidate to expend his personal funds in a primary than to borrow from a group to sell his soul to a political boss under the convention system.

BINGHAM RESENTS PENN. PRIMARY CRITICISM

WASHINGTON, June 15—(AP)—Declaring [illegible] of the members of the Vare-Pepper campaign [illegible] organization in the recent Pennsylvania republican primary, the senate investigating committee today developed several interesting side-lights, but failed to uncover additional expenditures

POLISH COUNT REFUSED TO RETURN FIRE IN DUEL

WARSAW, Poland, June 15.—(AP)—Warsaw is agitated tonight [illegible] of a duel exceeded only [illegible] the life of one of the combatants. Count Sarbek, a former premier of Poland and still holding a high place in the [illegible] cabinet, early this morning met General Sosnkowski, former minister of war and commanding the Northern Polish army, on the field of honor.

Attended by seconds they went to the center of a meadow, faced each other at a distance of 15 paces, were handed pistols and then, under the signal, "Fire!" [illegible]. As that was given Count Sarbek stepped ahead. Immediately each of the men fired.

The first Sarbek, stood unharmed as the bullet grazed his head. He let drop his extended arm and said dramatically: "I wish to state that I deliberately do not want to shoot. If there is anyone here who thinks it necessary to defend the honor of Sosnkowski, I am at his disposal. But I shall not shoot."

The duel was the sequence of a message sent Marshal Pilsudski's regency capital. The two men had words and Count Skrzynski issued a challenge. Every effort was made to prevent the meeting but a medical report of examination ruled that the challenge was issued "in strict accordance with the code of honor." Two surgeons, however, were present to bring the opponents face to face.

After the duel the court of honor [illegible] declared that the dispute had been settled according to "all the rules of honor, each party having obtained satisfaction in the manner he [illegible]."

SEAPLANE IN LANDING STRUCK SUBMERGED ROCK

NEWPORT, R. I., June 15.—(AP)—A navy seaplane, descending near the Gould Island harbor struck a submerged rock today and one pontoon and the rudder were wrecked. The pilot, Lieutenant D. S. Cornwell, and Machinist's Mate Joseph Kalmon escaped with a shaking up. The plane, which was on its way toward the battleship Utah on a hovering was taken to the mother ship Wright for repairs after the accident.

NEWARK, N. J., June 15.—(AP)—Returns from the wet and dry fight for the republican congressional nomination in North New Jersey, described by the Anti-Saloon league as a "real referendum," placed Representative Randolph Perkins, dry, ahead of E. Duncan McClave, his wet opponent.

In five of 213 voting places Perkins received 266 and McClave 532 votes.

CONVICTED OF BRIBERY IN NEW YORK MILK CASE

NEW YORK, June 15.—(AP)—Thomas J. Donahue, secretary to former Health Commissioner Frank J. Monaghan under Mayor Hylan, was found guilty of bribery and fraud in a jury in the Bronx county court tonight in connection with the investigation into the alleged bootlegging of adulterated milk and cream into the city. He will be sentenced Tuesday.

Cloughter was charged with bribery and with having used his former office for the purpose of fraud. The jury found him guilty on both counts.

In his trial, which was the first of the so-called "bootleg milk" trials Harry Danziger, confessed extortionist and alleged ring leader in the milk frauds, testified Cloughter had received 50 per cent of the money which Danziger obtained from milk companies to gain admission of their products into the city. Danziger said Cloughter was paid at the rate of $1 a can on ad milk from the Nestles Food company and allied companies which entered New York on health department permits secured by Cloughter.

Canceled checks representing more than $10,000 in alleged bootleg milk [illegible] money coming from the Nestle Food company and other western companies, were submitted as evidence.

Conviction of bribery carries a sentence of from 5 to 10 years, a fine of $5,000 or both. The other charge carries a sentence of from 5 to 10 years, a fine of $1,000 or both.

SAFETY PRECAUTIONS TAKEN FOR "CARDINALS SPECIAL"

NEW YORK, June 15.—(AP)—Every precaution will be taken for the safety of Cardinal Bonzano, papal legate and the other cardinals and dignitaries of the Roman Catholic church on their train from New York to Chicago in the "Cardinals special" which leaves here tomorrow morning at 11 o'clock eastern standard time.

The New York Central railroad, over whose lines the train will pass, announced tonight it had assigned more than 1,200 railroad police and detectives to guard the train along its route. Picked men will accompany the train and others will guard its passengers with the assistance of local police at every stop along the route.

TAXI DRIVER INJURED BY 50 POUND ROCK FROM BLAST

GREENWICH, June 15.—(AP)—Gano Grasso, a taxi driver of Mamaroneck was seriously injured here today when struck in his taxicab by a rock weighing 50 pounds. He is in Greenwich hospital with internal injuries.

The accident occurred near where workmen were blasting to lay new gas mains in Granger street. Grasso was driving past when the boulder flew 75 feet through the air, dashed through his windshield and struck him in the chest and stomach.

Frank Caruso, foreman of the blasting gang, was arrested and held in bonds of $1,000.

CABLED PARAGRAPHS

LONDON, June 15.—(AP)—The effects of jazz music are so pernicious that jazz ought to be stamped out just as the use of opiates is, Pietro Mascagni, noted Italian composer, told the Rome correspondent for the "Evening News".

BUCHAREST, June 15.—(AP)—Numerous persons are reported to have been killed by lightning in the Giurgiu district and 20,000 cattle to have been drowned in a rain and hailstorm which has caused extensive floods in Rumania.

U. S. RECEIVED YESTERDAY $77,783,127 ON FOREIGN DEBTS

WASHINGTON, June 15.—(AP)—Payments of $77,783,127.09, the foreign nations on account of war debts today raised the treasury in retiring $630,000,000 in maturing securities.

The second instalment of income [illegible] today and balances already declared permitted Secretary Mellon to announce the regular quarterly finance [illegible] without the aid of a new issue of securities for the first time since the war.

The total of collection received from [illegible] taxes for this quarter is expected to exceed [illegible] members and Speaker [illegible] but the total will not be known officially for several days. This in turn will serve to determine the surplus with which the fiscal year, ending June 30, will be closed and will also aid and will be a guage also as to whether early tax reduction is in prospect.

Great Britain, making its semi-annual payment of interest on its debt, was the largest contributor to the day's receipts with $65,000,000.

Of this sum paid on the short term securities of the United States government which matured today and in order reduced by that amount the total necessary for the treasury to retire.

Italy made its first payment $5,000,000 under its debt agreement recently [illegible] by congress. This also was paid in United States securities, $1,500,000 in first liberty loan bonds and $3,500,000 in the short term securities retired today.

While the payments automatically went toward debt retirement since they were made in securities of the government, the [illegible] banking department today paid in cash the sum of [illegible] is required by law to be in a fund for retirement of the war debt of the American government.

The following cash payments were made:

Belgium $4,044,156.70; Czecho-Slovakia $1,500,000; Estonia, $20,000; Finland $133,945; Hungary $29,412.98; Lithuania $76,775.38; Poland $750,000; and Rumania $200,000.

Latvia previously had paid its $30,000 instalment due today.

Tiflis and Jugo-Slavia although they have negotiated debt agreements with the country, made no payments because the settlements are not yet in effect.

PLAN TO END MINERS' STRIKE WAS DISCUSSED IN COMMONS

LONDON, June 15.—(AP)—The government's new plan to solve the mining stoppage had a hostile reception at the hands of the labor party in the house of commons today.

Two labor leaders insisted it bore no elements of a possible settlement, that it was a mere acquiescence in the mine owners' plans, and that its central feature, suspension of the seven hours act, had no place in the royal coal commission's recommendations.

The government's big majority, however, rallied to its support, and a [illegible] motion for a reduction in the mines vote, was rejected 309 to 155. The figures showed that virtually all the liberal and labor members opposed the plan. It provides for partial suspension of the seven-hour act which now governs the miners' working hours. The mine owners have wanted this act repealed and have lately advanced suggestions that if the miners were willing to work eight hours the evening wage scale could be maintained. The present act allows the miners an exception to work on eight hour shifts for only 14 days in the year. Approval of the government plan is to extend this exception considerably, without actually touching the act.

Impasse Reached in Tacna-Arica Dispute

Washington Program For Agreement is Threatened With Complete Collapse.

WASHINGTON, June 15—(AP)—The Washington program for settlement of the Tacna-Arica dispute between Chile and Peru is threatened with complete collapse.

After many months of weary negotiation, initiated by the late President Harding the two countries have reached an impasse from which officials here see little hope of escape.

Although a day or two may elapse before the disagreement reaches its final issue, President Coolidge's proposal for a plebiscite in the disputed territory apparently has been vetoed by Chile's refusal to accept conditions regarded as fair by Peru and the United States, and at the same time an alternative negotiation started by Secretary Kellogg is showing signs of lapsing without an agreement.

The controversy over the plebiscite proposal reached its crisis when the American-Peruvian-Chilean commission sitting at Arica decided by majority vote that Chile had made a fair election impossible, and there were indications here today that no appeal to Washington on that subject would ava". Officials would not discuss today, but the "manifesto" are about convinced that further discussions at Arica would be a waste of time.

The separate negotiations in progress here between Secretary Kellogg and the Chilean and Peruvian ambassadors are looked upon in Latin-American diplomatic circles as almost certain to be carried down in the crash of the plebiscite commission.

How far-reaching such a result would be is a matter of lively discussion in Washington. It is conceded privately that the complete failure of the American effort would be a blow to the prestige of the United States throughout the western hemisphere if blame for the failure in any way is attached to the American negotiators; and a statement from Washington definitely placing the responsibility at the door of Chile is among the possibilities.

"I do not know whether I shall stay here or not" said the Chilean ambassador today when asked what the next Chilean step would be.

ACTION IN NEWINGTON TO REMOVE A TOWN CONSTABLE

NEWINGTON, June 15.—(AP)— Following the arrest and conviction of one of the town constables, members of the board of selectmen announced tonight a special meeting would be held to consider removing him from office. The constable, Walter Vaska, was fined $5 by Judge Stanley Weiler last night in town court.

According to the town authorities, Constable Vaska was present at a Polish picnic here last Saturday. As the festivities heightened, the constable was reported to have made himself obnoxious by flaunting his authority and his badge. While he himself was alleged to have been under the influence of liquor. John Dubrowski objected to the actions of the constable to Grand Juror A. Lucas, who ordered Constable Raymond V. Hall-loran to place his brother officer under arrest and confine him in the town lock-up.

RABBI MAZURE TO LEAVE TEMPLE EMANUAL, WORCESTER

WORCESTER, Mass., June 15.—(AP) —Rabbi Maurice Mazure, who has been head of Temple Emanuel for the past three years and whose election as a member of the Worcester Musician union several months ago attracted much attention in Hebrew and Christ Protestant church circles, is to sever his connection with Temple Emanuel next September, and President David E. Isenberg of the temple congregation today issued a call for a meeting next Monday night to select a new rabbi to fill the vacancy. Rabbi Mazure has frequently preached from Protestant church pulpits during the past few months and his election as a member of the ministers' union was unprecedented, as, up to his being made a member, the polls contained only the names of Protestant ministers. Rabbi Mazure has made no plans for the future. He came here from Brockton.

CHINESE PIRATES ROUTED AFTER A SHARP BATTLE

LONDON, June 15—(AP)—In a sharp battle today Chinese pirates who have frequently raided Macao, the Portuguese dependency in China, were routed, 300 of the pirates being killed. The governor of Macao, a Lisbon despatch to the "Daily Express" says, has notified the minister of colonies of the engagement.

One hundred and fifty pirates, including the leader Tschung, were captured.

Seven Claimants as Birthplace of Navy

Marblehead is Preparing to Observe This Week the 150th Anniversary of Navy.

BOSTON, June 15—(AP)—Seven New England seaports now claim to have cradled the United States navy, while Marblehead today continued preparations to observe this week the 150th anniversary of the navy's birth, six other communities along the storm and rock bound coast had come forward to dispute the honor with the ancient north shore town. They were Salem, Kingston, Somerville, New Bedford, Dartmouth and Machias, Me.

Upon the schooner Hannah, chartered for the united colonies in 1775 to fight the British, Marblehead pinned its claim as birthplace of the navy. But last week Sidney Perley, historian of the neighboring city of Salem, published the contention that the ship of war Ketch, which sailed out of Salem 100 years before the Hannah was launched, give the "city of witches" prior rights to Marblehead. Then Kingston came forward with the statement that the Massachusetts navy began at that port in August 1775 "when three ships, the Machias Liberty and Diligent were taken into the service of the province."

Somerville came to the front today with the good ship "Blessing of the Bay," as her candidate as the first American vessel of war. Thomas F. Kessing, a local student of history prepared the case for the ship and Major Colwell communicated it on behalf of the city. At the same time it was recalled that at New Bedford and Dartmouth vessels were fitted out two weeks after the battle of Lexington, and that at Machias, Me., in May 1775, Captain Ollison in obedience to the command of the Massachusetts government, armed a ship with the guns seized from the Margaretta.

Somerville's claim to the honor of "birthplace of the navy" antedates all previous claims. Historian Kissling said. The sesqui-centennial of the declaration of independence on July 4 next will be also the 295th anniversary of the launching of the "Blessing of the Bay," the first vessel built in New England large enough to cross the ocean. The ship was launched on July 4, 1631, by Gov. Winthrop at his "Ten Hill farm" on the south shore of the Mystic river.

The "Blessing of the Bay" was a bark of 30 tons and was constructed of lumber cut in the vicinity. Although originally planned for trading purposes, the "Blessing of the Bay," which was built by popular subscription was in 1632 converted into a consort to patrol the coast, protecting fishermen traders and settlers from Indians and from piracy on the seas.

The vessel the historian maintains, was the first American man o' war to engage the British on the seas. One of her first engagements was with a certain David Bull and 15 Englishmen who had plundered a settlement and committed acts of piracy. The "Blessing of the Bay" was used for more than 60 years in the service of the Massachusetts bay colony.

ESTRANGED WIFE HAS BEEN AWARDED VERDICT OF $100,000

NEW YORK, June 15.—(AP)—Louth was victor today when Mrs. Pixie H. Dula estranged wife of Robert L. Dula, was awarded a verdict of $100,000 in her alienation of affections suit which she instituted against her aged mother-in-law two years ago.

The jury which made the award had listened to denials from Mrs. Josephine Dula, widow of Robert E. Dula, Tennessee magnate, that she had attempted to influence her son in refusing to [illegible] marital affairs. Young Mrs. Dula's testimony recently disclosing had a prominent part of her brief Springfield.

Mrs. Dula, Jr., brought suit for $250,000. At the time the suit was started the elder Mr. Dula was living and was a co-defendant. He died before the case came to court. The plaintiff was recently given a separation decree with alimony of $5,000 a year.

Counsel for Mrs. Dula, Sr., announced the verdict would be appealed.

FIVE TENNESSEANS ARE IN FIGHT FOR CRABTREE ESTATE

NASHVILLE, Tenn., June 15.—(AP)— Five Tennesseans who believe they are heirs of the late Charlotte M. (Lotta) Crabtree, the actress, have started a fight for a portion of the deceased woman's estate valued at about $2,000,000.

A Nashville attorney is in Boston looking into the actress' financial affairs.

The Tennessee claimants are Thomas A. Crabtree, of Davidson county, and his four nieces and nephews. He believes the actress was the only daughter of his brother who moved to California years, ago.

YACHT FIRED UPON OFF WATCH HILL

NEWPORT, R. I., June 15—(AP)— The private yacht Aloha of Arthur Curtiss James of New York was fired upon early today, despite signs New York. The G.S. shot went across the bow and the second over it, narrowly missing the bow passenger, Mrs. James, who was on the way here to greet Crown Prince Gustavus Adolphus of Sweden, and he would report the incident to Washington. He believed a rum boat chaser had done the firing.

The Aloha, a big square rigged craft was opposite Watch Hill proceeding slowly to let another boat cross the bow. As the Aloha picked up speed the shots came from an unseen vessel on the shoreward side. An officer of the Aloha called out his identity, and the shooting then went ahead without further molestation.

INQUIRY INTO PROMISCUOUS FIRING BY PATROL BOAT 297

MIAMI, Fla., June 15—(AP)—Without making any recommendations, the Dade county grand jury today adjourned its investigation into alleged promiscuous firing by coat guard patrol boat number 297 which endangered the lives of several hundred persons last Saturday. The shooting occurred while the patrol boat chased a liquor laden motor boat in Miami bay. Coast guard officials, however, an- [illegible] nounced a service investigation of the shooting.

A score or more shots were fired by the coast guard boat in an inlet estate which ended when the motor boat darted under a bridge too low for passage by the patrol boat. A bond at the river between the two craft placed several hundred persons in a fashionable Fort Dallas park section in direct line of fire.

PALATIAL YACHT SEIZED FOR LIQUOR LAW VIOLATION

NORFOLK, Va., June 15—(AP)—The palatial yacht Laurentian said to be owned by A. M. Alger of Detroit, was seized in York river off Yorktown, last night, and her commander, Captain Benjamin Jarvis, placed under arrest charged with violating the national prohibition law. This became known here today when the craft was towed to Norfolk by the coat guard patrol boat CG-193 and delivered to the customs authorities. It is alleged 30 cases of liquor were found on the boat.

The owner was not aboard at the time of the seizure it was said, but a party of his friends with members of their families were aboard on a pleasure cruise. Several days ago the yacht visited the estate of C. K. G. Billings at Curis Neck on the James river and dropped down to Yorktown last night.

PRIMARY DISCLOSURES

As the evidence concerning the Pennsylvania primary is brought out it becomes more and more plain that a use of money was encouraged by a primary law instead of prevented.

During the days of the convention method of selecting candidates for the United States senate there were features which called for criticism. In an effort to correct the objectionable conditions the primary method was advocated. It was hoped upon the adoption of such a law that without resorting to [illegible]. But experience has shown that [illegible] Pennsylvania and [illegible] Michigan during the Newberry campaign.

If there is going to be enough wrong with the state by candidates it is inevitable that it will cost money. Those who do not have the money to put into it, or organizations to provide the necessary funds, are certain to stand a pretty poor chance against those who have. This entitles such a primary campaign means that it must be extended that there will be utilized [illegible] as can be obtained [illegible] to conduct the [illegible] as follows.

In the recent primary in Pennsylvania, in the purchase [illegible] open space in the papers of leaders and in the meeting [illegible] expenses that [illegible] age required. It does appear that any of the candidates [illegible] representatives, did anything that was in violation of the law through the expenditure of their funds in the Keystone state.

That the use of so much money is regarded as something which ought not to be done will be generally upheld. Even though it may not [illegible] there has been any corrupt practices but it is shown as the result of the many tests that the primary is not proving so much more satisfactory than the old convention method of selecting candidates, as the legislative plan of picking the state's representatives in the United States senate. The primary gets some hard knocks almost every time one is held.

DEALING WITH THE MOROS

Every little while it becomes necessary to send some of the Philippine constabulary into the Moro provinces for the purpose of subduing those people whose warlike demonstrations become too threatening. This means the shedding of blood and for a time [illegible] conditions become quiet to [illegible] and it is necessary to repeat [illegible].

[illegible] never has been and there [illegible] the government of the Philippines [illegible] Moros. They do not [illegible] rules. They are treated because they [illegible] ruled by Filipinos and the administration shows no signs of abating. The Moros would like Americans as governors in their provinces but such appointments are subject to approval by the legislature at Manila and that will endorse none but Filipinos. Consequently there is a continual fight.

Because of this situation and with a view to relieving it, Congressman Bacon of New York has introduced a bill which would make the Moro independent of the rest of the Philippines, placing them under the government of American governors [illegible] those people. This is a move that is made in order to put an end to the [illegible] Moros among themselves and others, and it is known to be in keeping with the wishes of the Moros themselves. They are and have been strong opponents of the idea of independence for the Philippines. They give recognition to the government which [illegible] through American assistance and they are opposed to getting away from the control of the U. S.

It seems hardly probably that a bill introduced at this late part of the congressional session will be able to get consideration and action this year. It may however be regarded as a [illegible] possibility of peace in the islands and the ending of conditions which prevail at the present time. If action is not secured at the present session the measure is one which should command attention at the next. The good points of the bill entitle it to careful consideration and its presentation following new trouble in the [illegible] have the effect of directing needed attention thereto.

POLAR QUEST ABANDONED

The decision to abandon the expedition headed by Captain Wilkins for the exploration of the large area of unvisited territory near the north pole comes after a steady series of rebuffs. If an expedition ever encountered discouragements this one did.

Backed by financial support from Detroit, this expedition was to hop off from Point Barrow, Alaska, but its difficulties began before the machines which were to be used were gotten there. Tests resulted in smashes, repairs were long delayed, trouble getting supplies and the big machine over the mountains was experienced and during one of his early exploration trips Captain Wilkins was lost for nearly a fortnight. On his first flight off toward the pole as a test Captain Wilkins reached out into unknown territory, but that marked the sum total of his accomplishments. His plan was to set out for the pole and do in reverse what the Norge accomplished. Later there were plans of devoting his efforts to visiting the unexplored area, which had been crossed by the Norge, but about which nothing was known except for what could be seen from the dirigible.

Delays made it impossible for the big flight to be made at the proper season. To have gone forward during the period when bad fogs were certain to be experienced would have been reckless. Enough misfortune has been encountered to have it realized that discretion is the better part of valor, and apparently with such reasoning the expedition quits.

This is not the first instance where those who have sought to gain more knowledge about the polar region have been balked in their efforts. Captain Wilkins knows when it is unwise to tempt fate. His decision to abandon his effort this year is probably a most wise one, and even though his attempt must be rated as a failure he has gained a better knowledge of what must be confronted and overcome if another such trip is to be undertaken.

THE TACNA-ARICA CASE

Disappointment and regret are [illegible] at the [illegible] which seems to be the probable outcome of the efforts to adjust the Tacna-Arica situation in South America. When General Pershing returned to this country it was apparent that the prospects were not good for a successful outcome. He had encountered opposition which indicated that there was slight chance of obtaining an adjustment through [illegible] and since General Lassiter [illegible] as the head of the [illegible] commission the [illegible] [illegible] that [illegible] conditions which [illegible] and the endeavors [illegible] Bolivia provided with an outlet to the sea, the long standing dispute could be happily adjusted. But in this as in the plan for the plebiscite Tacna has been encountered the persistent objection of Chile, upon which country it now would appear must rest the responsibility for the impending failure.

Chile's aim has apparently been to get control of the two provinces. It has created conditions within the territory which have made a fair vote of the inhabitants on the question impossible. It has tampered instead of assisting the [illegible] to have been [illegible] feeling and stir up strife. [illegible] the plebiscite, forcing the Peruvian [illegible] to vote, to get out. The failure of the effort to bring [illegible] a settlement of this matter will be [illegible] the fault rests. The [illegible] appear, the two South American nations has existed too long and [illegible] certainly ready to [illegible] concessions in order to bring [illegible] end. The [illegible] reflects no credit [illegible] country.

BRAZIL'S RESIGNATION

[illegible] up its reclamation from [illegible] by resigning from [illegible] Brazil knows of [illegible] can, if it so desires, re[illegible] within a period of [illegible]. And it is not improbable [illegible] will do so. Proved because it [illegible] obtain a permanent seat in [illegible] at a time when Germany is about to enter the league and has been promised a permanent council [illegible] was sought to indicate its independence and embarrass the league but there is no indication that that is going to follow.

That the nations at the Locarno conference should have been so anxious for the security of Europe that they were ready to promise Germany [illegible] seems [illegible] it would [illegible] league was not unwarranted [illegible] long as Germany should remain [illegible] of the league there would [illegible] feeling of insecurity and [illegible] would [illegible] in keeping [illegible] been to get [illegible] nations away from such [illegible] and one of the best ways [illegible] to get Germany into the league and bound by its agreements.

When Brazil threatened to kick over the traces it was natural that there should be a willingness to let it rather [illegible] to keep Germany out, for Germany was suspicious that the council was going to be packed against it by the admission of more countries at this time, for the peace of Europe it is far more important that Germany should be in the league than Brazil. Brazil will come to realize [illegible] and [illegible] to obtain the places to [illegible] is positively entitled. Just [illegible] learning through an experience [illegible] guidance of itself and others in the future.

FROM LUCILE'S DIARY

Sometimes I really feel that I am the most misunderstood and unappreciated creature in the wide world. Just now I am completely discouraged about trying to live up to my New Year's resolution to say and do kind things during 1926, as all my efforts to be agreeable seem to be failures. For instance, when I met Adella Boyde downtown a few days ago and complimented her upon her smart appearance she seemed more annoyed than pleased.

"You certainly look well in that caracul jacquette," I said. "I believe next year I'll have my fur coat cut down into one that is, if jacquettes are still modish. They have been worn so much for the last few seasons that they may be passe next winter."

"As it happens, Lucile," remarked Adella icily, "this coat was not cut down from my old caracul, but is a new one that father brought me from New York for a New Year's present, and as it was purchased at one of the most fashionable furriers in that city I have no fear that it will go out of style immediately."

"Of course not," I agreed, reassuringly, and, wishing to appease her, I suggested that we have some ice cream.

"No, thank you very much, Lucile," she answered. "I don't care for any."

"Oh, are you trying to reduce, Adella? I think that's sensible. You should look out for your figure."

"No, I'm not reducing. I don't find it necessary to worry about my figure, Lucile. You'll excuse me if I run along, won't you? I have a luncheon engagement," she said, and without even having the politeness to say good by she hurried away. I suppose she was afraid that I would find out with whom she was going to lunch. It was probably just some woman friend.

The same day I went into the dress department of one of the shops where we have an account, and looked at several very handsome costumes, but after trying on three or four I decided I had one with [illegible] was greatly vexed when she saw it.

"Why, Lucile, you [illegible] can't afford this frightfully expensive [illegible] she said.

"Of course I know it, mother dear; more's the pity. But I felt that it was only kind to have something sent out, after I had had the saleswoman waiting on me so long. I'll put in a call for it to return right away."

"That's a queer idea of kindness," remarked mother acidly. "The girl who sold it to you will lose credit for the sale and the shop has to go to the expense of calling here for it. When you have no intention of having, I consider it actually dishonest to have goods sent out from the store."

I made no reply for I find it wiser and kinder not to argue when mother has one of her ill-natured [illegible]

I merely smiled and changed the subject by telling her that I had invited her old friends the Gillmores to Sunday dinner.

"Good gracious! Why did you do that?" she asked.

"Because, dearie, I thought it would brighten you up to see such charming people. I met Mrs. Gillmore in one of the shops, and the minute I saw her it occurred to me that a little visit from her would shake you out of your rather dull spirits."

"Dull spirits nothing, Lucile!" she exclaimed inelegantly. "Please don't have my spirits on your mind, and certainly don't invite people like the Gillmores, who have everything wealth can buy, to dine with us on such short notice."

I thought it all over and decided that father could solve the little problem by taking us all to dinner at his club on Sunday. Cousin Fannie is so unselfish that I knew it would be a pleasure for her to stay with granny. As I turned toward home with this happy idea in mind I saw a kitten crying on a doorstep and I thought there was a chance to do a kindness to a helpless animal and I ran up the step and pushed the doorbell. I had to push it three times very hard before there was an answer. Then I told the elderly man who came to the door that his poor little pet was crying to get in.

"I don't know which is the worst pest, screeching cats or meddlesome women," he muttered as he slammed the door, and I came to the sad conclusion that it is hardly worth while to put myself out to be kind and thoughtful when everybody is so very unappreciative.—Exchange.

NEW BOOKS

Jorgensen. By Tristram Tupper, author of Adventuring and The House of Five Swords. Cloth, 247 pages. Publisher, J. B. Lippincott company, Philadelphia. Price $2.

Kinupin, they called him, this gaunt effigy of a man—who followed the chief engineer like a shadow, yet had the whole responsibility doing everything he wanted without his saying anything. There grew up a myth of his strength of fist and the power of his hands, heavy knuckled with huge wrist bones, hands that might grapple a beast. And more slowly he set to grapple the grande melancholia of Black mountain.

Old Jorgensen knew how nearly it had got him once—knew what he must conquer within himself before he could lay hold. At shaft No. 2 the mountain tried to break him, but the man was [illegible] and [illegible] Paul, he said [illegible] soon came to see that [illegible] was regarded as one of the [illegible] men in Germany. He was a most industrious man and wrote without rest, his books numbering about 60 volumes.

Richters success was therefore due not only to natural ability, but also to an unflagging spirit of industry.

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

Mrs. Margaret Corbett Ashby of England, who has just been re-elected president of the International Woman Suffrage alliance at its congress in Paris, has been in the public arena since she left college, and her record of work, political, social and feminist, is large. She comes of a political family, her father having been a liberal member of parliament. As soon as she was of an age to do so she joined the Women's Liberal federation and the National Union of Societies for Women's Suffrage. Previous to her election as president of the International Woman Suffrage alliance she had served as the recording secretary of the organization. She has twice been a candidate for parliament and though she was not elected on either occasion she succeeded in gaining a large number of votes.

Our Debt to France. Published by Washington-Lafayette Institution, New York, N. Y. Cloth, illustrated, 103 pages.

This volume has been published as part of the Red program of the Washington-Lafayette Institution which was organized to further good understanding between the people of the American republic and the French republic.

It is in seven parts, most of which are by different authors as follows: Our Revolutionary Debt to France, by Prof. John H. Latane; What Else Could France Have Done?, by Hon. John Lloyd Rogers; How France Aided American Liberty, by Prof. Louis C. Karpinski and Charles Bache; Our Debt to France, by James H. Penniman, Litt. D.; What Lafayette Did for America, by James H. Penniman, Litt. D.; France and America Today, by Congressman A. Piatt Andrew; Our Present-war Loans, by Congressman A. Piatt Andrew.

There is a preface by W. Lanier Washington, hereditary representative of George Washington in the Society of the Cincinnati.

The various sections of this are written by men who have a thorough understanding of their subjects. They deal with interesting and vital questions between the nations and present them most strikingly from the author's viewpoint.

Indian Sign Language. By William Tomkins. Paper, illustrated, 77 pages. Published by William Tomkins, San Diego, Cal. Price $1.

This is said to be the first accurate exposition of the Indian sign language and is the only book of its kind in existence. The volume is important in many ways for it is the first codification of a language that is "talked out," not spoken, for it is silent and has been talked by more people, it is said, than any other universal language ever employed or invented. It was developed and used by the Indians of the great central areas [illegible] Indian languages as different as English and Chinese. The sign language was used and understood by men of all tribes. It is a logical language, for the signs appeal to [illegible] understandable significance even to persons not knowing the language. Mr. Tomkins graphically describes the signs and presents them in such a clear manner as to tempt one to learn the language.

At Last Peter Hears a Butterfly

Often things we've not suspected
Are by accident detected.
—Peter Rabbit.

Peter Rabbit was becoming discouraged. Busy Bee had said that there was at least one butterfly that made a noise and Peter had started out to find that one and couldn't. Never in his whole life had those long ears of his done so much listening. But even when a butterfly would pass so close

He sat down in a shady place and waited to one of those long ears as to almost touch it, there was no sound that Peter could hear. The worst of it was that Busy Bee seemed to be trying to keep out of Peter's way.

But at last Peter found Busy Bee at work among the blossoms on a little patch of clover. "Busy Bee," said Peter severely, "I believe you told me a wrong story."

"How's that?" inquired Busy Bee in a tone of great surprise.

"You told me that there was a butterfly that [illegible] and I [illegible] and I don't believe there is any butterfly that [illegible] a sound more than a whisper."

"Didn't you [illegible]" inquired Busy Bee.

"No, sir," said Peter. "I didn't. Why, more, I don't believe there is any [illegible] squeaks."

"Did you ever see Mourning Cloak flying about in winter?" asked Busy Bee.

Peter nodded. "Yes," said he. "I've seen Mourning Cloak flying about on a warm day in winter. But what has that to do with a butterfly that makes a noise?"

"That's the one," replied Busy Bee, buzzing over to another clover head.

Peter hurried after her. "Say that again," said he.

"I said that the butterfly that goes [illegible] squeaks, and that is Mourning Cloak," replied Busy Bee.

"Thanks," cried Peter over his shoulder. And he was already running, [illegible] toward the Smiling Pool. There were some willows down near the Smiling Pool and Peter remembered that he had often seen Mourning Cloak there. So he scampered as fast as he could, [illegible] and when he reached the willows he began to look for a butterfly dressed in black with a light border to its wings. He wasn't long in finding one. It was Mourning Cloak. But Mourning Cloak was [illegible] Peter to get anywhere near and so he had to possess himself in patience and wait.

He sat down in a shady place and waited. He waited and waited. Presently he began to nod. Waiting is very sleepy business sometimes, you know. Then he began to doze. He was hardly asleep, yet he was dozing off. Now and then his eyes opened, but he didn't really see anything, and in a moment or two his eyes would close. By and by, when he opened them, he saw on a twig very close to him Mourning Cloak also resting. In fact, Mourning Cloak was so near that Peter could have reached out his wobbly little nose and touched this curious butterfly. But he didn't. You see, he was hardly awake yet.

But suddenly he was very wide awake. He had heard a tiny squeak. There was no doubt about it, because as he listened he heard it again. It was a sure-enough squeak, and because he was looking right at that butterfly at the time Peter knew that it had come from Mourning Cloak. Mourning Cloak had actually squeaked.

Peter was so excited he jumped right up in the air and kicked his long heels together. This frightened Mourning Cloak before Peter had time to ask

From Small Beginnings

Jean Paul Richter—the "Mark Twain" of Germany

About 100 years ago there died in Bayreuth in Germany, a famous German humorist, Jean Paul Richter, a man whose work attracted world-wide attention and whose influence on life and thought was remarkably great. Like so many other humorists, he lived a life that was far from happy.

The death of his father and then of the grandparents who had taken him into their care, left him, in those days when insurance was hardly dreamed of, adrift upon the world. He struggled through the schools and intended to make himself a preacher. After a time he found that he must drop all of his studies and work in order to live. He had such bad luck in finding a position where he could teach or in carrying on literary work that would bring him money that at the age of 21 he had to run away from the town where he called home in order to escape being put into prison for debts.

Even in the days of his greatest anxieties he had laughed over jokes, had collected various humorous stories, and had begun the writing of satire. Now, from time to time, he wrote books of satire and managed to support himself by teaching in a little school that he established. After some years he attracted the attention of the leading literary figures of the day. At 38 he married and settled down in Bayreuth, where he lived for 24 years and where he died at the age of 62.

As he grew older he wrote more and more wisely. He wrote in a most amusing style and expressed thoughts [illegible] Paul, he said [illegible] soon came to see that [illegible] was regarded as one of the [illegible] men in Germany. He was a most industrious man and wrote without rest, his books numbering about 60 volumes.

Richters success was therefore due not only to natural ability, but also to an unflagging spirit of industry.

Stories That Recall Others

Efficiency

John and Frank were discussing the lonesomeness of their homes while their wives were away. "How are you making it?" asked Frank.

"Just fine," replied John. "I have reached the point of efficiency already. My wife has only been gone two weeks and I now can put on my socks from either end."

A Horse On Him

O. H. says the following incident illustrates how one can lose even if he wins a court decision.

He says he once visited a city court in South Carolina and heard a case against a colored man, accused of having stolen a horse. In the course of the cross examination of the defendant by the prosecuting attorney, he was asked his financial status in the community.

The colored man replied that he didn't have no finance a'tall."

"Then how can you afford to hire this talented legal advisor? How much are you going to pay him?" the prosecutor asked.

"If he don' win the case he don' git paid," said the defendant.

"And if he does win the case, then what?"

"Why, then he gits the horse."

LARGE PIMPLES ITCHED BADLY

On Face, Shoulders and Arms. Cuticura Heals.

"My trouble began with pimples breaking out on my face, shoulders and arms. They were large, hard and red, and festered, and scaled over, causing disfigurement. The pimples itched badly and when I scratched them eruptions formed. My clothing irritated the breaking out on my shoulders. The trouble lasted for some time.

"I began using Cuticura Soap and Ointment and they afforded relief in a short time. I continued the treatment and after using four cakes of Soap and four boxes of Ointment I was healed." (Signed) Miss Grace M. Ward, Thetford Center, Vt., Aug. 12, 1925.

OBITUARY

Michael C. Higgins

A long, active and honorable business life in this city came to an end Tuesday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock when Michael C. Higgins passed peacefully away at his home, No 228 Broadway. Early in February Mr. Higgins was obliged to undergo a major operation in a New York hospital, from which his improved condition enabled him to return home and gave his family and friends much encouragement, but recently his health failed again and for the last week his condition has been critical.

Born in Terryville, the son of Thomas and Elizabeth Hickey Higgins, he was educated in the schools of Terryville and came to this city in May, 1884, as agent for the Metropolitan Life insurance company. Promotion quickly followed in recognition of his efficient work and he became assistant superintendent in July, 1885. Three years later, in May, 1888, he was made superintendent for the Norwich district, which then embraced New London, Putnam, Willimantic and Westerly covering an area of 1,200 square miles and including 126 towns and villages. An indefatigable worker himself, he was also an inspiring leader for the field force, and he built up a brilliant record for the Norwich district, making it a record producer while he was superintendent. In 1895 the district held first place among all the Metropolitan agencies in ratio of increase in allotment and the company honored Mr. Higgins by making the notable record of his district the subject of a special pamphlet which was circulated among the Metropolitan agencies.

In March, 1910, he resigned his position as superintendent, desiring to take an extended rest after his 26 years of active service with the company. He was one of the original members of the Veterans association, which included those who had served the company for 25 years, and he has been a vice president of the association, continuing his connection with the Metropolitan for 42 years.

A few years after ceasing active work in the insurance field Mr. Higgins established a successful coal business in this city, building a yard on North Main street and disposing of it after several years since which time he has lived a retired life.

Mr. Higgins was a Democrat in his political affiliations and was elected councilman-at-large for a two year term, the first year of which was under Mayor Allyn L. Brown and the second year under Mayor J. J. Desmond. He was chairman of the public works committee during the administration of Mayor Brown and it ought for the best interests of the city. He was a devout member of St. Patrick's church, of the Holy Name society, of the Catholic Benevolent legion, of White Cross council, No. 13, K. of C., and a charter member of Rev. Daniel Mullen assembly, Fourth degree.

Mr. Higgins was married in this city at St. Patrick's church to Elizabeth R. McQuirk by Rev. P. P. Shahan. His wife survives him with their two children, a son, Lieut. Raymond T. J. Higgins, 24th F. A., U. S. A., now stationed at Fort Stotzenburg, Pampanga, Philippine Islands, and a daughter, Miss Loretta P. Higgins of this city. He is also survived by a brother, Thomas P. Higgins of Terryville, two sisters, Miss Sara A. Higgins of Terryville and Mrs. Thomas A. Harty of Torrington, and a niece, Miss Mary Harty of Torrington.

Broad and generous in his sympathies, Mr. Higgins was a loyal and helpful friends in his relations with his associates, his business and civic life was marked by conscientious and efficient service and in the home he was the devoted husband and loving father who gave of his best for the welfare and comfort of those who were closest to him in family ties. In his death the city suffers the loss of a citizen of a type whose passing away is a real loss to the community in which he spent the best years of his life.

WEDDINGS

Landry-Melanson

At 8 o'clock Tuesday morning in St. Mary's Memorial church, Rev. Frederick M. Cohalan united in marriage J. Albert Landry and Miss Nelida Melanson, both of this city. The best man was Philip Landry, brother of the groom and theb rideamaid was Miss Dora Melanson, sister of the bride. Edward T. Connelly sang several solos at the church.

The bride was beautifully gowned in white georgette, trimmed with Chantilly lace and carried a shower bouquet of roses and lilies of the valley. The bridesmaid wore a gown of pink satin-faced crepe and carried flame colored asters, gladioli and roses.

Following the ceremony there was a wedding breakfast at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Camille Melanson of No. 7 Oak street. The bride received many gifts. Her gift to the bridesmaid was a string of pearls and the groom's gift to the best man was a pair of cuff links. During the day the bride and groom left for an automobile trip over the Mohawk Trail and after June 19th they will be at home to their many friends in their newly furnished home on McKinley avenue.

The bride has been employed at the St. Clair Shoppe on Main street, Mr. Landry is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Maximin Landry of New Brunswick, Canada. He is employed as bookkeeper at the Imperial garage.

NEXT CITY TAX 24 MILLS; POLICE AND FIREMEN GET THEIR PAY RAISE

After slicing $3,000 from the public works appropriation as asked for, cutting the police department appropriation $3,600, and the fire department appropriation $4,000, the annual city meeting Tuesday night in the town hall voted salary increases for the members of the police and fire departments. Economy was the watchword of the 650 men and women voters in the hall, as was evident from the fact that eleven of the 13 "extras" on the list were killed with hardly a word of debate, and that one of the "extras" adopted, the Asylum street improvement was cut $20,500. The total of the proposed extra items in the list was $142,850. The meeting sliced this down nearly $100,000, as the amount of the extras adopted is $56,250. The meeting laid a tax of 24 mills on the dollar.

Mayor Milo R. Waters called the meeting to order at 8 o'clock d. s. t. and City Clerk Weston C. Pullen read the warning for the meeting. Mayor Waters said he was very glad to see so many people present. He requested that no motion to indefinitely postpone be made until debate had ended. The appropriations were voted item by item.

Cut Street Department $2,000

The first item taken up was a $75,000 appropriation for ordinary repairs and expenses for the public works department. Alderman Henry Gebrath moved it be adopted. T. C. Murphy took the floor, stating that he wasn't present to knock down street department appropriations but that he felt the department could save 3 1-2 per cent on its appropriations. In other words Mr. Murphy expressed the opinion that the public works department could get along with less money. I don't cast any reflections on the finance committee or the head of the street department, he said. We are called on tonight to appropriate $1,700,000, the largest amount ever appropriated by a city meeting. Mr. Murphy moved an amendment to the original motion authorizing an $1,000 appropriation was then adopted.

The regular department appropriations, as voted, are as follows:

Total Appropriations		$1,725,100.53

Few of the 13 "extras" survived the meeting which quickly voted down one after the other without debate. The first "extra" $1,200 for traffic signs and signals was quickly voted after which the meeting took up the $6,000 appropriation which provides an increase of fifty cents a day for members of the police force. When this item was called Thomas M. Shields made a strong plea for adoption if there is one item among these items that deserves your favorable action, this is the one, he said. Mr Shields went on to say that the city must have at least average men or better than average men for an efficient police force.

Increase for Policemen and Firemen

He said that if the meeting voted down the increase the city would still have its policemen. They would be local. Pointing to the future Mr. Shields said that if the city offered a pay that isn't attractive to young men who could earn as much or more elsewhere the force would suffer. If you want a cheap force have it, he said.

Mr Shields stated that New London is paying more than Norwich for its police force. If New London policemen are sick for one year they get their pay. If a Norwich policeman is sick for one day he doesn't get paid for that day. New London supplies uniforms for its men. Norwich policemen have to buy their own uniforms. Mr. Shields then moved the adoption of the $6,000 appropriation.

Max Hanover spoke briefly in favor of the appropriation. Many citizens do not know what it is to work in the police department, he said. The policeman never receives one cent of pay for extra service. He works 9 hours a day. The policeman serves in rain or shine, sleet or storm, facing grim danger to protect our lives and our homes. He is ready to lay down his life if need be. I pray you to grant this increase as a matter of justice to these men he concluded.

The vote, by acclamation was then taken. As the chair doubted the result he called for another vote, with no better result. The chair stated that there was only one way to vote on the question and that was by passing in front of the desk. James P. Sheridan and Charles S. Holbrook were appointed tellers.

Just before the voting started Miss Nancy Lucas inquired of Mayor Waters as to how much the police were getting a day.

Mayor Waters, in answer to the question, stated that they were getting $5 a day of which 2 per cent is taken out for the pension fund, leaving them $4.90 a day. They are the poorest paid policemen in the state, said Mayor Waters. The vote was then taken with the following result:

Total votes cast	652
Necessary for choice	327
Yes	393
No	259

The appropriation was declared adopted by the mayor. Next before the meeting was a $6,000 appropriation to provide for a salary increase for the firemen. Now that we have passed the increase for the police it is only fair that we grant the increase for the firemen, said John A. Holland. The appropriation was promptly adopted, there being but a few scattering "noes".

The meeting then quickly voted down an appropriation of $19,000 to provide for concrete between the trolley rails and two feet outside on West Thames street from High street to the city line.

Boswell Avenue Macadam Passes

A $35,000 appropriation for macadam on Boswell avenue from Franklin street to Hickory street was next called by the mayor.

James P. Sheridan said that he had not attended the meeting for the purpose of speaking for this appropriation but as there seemed to be no one else to speak for it he thought it ought not to be passed up. He went on to speak of the poor condition of Boswell avenue. It would make an ideal street to divert traffic from North Main street, he pointed out. You will have to put Boswell avenue in proper condition, he said. Mr. Sheridan said, in the course of his remarks, that there were some false economists in the hall. This is an appropriation we ought to vote tonight, he said. The motion authorizing the appropriation was then adopted.

Eight Extras Voted Down

The following eight "extras" were quickly voted down without debate. They were $4,700 for McKinley avenue macadam, Broad street to Rockwell street; $11,000 for Crescent street, macadam, Broad street to Broadway; $1,500, High street, macadam, West Main street to Spring street; $5,000, North Thames street concrete; $2,500, concrete on Market street, from Main street to Water street; $500, Linden Parkway drain; $1,500, St. Regis avenue drain; $2,100, Russell road drain.

Sewers Authorized

A $550 item for the North Cliff street sewer was authorized, after Mayor Waters stated to the meeting that it was badly needed and that the item had been included in the list on the recommendation of the health officer.

The next item $1,300 for the Division street sewer, Oakridge street, extra, was also voted. Mayor Waters explaining this was also badly needed.

Judge John H. Barnes, in moving the adoption of item 16 on the list, $3,000 to provide for the covering of the brook at No. 22 and No. 30 Hickory street, said this was a matter to be attended to or suits against the city would follow. Sewerage water, he pointed out, collects in that brook, and that in warm weather the stench is unbearable. The appropriation will do away with this nuisance, he said. The motion was carried.

Item 17, a $5,000 appropriation for Slater avenue, macadam, Broadway to Cedar street, was voted down without debate.

Asylum Street Macadam Cut

John A. Holland spoke in favor of item 18, but moved that the appropriation of $24,000 as it appeared in the list to be cut to $3,500. The original appropriation as listed was to provide for macadam on Asylum street from Newton street to Sherman street. Mr. Holland said he felt that the meeting would not vote as large an amount as $24,000. He said that the street between Canada bridges and Story street is in bad condition. He made a motion that the item, read, Asylum street, Sherman street to Story street, tarbound macadam, $3,500. The motion was adopted.

The final item taken up was an appropriation of $13,000 for macadam on Hamilton avenue, Main street to Corning road. G. Warren Davis spoke in favor of improving the street, after someone in the audience had moved that the appropriation be adopted. Mr. Davis offered an amendment that the amount be cut to $10,000.

The amendment was lost as was the original motion, there being only one "yes" heard in favor of it.

The "extras" as authorized are as follows:

Traffic signals and signs	$1,200
Police salary increase	6,000
Firemen's salary increase	6,000
Boswell avenue improvement	35,000
North Cliff street sewer	550
Division street sewer	1,300
Cover Hickory street brook	3,000
Asylum street improvement	3,500
Total	$56,250

Resolutions Adopted

Resolutions introduced by Corporation Counsel William H. Shields were adopted by ballot as follows:

Authorizing the court of common council to make the appropriations voted by the meeting.

Authorizing the city to borrow for the gas and electric department, sums of money, as needed, not to exceed $150,000 for expansion and extension of the plant etc.

Authorizing the borrowing by the city of money voted at the meeting, in anticipation of the tax collections.

Fixing the city tax rate at 24 mills.

Fixing the compensation of the tax collector at one per cent of the tax collected.

A resolution abating uncollectable taxes as submitted by the tax collector, was also adopted.

The meeting adjourned about 9.45 o'clock d. s. t.

The quarter of Trinity Methodist church sang together Sunday for the last time, the members being Mrs. Walter M. Buckingham, Miss Hazel Banfield, D. R. Povey and William H. Rush. Hereafter the vested girls' choir will sing, directed by Mrs. Buckingham.

FUNERAL

Mrs. John Davies

At 2:30 o'clock, Tuesday afternoon, there was a prayer service for Emily Truman White, widow of Rev. John Davies, at her home, 200 Washington street, conducted by Rev. David A. Pitt, D. D. Public services were held at 3 o'clock in the Central Baptist church, of which church organization Mrs. Davies' husband was pastor for eight years.

Assembled for this service were many of the elder members of the church society, with professional friends and associates of Mrs. Davies' son, Attorney Andrew E. Davies, neighbors and acquaintances.

Before the services, the organist, Miss H. Louise Fuller played Handel's Largo, with the Chopin funeral march as the processional. The church quartet, Mrs. William Crowe, Jr., Mrs. Olive Adams Potter, Frank Steinke, and Frederick J. Maples, sang "It Is Not Death to Die," following which Rev. Dr. Pitt read from the Scriptures and offered prayer. "Hark, Hark, My Soul," was sung by the quartet and then Rev. Dr. Pitt read the poem, "Recompense," as he eulogized Mrs. Davies, recalling her long term of active interest in the church and all its departments, her devotion to its welfare in heart and spirit. Dr. Pitt paid tribute to the long and useful life of Mrs. Davies, a woman of talent, of culture, of refinement, of rare consecration to Jesus Christ and to His church. Her unusual mental acuity was touched upon—that love for good literature, for broad education which made of her one of the pioneers in the advancement of woman, as she early had entered the first woman's college in London, England. The pastor held it a noteworthy fact that, with her mental grasp, her educational advantages and background of culture, nevertheless she was quick to recognize the merits of present day progress, to keenly appreciate the work the church is doing for young mothers, for its young people, its varied activities along modern lines. Not narrowly living in the past, hers was the mental grasp and vision to realize the merits of present-day work, to thank God for present fruitage. Before pronouncing the benediction, Dr. Pitt read from the Scriptures Paul's definition of love, as applying to Mrs. Davies' steadfastness in her trust and belief.

For the recessional, Miss Fuller played favorite hymns of Mrs. Davies, Peace, Perfect Peace and others, ending with Lead, Kindly Light.

Burial was private in Maplewood cemetery, the honorary bearers being the deacons of the church, James M. Young, Joseph P. Holloway, C. Edward Smith and Shepard B. Palmer. Rev. Dr. Pitt conducted the committal services. There were beautiful flowers, including forms from members of the church during the pastorate of Rev. Mr. Davies, also from legal friends of Attorney Davies. Those attending the funeral included Mrs. Davies' daughter, Miss Emily M. Davies, from Cambridge, Mass., and her son Howard Davies, of Portland, Me.

The Henry Allen & Sons company had charge of the funeral arrangements.

WITHDRAWAL IN SUIT AGAINST COLCHESTER ESTATE

The suit of John D. Watrous of Colchester against Harlan G. Hills of East Hampton, as executor of the estate of Edwin R. Hills of Colchester, has been withdrawn from the superior court without costs.

Watrous sued the Hills estate on a claim of $927.94, of which $700 was for services alleged to have been rendered between March 26, 1923 and the date of Mr. Hills death, Sept. 27, 1924 in dressing and bandaging an affliction of the hand of Mr. Hills. The balance was for material furnished and work done around the Hills property in Colchester.

OPENING OF TWILIGHT LEAGUE IS POSTPONED UNTIL TONIGHT

A heavy rain prevented the official opening of this year's twilight league Tuesday evening at the Duwell field. Everything was all set for the East Enders, who finished second in last year's league and the Saint Joseph's to cross bats in the opening contest when the rain interfered.

The opening battle has been put over for tonight when these same two teams will meet, weather permitting. Tonight's game will be called at 6:30 p. m. (D. S. T.)

The Duwell A. A., sponsors of this year's league, were notified today by the Thermos, that they had decided to withdraw their team from the league. This last-minute news of the Thermos team's withdrawal, leaves the league with only five teams to play out the schedule. It is unfortunate that the Thermos did not make known their intention to withdraw sooner, so that a substitute team could be found. The Duwell A. A. is making every effort to find a team to enter the league, and would like to hear from the Taftville A. A., Warriors, Sachems, or any other team of like calibre, which would be interested in entering a team in the league.

ELM CITY COLORED STARS AT TAFTVILLE SATURDAY

The biggest attraction in Taftville in years will be seen at the Providence street grounds Saturday when the Elm City Colored Giants, champs of New England, will be seen in action against the fast Taftville A. A. This is their first appearance in five years in these parts. They are a fast bunch of ball tossers, having defeated the New Haven Eastern league team earlier in the season. They also hold a 3 to 1 victory over the fast Taftville team, defeating them on the Eastern league diamond in New Haven and if the Taftville boys beat the Giants they will deserve a lot of credit.

Cannon Ball Smith will pitch for the Giants. He is considered the best colored pitcher in the country, Charlie Ching, the Jap, will be on second. He was a star of Yale eight years ago and he is a wonder. The rest of the team includes the best colored players to be found in the state and it will take a fast bunch to beath them and the Taftville boys will have to step to do it. The pitcher, who will oppose the colored boys will be decided upon just before Umpire John Murphy says "play ball". Eccleston will catch, Cardie 1b, Leo Jarvis or Tombari 2b, Ray Terrington 3b, Gauthier ss or p, Candette if, Lloyd Jarvis cf or p, Lefty Dugas p or cf, Lefty Long rf. The colored stars lineup as follows: Twyman 3b, Ching 2b, Coleman rf, Simands 1b, Kearns ss, Brady if, Jordan or Stevens cf, J. Twyman c, Cannon Ball Smith p.

One third of the receipts of this game will be given to the Taftville Chapter of the American Red Cross. The fans, by helping the boys in bringing the fastest teams to Taftville, will also be helping this cause. Murphy and Arthur Roy will take care of the umpiring.

KANSAS MUST MEET TERRIS BEFORE JULY 30

NEW YORK, June 15.—(AP)—Rockey Kansas, of Buffalo, world's lightweight champion, today was given until July 30 to defend his title against Sid Terris, New York lightweight, by the state athletic commission. Kansas' six months limit to defend his title expired June 7.

Joe Glick was given permission to fulfill a contract to fight Honeyboy Finnegan in Boston tomorrow, as a result of word from the Massachusetts commission that contracts for the match were signed prior to Glick's suspension in this state.

American Net Stars Win

LONDON, June 15.—(AP)—Play in the London lawn tennis championships at Queens club today was confined to eliminating the weaker competitors.

The members of the American Wightman cup team, Mrs. Jessup, Miss Goss and the California sisters, Mrs. Harper and Miss McCune defeated their opponents easily.

Tilden and Alonzo Win

PHILADELPHIA, June 15.— (AP) — William T. Tilden, national tennis champion, and Manuel Alonso, Spanish Davis cup star, each won two matches today in the middle states lawn tennis championships at the Philadelphia Cricket club, advancing to the fourth round.

CLEAVERS WIN SECOND GAME IN DANIELSON TWI-LEAGUE

(Special to the Bulletin)

DANIELSON, June 15.—The Cleavers playing their second game in the local Twilight league, knocked Buffington out of the box in the second inning of tonight's game to win by a 7 to 5 score from the Kilowatts. Regnier hit a pretty triple which drove in two runs, but was caught at the plate when he tried to make four bases. In spite of very cold baseball weather Vadas retired nine men by the strikeout route. Tonight the Buddies meet Connecticut Mills at the Connecticut Mills grounds, the game to be called at 7 o'clock. RICKARD POSTPONES HIS MEETING WITH COMMISSION

NEW YORK, June 15.—(AP)—The expected show-down in the tangled heavyweight boxing situation failed to materialize today when Tex Rickard postponed a schedule conference with the state athletic commission but the fistic fathers, meanwhile, strengthened their opposition to the promoter's plan to shelve Harry Wills in favor of Gene Tunney for a title match with Jack Dempsey in September.

The show-down now is fixed for next Tuesday, June 22, a date which coincides with expiration of the time-limit given Dempsey to sign for a Wills match. Rickard announced he would be on hand at that time and since he holds Dempsey's contract is expected to make known his plans definitely.

Rickard has made no secret of the fact that he has planned all along to match Dempsey with Tunney but the firm championing of Wills' challenge by the commission, led by Chairman James A. Farley, may cause a last minute switch in the promoter's manuevers. The impression gained around today that Rickard would offer to stage a Dempsey-Wills bout in New York if his conditions for such a contest are accepted. Otherwise he may elect to put Dempsey and Tunney into the ring of his Jersey City arena, Doyle's thirty acres.

BERLENBACH-DELANEY BOUT AT EBBETS FIELD JULY 15

NEW YORK, June 15.—(AP)—Paul Berlenbach, who is fast breaking all modern records for championship fighting activity, will battle his foremost rival, Jack Delaney, of Bridgeport, Conn., in defense of the world's light heavyweight title on July 15 at Ebbets field.

The date and place for the match were fixed today by Promoter Humbert Fugazy after a conference with the state athletic commission. Originally the bout was slated for June 22 but this date was erased because of its proximity to Berlenbach's title bout with Young Stribling last Friday.

Fugazy considered obtaining the Polo grounds for the fight because of its greater seating capacity but decided in favor of Ebbets field, home of the Brooklyn National league baseball club, where arrangements will be made to handle a crowd of 60,000. A price scale of $3 to $27.50, will prevail for tickets with the commission's approval.

Delaney and Berlenbach have fought twice before. The former knocked out Berlenbach in the fourth round in 1924 in their first bout. He came close to repeating the trick last December at Madison Square Garden but Berlenbach rallied and pulled victory out of the fire to save the title.

The Ashland Black Cats, hereby challenge any team in this part of the state averaging 14 years of age or under, for a game at Ashland park, Sunday, June 20. If challenge is accepted, kindly answer through The Bulletin.

PROUT EXPLAINS TO HOFF WHY LATER WAS BARRED BY THE AMATEUR A. U.

BOSTON, June 15.—(AP) — A third appeal by Charles Hoff, world's champion pole vaulter, for information as to why he was barred by the Amateur Athletic Union from further competition in the United States, was answered today. William C. Prout, of Boston, chairman of the foreign relations committee of the A. A. U., telegraphed Hoff that he was sending him a letter by air mail today. Prout refused to divulge the contents of the letter.

Hoff indicated several weeks ago that he might resort to court action as a result of the suspension that followed his refusal to compete at the A. A. U. meet in San Francisco. He said then that he would send a series of three telegrams for particulars as to the charges against him. The third came today and in it he explained that he felt that he should not go back to Norway under a cloud.

"Won't you please wire me what I am disbarred for and give me an opportunity to defend myself," his message today asked. "I have been waiting here 38 days, since May 6, trying to learn what the charges are against me. This has been very expensive and trying and I feel I should not go back to Norway until it is proved if I am guilty or not guilty."

"I have notified Hoff by wire," Prout said, "that I will write a letter to him which will be sent later today by air mail. I will not reveal the contents of this letter. Hoff may do so if he desires. It is the aim of the foreign relations committee to be fair to Hoff, but when an athlete from another country competes in the United States he is under the jurisdiction of the A. A. U. and must abide by its rules."

Prout said that in the course of a long talk with Hoff in Boston last February he had warned the Norwegian to be careful in his dealings with athletic promoters.

"The A. A. U., I explained, could not tell him where to compete, but it did possess the right to tell him where he could not compete. When the present tangle arose we acted well within our authority."

When he was asked if the method of procedure followed by the foreign relations committee was the only one which could have been followed, Chairman Prout replied: "The only other course open was to prefer charges of professionalism. We decided in view of the fact that he was a visitor to allow him to depart in peace, but he has not done so. If charges had been preferred Hoff would have been forced to prove himself innocent."

WALBERG PITCHES ATHLETICS TO SHUTOUT OVER INDIANS

CLEVELAND, June 15.—(AP)— Walberg's effective pitching and his sensational support enabled Philadelphia to defeat Cleveland, 5 to 0, today and sent the Indians from second to fourth place.

Walberg allowed Cleveland but five hits.

Four double plays, three of which were started by Engle, the rookie shortstop, blasted what few chances Cleveland had of scoring.

Because of an accident to Cleveland's regular catcher, Outfielder Lee caught the final inning after having batted for Myatt in the eighth. He had not caught for six years. Score:

TIGERS RALLY IN NINTH TO NOSE OUT RED SOX

DETROIT, June 15.—(AP)—Detroit used 19 players, including five pitchers and four pinch hitters to win the final game of the series, 7 to 6. With two down in the ninth Heilmann tripled and Warner walked. Tavener's triple to deep center scored both men and Tavener himself came in with the winning run when Forthergill dropped a single back of first.

Gibson started the eighth for the Tigers but Cooper, a left hander was sent in to pitch against Carlyle, a right hand batter, pinch-hitting for Gaston. Manager Lee Fohl encountered this strategy by replacing Carlyle, already at the plate, with Bratche, a left handed hitter, thus giving Carlyle a place in the lineup. The score:

GIANTS MAKE IT THREE STRAIGHT FROM REDS

NEW YORK, June 15.—(AP) — The Giants made it three straight from Cincinnati today by taking a tight pitching duel by 3 to 2. The Reds totalled but three hits off Ring but employed them to score two runs. New York tied the score in the seventh when Snyder tripled and Mueller, the newly acquired outfielder, hit a single while pinch hitting for Ring. Young's single, Lindstrom's double and Kelly's sacrifice fly gave the Giants the winning run in the eighth.

UMBRELLA IS THE BEST CLUB IN THE BAG SAY GOLFERS IN SENIOR TOURNEY

J. H. Kirkham of New Britain won the senior one-day golf tournament at the Norwich Golf club on Tuesday with a net score of 72. Mr. Kirkham's gross score was 89 and his handicap was 17. P. M. Kerridge of New London was second with a gross of 89 and a net of 73. A field of 25 played the 18 holes under the most trying of wet-weather conditions and all were unanimous in voting the umbrella the most popular club in the bag. An intermittent drizzle practically all day made the course soggy and slow, ending in a regular deluge in the late afternoon, catching several foursomes still on the course and drenching them. The rain was so hard that it drove even some of the most ardent golfers to cover and they picked up and splashed their way back to the club without finishing.

The field was in four classes, B, C, D and E, there being only one A division player entered in the tournament; he played in class B. Prizes were knit golf jackets and were awarded to the winners in each class who were: Class B, N. R. Bronson of Waterbury; class C, J. H. Kirkham of New Britain; class D, P. M. Kerridge of New London; class E, F. S Wilcox of Norwich.

The scores follow:

COLCHESTER

The Colchester baseball team had as opponents on the park grounds Saturday afternoon the Lebanon Athletic club team and defeated them, 8 to 0. It was a fine game and was a pitchers' battle except the fourth and sixth innings when the locals found the Lebanon pitcher and pounded the ball for eight runs. Following was the lineup: Colchester, Slakin 2b, Cosella ss, McDonald lf, Hall p, Lazinsk rf, Riley 1b, Fedus cf, Mintz 3b, Porter c; Lebanon—Andrews ss, Post c, Williams p, Sweet 1b, H. Hoxie 2b, Cummings 3b, M. Hoxie lf, Norse rf, McCall cf, Standish p, M. J. Keingan, umpire.

The score by innings was:
Colchester ..... 0 0 0 5 0 3 0 0 x—8

The Colchester team played one of the best games in a long time. H. Lazinsk smashed out a fine three-base hit and Bobbie Fedus a two-base hit with two men on bases. One of the features of the game was that catching of a long fly by McDonald; the hit went into the lines on the outer edge of the park in left field and seemed an almost impossible catch and drew large applause from the attendance. Hall pitched a steady game and had the best of support.

4 Tests of performance
—you should make before buying any car

We'll place an Overland Six at your disposal. Drive and test it yourself. You choose the road. You pick the hill. You fix the traffic point. You name the ruts, the turns, the mud, the sand . . .

What you'll find will be a revelation. Without side-sway or slipping or wandering . . . the car fairly hugs the road. You enjoy a surprising feeling of stable equilibrium—its performance will thrill you to the finger tips.

THIS car has tremendous power-performance ability never obtainable in any car of this size or price before. Full 40-brake horsepower is delivered in a straight line from its low-swung engine through to the rear-axle shaft. The result is a speed capacity that is positively amazing.

The Overland Six will turn in a forty foot circle. Rear springs are underslung and 52 inches long. 141 square inches of braking surface provide an ample safety margin.

It has more inside space. More cubic feet than the average car of this price.

The result is ample comfort for 5 full-size passengers . . . with plenty of room to step in or out . . . room to stretch your legs with the utmost ease.

The seats are wider, the windows larger, the doors much broader. All features you'll certainly appreciate when you inspect rival cars of this price.

In fairness to yourself, come in and see this remarkable automobile. Buy no car until you do.

AGRICULTURAL INTERESTS

A COSTLY BUTTERFLY

Pretty little yellowish white butterflies flying over the cabbage field or lighting on the cauliflower are a sign that trouble is brewing for the man who is raising cabbage and cauliflower. These butterflies are the parents of the imported cabbage worm. Each time the insect alights, one or more eggs are deposited on the foliage. It does not take long for these eggs to hatch and when they do the green worms are very greedy and grow quickly at the expense of the foliage of the cabbage or cauliflower.

A spray or dust applied when the butterflies are first seen and repeated each week for three or four weeks, using lead arsenate and calcium caseinate in the spray, will have a tendency to keep this pest under control. One pound of lead arsenate in nine pounds of lime makes an excellent dust or one and one-half pounds of dry arsenate and 50 gallons of water in which one-half to one pound of calcium caseinate spreader is mixed would make an excellent spray. In dusting, do the work early in the morning. In spraying, apply with a fine spray preferably in the late morning or in the afternoon.—A. E. Wilkinson, Vegetable Specialist.

LATE STARTED VEGETABLES

Vegetables have one great advantage over flowers for the home garden. There need not be so great a rush to get them going as most of the flowering annuals require a longer growing season than vegetables to produce adequate results. With few exceptions, the common garden vegetables can be planted as late as July 4 and harvest a very satisfactory crop. The exceptions are the very early crops, such as spinach and lettuce and the early radishes which spin up to seed in hot weather without tarrying to produce the desired crops. Peas also are merely a gambling chance, for the late garden, the gambling being on a cool summer as peas do not stand hot weather.

But string beans, lima beans, carrots, beets, sweet corn, tomatoes, peppers, eggplants, turnips, kohl-rabis, cabbage and cauliflower all may be planted with an assurance of an abundant fall garden. The care of the late-started garden will require a little extra effort to see that the soil does not dry out when the young plants are getting started, a precaution much less necessary in the wetter, cooler spring months. The main work is keeping the soil stirred frequently, never allowing it to cake or crust, thus preserving the moisture by retarding evaporation.

It is well to do a little extra fertilizing in midsummer by digging in a quick fertilizer like pulverized sheep manure, a garden standby in these days of the automobile when stable manure is becoming a more and more expensive rarity. The sheep manure is easy and convenient to handle and gives quick results as well as adding to the texture of the soil.

Free use of the hose is also essential, not by way of sprinkling, but by the soaking process, removing the nozzle and letting the water run slowly and seep into the soil. This is best done in the early evening, stirring the soil the next day to preserve the moisture. A good soaking once a week will be well repaid by the vigorous growth of the garden.

CUCUMBERS FOR PICKLES

Pickling cucumbers are one of the crops best planted late, bringing the finger-long baby cucumbers into fullest bearing when the weather begins to cool off in the early fall and work over the stove in preparing the condiments for the winter is not so arduous as earlier in the season.

Earlier planted cucumbers will furnish the bar fellows for slicing and the little cucumber crop will have more but to a great extent as the vines [illegible] give their strength to maturing the fruit set earlier in the season. Cucumbers planted at this season make very rapid growth if provided with a moisture supply.

Drop a spadeful of pulverized sheep manure under the hill where they are sown, sinking a tile, open end up and planting the seeds about the tile the same as in the earlier plantings. The worrying question will need closer attention in midsummer to get the smaller vines into full growth and they should be generally subirrigated through the tile in dry spells.

Sprinkle the vines with [illegible] and [illegible] to keep the striped cucumber beetles and other insects from eating holes in the cucumbers and spread lead, as soon as the cucumbers send their leaves through the ground. A [illegible] plant from the start of its career. They are not so voracious in later summer months as they are earlier in the year because they have a wider field for foraging and there will be plenty of the pests. As the vines start running cover the first few hills with earth so that rooters put on the stem part will form to help support the vine. The cucumber has visitations from pests of all classes from plant lice to fungus but they are not difficult to control if the battle is started as soon as the cucumbers show above ground.

You can set cucumbers as a [illegible] vines on a sunny back fence by means of string or chicken wire very readily if garden space is limited.

NEW LONDON WOMAN STRANGLES BABE, LATER TRIES TO DROWN HERSELF

(Special to the Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, June 15—Mrs. Mary Brown, 26, wife of George Brown, 39 Jefferson avenue, murdered her infant daughter, Mary, 4 weeks, this morning and then attempted suicide by jumping into Long Island sound. The woman is now under arrest, but is receiving treatment at Lawrence-Memorial hospital and under police guard. Acting Prosecuting Attorney Perry J. Hollanderaky this afternoon issued a warrant for the woman's arrest and charging her with murder, but it is doubtful if she will ever be tried for the act. The woman is undoubtedly insane, so marked being the symptoms of insanity that Mr. Examiner [illegible] Kirchman stated that he intended to commit the woman to the [illegible] asylum.

Mrs. Brown awoke as usual this morning and about 9 o'clock took the baby from its crib and carried it to another sleeping room where the child was placed upon the bed. The mother then obtained a piece of tape and tied it about the child's neck, but in tying the tape about the child's neck, Mrs. Brown then secured a piece of cord and placing it securely about the babe's neck accomplished the child's strangulation. To make sure that the child was dead Mrs. Brown then lay on the bed, with her body completely covering that of the child so as to produce suffocation in case that strangulation did not result.

About 9:30 o'clock Mrs. Elizabeth [illegible], [illegible] of 38 West Cliff street, an [illegible] Mrs. Brown went to [illegible] and finding the [illegible] Mrs. Brown [illegible] Mrs. Donaghue found [illegible] her baby [illegible] asleep. MESSAGES THAT THE S-51 ROLLED ON OCEAN BED TUESDAY

(Special to the Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, June 15—The navy received its first ray of hope today from its work in attempting to raise the S-51, when the vessel rolled on the floor of the ocean, when the tests were made on some of the pontoons. These are laying beside it, which will eventually play a big part in bringing the vessel to the surface.

According to a message received at the submarine base, from the Vestal, the signal ship at the site of operations the engine room and fuel room had been completely blown free of water, several of the inboard tanks on the port side had air forced in them and two of the pontoons were filled with air, to such an extent that the submarine, moved a bit on the floor of the ocean and took a decided list to port. According to the divers who have been working on the vessel it had heretofore been listing to starboard.

Officials are hopeful that some results will be obtained this week.

Joseph Skalowski will discover that his experience with booze and an automobile yesterday was mighty expensive. He was arrested for operating his Ford while he was under the influence of liquor when arrested at Bank and Pearl streets. He gave a bond of $150 to appear in court today to answer for that offense, but he failed to show up, so his bond was called and was ordered forfeited by Judge Prince. The action of the court automatically takes away the privilege of operating an auto, and Skalowski will be deprived of that pleasure and [illegible] ps of a months, during which time [illegible] car, for it is understood the [illegible] not use the auto for the sole purpose of pleasure driving. He has before been arrested and then he was charged with carrying alcohol, the police represent.

James Sullivan, of Norwich, in court today was charged with intoxication. He pleaded guilty but said he offended without intent. He declared that he [illegible] a motorcycle here with the intention of going to Fishers Island to work, but he met a "friend" and being invited to take a nip he drank hooch. That put him into a drunken condition and in such he was found. He said he could produce as good a recommendation as any man could show and asked to be given a chance to get away and labor. Judge Prince conceded to him the leniency he sought and suspended judgment, with the understanding that the accused would get out of town. He said he wanted to go to Niantic and he was told to get there without delay.

Nathan Zweibel, charged with park[illegible] on Main street contrary to the provision of ordinance, said he left his car near his place of business as he did not intend to allow it to remain there except for a very brief time. He got busy and did not go after the car for more than an hour. He was given a stern caution and then judgment was suspended.

The funeral of Mrs. Hannah Sheridan, widow of William J. Sheridan, formerly of New London, whose death occurred in New York Saturday, was held this morning at 9 o'clock at St. Mary's Star of the Sea church. The mass of requiem was celebrated by Rev. Raymond O'Callahan. The bearers were members of the New London police department and were Patrick Murphy, Patrick Sheehan, David Nagle and John Clifford. Burial was in St Mary's cemetery.

The funeral of Wesley K. Gifford was held this afternoon at 2 o'clock at 48 Shapley street, the services being conducted by Rev. Joseph A. Elden, pastor of Huntington street Baptist church. The body was forwarded to Norwich for burial.

The funeral of Mrs. Elizabeth Winn, formerly of New London, whose death occured at St. Mary's home, Hartford yesterday, was held this afternoon at 2 o'clock from 62 Washington street. Burial was in St. Mary's cemetery.

Mrs. Oscar Lee and infant daughter of Mystic; Mrs. James Stetson and infant son, 169 Blydenburg avenue and Mrs. James Suggs and infant daughter, 67 Hempsted street, patients at Home Memorial hospital, were discharged today.

Miss Roberta Kennedy, of 931 Bank street; and Mrs. Joseph Kennedy, 25 Sharaf street, patients at Lawrence-Memorial Associated hospital, were discharged today.

Minnie Kersen, colored, made complaint to the police last night that during her absence from home earlier in the night, Edward Murphy, white, entered the house and stole a guitar owned by Elisha Stanchfield, colored, and a lodger at the place. This evening, Patrolman Lawrence Feeley arrested Murphy, who had the guitar in his possession. At the police station Murphy admitted taking the guitar, but stated that he took it as security, for, he declared, Stanchfield owed him $5. Stanchfield paid the $5 and the guitar was returned to him. Stanchfield did not desire to appear against Murphy on a theft charge, so the latter was allowed his freedom.

Pearl street, between Green and Bank street, was made another of the streets where restrictions are in force in an effort to relieve the congested traffic conditions on Bank street. This street is now restricted to parking on either side. Heretofore parking has been allowed on the southerly side. City Manager William A. Holt notified Captain of Police Charles Pinney of his edict this morning.

A hearing for the admission of the will of James C. Smith, late of Waterford, took place in the probate court this afternoon. At the conclusion of testimony, Judge Arthur B. Calkins reserved decision. Mr. Smith died a month ago and left an estate of approximately $12,000. The instrument provides that Harold and Martha Smith, children of the testator shall have a life use of estate and upon the death of either the title passes to the [illegible]. The will was executed June 26, 1925, and names the Union Bank and Trust company as executors.

Nelson, of Meridian street, and Miss Delia Foley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Foley, 242 Huntington street, were married last evening at the rectory of St. Mary's Star of the Sea church. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Dr. Timothy M. Crowley. Daniel Spellman was groomsman and Miss Helen Murphy, cousin of the bride, was bridesmaid.

Two Chinese merchants and a 15 year old girl, residing at Station 6, Waterford, were arrested this afternoon by Patrolman John Sullivan and Corporal Weeks, it being the belief of the officers that the girl was in danger of falling into ways of vice. The officers had observed one of the Chinese leave the other Chinese and girl at the corner of State and Bank streets and go to the public service stand and hire an automobile, the car later picking up the other two passengers. At the police station it was disclosed that the girl was an acquaintance of the Chinese, as was her father, and that they had visited the Waterford home. All three were then discharged.

At a meeting of the town board of school visitors, Groton, held this morning in the town hall, Poquonoc, it was recommended that an additional teacher be engaged and employed in the 3rd district school. Miss Groton was favored. At present there are 49 pupils eligible to attend the school and records show an average attendance of 45. These pupils are all quartered in a single room and instructed by the only teacher, Mrs Verne Dewey. The board voted in favor of the proposed school enlargement and the hiring of another teacher. Nathan Avery, clerk of the board, was instructed to [illegible] communication of the board's vote to [illegible] S. Dalzell, chairman of the third district committee.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Broadway Theater

A new Keith-Albee vaudeville bill consisting of five acts open at the Broadway theater tomorrow, which is promised to be entertainment plus!

A melodrama of society life and the underworld comes to the Broadway theater as the feature attraction tomorrow under the title, The Highbinders, the name referring to a gang of crooks who called themselves the Highbinders.

William T. Tilden, tennis champion, makes this his first bow as a screen star, as the leading character, with Marjorie Daw playing opposite. Others in the cast are George Marion, George Hackathorne, Walter Long, Ben Alexander, and others equally well-known. The picture is an Associated Exhibitor release, directed by George Terwilliger.

Calder Johnstone adapted the original story, written by Tilden, to the screen.

Breed Theater

All those who are lucky enough to see Leatrice Joy's new Alan Hale star picture "The Wedding Song," which will be the feature at the Breed theater today and Thursday, will see genuine ropes of pearls, all of which were especially created for the occasion at heavy expense and which are an important factor in the development of the [illegible] drama.

The pearls belong to a young heiress who falls in the hands of a band of crooks who aim to rob him. Imitation pearls were not desired, so Alan Hale, the director, caused to be sent to the studio ropes of genuine pearls. While [illegible] the [illegible] of the scenes in which they are employed, [illegible] were insured at their full value.

Playing opposite Miss Joy in this delightful melodrama, is Robert Ames. The supporting cast includes such well [illegible] players as Charles Clary, [illegible] Barbara Joyce, Charles Gerard, Gertrude Claire, Ethel Wales and Gladden James.

A New Deodorant
Especially Recommended to FAT PEOPLE
Send for a Free Sample Today!

FOR YEARS WE have been in touch with fat people and have been able to make a study of their troubles—Swollen feet, excessive perspiration, chafing, sores, are only a few of the annoyances they are subjected to during the hot weather—A reliable effective deodorant especially adapted to relieve FAT people was greatly needed. BON ODOR (a soothing, refreshing powder) has been sold during the past year to our own customers with remarkable success—We have now decided to put it on the market and we will be glad to send every reader of this paper a free sample of BON ODOR, together with an interesting booklet.

We consider BON ODOR the ideal deodorant for everyone but more so for FAT People because while it relieves excessive perspiration it does not entirely suppress the necessary amount needed to promote healthful conditions—Health authorities agree that to keep well a certain amount of perspiration is needed—BON ODOR answers this purpose and will not clog the pores as many pastes and deodorants do. It quickly does away with unpleasant odors and greatly relieves sores, chafing, redness. When shaken on swollen, aching feet there is a great beneficial effect—if a foot bath is taken twice a week with two spoonfuls of BON ODOR mixed in warm water, walking should become a pleasure—BON ODOR is advised for men as well as women.

BON ODOR is guaranteed not to contain any ingredient injurious to the most delicate skin—Sells for 50c a large sized can (comes in one size only) at all good drug stores—If your druggist is out of it order directly from THE SCIENTIFIC CO., 1841 Broadway, New York City.

OILS AND COPPER ACTIVE

NEW YORK, June 15—(AP)—Switching of speculative interest from the steel and railroad shares to the oils and coppers featured today's stock market. Heavy profit-taking, inspired by the belief that the market was entitled to at least a technical reaction after the sustained advance of the last few weeks, and sporadic bear selling, based on the theory that the rally having regained half the ground lost in the March reaction, was nearby over, brought about some irregularity, both the rail and industrial averages closing lower on the day. Trading showed a slight falling off in volume despite signs of increasing public participation, the day's sales aggregating 1,551,100 shares as compared with 1,954,800 yesterday.

Heavy buying of the oil shares was generally attributed to the strong trade position of the industry reflected in reports of large current earnings by practically all of the leading companies, and to favorable merger and dividend rumors.

Coppers took on a new lease of life as a result of the stiffening tendency of non-ferrous metal prices an increase of 15 points in lead being announced during the day.

General Motors continued its remarkable advance by coming another new high record for all time at 142 5-8, yielding later to 141 7-8, up 3-4 net on the day.

U. S. Steel common encountered heavy realizing sales closing a point lower at 135 3-4 after having touched 137 earlier in the day.

Easier money rates stimulated pool activities in several specialties.

Substantive activity in the rail group was confined to a relatively few issues.

Commodity markets were mixed. Active wheat futures closed slightly lower on unfavorable crop reports from Kansas. Cotton showed net declines of 3 to 10 points. Raw sugar was unchanged but futures were slightly firmer. Coffee advanced 16 to 23 points on buying for European account.

Call money renewed at 4 per cent. and then dropped to 3 3-4, closing at the bottom. Time money and commercial paper rates were unchanged.

Foreign exchanges displayed a firm undertone, despite the resignation of the French cabinet. Demand sterling ruled around $4.86 1-4 and French francs rallied several points to above 3 cents. A jump of 32 points to 13.95 cents in Spanish pesos was one of the features of the days trading.

Discover Why
"SALADA" TEA
Is So Supremely Popular

What's back of this shift in cigarette popularity?

Is it only a desire for change?

No—mere desire for change will not explain why so many thousands of smokers all over the country are changing from other cigarettes to Chesterfield.

It's something more fundamental.

Is it a matter of price?

No—price does not account for this sweeping turn-about in cigarette popularity, for Chesterfield is sold at the popular price—it costs the same as any of the other largest selling brands.

Or is it all a question of taste?

Yes—that's the answer. It is taste and taste alone that explains Chesterfield's sweeping gains. And taste is a matter of tobacco quality.

We state it as our honest belief that the tobaccos used in Chesterfield are of finer quality and hence of better taste than in any other cigarette at the price.

SECRETARY MELLON'S VIEWS

Secretary Mellon [illegible] expression of his opinion on [illegible] Haugen farm relief bill has drawn [illegible] brought toward the measure in a manner which had previously received little attention. He has analyzed the plan so as to bring out certain features that are involved in its operation and deals with the matter in a straightforward and [illegible] His statement lacks [illegible] political effect, [illegible] as he sees them and [illegible] to let them [illegible] cannot be regarded [illegible]

The fact is that [illegible] the friends of the bill [illegible] opinion of the session [illegible] that they expected [illegible] nothing unfavorable [illegible] measure, although [illegible] found enthusiastic [illegible] picks it to pieces in a way which [illegible] dicates that he is giving consideration to national welfare. He points out the faults for the purposes of [illegible] the country the [illegible] effects thereof. He does [illegible] a way which leaves [illegible] to sit up and take notice and indicates the importance of dealing with the facts that are based [illegible] than the political situation which has been built up.

Secretary Mellon directs attention to the fact that a surplus of production and getting rid of it is the problem to be solved, but when a plan is urged to provide a subsidy or [illegible] equalization fee it will simply mean an increase in production as well as prices and when prices go up consumption will decrease and the surplus will become greater than ever. In addition it means the establishment of a precedent that will mean the producers of other commodities will be quick to make similar appeals. Likewise [illegible] would result would operate [illegible] benefit of foreign consumers and [illegible] detriment of domestic consumers.

Secretary Mellon does not believe the plan sound or that the principle would be [illegible] agriculture and says [illegible] unfavorable condition in which many American farmers find themselves today will be aggravated, not improved, by unsound legislation. We cannot [illegible] pose fundamental economic laws.

Such advice [illegible] being given [illegible] built. It is in keeping with what has been said by others but it gets greater attention because it is the reasoning of a sound banker who [illegible] not for the sake of getting [illegible] Mellon office.

CITY TREES

How the city of Haverhill is contributing to the improved appearance of that municipality, in one direction at least, is shown by the report coming from that city to the effect that its tree warden has set out this spring 100 hard maples.

That doesn't mean that Haverhill is going to experience a great benefit through shade, increased property value or attractiveness this season, but it is laying the foundation for just those benefits in the future. It is apparently part of an annual program for the beautification of the city whereby the new trees take the place of those which have had to be removed for one cause or another and possibly a certain number of new ones in addition.

Haverhill is apparently convinced of the wisdom of such an arrangement. It has probably been impressed with the good results obtained elsewhere by just such a plan and seeks to obtain similar advantages for itself. To set out 100 trees each spring is no great undertaking. It would make but slight impression in a city of that size, but it cannot fail to be recognized as a move in the right direction that will be a great credit to the city in the years to come.

Numerous cities concentrate their attention upon their trees every June. It may have to do with replacements or it may involve the improvement of avenues and streets through the addition of trees in the same way that was done following the war, when they were set out as memorials to the deceased soldiers. The effect of such a plan carried on over a period of years can be readily [illegible] stand in the way of [illegible] necessary [illegible] removal of trees [illegible] moved for any one of various [illegible] It does, however, [illegible] to the need in every [illegible] number of trees and provides the machinery whereby the need can be met and the desired results obtained. The importance of trees in a city needs to be recognized and catered to before they are all gone.

FRANCE'S CABINET CRISIS

Politics has kept France in a state of uncertainty for months. It has been the cause of the fall of ministry several times, it has stood in the way of needed legislation and once more it must bear the responsibility for the resignation of a Briand cabinet.

France has financial problems which need to be solved. Instead of getting down to business and meeting the situation face to face there [illegible] political influences which [illegible] that the opposite. They have [illegible] down one plan after another and have indication that unless they [illegible] own uninterrupted way they will oppose everything. [illegible] is the need to regard for the welfare of France and no willingness to give the needed cooperation for the adjustment of conditions. And this in spite of the fact that the franc has gone down and down to points never reached before.

The financial condition in France is bad in spite of the fact that there is no unemployment in the country, and where there is a bad financial condition and the value of the franc is getting less and less the cost of living is steadily increasing.

Much hope was attached to the ability of Finance Minister Peret being able to form a solution of the situation. It was not his ability to do [illegible] necessary support in the French parliament that determined his resignation, and with the resignation went the entire cabinet.

Such conditions are not helping France. It is nothing new to have cabinet changes, but it is a deplorable [illegible] country cannot get its legislative body to act for the [illegible] character of the political makeup. France [illegible] the same road that it has in the [illegible] Poincare [illegible] support [illegible] and with the [illegible] cabinet [illegible]

BACKUS HOSPITAL MAID LOSES LIFE IN ELEVATOR ACCIDENT

Miss Mary Conlan, who has been employed as a maid at the Backus hospital, was caught in the elevator there in some unexplained way about 9 o'clock Wednesday night and died of suffocation before her unfortunate plight was found.

The elevator is one at the rear of the building and is used by the employes to go from one floor to another at times. There were no witnesses to the accident, but it is believed Miss Conlan was using the elevator to go from the kitchen floor to her room which was upstairs. Her body was discovered hanging by the neck from the elevator by one of the nurses who chanced to pass that way. Life was extinct when the body was found, but as Dr. Fred L. Varney, the hospital physician was out, word was sent to Dr. C. C. Glidersleeve, who made a record dash in his automobile to the hospital and directed the removal of the body which was later taken to the undertaking rooms of Hourigan Bros.

It is believed Miss Conlan has a brother and a sister in Worcester.

THIEVES GOT BOOTY AT DRAWBRIDGE GAS STATION

The small store and gasoline station at the Poquetanuck drawbridge on the Military highway, conducted by Elmer Hill, was burglarized some time Monday night. The booty secured by the thieves consisted of a quantity of cigars, cigarettes, jar of chewing gum, about 200 paper drinking cups and some other cups and other smal articles.

Mr. Hill was at the place until after 11 o'clock Monday night, discovering his loss when he opened up Tuesday morning.

Entrance was made through one of the front windows facing on the highway. A small pane of glass just over the window catch was broken out with the intention of releasing the catch so that the lower sash could be raised, but when the intruders found the lower sash nailed in, they smashed out the single pane in the lower sash and got into the store that way.

Last summer when the place was under different ownership it was entered by burglars.

Stoddard; sergeant at arms, Richard J. Kyle.

This is the 24th consecutive election for Mr. Clark to the office of secretary and treasurer.

Seven new members were admitted and a few applied for membership. The local union is in a flourishing condition and looks forward to a good year.

SEDAN WAS STRUCK BROADSIDE BY TRUCK

Just after Sergeant Myron O. Morgan had gotten into the sedan of a Massachusetts man on Franklin street at the foot of Boswell avenue to show him the way down toward Franklin square on the way to Putnam Wednesday afternoon about 3 o'clock, the Massachusetts machine was run into by an oiling truck of the state highway department, driven by Francis Bazinet of Occum.

The Massachusetts car was backing around at the time and was hit broadside by the big, heavy truck. The left side of the sedan was so completely smashed in that the car was almost a total wreck. Sergeant Morgan received slight cuts from glass and the Massachusetts driver was unnerved by the shock.

Bazinet was summoned to appear in the city court this (Thursday) morning.

WEDDINGS

Shlipback-Johndrow

A pretty wedding was solemnized Wednesday morning at 9 o'clock at St. Mary's Memorial church when Miss Margaret Johndrow, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Morin of 46 Cliff street, became the bride of John Shlipback of Rockville.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. Frederick M. Coholan at a nuptial high mass in the presence of a large gathering of relatives and friends. Miss Murphy presided at the organ and Edward T. Connelly sang several solos. Harold Schlipback of Hartford, brother of the groom was best man and Miss Madeline Carey of Rockville was maid of honor. The bride was charmingly gowned in pale georgette crepe over pink silk, with gold lace trimming and large picture hat to match and carried a bouquet of white roses.

Her maid was also prettily attired in pink georgette with silver trimming and carried pink roses.

Following the ceremony a wedding breakfast was served to 50 guests. The dining room was decorated with pink and white roses.

To her maid the bride gave a gold piece while the groom gave the best man a gold watch fob and the groom presented the bride a platinum bracelet set with diamonds and the bride gave the groom a K. of C. emblem.

The bride received numerous gifts of cut glass silverware and purses of money.

Present at the wedding were guests from Rockville, Hartford, Stafford Springs, Broad Brook, Wauregan, Point, Springfield, New York, Boston and Norwich.

The newlyweds left later in the day on their honeymoon, which will include New York and Philadelphia with a visit to the sesqui-centennial exposition.

Mr. and Mrs. Schlipback will be at home at their newly furnished home at 37 Pleasant street Rockville, after Aug. 1st to their friends.

Mrs. Schlipback is employed by the Hockanum association as a shipping clerk. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Schlipback of Rockville.

Pearson—Comstock.

Miss Hope M. Comstock, daughter of Edwin Comstock of Montville, was quietly married to Lieut. Richard W. Pearson, son of Richard Pearson of 6 Ledyard street, Groton, at the parsonage of the Methodist Episcopal church of Uncasville at 3 o'clock Wednesday afternoon, Rev. Charles E. Smith, pastor of the church, performed the ceremony. There were no attendants.

The bride wore a gown of white crepe-de-chine with hat to match and carried a bridal bouquet.

Immediately after the ceremony Lieutenant and Mrs. Pearson left on a wedding trip and on their return will go to the place where Lieutenant Pearson will be stationed. He has reported for duty in the Eastern division of the United States army.

Miss Comstock is a graduate of Chapman Technical high school where she taught in the home economics department for several years. Lieutenant Pearson recently was graduated from the United States Military Academy at West Point, N. Y. He is a graduate of Chapman Technical high school.

BALTIC ACADEMY GRADUATES HEAR ELOQUENT SERMON

On Wednesday morning at 10 o'clock occurred the 52nd annual commencement exercises at the Academy of the Holy Family, Baltic.

The students made an impressive picture as they passed in files of white from the Academy to the church, and in to the church where they filled the aisles, facing about to await the class of '26 who marched slowly up the main aisle accompanied by little girls carrying baskets of flowers, diplomas and medals, later to be distributed to the lucky winners. Friends and patrons of the school from far and near filled the church, which was tastefully decorated in ferns, palms and cut flowers.

A solemn high mass was celebrated with Rev. William O'Brien, pastor of St. Mary's, Baltic, celebrant, Rev. L. O. Bellerose of Taftville, deacon, Rev. W. Kelley of Willimantic, subdeacon and Rev. Adelard Jalbert, master of ceremonies. Monsignors May of Norwich and Neal of Meriden with a large number of priests were present in the sanctuary.

The chorus of Academy pupils did their school and teachers great credit through the splendid manner in which them sang during the services, and Miss Emilie Milner, the able organist of St. Mary's church, helped much toward the success of the singing, by her accompaniments.

The baccalaureate sermon was by Rev. J. J. Reilley of St. Patrick's church, Norwich, who selected for his text: Going therefore, teach ye all nations—and behold, I am with you all days even to the consummation of the world.

Then in a style of great beauty and force, the preacher gave a most convincing exposition of what is the attitude of the Catholic church in the field of education, be it in the department of liberal) arts and sciences or in the simpler field of commerce and science. He pointed out that the church fosters all that leads to culture and enlightenment that she prepares man to be a rightly formed citizen of the world, but not stopping there she makes him more than that—a citizen for heaven. Continuing the preacher showed that the Catholic church carries on, at a great sacrifice her special system of schools in order to educate not only the intellect but the will also; to bring her followers to realize that an education which makes man's intellect keen and alert, but leaves his will the flabby creature of his whims is a faulty education.

He met squarely the criticism sometimes pointed at the church—that she is narrow, old fashioned and conservative, by saying that if to stand strong, unflinching when life's great principles were at stake was narrow—then the church must plead guilty to the charge; that if being old fashioned meant to stand strong as a rock against the modern tendencies which spell ruin to our homes and ultimately to the state, then again she must plead "guilty." That the church is conservative, the preacher admitted and that she held today the same principles and truths that she held 2,000 years ago and despite the storms that had rocked her foundation, she still stands impregnable calm in her eternal strength.

In his address to the graduates Father Reilly bade them, going out into the world, to keep close to the teachings of their Alma Mater, to strive to be great and good women and having done their best to be all that their school and teachers expect them to be they will have done well.

Father O'Brien assisted by Msgr. May presided at the awarding of class honors after which benediction of the blessed sacrament was given.

When the services at the church were over the guests of the Academy had luncheon and enjoyed looking at the beautiful works of art prepared by the pupils of the various classes during the year.

PASTOR FROM WASHINGTON AT SIX CHURCH CONFERENCE

Newent church entertained the conference of six churches on Wednesday with 193 attending. The church was decorated with daisies, iris, clover and gloxinias. An organ prelude by Frank Hyde opened the services, followed by the doxology. Rev. W. J. Reynolds, pastor of the church, presided, leading in prayer, followed by the Lord's prayer, and the responsive reading. The Scripture was read by Rev. William C. Prentiss of Plainfield. Rev. George W. Clark of Preston offered prayer. The offering was received by William Lee of Hanover and Rev. G. Keene Gray of Jewett City.

One of the most powerful sermons ever preached at a conference was that heard in the morning. The speaker was Dr. Pierce of Washington, D. C., the father of the pastor of the First Congregational church in Washington. His address was based on the characteristics of the Apostle Paul. He spoke first of Paul's wonderful conversion. He said he was not whitewashed but washed white into the power of the Holy Spirit of God. He always did the things he ought to do. He said we all have characters, but it is the characteristics that differentiate us from others. He dwelt on the word ought as a mighty, weighty word, and used the word duty in its place as the heaviest word in the English language. His illustration of weighing the word duty will never be forgotten by his hearers. Then when Paul felt he ought to do a thing, he did it, and did it with all his might. And thirdly, he did it straight way—right away. His readiness to preach, work, sacrifice and suffer were most vividly portrayed. The speaker enjoined upon his hearers to read 2 Cor. 11 and profit in their life work by Paul's example. Dr. Pierce pronounced the benediction. A delicious dinner was served in the town house. The table decorations were wild flowers and gloxiniats, and at each plate were old fashioned pinks.

The afternoon service was opened with singing of several hymns led by Mr. Reynolds. The business followed in which the report of the last meeting was read by the scribe, Mrs. E. H. Hiscox of Jewett City. She called the roll to which 34 from Preston responded, 5 from Pachaug, 34 Plainfield, 18 Jewett City, 32 Hanover, 40 Newent and 30 visitors. Dr. Pierce gave a clear and concise description of why a new First Congregational church is needed in Washington.

The afternoon address was by Rev. J. Harlow Graham of Norwich. His subject was The Right Use of the Bibles. We should have the mind of Christ in our criticisms and make our religion personal, active and alive. We should know the Bible. Unless we use it right, we are worse off with it than without it. Think of the Bible as a library. Read of the men who found answers to human needs—the next way out—the next step up, culled out of past experiences. He spoke of the wrong way of using the Bible, using four sets of words, infallibility, inerrancies not too literally, reading the stories, and again not trying to modernize the Bible, and get the context not the proof text. He read the Negro ante bellum sermon by Paul Lawrence Dunbar. The Bible is a Holy library because it ministers to the holy life of those who God has created holy. He closed with the hymn Thy Word is a Garden.

Rev. Mr. Reynolds addressed the appreciation of the congregation to the speakers who inspired our hearts, instructed our souls and gratified our minds. Rev. Mr. Prentiss offered a resolution of appreciation to the Newent church for the splendid programme, gracious fellowship and the excellent dinner, which was voted upon by rising. Mr. Reynolds pronounced the closing benediction.

WESTMINSTER HOUSE BURNED WEDNESDAY MORNING

(Special to the Bulletin)

WESTMINSTER, June 16—The two-story frame house owned and occupied by Nicholas Vitiax and family, with its contents, was completely destroyed by fire, at one o'clock this morning. The cause of the fire is unknown. The house and contents is said to be insured.

The fire was discovered by one of Mr. Vitiax's children, who had gone to get a drink of water and noticed lights near the house, which she thought were those of an automobile, she aroused her father, who found the roof of the house in flames. He aroused the other children and escaped with what belongings they could pick up as they left.

This is the second fire Mr. Vitiax has had on the farm within recent years. The first fire was in the house known as the Dewing Rosenweig home, which Mr. Vitiax had purchased. In this fire not only was the house destroyed, but a number of outbuildings.

ATTRACTIVE WOMEN

If You Would Be Attractive You Must Be Healthy

A beautiful woman is always admired. There are many types of beauty. But no woman can be truly beautiful unless she is healthy. Radiant vitality is always attractive however plain a woman's features may be.

Many a woman has found her health improved through the use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Weakness, loss of weight, and a pale complexion were a few things of which Mrs. J. C. Taylor of Box 211, Tallahassee, Florida, complained before she started taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. "I could not even sit down and talk to a friend for any length of time," she states. "I would forget what I was talking about and felt so blue." Mrs. Taylor is so pleased with the work of the Vegetable Compound that she keeps a bottle of it in the house at all times—and when it is empty, her husband makes sure that she has a new bottle. "I have regained my strength," Mrs. Taylor writes. "I can do all my housework now and I feel just fine."

EAST ENDS OPEN TWILIGHT LEAGUE WITH EASY VICTORY OVER ST. JOSEPH

The East Ends opened the Twilight league season Wednesday evening at the Duwell field, when they decisively beat the Saint Joseph's nine by the score of 15 to 7.

Over 1,000 fans were present to witness the first game of the present season which seems to show that the sporting public of Norwich want and will support twilight baseball.

It was a game of heavy hitting and loose fielding, the East Enders collecting 16 hits, four of which were doubles.

The East Ends started off with a rush in the first inning scoring six runs on seven hits. They continued their attack in the second frame, driving Stanley from the mound with five more runs. Kozlowski then took up the pitching burden for the Saints and outside of the sixth inning when the East Siders scored three runs, pitched fairly good ball.

Harry Mills started in the box for the winners and with the score 13 to 1 to start the third retired to give Couture, a tryout on the mound. The Saints however took kindly to Couture's offerings, and together with some loose fielding on the part of the East Ends, scored 5 runs. Mills then went back in the box and stopped further scoring.

In the first inning, successive singles by Morin, Mills, and Hamel a pass to Moore, and four more singles by Coughlin, Gaudette, J. Peduce, and Duffy accounted for six runs. In the next frame, doubles by Mills, and Hamel, and singles by Filea, Coughlin, and Morin brought the score up to 12.

The Saints tallied once in the first on a double by Cimikowski, a long fly by Liberty, and an error by Morin.

In the third with Couture pitching the losers scored five more on doubles by Nap Liberty, Bill Liberty, and Kozlowski, and several errors on the part of East End infield.

Harry Mills and Tom Coughlin led with the stick with three hits apiece, while Moore's work in centerfield with five sensational putouts was the fielding feature.

No Game Tonight

Owing to the fact that the Thermos Co., baseball team quit the Twilight league at the last minute the game originally scheduled for tonight between the Thermos Co. and Yantic A. A. has been postponed so that tonight there will be no game at the Duwell field. The league has met with some tough breaks this week but it looks as if everything is straight again as the Warriors one of the fastest teams in the city have signed up to take the Thermos Co.'s place and starting with tomorrow night's game between the Eastern Conn. Power Co. and the Boston Colored Stars the league schedule will be running smoothly again.

Judging by the size of the very large crowd at last night's game between the East Ends and Saints it looks as if twilight baseball is in for a big season. Friday night's game between the Bostons and E. C. P. no doubt will bring out an even larger crowd than the one at the opening game as both of these teams have a very large following.

BUDDIES RALLY IN FIFTH TO BEAT CONN. MILLS

(Special to the Bulletin)

DANIELSON, June 16.—A rally in the fifth inning after evening the score at one all in the fourth, won the game for the Buddies in their clash with Connecticut Mills this evening, 3 to 1. The Buddies bunched three hits in the final frame for two runs. Both teams showed up well and the fans saw a good ball game, marred slightly by occasional disputes. Blakely held Connecticut Mills to two hits and fanned six while Marland allowed four hits and fanned five. The game terminated in the fifth, due to a ruling made by the managers. Tonight's game is between the Nail-drivers and the Cleavers at the Paco grounds.

LENGLEN-BROWNE MATCH COMES IN FIRST ROUND

LONDON, June 16—(AP)—The drawings for the Wimbledon Jubilee Tennis tournament, beginning Monday, has brought a totally unlooked for result in the staging of a battle between Suzanne Lenglen, the present champion, and Mary Browne, America's leading woman entrant, in the probable absence of Helen Wills, in the very first round of the woman's singles.

Otherwise, the seeded draw seems to have worked out well in providing a strong possibility of sustained interest in the various divisions of the championship.

The men's singles finds Rene Lacoste, present Wimbledon champion in the first quarter, and Howard Kinsey, the brilliant Californian in the second. Vincent Richards, the other American contender, and Henri Cochet, the pass-launch hard courts champion, who defeated Richards in the semi-finals at Paris last week are in the third quarter, while the fourth contains the present Wimbledon champion, Jean Borotra, of France.

The draw thus promises closer in the France final as last year and [illegible] before, or an all-American, as in 1925, should both Richards and Kinsey come through.

MRS. P. F. CASSIDY WINS STATE WOMEN'S GOLF NET SCORE

MERIDEN, June 16.—(AP)—Mrs. P. F. Cassidy, of the Wethersfield Country club, won the low net score at the Highland Country club today in the state golf tournament for women. Her net score of 75, a handicap of 23 giving a net score of 75. Miss Georgiana Bishop, of the Brooklawn Country club, Bridgeport, won the low gross contest with a score of 99. A handicap of four gave her a net score of 86.

In the team play, the Brooklawn club defeated the Sequin Golf club, of New Britain 17 to 1; New Haven defeated the Fairfield Country club, of Bridgeport, 14 to 3, and the Hartford Golf club won from the Racebrook Country club, of Orange, 19 to 6.

The approach and putting contest was won by Mrs. Burnside Winslow of the New Haven Country club. Mrs. Thomas N. Hepburn, of the Hartford club was runner-up.

NORWICH DOINGS 75 YEARS AGO

Seventy-five years ago, when the Episcopal diocesan convention was held in this state, President William ... Trinity college, Hartford, was elected assistant to Bishop Brownell, the convention being held in Waterbury.

Items from the Norwich Courier of 1851 are the following:

Tuesday, June 10, 1851—We learn from the Middletown Sentinel that there was discovered in the Portland Stone quarry, near Middletown, the imprint of a kangaroo. It has been preserved and is but slightly mutilated. The imprint is about 4 feet in length with a tail of 24 inches long at the base and tapering toward the end.

The Atlantic Cotton Mills at Lawrence, Mass., have just made a statement of their business, showing a loss ... the last six months of nearly $50,-...

Aaron N. Skinner was elected mayor of New Haven with a whig board of aldermen and councilmen on Monday last.

The Baltimore Sun states that the whole majority in Maryland will not fall short of 12,000 for the new con-...

The result in the New York election is that six of the resigning Democrats in the senate are re-elected and five have been superseded. Only two of the five new senators are whigs.

A letter to the editor of the Evening Courier says:

"If the street commissioner will see to the removal of the dirt on Main ... he will do ... very offensive and induce the belief that there is no ... whatever beneath he will do nothing more than his duty, and at the same time conduce to the comfort of the public.—Mercant.

Thursday, June 12, 1851—The whole ... births in the state last year was 7575; marriages 2884; deaths 5170. All but two towns, Southbury and North Stonington, made returns for the year ending July 31st.

The legislature has ordered printed a tabular statement of representatives from the several towns and counties ... Hartford one to ... in the latter town ... representative as 21 in the former town in this way and on this subject ... 17,118 of the inhabitants of Hartford are disfranchised. Similar inequalities are found in every county. New Haven has one representative to 11,-254 inhabitants and Prospect one for every 674. Norwich one for every 5,-130, Salem one for 760, Bridgeport one for 7,558, Redding one for 877, Thompson one for 2,316, Ashford one for 648, Vernon one for 2,900, Union one for 364. The two extreme cases are New Haven with one representative to every 11,264 inhabitants and Union with one for every 364. The town of New Haven with but two representatives has a larger population by 2,500 than the whole county of Tolland which sends 21 representatives. Is such an arrangement republican? Are the inhabitants of cities or of large manufacturing towns any the less worthy of equality in representation than those of other towns?

Saturday, June 14, 1851—The postmaster general announces in the columns of the Washington republican that under the new postal law letters mailed before the first of July but delivered after that time are to be charged the old postal rates. The present stamps are useless after the 30th day of June. Newspapers are not considered periodicals and are therefore not entitled to reduced rates of postage for prepayments.

The passage of the bill chartering the contemplated railroad from Norwich through Montville, Salem, Lyme and Essex to Westbrook is an event of no ordinary importance to the various towns between this city and Westbrook and to others bordering on the line.

The receipts of the Norwich and Worcester railroad for the month of May 1850 were $22,582.28 and for May 1851 $23,719.05, an increase of $1,136.-89. The through travel has increased very materially while the receipts for freight are falling off.

At the annual convention of the Episcopal church in this diocese which met at Waterbury Bishop Brownell on account of advancing years asked for an assistant. Rev. Dr. Williams, president of Trinity college, Hartford, received a majority of the clerical and lay votes and was declared elected. Eighty-eight of the 97 clergymen in the diocese entitled to vote were present.

Two quail, which seemed very tame, appeared in the yard at the home of C. M. Geer one day last week and walked about coming within six feet of Leroy Geer, who was working with the team in the yard. After a bit they tried to enter the henyard, but were prevented by the wire fencing. They went on into the garden, but not until the family had watched them for some time.

Mr. and Mrs. David Walsh entertained Sunday Mr. and Mrs. Frank S... Shekleton and daughters Verna, Eleanor and Shirley Lavinia, of Hartford.

"If men did the cooking they would insist on a good stove"

Sarah Tyson Rorer

Where is the woman who does not agree with Mrs. Rorer's statement? Yet why will so many women put up with an inefficient stove day after day?

MRS. RORER, famous Philadelphia cooking expert, and five other famous cooks who recently conducted a practical test of the Perfection Stove, agree that good cooking results depend to a great extent on a good stove. They agree, too, after critical, exhaustive cooking tests that the Perfection is a mighty good stove. Their comments on the Perfection's performance will give you some idea of what men would demand, and what experts do demand of a stove.

Easy operation. "I like equipment which is easy to work with," said Mrs. Belle DeGraf, San Francisco, home economics counsellor. "And the Perfection certainly is. It lights at the touch of a match. And the heat is regulated by a simple turn of the wick."

Adaptable, too. "The Perfection proved its adaptability to me," commented Mrs. Kate B. Vaughn, Los Angeles, home economics director, "by performing many cooking operations at the same time—frying, baking, boiling, and broiling."

Ample heat supply. "And," said Miss Rosa Michaelis, famous New Orleans specialist, "there is no lessening of heat, regardless of how many burners are lighted. Each is an independent unit."

Dependable flames. "That's true," remarked Miss Lucy G. Allen, of the Boston School of Cookery. "And the flames stay just as you set them. They do not creep."

And clean. "There's no soot or odor, either, when you cook on the Perfection," added Mrs. Rorer. "The efficient long chimneys burn the oil completely before the heat reaches the utensils."

Safe and economical. "All these points recommend the Perfection," said Miss Margaret A. Hall, Battle Creek College of Home Economics. "And, in addition, it is safe and economical in operation. What more could anyone ask of a stove?"

• • •

In other words, the Perfection meets the high standards of the six critical cooks. It will meet yours, too. See the 1926 Perfections at any dealer's. All sizes from a one-burner model at $6.75 to a five-burner range at $120.00. Every woman who cooks deserves a good stove.

Look for the name on the bottle cap

Pale and "dry" like an old wine

THE minute you break the golden seal of the aristocratic bottle and pour a bit of "Canada Dry" slowly down the side of a thin-edge glass, as a connoisseur would pour a glass of fine old wine, you will know that here, at last, is real ginger ale.

Hold it to the light! See how clear it is! How it gleams and sparkles! The abounding life and vitality of it. The champagne-like "dryness" and color.

And then—taste it! Here is a revelation in ginger ale quality—a delicate, alluring flavor that intrigues your taste—a flavor unlike that of any other ginger ale you have ever tasted!

Try it soon. In purity—in quality—in flavor it is indeed "The Champagne of Ginger Ales."

SPECIAL HOSTESS PACKAGE

A new way of packing "Canada Dry." Ideal for home use. Twelve bottles in a substantial carton. You will be especially glad to have it handy when friends drop in unexpectedly, for dinner, for the bedtime snack. This Special Hostess Package is sold by all "Canada Dry" dealers.

The Dawn of a Better Cigarette

We made countless tests to perfect this better cigarette for you

FOR a solid year and a half we canvassed the smokers of America with this question:—

"What's wrong with your favorite blend?"

"Too hot!" said some.

"Burns too fast!" said others.

"Parches the throat!"... said still others.

"Too strong!"... said still others.

Then we went to work .... with the resources of a $100,000,000 organization at our command.

Blend after blend was tested, not only by professional experts but by laymen smokers.

Finally we hit it! A blend meeting all requirements given us by popular poll ... a cooler, smoother cigarette ... yielding new flavor delight ... while velvet to the tongue—and soothing to the throat.

A new Quality in Cigarette enjoyment.

We called the cigarette OLD GOLD. For the name expresses the standards of the brand—the finest existing value standards.

TRY ONE AND YOU'RE WON!

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Coming to the Breed

A large portion of Brown of Harvard, the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer picture which is coming to the Breed theater on Sunday was taken in and around Harvard university by Jack Conway, the director. Scenes of last fall's Yale-Harvard football game and the boat race on the Thames river at New London are incorporated in the film version of this stage classic. William Haines plays the title role.

Broadway Theater

There are several attractions at the Broadway theater starting today that are going to attract many showgoers who await something special at the theaters.

Big Bill Tilden, renowned tennis champion will appear on the screen of the Broadway theater in his first film play, The Highbinders, in which he plays the leading role.

Mr. Tilden is also responsible for the story, The Highbinders, which was adapted to the screen by Calder Johnstone and is released through Associated Exhibitors.

Marjorie Daw plays opposite Tilden, with George Marion, George Hackathorne, Walter Long, Ben Alexander, and other players equally prominent in the supporting cast.

The Keith Albee vaudeville, while not boasting any acts with a big cast of people, boasts a cast of real artists and entertainers in the five acts scheduled.

Barto and Cunningham offer original tunes and tans; Chick as a real comedian of recognized worth; On the Corner is a thumb nail cartoon with a humorous slice of life; Creedon and Davis in I could Smash You will again repeat their former comedy riot; and Curtin and Wilson close with a novel offering that is a bit "fferent.

A new Kinograms will complete this exceptional bill which is here for three days only.

All Generals Bear the Name

"Now that 'anonymous' tires are such more numerous again we believe it well to issue a reminder that the name 'General' appears on every tire turned out by The General Tire and Rubber company," says Dick Quinn, of Quinn's Tire service, distributors of Genera. Tires in this city. "Since many tires have been cheapened, due to the price of crude rubber and other trade complications, a number of brands have been appearing without the makers' name, and part of the tire-using public has had a guessing contest to determine who makes them. We understand that some of the new anonymous tires have been blamed on the General Tire & Rubber company.

"We take this opportunity to make plain that every tire made by General carries the company's name. We learn this especially important now that various makers are experimenting with reclaimed rubber and other short cuts in tire making that tend to keep down first costs.

"Therefore we urge the public to look for the name General as a guarantee that every General Tire is built of fresh crude rubber only. The company's position, borne out by experience and observation, is that until the world's crude rubber supply is augmented by greater plantations in various parts of the tropical world, rubber prices may not be entirely satisfactory,—but there is no way to beat the fact that second-hand materials are not as good as fresh goods. We far I for the use of only the best.

"There is a very logical reason for activity among rubber reclaimers now. The advances in the price of crude rubber have made a great market for reclaimers among manufacturers of mechanical rubber goods, who use enormous tonnage in a year and who can use reclaimed to excellent advantage, as most mechanical rubber articles do not have to stand the flexing and strains that come to tires in ordinary service. And reclaimed second-hand rubber is much cheaper than fresh crude.

"But to expect rubber that has lived its life and done its duty in automobile service in tires or tubes is expecting the impossible."

ANNOUNCEMENTS

ANOTHER BIG IMPROVEMENT IN TELEPHONE SERVICE

Beginning Sunday, June 20, telephone calls from this city to Danielson and Mystic will be handled by the local operators. This is an extension of the faster service which for some time has been given between Norwich and other telephone points in this state.

With this change, which applies only to numbers classed as additional-toll-station calls it will not be necessary for telephone users to ask for the toll line operator when making a call to Danielson or Mystic. Subscribers here will simply give the local operator the out of town number that is desired and the call will go through about as quickly as a local call, as additional direct lines for this type of service will be available on and after the date mentioned and quicker telephone service between this city and Danielson and Mystic is sure to result.

There is a quite heavy telephone traffic between Norwich and Danielson and Mystic but the adoption of this speedier service will undoubtedly stimulate telephone communication between these cities and the new lines and equipment make it possible for the telephone company to promptly care for this increased use of its facilities.

Calls for a particular person, known as person-to-person calls, will continue to be handled by the toll operator as at present, but in most instances, a number call will serve as well as the person-to-person call for which there is a slightly higher rate.

Read This Girls: Freckles Melt Away In Four Days

Just apply this wonderful cream—a new discovery—and in four days your freckles are all gone—simply melted away.

Not only that, but this four day treatment leaves the skin clean and clear and youthful looking. So that you will not have to risk your money. Any live druggist will return you the purchase price if it fails. Just ask for Flyte. It's just what freckled women have long prayed for.

WHEN YOU WANT to put your business before the public, there is no medium better than through the advertising columns of The Bulletin.

An Old English Beauty Recipe "Howard's Buttermilk Cream"

Says It's Nothing More Than Old Fashioned Ordinary Buttermilk in the Form of a Wonderful Cream. Is Guaranteed by Lee & Osgood and All Good Drug and Department Stores

Big Demand for New Dressing Table Package Amazes Druggists

The first application of Howard's Buttermilk Cream will astonish you. It creates beauty almost like magic. The most wonderful thing about it is the fact that while it turns the dullest, most lifeless complexion to radiant beauty and makes red and rough hands or arms snowy white, yet there is not the slightest sign of its use after application. It actually vanishes from sight and the most heated atmosphere will not produce the least shininess or greasiness of the skin.

No matter whether you are troubled with a poor complexion, wrinkles, pimples, blackheads and the ever freckles, crow's feet or lines around the mouth ugly facial marks or just a slimple rough [illegible] hands or arms caused [illegible] that new [illegible] will quickly disappear with the use of Howard's Buttermilk Cream.

To prove this to your complete satisfaction, get a small quantity today at your favorite toilet goods counter with the understanding that they will freely return the purchase money should you be dissatisfied.

IMPORTANT. Even the finest face creams fail if the soap you use is harsh. Howard's Buttermilk Cream Soap keeps skin smooth, soft and pliable.

Keeps Faces Young, Fresh, Spotless

More important than the cosmetic care of the complexion is its physical care. To keep the face clear, fresh, youthful, there's nothing better than Mercolized Wax. It actually absorbs the soiled or faded worn-out skin particles. By all means, acquire the Mercolized Wax habit. It's so easy to get an ounce of the wax at the druggist's, apply at night like cold cream and wash it off next morning. There's no detention indoors, the old skin coming off so gradually no one suspects you're using anything. When in a week or so the alluring youthful, roselike under-skin is fully in view—well you will be "pleased beyond words." It must be apparent that this process means complete riddance of cutaneous blemishes like freckles, pimples and lotches.

Mercolized Wax

Brings out the hidden beauty

Are you being bored to death?

MOSQUITO torture is quickly ended if you keep a can of Flit handy.

Flit spray clears your home in a few minutes of disease-bearing flies and mosquitoes. It is clean, safe and easy to use.

Kills All Household Insects

Flit spray also destroys bed bugs, roaches and ants. It searches out the cracks and crevices where they hide and breed, and destroys insects and their eggs. Spray Flit on your garments. Flit kills moths and their larvae which eat holes. Extensive tests showed that Flit spray did not stain the most delicate fabrics.

A Scientific Insecticide

Flit is the result of exhaustive research by expert entomologists and chemists. It is harmless to mankind. Flit has replaced the old methods because it kills all the insects—and does it quickly.

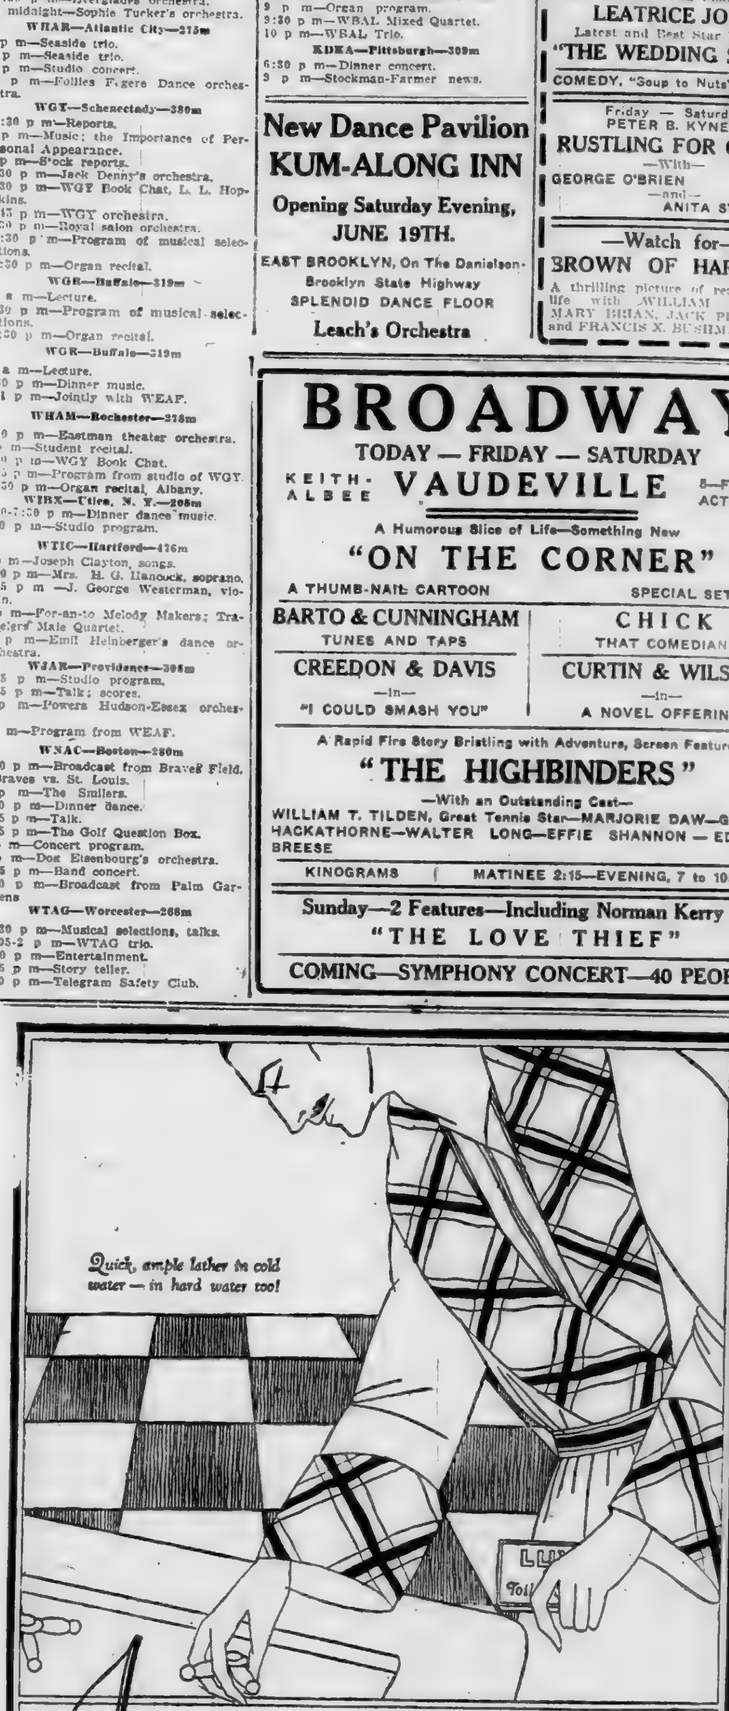
Get a Flit can and sprayer today. For sale everywhere.

STANDARD OIL CO. (NEW JERSEY)



IT HAS CAPTIVATED THOSE STERNEST OF CRITICS—THE MEN

THEY EXPECT so much of a soap!

Lather—quick, ample,—enough for a whole neighborhood. Profuse even in hard water! Lux Toilet Form!

A not too noticeable fragrance.

An after-feeling that leaves you expansive, well-groomed, stimulated.

A cake that won't crumble after a few usings, that stays firm to the touch till the last sliver.

Men certainly like Lux Toilet Form—they ask their wives to buy it—they buy it themselves! It gives them everything they want in a soap.

We made Lux Toilet Form by the very same method the French use for their costliest, finest soaps. Yet—blessed achievement—you pay no more for it than you used to pay for common, uninspired soaps! No wonder everyone eagerly demands this "savon de toilette."

Lux Toilet Form is on sale wherever toilet soap is sold. 10c. Lever Bros. Co., Cambridge, Massachusetts.

Corn lower; favorable crop reports.

Cattle dull.

Hogs firmer.

STOCK MARKET ACTIVE

NEW YORK, June 16—(AP)—Stimulated by easier money rates and reports of further improvement in the steel industry, operations for the rise went ahead at a brisk pace in today's day's stock market under the leadership of the high grade industrials. Wire and commission houses reported a substantial increase in public participation, the day's sales again running close to 2,000,000 shares.

U. S. Steel common and General Motors were again the individual favorites, the former touching 139, a new high for the year and just quarter a point below the record high for all time, established on November 7 last, while the latter touched 144 3-8, the highest price in its history. Total transactions in these tow issues totaled nearly 250,000 shares, or one eighth of the day's business.

The recent strength of the market has been attributed, in part, to the heavy investment demand for high grade dividend paying stocks, due, in part, to the relatively low yield on high class bonds. The decision of the U S treasury not to do any financing this quarter has made available over $300,000,000 for investment, part of which is believed to have found its way into the stock market.

Oils, which were one of the features of yesterday's market, failed to attract much of a following today, although Panhandle Producers and Refiners touched a new high record at 29 3-4, as compared with a low of 4 1-2 earlier in the year.

Equipment shares were heavily bought on the theory that record-breaking freight traffic would compel the railroads to add to their rolling stock.

Special buying also took place in a number of the low priced specialties. J. I. Thompson touched a new high for the year at 43 on reports that net earnings of 1926 to date have exceeded the full years dividend requirements.

Speculative interest in the rails was confined to a few issues. Atlantic Coast Line standing out with a gain of 3 3-4 points.

The commodity markets displayed a firm undertone. Wheat futures advanced briskly in the early trading but lost most of their gains before the close. Cotton closed 2 to 16 points net higher. Raw sugar was unchanged and coffee advanced 11 to 24 points.

Call money, after renewing at 3 3-4 per cent. dropped to 3 1-2, closing at the bottom. Time money and commercial paper rates were unchanged.

Foreign exchanges displayed a distinctly improved tone. French francs rallied over 15 points from the recent low to wivel to around 2.90 cents. Demand sterling was fairly steady around $4.86 3-16. The Belgian, Italian and Scandinavian exchanges all showed substantial gains while Spanish pesetas soared over 20 points to around 16.20 cents, the highest price in several years.

ROTARIANS HEAR TWO TALKS ON EMPLOYER-EMPLOYE RELATIONSHIP

With James E. Roantree, chairman of the business methods committee, in charge of the programme for the weekly meeting of the Norwich Rotary club on Wednesday noon at the Wauregan hotel, a very interesting discussion of the Relation of the Employer to the Employe took place. Mr. Roantree introduced several speakers who spoke on various phases of the question and to sum up the whole matter it was found that for a [illegible] understanding, both the employer and he employe must [illegible] something for the benefit of the community.

Nathan A. Gibbs spoke of the duties of the employer to the employe, [illegible] motive the following two questions:

Is the duty of the employer even inconvenience to himself, to change the work of an employe so as to afford him greater opportunity for advancement?

Is the employe [illegible] an employe [illegible] which [illegible] and which [illegible] with [illegible] of the employer's?

Frank G. Allaire took for his subject "What Does the Employe Expect of the Employer? This he answered by giving facts concerning his own line of business, featuring commissions on sales as a great incentive to managers and department heads, together with bonuses and profit sharing. [illegible] expect wages to insure a reasonable standard of living and reasonable hours of work.

Chairman Roantree told what is being done by manufacturers to insure cooperation of their employes citing from his own line of business the weekly meeting of foremen to discuss [illegible] and helpful relations, the best way to overcome boiling [illegible] Chapel Co. has possible assurance on [illegible] good.

Lewis M. Carpenter of Jewett City told what is done by the mill he represents in welfare work which is an important part of the business. Children may be termed the raw material on which to work, for the child of today will be the man of tomorrow. We must try to educate and develop the [illegible] who are to be our employes [illegible] years. Classes in swimming and athletics are conducted. Training [illegible] to live up to law and order will have a tendency to cut down the number of criminal cases. Start with the boys and girls of the mould[illegible] stage, teach them to be clean [illegible] and accomplish much for the next generation. The welfare work, including medical examinations done in Jewett City has attracted the attention and secured the commendation [illegible] of Secretary of Labor [illegible].

The [illegible] for the meeting was Charles L. Taylor who spoke of the sesqui-centennial at Philadelphia saying that Philadelphia [illegible] spending over [illegible] Connecticut has a [illegible] Vermont is represented by a [illegible] farmhouse. [illegible] acres of land. In connection [illegible] government ships will be [illegible] Philadelphia navy yard, [illegible] and 300 acres have been allotted for automobile parking purposes. Immense pavilions will accommodate thousands of visitors. A notable feature will be the great Liberty Bell of 22 tons. The usual midway is here called the "Gateway," and the greatest concentration of electric lights the world has ever known can be seen as [illegible] New York. Great sport [illegible] and aviation events will be featured and 170 conventions are already Looked [illegible] will be [illegible] fields are available and 500 airplanes are expected. The Centennial of 1876 had a total attendance of nine million people; this year 26 million are expected with over [illegible] million automobiles from a radius of 500 miles.

At the business session of the meeting President Eugene A. Harris presided with Alfred G. Bliven acting as song-leader. There were a number of vocal selections including a delightful [illegible] by Moodie. The three [illegible] quality but perfect harmony as far as it went.

The club voted to leave the matter of sending several local boys to a summer camp in the hands of the directors.

The meeting closed with the singing of the Star Spangled Banner.

SYDNEY B. ALLING SHOWS APPRECIATION OF FIREMEN

(Special to The Bulletin.)

WILLIMANTIC, June 17—Sydney B. Alling, owner of the Alling house on Main street, who has returned to the country, has presented a check for $25 to the local fire department, as a personal token from Mr. Alling, accompanying the check addressed to Chief Hosea L. Kenyon Mr. Alling states: "Let us be grateful that it was not necessary to use the hook and ladder truck and I hope that the city will permit you to purchase a new one before another fire occurs. I am sure that you join me in the full support of all our city and Chief with the condition of the present outfit." The need of a new ladder truck has been apparent to those who are not unfamiliar with the conditions in the fire department. The present piece of apparatus is in a dangerous condition and fit to be relegated to the discard.

Roger O'Neill, a former local resident, died Wednesday at his home in East Hampton according to word received in this city yesterday. He is survived by two daughters, a son and two sisters. His nieces and nephews are Mrs. William Bernard, Mrs. William Benard, Mrs. Mabel Edwards and Mrs. John N. Gilman, George L. and Fred J. Sherman of Chaplin, and Henry Shepaum of New York.

TWILIGHT ALFALFA MEETING TO BE HELD AT CHABOT FARM

(Special to the Bulletin)

DANIELSON, June 17—Something of a novelty is scheduled for Friday evening when a twilight alfalfa meeting is to be held at the farm of Peter J. Chabot at Wauregan. County Agent Frank L. Davis of Putnam has secured J. S. Owens, soils and crops specialist of the Connecticut Agricultural college, to meet those interested in growing alfalfa. The meeting is to be at 6.30 standard time.

This year Mr. Chabot has seeded 15 acres of alfalfa in different combinations. In one field there is a good stand of alfalfa and hubam clover. In another field oats are drilled in together with alfalfa with a light grass seeding. Mr. Chabot also has some alfalfa sown last year.

Alfalfa is a crop that a number of farmers in different parts of Windham county are putting in this year, for it is a crop that is capable of materially reducing the grain bill. Mr. Owens will answer questions pertaining to the growing of this crop.

An object in arranging this meeting is to have it come between chore time and dark. A number of such meetings will be held in this state this season. A demonstration will be given in alfalfa inoculation.

STOPPING RIVER POLLUTION

In view of the demands which have been made for a reduction in the pollution of the streams of the state, interest is bound to attach to the plans which are being made by the city of New Britain for the construction of a modern sewage disposal plant. That city already disposes of its sewage in that manner, being so located that it doesn't have access to a river, or such an easy means of getting rid of it would doubtless have long since been adopted. New Britain must take care of its increasing population and in doing so give consideration to the future necessary plans for the expenditure of money in such work.

But what really contributes more to the relief of stream pollution is the construction and putting into operation this spring of a sewage disposal plant at Wallingford, where for many years the sewage has been discharged untreated into the waters of the Quinnipiac river. This plant has been constructed on lines that should provide for normal growth during the next ten years and during that period important relief should be gained by the Quinnipiac.

Endeavors to improve the condition of the rivers of the state will produce satisfactory results if there is the right degree of cooperation displayed by factories and cities. The great need is to stop the steadily increasing pollution. Conditions have been bad for a long time, but they have also been growing worse. As factories increase and cities grow the pollution becomes greater. There is no desire that there should be a standing still of industrial or municipal growth, but where the situation is reached where the streams are not able to purify what is dumped into them it is only proper that some other means of taking care of the sewage should be provided.

The gradual development of sewage disposal plants by cities or the necessary treatment of discharges from factories on a gradually increasing scale would do much to meet the demands for the checking of stream pollution. Wallingford has made a start which other communities of the state may study with good results.

THE GUILFORD CRASH

Like many others, the recent automobile wreck at Guilford which cost four lives stands out as a powerful example of what speeding and the careless operation of motor vehicles is liable to result in.

The party had been to a roadhouse and was returning to New Haven about 2 a. m. and according to the coroner's report the odor of liquor was detected upon and about all the boys. The accident occurred at a bad curve where the car crashed into a tree. The manner in which the car was smashed to bits indicates that it was being driven at a fast rate, regardless of the condition at that point in the highway which may or may not have been known by the driver. The fact is that when the danger was realized it was too late to prevent the crash.

According to the coroner's report the accident "was not caused by the criminal act, omission or carelessness of any other person or persons," meaning that the responsibility for the affair existed solely within the car. He does however recommend that there should be a safety device of some kind at the curve and thinks consideration should be given to the removal of the tree.

The desirability of placing safety devices at such points cannot fail to be recognized. It is no more in the way of a speedway than all users of the highway would get, but it doesn't appear that those who drive with reasonable speed and proper control of their cars have been the cause of fatal accidents there.

Let there be, by all means, adequate provisions for safety, but that doesn't require flitting the highway for a speedway any more than it does for the elimination of the railroad crossings in order to accommodate the reckless automobile drivers. If more of such lessons like that at Guilford were taken to heart by the drivers who are disposed to be reckless and to disregard the rights of others, or their responsibilities to others, there would be greater safety in the highways and fewer accidents of all kinds.

AUTOMOBILE HEADLIGHTS

Glaring headlights are unquestionably a danger in the highways. They make it impossible for the driver going in the opposite direction to know whether he is guiding his machine in the part of the road, into the gutter or taking up a greater part of the highway than he is entitled to.

Complaint over this menace is registered by the New York Herald Tribune which says: "It is evident that something must be done about glaring headlights. It only to provide an antidote," and it refers to the help that is given by the painting of roadside fences white. Concerning the glaring lights it feels that "to make it unlawful to use them at all would be seriously to endanger the safety of tourists on winding roads which turn sharply to right or left. It might be possible, however, to limit the intensity of the lamps, or to enforce rigidly for a time penalties against using them full flame while passing other cars."

The idea of dimming lights held sway for a time, but the throwing on and off of lights was in itself more or less dangerous. The whole situation seems to be admirably taken care of by the use of legal lenses and the proper focusing of the lights. Such provision being made the glaring lights are eliminated, the rays are thrown onto the highway and not in the faces of other drivers and there is no need of dimming. Too many of the headlights are not properly focused and even though they carry legal lenses the rays may be directed anywhere between the treetops and the ground with one lamp possibly focused in one direction and the other somewhere else.

There is need of good light at all times for night driving. The many cars and the rate of speed that is made require it. The light also should be steady and directed at the roadbed and not out into space to bother others. The use of white paint on the many guard rails that are erected along the highways is of much value in night driving but there is no reason to expect that they are going to be provided on both sides of every highway when a proper arrangement of the auto lamps will meet the requirements of revealing the highway and providing safety.

CRIBBING CREW MEMBERS

It seems a little tough on those members of the Yale freshman crew who observed the honor requirements while taking their examinations that they should be obliged to forfeit their race to the Harvard freshmen, but that was the only solution and the fault rests of course squarely upon the shoulders of the crew members who cribbed.

The cribbing may have had nothing to do with the racing, but the calling off of the race is one of the penalties that can be applied to the oarsmen and inasmuch as their interest in aquatics is probably as great as anything at Yale the fact that they were the cause of such a situation will go down in Yale rowing history as a big black mark of discredit. It reflects directly upon the six members of the freshmen crew toward whom there can be only a feeling of utter contempt by the members of the university. They have played directly into the hands of Harvard and there isn't anything much worse in the eyes of the sons of Eli.

Having accepted the honor system during the examination period their conduct shows them exceedingly poor sportsmen. They have not only put themselves under suspicion but they have brought injustice upon others. The very fact that they were members of the crew makes their disregard of the honor system all the worse. They have taken advantage of a trust imposed in them. Cribbing may be nothing new in schools or colleges but however bad it may have been in the days before the honor system the acceptance of such a system makes it just that much worse. Cribbing under an honor system resembles quite closely the taking of candy from a child.

VOTING MACHINES

There have been days when the voting machine made a far less favorable impression than it does today. That, however, was some years ago when it had not reached the stage of perfection that it has today, when it was not fool proof and when it was not mechanically in the class of the many other machines of similar character such as the computing machines of the present time.

One of the outstanding bits of evidence for the voting machine, aside from the success that it has attained in many of the smaller communities is the reception it got when put into operation in New York city. There the machine had been fought bitterly. It was actually forced upon New York against its wishes and yet it met with such a fine reception in one district where first introduced that all opposition to it at once dwindled and the entire city will be supplied as rapidly as possible.

The situation in New York is not much different than elsewhere. Suspicion prevails until there is an effective demonstration and then there would be no thought of going back to the ballot with its chances for errors and even the throwing out of ballots according to the whims of counters.

In this connection it is interesting to note that sentiment in New Jersey, where machines were tried years ago, is changing. It has been necessary to break down the prejudice of years but from recent expressions that is apparently being done.

EDITORIAL NOTES

In giving up its seat in the league council Brazil apparently forgot that slow gallantry is practically obsolete.

There is no demand this year for an iceberg off the coast to make the water cool enough to crowd the bathing beaches.

When it comes to resurfacing highways it is hard to understand why it seems to be necessary to use small cobblestones instead of sand.

HAT PROBLEMS

"I just want to ask your advice," the neighbor announced. "What would you do with two hats as good as these?" She put one on her head, waited a moment for the other woman to get the effect, took it off and put on the other, and then looked at her friend inquiringly.

The lady of the house got out of her chair, walked around her visitor and then as though she were answering the question said: "That's just exactly my problem. Wait a minute." And she went upstairs coming down almost immediately with three hat boxes one piled upon the other.

"Look at these," and she began taking hats out of the boxes, putting them on her head and taking them off, until she gave the appearance of tossing them on and off. Several times the neighbor put on her own hats, asking questions which in reality were remarks to which the hostess was supposed to agree. "This shape is just as good as it was last year, and the color is the very thing they are wearing—don't you think I could have it cleaned and perhaps a new binding and a little new trimming?"

The other woman agreed with her, assured her that it could be done and at the same time excitedly pulled tissue paper out of a box until she brought to light a carefully wrapped hat.

"Just look at that! The shape is almost the same as yours," and they held the two hats together, praising them both and insisting on their worth as though a third person was stubbornly disagreeing with them. Then they put the hats on, looked at themselves in the mirror, looked at each other and then, taking off their own hats, put on each others hats, to prove what good style they really were.

"I'll tell you why I am so anxious to use these old hats," said the visitor. "I really must have a new coat and I told my husband I just felt that there was no use getting a coat unless I got a really nice one, and they are so expensive that I thought I could just make this hat do" and she turned slowly before the glass, having put one of her own hats back on her head.

"That's just the way I feel," agreed the hostess. She had two hats in her hand and one on her head. "Or course, I need a coat last winter but what I really need is a couple of dresses."

She took the hat off, put it under her arm and tried on one of the others. "If I could make these hats do then I'd feel that I could get something really nice. I told my husband last night there is really no use in getting things unless you get them good, and that's why I have all of these good hats. I always do get good hats and then just think how well they last. Why, this hat was bought three years ago and just look at the material. It's as good as new."

Then she replaced the hat in the box, opened another and, taking out several carefully swathed hats, came upon a feathered one in the bottom of the box, done up carefully. She opened it and then exclaimed: "Oh look at this. This is the one I had that winter we did so much skating. It was the loveliest thing, but see what a funny shape it is now," and she straightened it out carefully. She put it on, looked in the glass and they both laughed gayly.

"Well, I'm sure that out of all of these I can get something that will be really nice," and the lady of the house began putting them back into their boxes, while the neighbor picked up her own hats and departed, saying: "I'm so glad you think that my hats will be all right."

A few days later they ran into each other downtown, stopped for a moment and one exclaimed: "Oh, I just bought the most beautiful hat. I bought my coat and when I tried to wear one of the old hats with it it didn't look right at all. I just told my husband it wasn't right to ruin a beautiful coat with an old hat."

And the other woman nodded. "That is just what I decided to do. When I got the new dresses they simply call ed for new hats and there was nothing to do but get them. Isn't it terrible the way things cost?"—Chicago News.

From Small Beginnings

Spartacus, the Gladiator, a Great Leader

Most people are not remembered long after death. Their places are filled, and the world goes on without thinking of them at all. Even some of the greatest on earth who have made strenuous efforts to be remembered are known, like certain Egyptian kings, only as names. Spartacus, the slave, condemned to a terrible death, is remembered to the present day, nearly 2,000 years after the events in which he took part. "Spartacus to the Gladiators," written by Elijah Kellogg, an American author, is a dramatic presentation of the fiery spirit of the man, a spirit that so imprinted itself in history that the name of Spartacus has lived—and will live as long as men love freedom.

Spartacus was born in Thrace about 100 years before the birth of Christ. Like most strong young men of his day he was drawn into the Roman army. Dissatisfied, feeling himself among alien men, he deserted, and lived in hiding. The stern Romans captured him, sold him into slavery, and ultimately into the ranks of the gladiators, the men who were trained to fight in the arena and sooner or later meet a terrible death for the amusement of the Roman people.

Spartacus was young, strong, trained to military life and a most ardent lover of liberty. He had the kind of strong personality that inspired others, and he was a born leader of men. He led the bravest of his companions to escape with him from the place where they were being trained as gladiators and to flee to the heights of Mount Vesuvius. There he was soon joined by all kinds of men who hated the power of Rome.

Spartacus was strong enough to command [illegible] and finally to lead [illegible] of them across Italy, over the Alps and the freedom of Europe. But there the Gauls refused to follow him further, and he swept like a resistless storm through Italy but now instead of the city once more, with superb generalship overcoming all the great armies that Rome hurled against him. He hoped to reach the island of Sicily, but his men, the riff-raff of the Empire, were again unwilling to leave Italy. A great battle was fought, and Spartacus was killed fighting to the last.

Rebel as he was, he was one of the greatest generals in all history. The power that he showed in commanding and organizing lawless men was superb. Though only a slave he wrote his name deep in history.

Stories That Recall Others

A Good Riddance.

Mary, aged four, sat with her parents watching autos speeding by and as they went they caused a bad odor.

"What makes the cars smell so?" asked her father.

"They are burning castor oil," he cried.

"I hope they burn it all," returned Mary.

Sold Her Vote But Wasn't Paid.

Walter has been visiting a lawyer friend in another city and brings home this story:

"I was in my friend's office one day when a woman called by telephone and asked for some advice. She was extremely angry and said that one of the commissioners had promised her a job as policewoman in the parks before the primary election and had failed to get it for her. After explaining she said, "I want to see what can be done about it. I thought it was all fixed up, but when I read the list of park appointments I was shocked to see that my name was not included. I think I'll go down and give that man a piece of my mind. Could I be arrested for doing that?"

"My lawyer friend replied, 'I would hardly think so.'

"'Oh. I am afraid I would if I said all I have a notion to say. You don't know what I'd tell him. They sure are anxious for your votes before election, but they don't worry so much about their promises afterward. That man told me he could do anything. I don't know what he meant, but I do know he didn't get me a job like he promised.'

"My friend explained that the prosecutor had no control over such matters and that failure to keep a pre-election promise was not a violation of the law."

A woman never quarrels with herself as long as she has a friend left.

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

Rev. Dr. Charles A. Segar, who has been chosen fourth bishop of the Anglican diocese of Ontario, is a well-known clergyman and educator who since 1921 has been provost of Trinity college, Toronto. He was born at Goderich, Ontario, and educated at the University of Trinity college, where he was graduated with high honors in philosophy in 1895. For some fifteen years after his ordination he occupied various pulpits in Ontario. Then he went to the far west to become principal of St. Mark's Hall in the Anglican Theological college of British Columbia. In 1917, when the college was closed because of the enlistment of so many of its students in the military service, Dr. Seager returned east to become rector of St. Matthew's church in Toronto.

In the catalogue of the 1926 Salon of the Societe des Artistes Francais is entered "A Portrait Sketch" by Mary Seeman, Norwich Connecticut U. S. A. The exhibition at Paris is the one hundred forty-ninth official exposition of the Beaux Arts. It was opened April 30 and will be held for two months. The official salon dates back to the time of Louis XIV who ordained that an exhibition should be held each year. During the reign of Louis XV, the exhibition was held in the large square salon of the Louvre and from this salon of the Louvre where the paintings were hung, the exhibition has taken its name. It is of interest to Norwich art students and friends that Mary Seeman is the name under which Mrs. Charlotte Fuller Bachman entered the canvas, and that the sketch hangs at the head of one of the four stairways leading from the ground floor to the main gallery. Mrs. Bachman is director of Norwich art school.

CAUGHT YOUTH HERE, WANTED IN PAWCATUCK

George St. Pierre, 17, who gave his address as Hartford, was caught near the Norwich Town green by the police early Tuesday evening after word had been received at police headquarters from Pawcatuck that a man answering his description was wanted in Pawcatuck for theft of $50 from a carnival company. The young man got away from Pawcatuck in an automobile.

His trail was picked up here when it was learned that he had inquired of Officer Hugh McAvey in Franklin square the way to Colchester. At that time the young fellow was walking. Officer P. Murphy and P. Shannon were directed to drive towards Norwich Town, resulting in finding the man, who was looked up at police headquarters until two Pawcatuck officers, Sheldon and McGrath, came here to take him away.

TWO WORLD'S CHAMPION HORSES WILL RACE HERE IN BAY STATE MEETING

Two world's champions are entered in the free-for-all pace the feature event of the second day's card of the Bay State Short Ship circuit meeting here June 22-24. These two champions are Margaret Dillon, the world's champion pacing mare and Sir Roch world's champion pacing gelding. Besides these two champions will be Ribbon Cane leading money winner of the eight harness tracks in 1925.

Margaret Dillon, owned by C. H. Fraiser of Boston, Mass. hung up a mark of 1.58 1-4 last season and is expected to keep close to the 2 minute mark during her campaign this season.

Sir Roch is the property of L. E. Barnes of Chicago, Ill. and is entered with the stable of George C. Lumis of St. Paul Minn. Sir Roch has a mark of 1.58 3-4 and like Margaret Dillon is expected to show well this coming season.

Ribbon Cane is owned by E. W Kenney of Lynfield, Mass. millionaire shoe manufacturer, and has a mark of 2.01 3-4. Last season Ribbon Cane proved the sensation of the racing year and finished the campaign as the big money horse of the season. In all Ribbon Cane turned her years 27,120.

A race in which these three champions are entered should prove as interesting a feature as will be found on any track in the country. Not since Peter Manning and Single G raced at Hartford a few years ago in Connecticut seen such champions as Margaret Dillon, Sir Roch and Ribbon Cane in the same race. This free-for-all pace is attracting wide spread attention in light harness circles as research from all sections of the country are keeping their eye on the results.

Other horses entered in the free-for-all pace include: Baron Worthy and Sinardo owned by the Hanover Shoe Stables of Hanover, Pa. Baron Worthy was first a trotter with a mark of 2.05 1-4 but a year or two ago the Baron was changed to the pace and found to work better in this class getting a mark of 2.03. Sinardo has a mark of 1.59 3-4 and was bought last year by the Hanover stables with Peter Manning for $5000. The Hanover stables also bought out the Coxe string of race horses for $200,000.

James P. Berry of Hartford enters Phil O'Neil and Frank Monager for this event two horses that have shown their heels to many a fast field.

Horses are arriving daily at the local track the latest arrivals being the Trench stables of Teeswater, Ont. Can which include the Grattan horses of which Jean Grattan is the outstanding horse. Jean Grattan is picked by those that keep a close eye on the horses as the favorite to win the $5,000 derby at Kalamazoo, Mich. the feature race of the Grand Circuit season.

JR. TWILIGHT LEAGUE
Brassecos Nose Out Nordics

The Brassecos defeated the Nordics 3 to 2 in a fast nine inning Twilight league game at the Academy campus Thursday evening. The score was tied at 2 to 2 at the end of the seventh and two extra innings were necessary.

Johnny Greene, on the mound for the winners, pitched great ball in the pinches, fanning 10 men and holding the Nordics scoreless after the fourth inning.

Cahill and Daudelin showed up well for the Brassecos while Lefty Dugas starred with for the Nordics.

AMHERST COLLEGIANS AT MARTIN DIAMOND SUNDAY

The J. B. Martin has two games booked for the week end playing the Fort Trumbull Stars at New London on Saturday, and the attraction for Sunday at the J. B. Martin grounds will be the fast Amherst Collegians of Massachusetts. This club is made up of some of the fastest college and semi-pro ball players in the state and should give the local club a good argument. The local team has been put through a stiff work-out after being defeated last Sunday and are out to chalk up both games. The lineup will be some what changed for Saturday's game. C. Pepin will do the backstop work with Lemieux or Pepin on the mound. E. Murphy will cover first with F. Murphy at second, C. Krauss will be seen at third, with De Celles at short. The outfield will be taken care of by W. Gley, E. Joubert, and F. Smith. Sundays lineup will appear in Saturdays' morning paper.

ERRORS LOSE GAME FOR HOLY CROSS WITH BOSTON

BOSTON, June 17.—(AP)—Holy Cross outhit Boston college, but costly errors behind the sterling pitching of Fone, Purple Hurler, gave the local team a two to one victory in the second game of the annual series here today. Boston college dropped the first game at Worcester June 2, but as several players of both teams have signed with local and professional teams it was doubted if there would be a playoff.

Mullowney and McMenimen, the Boston college battery, proved the hitting and field sensations of the game. The score:

Holy Cross ... 000 100 000—1; 3; 5.
Boston College 000 001 01x—2; 3; 1.

CLEAVERS RALLY IN FOURTH TO BEAT OUT NAIL DRIVERS
(Special to The Bulletin.)

DAYELSON, June 17.—The Cleavers knocked Alex LaBelle, twirler for the Nail Drivers from the mound in the fourth inning of the twilight game this evening to win 3 to 4. With two out the Cleavers started a rally in which three hits, two walks and two costly errors netted six runs and sent LaBelle from the box. Dagenais then took up the burden. Vadas showed some leady baseball as well as driving in two runs with a double and receiving good support while errors proved costly for the Nail Drivers. This win for the Cleavers with Conn. Mills for second place in the league and gives the Nail Drivers a firmer hold on the cellar position. The score:

GRAD PROTESTS CANCELLATION OF FRESHMAN RACE

NEW HAVEN, June 17.—(AP)—A protest against the cancellation of the Yale-Harvard freshman race on June 26 by a group of Yale war veterans led by the Junior Class tonight. The message, telegraphed by Wilbur Pack-ard, star oarsman of the class of 1886, from Columbus, Ohio, was as follows:

"I vehemently protest the cancellation of the freshman race. Judgment is unsound in punishing the innocent with the guilty. The Yale faculty will stand before the public confessedly incapable of maintaining discipline. It would be better to make the guilty row and to punish them afterwards. If not, fire the crooks, put in substitutes and row the race like men. Don't stigmatize Yale men as welchers."

BOBBY JONES SETS AN ALL-TIME GOLF RECORD AT SUNNINGDALE COURSE

NEW YORK, June 17.—(AP)—Bobby Jones created an all time golf record for title play when he finished the qualifying rounds for the British open today at Sunningdale, with a total of 134, a 66 that broke the record for the 6-mile course yesterday and a 68 today.

The late Douglas Edgar put together 69 and 66 in the Canadian championship of 1913 and Ernest French, now playing for the British title, registered the same aggregate in 1922 in the Ohio state championship.

These were completed at the Sunningdale and St. Anne's courses, and Jones led his 14 fellow American amateurs and professionals through a baptismal fire in the preliminary tests, with only two strokes, Silas Newton and Joe Stein left by the wayside, the former losing out by only two strokes and the latter by seven.

Walter Hagen, the American professional, headed the qualifiers over the St. Anne's course with 143.

Jones' remarkable record was made up of his amazing card of 66 turned in on the first 18 holes yesterday when he bettered the record for the course by four strokes, and 68 today. This is a low score for two rounds, which it is declared stands alone in the annals of British golf.

Scoring such as Jones accomplished over the Sunningdale course, which measures more than 6,500 yards, has never been seen in the history of golf. He was ten under fours for 36 holes, with only one five on the card—that taken at the tenth today, when his tee shot hit a spectator and bounded into the heather. This necessitated a powerful chop into the fairway, without any hope of obtaining distance.

Following are Jones' cards for the two rounds:

Wednesday:
Out 444 334 434—32
In 434 343 444—33 66

Today:
Out 444 444 434—35
In 344 243 443— 33—68—134

"We have never seen anything like it," declared the veteran, J. H. Taylor, whose 71 at the age of 56 years would have been sensational if Jones had not been the center of the attention.

His aggregate was the lowest ever returned for two consecutive rounds in a championship of first class importance, and even Bobby was pleased with his achievement and with Sunningdale.

The lowest previous single round in the British championship was 68 by Taylor at Sandwich in 1904, Ernest Gray at Prestwick in 1898, and Tom Ball at Muirfield in 1912. But nothing compared with Jones' 66 and 68 ever recorded.

A gallery of fashionable folk in silk hats, long-tailed coats, white spats and other racing regalia, who deserted Ascot to follow the fastest golfing pace ever set on British fairways were as enthusiastic about Jones' performance as the little knot of Americans who saw him play.

The famous triumvirate, Vardon, Taylor and Braid, and all other pros who were not playing joined in Bobby's wake and watched him reel off birdie after birdie right up to the home green, where he finished with a brilliant three for this 418-yard hole.

This afternoon Bobby Jones' picture was in the London papers. One paper had Jess Sweetser's picture with Bobby's name under it. Columns of laudatory comment and analysis of his play are printed. One paper described each and every stroke the American made and each club employed for the stroke.

Sunningdale:
Bobby Jones 66-68—134
Joe Kirkwood 71-74—145
George Von Elm 74-73—147
Bill Mehlhorn 76-74—150

LINDSTROM'S HOMER IN THIRTEENTH BEATS PIRATES

NEW YORK, June 17.—(AP)—The Pirates were knocked out of the league leadership today when Lindstrom banged a homer with two aboard the bases in the 13th inning, giving the Giants a 6 to 5 verdict, in the series opener. In the first half of the thirteenth, Pittsburgh had broken a 5 to 5 tie when Rhyne hit for the circuit with one on base.

After hitting safely through 41 straight games for the longest batting streak in the majors this season, Kiki Cuyler was stopped by Fitzsimmons who went the entire distance in the box for the New Yorkers accounting for their fourth consecutive victory.

The Reds ruled today but resumed the National league peak on a two-point margin over Pittsburgh. Brooklyn's triumph over the Cubs placed the Robins, Giants and Cubs in a tie for fourth place. Scor :

BLANKERSHIP HOLDS YANKS, TO THREE SCATTERED HITS

CHICAGO, Ills., June 17.—(AP)—Blankenship let the New York Yankees down with three hits today while Chicago hit Hoyt and Jones opportunely and defeated the league leaders 6 to 2 in the first game of the series. Earle Sheely's home run in the last inning with two on base gave Blankenship a commanding lead and, virtually, clinched the game for the White Sox. Babe Ruth went hitless in four times at bat while Lazzeri, Pacific coast recruit played a heady game.

SMITH PITCHES CLEVELAND TO VICTORY OVER RED SOX

CLEVELAND, June 17.—(AP)—Holding Boston to five hits and issuing no passes, Sherrod Smith, veteran southpaw pitcher, gave Cleveland a 3 to 1 victory today. While Zachary allowed seven hits, he was steadier than Smith in the pinches, holding his opponents scoreless after the first inning. Both teams scored upon double passes, Boston helping Cleveland's cause by a double play. A single by Hargrave and Hasty's triple scored the Red Sox from a shut out.

ZACHARY HAS BEST OF BUSH IN PITCHING DUEL

ST. LOUIS, June 17.—(AP)—Zachary got the better of Bush in a pitching duel and the St. Louis Browns defeated the Washington Senators today, 9 to 7. Ken Williams' home run in the second inning with the bases full gave the locals a lead which the visitors were unable to overcome despite a ninth inning rally for five runs. Sisler was out because of a sore right arm injured in sliding to second. Score:

Central Village's Fault

Manager Godaire of the Occum team says that if the game on Sunday went only 7 1-2 innings it was nobody's fault but Central Village's for if they hadn't disputed so many decisions the game could have gone the limit. He has an open date for July 18th and would like to book the Farnsworth team at Occum on that date. He also says that the score will be decisively in favor of his club.

Looking For Games

The Willington Y team would like to arrange games with some of the teams in and about Norwich. Address Manager, box 113, Willington, Conn.

LOUGHRAN OUTPOINTS CARPENTIER IN GRUELLING TEN-ROUND ENCOUNTER

PHILADELPHIA, June 17.—(AP)—Tommy Loughran, Philadelphia light heavyweight, outpointed Georges Carpentier, French soldier-boxer, in a gruelling ten round contest in the Municipal Stadium at the Sesqui-Centennial Exposition grounds tonight. The judges handed in a unanimous verdict in favor of the Quaker City boxer. A crowd of 30,000 spectators witnessed the fight.

A stirring rally in the final round gave Loughran the verdict. Loughran floored the colorful Frenchman with a driving right to the jaw in the seventh round and continued his aggressiveness throughout the remainder of the contest.

In the tenth round Loughran brought blood to the Frenchman's nose with a lightning right uppercut which almost floored Carpentier and forced him to cover up and save himself from further punishment as Loughran strove to follow his advantage.

Carpentier opened strong displaying a wealth of science as he went through his cat-like motions. In the third round the Frenchman ripped over a terrific right followed by a knifing left which opened a cut under Loughran's right eye. In the sixth another series of blows opened a cut over Loughran's eye but he weathered the storm.

Loughran earned the fight to the Orchid man in the seventh and eighth rounds. Apparently weakened by consistent flashing of Carpentier's right to his injured optic Loughran's solidarity dropped all defense and drove straight to Carpentier's jaw with a crippling right.

The tri-color boxer dropped flat to his face, grabbed the ropes, crawled to one knee and heard nine counted over his crouching body. That was the end of Carpentier's bid for victory for he wilted in the last round and except for flashes of his old brilliancy appeared content to rest on the dance already wrought.

In addition to the victory Loughran brought the verdict to the Quaker City fancy. Up until this round the decision was a question as Loughran's left proved ineffective for the Frenchman's right to his injured optic.

BURGESS BEDTIME STORIES

Jerry Muskrat's Family

It may be children are a joy.
But not, alas, without alloy.
—Jerry Muskrat.

Peter Rabbit couldn't keep away from the Smiling Pool. He simply had to find out more about Jerry Muskrat's family. You see, he had discovered a baby Muskrat swimming around.

"Who says I have a family?" retoted Jerry

[illegible] the Smiling Pool had held for [illegible] time. At least, Peter was sure that it was a baby Muskrat, for it looked very much like Jerry Muskrat, only much smaller. If there were one there must be [illegible] himself. "I don't see how Jerry Muskrat has only one [illegible] must see Jerry and find out." So the more time Peter spent at the Smiling Pool. For a while it seemed as if Jerry Muskrat was going to keep out of Peter's way. If [illegible] same time shall it was at a distance. But at last one night just at [illegible] Peter [illegible] Jerry Muskrat [illegible] "Hi, Jerry Muskrat," cried Peter. "Hi, Peter Rabbit," replied Jerry Muskrat. "Who says I have a family?" cried Peter. "You've [illegible] I've seen one of them myself. [illegible] Jerry Muskrat," retorted Jerry. "Mrs. Muskrat," repeated Peter. "Mrs. Muskrat" indeed! Where is Mrs. Muskrat?" inquired Peter.

"At home with the children, where she ought to be," was Jerry's reply.

"Who says I ought to be at home with the children?" squeaked a sharp voice, and Mrs. Jerry came swimming out from behind the Big Rock. "Who says I ought to be at home with the children? It wouldn't do you a bit of harm to stay with them a little yourself, Jerry Muskrat."

Jerry looked a little foolish. Then he began to look a little worried. "Have you left them alone, my dear?" he asked anxiously. "Do you think it is quite wise? Aren't you afraid that they will get into mischief, or something will happen to them?"

"Huh!" said Mrs. Muskrat. "Why this sudden interest in your babies? I haven't heard you offer to stay at home with them. Don't you suppose I want to get out once in a while? It wouldn't do you a bit of harm to let those babies know that they have a father."

Jerry looked more and more foolish. "I'll go right home, my dear, and look after them," said he.

"Your offer is rather late," retorted Mrs. Jerry. "You see, the family isn't at home."

"Then where is it?" cried Jerry, beginning to fidget about uneasily.

"Right here," replied Mrs. Muskrat.

Then out swam a little Muskrat. Behind that one swam another. Then came a third. Right at his tail swam a fourth. A fifth was right behind him. Another followed. And last of all came one more, hurrying to catch up.

You should have seen Peter Rabbit's eyes about that time. Sitting on the bank and looking down at Mother Muskrat with all those little Muskrats behind her, he had a splendid chance to see what a Muskrat family looks like. "Seven!" gasped Peter. "My goodness gracious, what a family—seven."

Mother Muskrat looked up at Peter. "Well," said she, "what of it?"

"Nothing," exclaimed Peter hastily, "nothing, only it's such a big family."

"Nothing of the sort," retorted Mrs. Muskrat. "I hear that Uncle Billy Possum and Mrs. Possum have twice as many children. This is what I call just a comfortable family. It is just right, if you ask me."

WESTERLY

TWO YOUNG AUTO THIEVES ARRESTED NEAR ASHAWAY

(Special to the Bulletin)

WESTERLY, R. I., June 17—Detained at Westerly police headquarters this morning, until transferred to Kent county jail at East Greenwich, Arthur O'Neil, 17, and Lucien Audet, 19, the former giving his home as Fairfield, Conn., and the latter of Nashua, N. H., were brought in by a member of the department of Rhode Island state police.

The young men were arrested near Ashaway, by the state police who were on their trail. The youths stopped Wednesday at the home of George P. Hadley in Wrentham, asked for a drink of water and stole Hadley's automobile at the point of a pistol.

The trooper found the Massachusetts registration card of George P. Hadley with the number 272,243, and a .45-calibre automatic revolver in the car, which the men were driving.

The Wickford barracks of the state police was notified at 7 a. m. that two young men had stopped at a gasoline filling station at Belleville, ordered 10 gallons of gas and then had driven away without paying for it. They were driving in a green brougham, which answered the description of the Hadley car.

Two troopers at once hurried out in different directions. Within half an hour one of them had overhauled the brougham on Broad street, Ashaway, ordered the men out, and searched them and the car. The prisoners offered no resistance.

The trooper left his motorcycle beside the road, ordered the pair into the front seat of the automobile, got into the back seat himself and commanded the prisoners to drive to the Westerly police station. There the youths, each of whom appeared to be under 21 of age, gave the names of Hadley and Gilman, but refused to say anything further. They were taken to the Kent County jail.

The police of Westerly, Chief Kay of Hope Valley and Chief Longridge of Coventry were notified of the arrest. The Wrenthan police have also been informed, according to Capt. Harwood of the state police.

Capt. Harwood said that the men may be prosecuted in this state for theft of gasoline, for driving a car without the consent of the owner or for driving without a license, or they may be extradited to Massachusetts on the more serious charge of theft of the automobile.

Twenty-three pupils of Miss Mary Lawrence Vose on Wednesday afternoon gave a recital given under her direction. Many friends and relatives of the pianists were present.

The following pupils gave demonstrations of their progress: Ethel M. Kenyon, Harriet Patterson, Mary Dunn, Geneo Teskas, Madeline Keefe, Dorothy Hill, Mary Kenyon, Albert H. Green, Sophia Lynch, Catherine Lagueux, Joseph Sherman, Linora Buzzi, Dorothy Gilmore, Katherine Cahill, Josephine Nicolin, Barbara Kenyon, May Gould, Lenora Goldberg, Alvida Lewis, Mrs. Wilfred Prechette, Grace Heyes, Mrs. Victor Giovanini and Samuel J. Turrill.

A good size audience listened to the song recital in the high school hall Wednesday evening, by the pupils of Marie De Kuyzer of New York. Miss Mildred Taylor was at the piano for all the soloists except one, Mrs. Joel P. Sherman playing for Miss Mildred Taylor. The program presented was: Roses of Love, Squires, Florian's Song, Godard, Helene Donahue; By the Waters of Minnetonka, Lieurance, Come Down to Kew, Isels, Cecelia Bailey; Spirate Pur Spirate, Donaudy, La Mandoline, Debussy, Wie Melodien Zieht es, Brahms, Spring Fancy, Densa, Mildred Taylor; Calm as the Night, Bohm, Ritorna Vincitor, Aida, Verdi, Elizabeth Bonner; Sylvia, Oley Speaks, Gipsy Love Song, Herbert, Kenneth Burdick; The Rosy Morn, Ronald, Il Bacio, Arditi, Harriet Zinser; Cherry Ripe, Old English Air by Cyril Scott, La Gitanetta, Italian Folk Song, Love Went a Riding, Frank Bridge, Mrs. Joel P. At a meeting of the Central Village Improvement association, held in the town hall this week, over $300 was pledged by residents present, for the purpose of maintaining street lights in Central Village, for the remainder of the year, ending October 1st. This sum will replace the surplus, which has originally been held by the association for that purpose at this time of the year, and is now deficient. The Farnsworth company, which was represented at the meeting, announced that $200 which is that company's annual allotment toward street lighting would be paid immediately and the balance was guaranteed by others present at the meeting. The committee of this association comprising Charles Bragg, Stuart Ellsworth, and Edward Tillinghast, assured the association that the money would be obtained before Saturday night. The village is now certain of street lights until October, when funds will be sought again for the coming year. The total expense to maintain lights for one year is about $700, which is obtained by a canvass of the village by the improvement association.

Alfred Champagne, president and Bradford Danielson of the Moosup Chamber of Commerce, were appointed delegates to represent that body at the annual state convention of the State Chamber of Commerce to be held at the Griswold hotel, Eastern Point, Groton, June 22nd and 23rd. RED STAR OIL STOVE

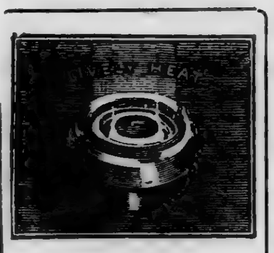
With The "Lively Heat" Burner

The Only Stove in the World Which Burns Oil Without Wicks or Wick Substitutes and Gives Gas Speed, Gas Range Convenience and Results.

Guarantees Perfect Oil Stove Cooking



"Lively Heat"
A Triumph of modern oil stove construction!

Red Star engineers found a way to produce "LIVELY HEAT" in an oil stove. The Red Star "LIVELY HEAT" Burner converts common kerosene or gasoline into a gaseous vapor, which is then burned and produces the same "LIVELY HEAT" as coal, gas, or electricity. Naturally there are no wicks or wick substitutes.

Come and See the Wonderful Cooking Benefits of Lively Heat

Don't buy an oil stove until you have seen the Red Star and found out how much more cooking service—how much more kitchen pleasure—how much more convenience and elimination of drudgery this modern Red Star Stove will mean to you.

Costs No More Than Any Good Oil Cook Stove

Size For Every Need— 2 to 6 Burners

32-Pc. Set Dishes FREE
With Each Red Star Purchased Today and Tomorrow

COME AND LEARN HOW MUCH BETTER OIL STOVE COOKING CAN BE.

FARMING FREAKS.

(Written Specially for The Bulletin)

I wish, now, that I had started, many years ago, making notes of the farming freaks that fell under my observation. If to the few which I can remember were added the many which I must have forgotten the list would have been an amusing if not an informative one.

By "freaks" I don't mean freak farmers alone, nor such things as two-headed calves and four-legged chickens solely. I mean all the odd and inexplicable occurrences which happen from year to year. The things which go contrary to the usual course. The things which are usually unexpected and unpredictable. The things which, after they've happened, 'steen different neighbors will have you 'steen different "theories" of,—not one of which wholly fits.

I've been started off on this line of thought by one that came like experience with certain garden crops. The spring opened [illegible] I worked quite a garden patch, planted [illegible] April 1. By that day [illegible] usual and [illegible] ... You [illegible] ... and [illegible] ... And our local [illegible] ... that every possible minutes [illegible] such crops to mature.

HABIT

Habit is a strange thing—habit's very funny;
Sometimes it takes time and strength, sometimes it costs money!
Sometimes it can hold us tight, in relentless arms,
Sometimes it can fill a world with miracles and charms.

Habit is a strange thing—habit's very queer;
Sometimes it can make our lives, sometimes it costs dear!
Sometimes it can order days in a splendid way,
Sometimes it can poison us, struggle though we may.

Habit is a strange thing." Habits old and new Break apart our fixed ideas, make our dreams come true.
Worry us, and shelter us from the storms that break—
Hurry us to bed at night; make us yawn and wake.

Habit is a strange thing—habit's very funny.
It can cost us very dear—both in time and money,
It can build our futures up, tear our pasts away—
"Habit is a cable and we weave its strands each day!"

Margaret E. Sangster, in Christian Herald.

WINDHAM

Children's day exercises were held in the Congregational church Sunday with an interesting program in charge of Mrs. James G. Graham assisted by Miss Inez Hopkins, Miss Marguerite Cook, Rev. J. G. Graham and Supt. Eden Cook. Miss Gertrude Arnold was organist and Mrs. Guy Richmond pianist. There were songs and recitations by the children. A duet by Miss Charlotte Lathrop and Miss Eleanor Sherman. Certificates and flowers were presented the cradle roll by the leader Miss Elizabeth Anderson. The twin sons of Mr. and Mrs. George Rose and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Smith were baptised. The church was decorated with birch trees, daisies, swamp apple and ferns, by Mrs. H. C. Lathrop.

Rev. and Mrs. J. G. Graham and sons Junior and Bill and Miss Eleanor Rose started Tuesday on a motor trip to Washington, D. C., to spend a month with relatives. Next Sunday, Rev. Mr. Wakte of New Haven will occupy the pulpit in the Congregational church.

Afternoon service will be omitted at St. Paul's Sunday and holy communion will be celebrated at 9 a. m.

Saturday afternoon, those taking part in the Children's day program were entertained at the parsonage by Rev. and Mrs. Graham. Games were played and fruit punch, cookies and ice cream cones were served. Helen Wood, in behalf of the children, presented Mrs. Graham a $5 gold piece.

Dr. Robert Yergason and family of Hartford and Mr. and Mrs. L. H. Levine of Pittsburg were at the Yergason cottage on South street Sunday.

Mrs. Moredock of Willimantic was a week end guest of Mr. and Mrs. Joel Wheeler.

Mr. and Mrs. Young and son of Williamstown, Mass., have been guests of Mr. and Mrs. Cassius Barstow.

Windham members of the community Men's club attended the supper in South Windham Monday night. Local men on the committee for the July supper are John F. Woods, W. S. Chappell and Dr. Guild.

There was considerable excitement in town Monday night when W. F. Maine's barn was destroyed by fire. Prompt action on the part of the local fire department assisted by the chemical tanks from South Windham and Willimantic saved the house, which caught fire several times. The blaze was discovered about 11 p. m. by R. G. Waterous. Mr. Maine was alone in the house at the time, Mrs. Maine being at their summer cottage at Groton Long Point.

The Saturday Night Bridge club met with Mr. H. C. Hatch and the Misses Johnson. Twenty eight hands were played. Refreshments were served.

SALEM

Mr. and Mrs. John Hills of Toledo, O., have arrived at their summer home.

Mrs. Edward Mitchell was a caller in New London Wednesday.

Miss Sidney Standish entertained a school friend, Miss Emma Meier of Marlborough over the week end.

Harold Darling and family were in East Haddam and Middletown Sunday.

Dwight Marvin of Colchester was here Tuesday.

Edward Standish and family were callers at Norman Boynton's in Oakdale, Sunday.

Clarence Bennett entertained friends from Waterbury over the week end.

Mrs. Helen Pratt and daughter Helen of Cambridge, Mass., spent several days here the first of the week.

NEW LONDON HEARS OF DISMISSAL OF STATE POLICEMAN BOBNICK

(Special to the Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, June 17—A report was in circulation today that State Police Officer J. J. Bobnick of this city, who was relieved of duty at the Groton barracks recently, being suspended by Supt. Robert Hurley, pending the investigation of charges of perjury having been made by Captain H. J. King, submarine base, has been dismissed from the service of the state. This report could not be confirmed from Groton barracks, it being stated there that no information of Bobnick's dismissal had been received from Hartford and that it was only known that Bobnick was under suspension. The charges against Bobnick was the result of the alleged variance of statements made by Bobnick in a case where Captain King's chauffeur, E. W. Jones, was involved

WORKED HARD TO SAVE $110, QUICKLY LOST HALF IN BOOZE

(Special to the Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, June 17—Oscar J. Johnson began a spree in this city Wednesday that was of short duration, but quite expensive. He came here with $110 in his pockets, but a few hours later when he was picked up by Officer Louis Wheeler he had only $55 of the roll. Johnson has been at work for the Willow Fertilizer Co., and had saved his money, intending to go to Chicago. That was the trip he was resuming when he was arrested. He pleaded guilty when he was presented in the police court this morning. He couldn't do else for the evidence was complete against him. When a man puts more than $50 for a few hours of dissipation he is paying a good price. So the court considered he had paid the penalty for foolishness. He was allowed to continue on his way, but he was instructed to get started this forenoon, instead of wasting around New London till night.

Dissatisfaction with the arrangement made to continue Bank street as a one-way thoroughfare is growing and by the beginning of the coming week it is [illegible] will be the sentiment of merchants in the favor of continuing traffic by [illegible] this same scheme will be [illegible] business will not be [illegible] with, as merchants now [illegible] to be into expedite. Merchants [illegible] that Bank street had been [illegible] nice street" under the new [illegible] was another representative [illegible] business had fallen off [illegible] since the change from [illegible] one-way to a one-way street. He [illegible] that the [illegible] seemed [illegible] now with as much as it used to [illegible] was the case that it would continue [illegible] ing empty in order to relieve [illegible] the needs of controlling vehicular traffic on Bank street have been [illegible] that with semi-trucks and [illegible] of Bank street and permit the [illegible] of the highway only by the lighter vehicles. It is represented that traffic officers stationed at town hill [illegible] divert traffic into the city up [illegible] and relieve much of the travel on Bank street. Still another way to meet any emergency is to station officers at Golden, Pearl and Tilley streets to send cars to the westward, whenever there is a congestion. It is held that there is never any congestion except at times on Saturday evening or Sunday and that this could be remedied in a minute, with officers at hand to attend to the duty of sending cars out at line when the jam came. It is represented that in no city in the country is motor traffic free from hindrance for a brief time on occasion where there is an influx of out of town officials. Operators of autos represent that it is a common thing for traffic to be congested everywhere for a few minutes, and these same operators hold that there is less congestion in New London than in any city in the state, considering the volume of travel by auto and the narrowness of the street.

Members of the order of Elks are delighted with the exceptionally satisfactory address delivered at the Lyceum theatre Wednesday evening, by the supreme exalted ruler of the order, W. H. Atwell of Texas. His talk was so instructive and his thoughts so forcefully expressed that all declared the address eloquent and convincing. Every lodge in the state nearly was represented in the theatre.

A force of carpenters was assigned to work at the municipal pier this morning where repairs were started. Several pieces of planking that had become dangerous because of decay are being removed and new timbers installed in their place. The work is being rushed so that it will be completed before race day ,the 25th.

Walter M. Ickrath, son of Mrs. Magdalen Ickrath, 80 William street and Miss Dorothy Jones, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Willis Jones, 3 Ocean avenue were married at 7 o'clock last night at the rectory of St. Joseph's church. The ceremony was performed by Rev. William C. Fitzsimmons. The witnesses were Mr. and Mrs. Walter M. Jones, brother and sister-in-law of the bride respectively. Mr. and Mrs. Ickrath are on a wedding trip and upon its completion will make their home in New Britain, where Mr. Ickrath is employed.

The cancellation of the Yale-Harvard freshman race because of violation of the honor system at examinations conducted at Gales Ferry recently as told on The Bulletin's sporting page today and announcement of which was made by officials of the Yale university athletic association, has not taken away from the interest in the regatta, apparently, for today there were numerous requests for tickets for the races at the union station and with no tickets obtainable. However, it is believed that a day or two before the race there will be some tickets available those that will be sent to New London from other cities.

Daniel Chesebro, Jr., of Burnett's corner, Mystic, is a patient at Lawrence hospital suffering from a fractured right leg, possible fracture of the right wrist and multiple abrasions and contusions of the body, the motorcycle he was driving last night colliding with an automobile owned and driven by Harry F. Hanks, also of Burnett's corner, Mystic. It is stated that the motorcycle rounded a curve and as it did so it encountered the automobile and before either Chesebro or Hanks could bring their machines to a stop they crashed together with great force. Chesebro was hurled a considerable distance and after being given medical treatment, was removed to the New London institution. The motorcycle was badly damaged.

William McKay, son of Mr. and Mrs. Angus McKay, of West street, this city and Miss Rhea E. Richard, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred T. Richard, of Mystic, were married at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon at the residence of the bride's parents. The ceremony was witnessed by a large number of relatives and friends, including guests from Norwich, New London, Groton, Mystic and Sydney, Cape Breton, N. S. The best man was Angus McKay and the bridesmaid was Miss Louise Richard, sister of the bride. Mr. and Mrs. McKay are on a wedding trip and when they return to New London they will reside at 341 Bank street. Mr. McKay is employed by the federal government, being one of the field agents in the internal revenue office in this city.

MOTOR LAW VIOLATIONS BRING FOUR INTO COURT

(Special to the Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, June 17—Robert Lincoln, of this city, was in the Ansfield town court Thursday evening for four violations of the motor vehicle laws, driving an unregistered automobile, displaying illegal numbers, illegal front lights and illegal rear lights. He pleaded guilty and was fined $55 and costs. Lincoln, whose Chevrolet sedan was stolen recently, told the court that he had taken the car, which he was operating when arrested by State Policeman Clifford Willis last Saturday night, after receiving information regarding the whereabouts of a car answering the description of his, and that he was on his way to the location as directed by his informants when he was arrested. In view of this story Judge George H. Andrews remitted all but $25 of the fine. The total assessment amounted to $49.95. Grand Juror C. E. King prosecuted for the state.

James E. Mooney, 348 Franklin avenue, Hartford, was released on bail early Thursday evening, insuring his appearance in the local police court in the morning to answer to a charge of reckless driving. Mooney was arrested by Officer Pierre Marrotte about 7 o'clock, when his Buick touring car nearly collided with the officer's motorcycle, which he was passing. According to the officer, Mooney continued on his way in an easterly direction on Main street at a speed of less than 35 miles an hour. At the police station after the arrest Mooney posted a bond of $50.

Charles Seigal of New York, a summer resident in this vicinity, was arrested Thursday evening by State Policeman Henry Heinold for speeding near the westerly city line.

David E. Condon of Hartford when charged with reckless driving in the Waterbury town court before Justice of the Peace A. M. Gilman Thursday night, entered a plea of nolo contendere. This was overruled and the court imposed a fine of $25 and costs. Justice Gilman remitted $15 of the fine and the total assessment amounted to $17.65. Attorney Arthur C. Kelley of the city represented the accused. Grand Juror Robert G. Brooks prosecuted. Officer Clifford Willis, who made the arrest was present at court.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Mohegan Restaurant Completes Alterations

The owners of the Mohegan restaurant set a new pace in altering their new home at 271 Main street, formerly known as Fern's. On June 7th Harry Diachyshyn visited the New York office of the Mohican company, owners of the 371 Main street and consummated a lease whereby the Mohegan restaurant acquired the premises formerly occupied by Fern's restaurant. All the fixtures and equipment owned by the Fern's interests were purchased by the Mohegan owners on the day following the signing of the new lease and in 11 days, the new premises were entirely renovated, remodeled and equipped with most modern up to the minute restaurant furniture, decorations and appliances. The new restaurant will be open for business Saturday, June 19, 5 a. m.

The Mohegan restaurant is owned and under the personal management of Harry Diachyshyn who has been in the restaurant business in our city for nine years. Harry's experience antidates his coming to Norwich, having been connected for about 15 years with several large restaurants in New York. His constant application to his business and his striving for the comfort of his patrons, resulted in such large following that the present quarter became entirely too small for his large business. The newly acquired accomodations will add several hundred square feet of floor space, most elaborate restaurant fixtures and one of the largest and up to date sanitary kitchens with latest modern cooking utensils which will enable the owners to render more efficient service to their numerous patrons. Harry is abreast of the times and for years he cherished the ambition of following the progressive merchants of Norwich who feel that the best is none too good for the Rose of New England in his new restaurant. Harry's ambition is realized. His new place will equal in comfortable accommodation tasteful decoration and modern appliances to any restaurant in the [illegible] cities of the state.

Breed Theatre.

George O'Brien, who had the lead in Fox Films spectacular production "The Johnstown Flood," and Anita Stewart, who starred in "Never the Twain Shall Meet," have the leading roles in "Rustling for Cupid," the latest Fox Films release which will be seen at the Breed theatre today and Saturday.

These well-known film folk have Peter B. Kyne's best drama of ranch life as their first production together and they are under the direction of Irving Cummings, who made a score of his own production before joining the Fox Films forces and creating the Johnstown Flood.

The result of this combination of cinema talent fills a masterpiece of screen story telling with the correct balance between drama and humor through unusual situations and vividly drawn characters.

The first prize role of 1926 was copped by William Haines when it was decided that he should play "Brown of Harvard." The Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer picture which will be the next attraction at the Breed theatre was begun immediately after the holidays, at the studio, although many scenes taken around Cambridge and the university were filmed during the fall term. Jack Pickford, William Haines, Mary Reland, Francis X. Bushman, Jr., Mary Alden and David Torrence play important roles.

Invitations are out for the weddings of Miss Harriett Jeannette Kneeland only daughter of Mr and Mrs. William A. Kneeland, of Hartford and Ralph Taylor only son of Mr and Mrs. [illegible] N. Taylor of Lebanon the wedding will take place Saturday June 26 [illegible] the Kneeland home

New Beauty Cream Becomes Popular

You will be enthusiastic over a new French Process Cream for whitening and beautifying the skin. It is so pure and different from other creams. Women say they see a great improvement in their complexions after the first application. If you want smoother, brighter and younger skin, use MELLO-GLO Cream. It's wonderful. At Portcous & Mitchell Co.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

MARKETS AT A GLANCE

New York

Stocks, strong. U. S. Steel at record high. General Electric soars 12 points.

Bonds, steady. French issues recover, steel bonds higher.

Foreign exchanges, heavy. French and Belgian francs reject.

Cotton, steady, trade buying.

Sugar, barely steady, commission house selling.

Coffee, easy, easier Brazilian market.

Chicago

Wheat lower, favorable harvesting reports.

Corn, barely steady, sympathy with wheat.

Cattle, steady.

Hogs firmer.

MARKET WAS ACTIVE

NEW YORK, June 17—(AP)—Bullish enthusiasm, inspired by lower money rates and favorable trade and crop reports, ran rampant in today's stock market which witnessed one of the greatest buying movements since the collapse of the "bull" market last February. Long operations dissolved a long list of bet sales, ranging from 1 to nearly 12 points, with total sales reaching 1,750,000 shares, the largest since March 31 and compared with 1,040,000 yesterday.

While various odders celebrated a wide variety of issues, U. S. Steel, common and General Motors maintained the leadership of the upward movement, the former touching a new high record for all time at 159 3-4, and the latter a new high for the year at 115. Buying of General Motors, which has advanced about 25 points since the first of June, was stimulated by the announcement that May sales totaled 141,661 cars, a new high monthly record despite the fact that April has been the peak month in the industry for the past ten years.

The heavy demand for the high grade railroad and industrial shares seemed to confirm reports that high class seeking investment, were finding their way into the stock market. [illegible] mean gains in representative issues.

General Electric scored the largest individual gain, closing 11 1-4 points net, 247 1-4, after having touched 249. U. S. Cast Iron Pipe jumped 9 1-2 points to 122 and then sold down a little.

Commodity prices lacked uniformity. Active wheat futures showed little change with fluctuations governed largely by weather reports. Cotton attained 16 to 17 points despite the crop news. Raw sugar was unchanged and coffee dropped 3 to 16 points.

Call money opened at 3 1-2 per cent, the lowest renewal rate since May 5 and remained at that rate all day. Time money and commercial paper rates were unchanged.

Foreign exchanges displayed a heavy tone. Demand sterling held fairly steady around $4.86 3-16 but practically all the continental rates were sound. French francs dropped nearly 10 points to 3.81 cents. Belgian francs yielded a similar loss [illegible] Italian [illegible] [illegible] 3.86 cents.

"KEEP OUT" SIGNS AT SESQUI-CENTENNIAL NOW

"Keep Out" signs at every turn greet visitors at present to the sesqui-centennial exposition at Philadelphia, according to the report of a Norwich man who has just returned from there.

The grounds are filled with gangs of workmen hustling like mad to get things in some sort of shape for the official opening ceremonies on July 1 when President Coolidge will be there, but in the Norwich man's opinion it will be Sept. 1 before the exposition will be anywhere near complete. Only two of the state buildings are finished now, these being Delaware and New Jersey. The Connecticut is the next nearest finished, while the New York building has not been started and the Pennsylvania building is only partly finished. The big hall of agriculture and liberal arts is only partly finished and there is staging yet around the Liberty bell and all over the grounds men are engaged in planting trees and arranging the landscape effects.

But even in this unfinished state, the admission charges are just the same as if the exposition were complete, and the Norwich man says that any one who visits it now is doomed to suffer big disappointment.

SONS OF REVOLUTION ELECT GODARD PRESIDENT

Ernest E. Rogers of New London was elected trustee to the national society at the annual outing and meeting of the Connecticut Society of the Sons of the American Revolution held at the New Haven Lawn club Tuesday. Other officers were elected as follows:

President, George S. Godard of Hartford; vice presidents, Charles S. Sprague, Bridgeport; H. Wales Lines, Meriden; William W. Buckingham, New Haven; secretary, Robert F. Bradley, Bridgeport; treasurer, Charles G. Stone, Hartford; registrar, F. Clarence Bissell, Hartford; historian, Frank B. Gay, Hartford; chaplain, Rev. Orville A. Petty, New Haven; genealogist, Leverett Bellamy, Hartford; auditors, Frederick H. Wall, Bridgeport, Edmund E. Freeman, East Hartford.

Reports for the year showed a gain in membership of 40 and a total membership of 1,109 throughout the state.

SIX COOKING LESSONS FOR CLASS AT ST. JOSEPH'S

The fourth in the course of six lessons being given at St. Joseph's new Community house, by Miss Gladys L. Peckham, home service expert, was held Tuesday evening at 7 o'clock, 48 women and girls attending. To date Miss Peckham has instructed the class in making biscuits, salads, pie and cakes.

Saturday morning Miss Peckham gave an address at the Hotel Thorwald, Gloucester, Mass., on "The Organization of a Home Service Department," speaking at the two-days' conference of the Regional Sales association of New England. There were 125 present, including guests from gas companies in New England, New York, Pennsylvania and New Jersey.

Wednesday afternoon, Miss Peckham demonstrated for her regular class at Norwich gas and electric house, the use of over-hot cooker, turn over toaster, percolator, three-in-one table stove, which bakes, broils and poaches at the same time, made waffles and coffee. Her lesson next Wednesday afternoon is to be on making amber marmalade and carrot marmalade.

BOND MARKET

NEW YORK, June 17—(AP)—The strength and activity of foreign obligations featured today's moderately active bond market which was overshadowed in trading interest by the buoyancy of stocks. The undeviating firmness of prices was well maintained in all sections of the list, although the scarcity of attractive yields among domestic corporation issues limited buying operations in this quarter.

In view of the delay in reorganizing the French cabinet, there was nothing to explain the strong buying support for French bonds. The government's 8s were carried up more than a point to 108, within a fraction of the year's high, and substantial gains were recorded by the other government, railroad and municipal issues. Japanese obligations view with the French in attracting the attention of buyers, several issues going to new high levels for the year. Great Consolidated Power 5s rose more than a point.

A brisk demand for steel company liens, promoted by the rise in these stocks and the turn for the better in the steel industry, was counteracted by the weakness of the oil issues. Bethlehem Steel 6s duplicated their previous peak price of par while Trumbull Steel 6s and Central Steel 5s pushed into higher ground.

Railroad liens moved at a slower pace but several issues developed independent strength. New Haven 4s of 1917 recorded a 7 point gain on a few sales, while Atchison convertible and adjustment 4s, Louisville & Nashville 5s and Cuba railroad 5s were strong.

CHICAGO GRAIN MARKET

CHICAGO, June 17—(AP)—Wheat showed stubborn resistence to downward pressure through most of today's trading on the Chicago board of trade. Although prices averaged higher most of the day, the advances were hard to hold because of a lack of outside demand, and the market finished weak, at a loss of 1-4c to 3-4c and corn and oats shed comparatively steady, but were without feature, corn finishing unchanged to 1-4c off, and oats 1-8c lower to 1-8c higher. Provisions suffered a setback of 2 to 22c, with the greatest loss in lard.

The weather was the chief factor with the trade. Holders of wheat became discouraged when it developed that European buyers were apathetic despite bullish advices from the other side. There was some buying at the outset but this was of a local character, and near the close efforts to instill outside interest failed, causing a break from the higher levels of the day.

Corn and oats were relatively steady and moved within narrow limits. What little trading existed, was of a local character. General sentiment in corn was bearish. There was some buying of oats on the firm trend, both profit taking was encountered on the bulge.

Provisions averaged lower in price, despite a firm start. The market ran into free selling orders, which caused prices to sag as buying power slackened.

CURB MARKET

NEW YORK, June 17—(AP)—Sluggishness of the oil stocks featured today's curb market which failed to participate in the general buying movement which swept over the "big board." Trading showed only a slight expansion in volume, the day's sales aggregating about 325,000 shares.

Heaviness of the oil shares, in the face of record-breaking gasoline consumption and unusually high earnings by the principal producing and refining companies, was a disappointment to the speculative community.

Industrials were quiet and price movements decidedly mixed. General Fire Proofing responded to the declaration of an extra dividend of 70 cents a share by jumping 8 points to 72.

Good buying developed however in special public utilities, American Light and Traction was the feature, soaring 11 points to 220. Empire Power was bid up 2 5-8 to 25. Consistent gains in earnings provided the background for the advance in these issues.

COTTON

NEW YORK, June 17—(AP)—Cotton spot steady, middling 18.35.

NO MORE PILES

Thousands Bless Dr. Leonhardt, the Physician Who Discovered This Common Sense Remedy

It sounds as if the surgeon's knife is the only method of escape from the misery of piles, but one has never heard of the new treatment known as Dr. Leonhardt's HEM-ROID.

This Doctor's treatment is internal. By experimenting for years he discovered the exact cause of piles and then went further and compounded a remedy that would remove the cause.

Dr. Leonhardt went even further to benefit by his discovery and so Hem-Roid will be no disappointment or delay. Lee A. Osgood and all druggists are authorized to sell HEM-ROID with guarantee that it will do as stated or money back.

On that honorable basis every sufferer should secure a package of Dr. Leonhardt's HEM-ROID today.

COUNCIL VOTES APPROPRIATIONS

AUTHORIZED BY CITY MEETING

The court of common council at an adjourned meeting in the council chamber Thursday night, Mayor Malo B. BOYS' BIG OLYMPIC DAY TO BEGIN WITH PARADE

(Special to the Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, June 18—With a street parade, field events and a championship ball game in the local grammar school league listed on the program, Boys' Olympic day will be held here Saturday afternoon. The street parade, starting at one o'clock, will be headed by St. Joseph's Boy Scout band, which will leave headquarters and move north on Jackson street as far as Natchaug grammar school, where the youthful musicians will be joined by the pupils of that school. Assembling, the delegation of marchers will parade down the thoroughfare to Valley street. Pupils of the other schools in the city will assemble on Valley street near Broad, and will bring up the rear of the procession The parade will then proceed in a westerly direction on Valley street as far as North street, down that thoroughfare and down Main street to Recreation park Girls as well as boys from the fourth grade inclusive to the higher grades will participate in the parade The paraders will be given refreshment tickets as they enter the park. J. E. McCarthy will be marshal.

The program at the park will open with the individual field events, the sprints to be staged in the running track in the rear of the grandstand and the running broad and high jumps in front of the grandstand. The events will be simultaneous and will be conducted in the following order as to classes: A, sprint, high jump, broad jump; B, broad jump, sprint, high jump; C, high jump, broad jump, and sprint. 195 boys have filed entry blanks for the events. The grammar school relay will follow. Prizes will then be awarded and refreshments will be served before the opening of the ball game.

A surprise shower in honor of the approaching marriage of Captain Edna Atkinson nwas held at the Salvation Army citadel on Walnut street Thursday evening, in connection with a social for the members and their friends. The hall was artistically decorated, the color scheme being pink and white. Captain Atkinson was led through an aisle formed with white streamers borne by Misses Leora and Hazel Whitehouse. Mrs. Gertrude Sinclair presented Captain Atkinson a cut glass water set. The captain responded and to her surprise a cupid's arrow, and a large white heart and received a shower of handerchiefs. Instrumental music, singing and refreshments followed.

Thirty members of Windham Girls' club motored to Spring Hill Thursday evening and had a chicken dinner at Wildfern. Miss Hester B. Crutcher, executive secretary of the Connecticut Society for Mental Hygiene, was the guest of honor, and delivered an interesting address on Personality. Group singing was in charge of Miss Alice Peterson. Later in the evening in the city, an informal reception was held for Miss Crutcher.

Friday morning in the police court, James E. Mooney of 248 Franklin avenue, Hartford, was fined five dollars and costs on a charge of reckless driving, the assessment amounting to $10.15.

Charles Seigel of New York, who has been at Columbia lake for several weeks, entered a plea of guilty to a charge of speeding. The New Yorker was fined ten dollars and costs, the assessment amounting to $10.15. The court also called Seigel's attention to the fact that he was operating a New York car in this city longer than the 15 day limit and instructed him either to return to the Empire state or else take out Connecticut registration.

Napoleon L'Heureux, charged with intoxication, who was arrested at midnight Thursday evening, on complaint of his boarding mistress, was fined five dollars and costs, after he had asked the court for another chance saying that he had a job in state road work.

Social workers from this city attended a luncheon meeting of the Social Workers' council of New London and Windham counties held this week with Mrs. Alice Hunt at "Bride Brook Farm," Niantic. About 40 workers were present.

Mrs. Olive Alexander and Mrs. Myra Johnson of Pleasant street were dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert F. Clark of Mansfield Center Thursday.

Mrs. Owen O'Neill and her sister, Mrs. George Keeney, were visitors in Hartford Friday.

The graduating class of Windham Street Model school and the teacher, Miss Mary Quinn, had a picnic at Columbia lake Thursday afternoon. Principal George H. Shafer of the Normal school and Mrs. Shafer and Principal and Mrs. Frederick S. Noble were present as guests. Sports and a luncheon were enjoyed.

The D. A. R. auction club of two tables, composed of South Coventry and local women, were entertained at the tea room Thursday by Mrs. Fannie Tracy and Mrs. Jennie Isham. Mrs. Herbert R. Chappell made the highest score.

John B. Knox, secretary of a fire insurance company of Hartford, was a visitor in the city Thursday on his way to Providence.

Miss Elizabeth M. Case who has completed the college year at Wellesley college, is spending the summer until the first of July with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Case of Windham street.

Keen interest is being manifested by property owners and citizens of Andover in the hearing that is to be held by the public utilities commission at the state capitol in Hartford next Wednesday morning at ten o'clock, in regard to the movement to eliminate the grade crossing of the New Haven railroad just west of Andover station. The movement has been under way for some time by the state highway department which has had tentative plans prepared for the elimination of the crossing, by changing over the highway to run from a point near H. T. Rosenbaum's store on the east in an almost straight westerly direction, to a point near the sheds of the First Congregational church and coming out on the main highway, a distance of a little over half a mile. This plan would bring the highway just north of the railroad tracks and station and some distance from the present crossing. The road would pass over properties owned by Charles E. White, H. T. Rosenbaum, Elmer Merritt and the First Congregational Ecclesiastical society. The project is not looked upon with favor by residents of the town using the west underpass and beyond the crossing. In this section is the principal part of the mercantile business of the town is transacted, the merchants of the town figuring that the change in the road would affect their business as well as divert traffic from the present course. As to the Andover crossing being a dangerous one, they claim that it is no worse than those in other places in the state which have not been subjected to criticism by the state highway department. It was stated today that only one person was ever killed at this crossing through an accident. Those interested in the hearing feel that the hearing should be held in Andover and not in Hartford.

STRANGERS TOOK TIP AND HAD FAMOUS LUCK

(Special to the Bulletin)

JEWETT CITY, June 18—Two strangers in a machine with Rhode Island registration came down over Taylor Hill just at dusk. The first house they came to was E. M. Gray's and here they stopped to rest and refresh themselves. Mr. Gray was interested to see and admire their fine creel of fish. The older of the two told of visiting a brook away down next to the Preston line, (probably Broad Brook). Seated in the door of a partly dilapidated house, that standing near the brook, overshadows an old grist and saw mill, long fallen into disuse and decay, was an evident native of the land. Addressing him, the angler inquired if there was anything in the brook. "No, nothin' special" replied the man "only mebby a few trout."

The visitors "threw in" below the old broken spillway and in 20 minutes landed seven, averaging 14 oz each.

Thursday afternoon the outing and [illegible] day of Jewett City chamber of commerce, William M. McNicol, president, proved all that hard work by the committee and carefully prepared plans could do in the way of a grand success. Close to 100 were there on the beautiful grounds of the Campson-the-Quinebaug when the president fired the opening gun. Outstanding among the sports and amusements of the day was the great baseball game between the married and single men.

Score, 22 to 7 in favor of the married men. The lineup, married men: Hal Chase, catch; Bob Wilber, pitch; Chet Dudkowski, first base; Lester Blanchard, second base; Chet Stafford, short stop; Sol Mugovero, third base; F. Lohmme, left field; Frank Johnson and Dr. Jennings, center field; Velo Maynard, right field.

In the eighth inning Dr. Jennings was put in as a pinch hitter, taking Lohmme's place and doing very well. He made a hit into right field and stole second, sliding half the way to get there, scoring on a well placed hit by Velo Maynard.

With three men on and two out, Frank Johnson made a spectacular catch in left field in the last inning, thereby putting the game on ice. Frank fell over backward and was sitting on the ground as he caught the ball barehanded. After the third inning the marvelous pitching by Bob Wilbar held the single men to a few scattered hits. The infield was well covered by Lester Blanchard and "Sol" Mugovero. Only one base was stolen by the single men because Lester Blanchard covering second caught the fast ones from Hal Chase like an old timer. The fast ones at short stop were covered by Shorty Stafford without error, some of the stops made by him would shame a professional.

Three pitchers were knocked out of the box by the married men and poor support was the cause. The married men outhit the single men every inning, making 18 hits to their 5. Bob Wilbur made 14 strikeouts, none were noted for the single men.

The only spectacular feature on the single men's team was the hitting by Ben Schleifer.

Only one casualty occurred the dislocation of a little finger on Jim Dolan's left hand by a fast grounder.

Between innings B. C. Bliss and Homer Gagnon held a fast and furious game of quoits, Bliss winning two out of three.

After the game a 200-yard dash was run between Ed Blanchard, Chet Dudkowski and Sol Wechsler, Chet Dudkowski winning by 42 inches, Sol Wechsler being a close second.

Eudor LeClaire sponsored the baitdiggers and C. L. Dudkowski acted as whip apron string delegation.

The evening session was enlivened, and then some, by a spirited open forum on the prohibition issue. The judges declared the debate a draw.

"Sol" was there with the portable pantry and told the chamber when to eat.

Charles R. Carey is the owner of a well preserved copy of The Democrat, printed in Northampton, Mass., in July, 1811, 125 years ago.

There is the full text of a petition of the citizens of the city of New Haven to the president of the United States, James Madison, and his unabridged reply. The appeal has to do with the times when there began to be restrictions placed upon foreign trade in accordance with administration policies.

This issue of The Democrat is now of special value because it contains the first advertisement setting forth in a full column, the plans of the "Sol" Mugovero monument lottery. The monument was erected as the direct result of a gigantic lottery, which, less than 100 years ago was perfectly O. K. and legal.

The capital prize was $50,000 with a grand total of $350,000.

The tickets have the following text:

This scheme to those who purchase with an eye to gain, offers advantages equal to any ever presented in America. But independent of all those pecuniary advantages, so flattering to those who hope to gain the highest prizes, it is expected that every citizen will find other inducements to bring his generous feeling into action on this occasion. The patriot and philanthropist, the statesman and the soldier, the mechanic and the merchant, and the private citizen, all may be gratified with the most suitable opportunity to adventure, that will, in all probability, be ever offered to them again. For what sentiment is there more dear to every American, than the memory of him who we all hail as the father of our happy country. Or what act more noble, more worthy of a free people, than to rear before the eyes of an admiring world a monument sacred to his fame. The tickets were sold in Albany from $10 to 50 cents.

BELIEVE GERBITZ DOG WAS BITTEN BY MAD DOG

(Special to the Bulletin)

JEWETT CITY, June 18.—A Scotch collie owned by Joe Gerbitz, who lives in Lawton Village in the north part of this town, ran away, to Plainfield this week and bit Miss Josephine Armstrong, assistant principal of Plainfield high school, also bit a child. He was brought back and apparently developed hydrophobia. Special Deputy Howard E. Elliott and Ellis Hill of Hartford, with Dog Warden W. R. Palmer of Griswold went to the Gerbitz home Friday, shot the dog and sent the head at once to the state laboratory in Hartford. Dr. G. H. Jennings was notified [illegible] that the dog had rabies. Miss Armstrong's hand and arm were badly bitten and she was taken by Byron Sweet, a Plainfield high school student of Jewett City, to Dr. [illegible] Moosup who cauterized the wound. Warden Palmer said that dogs in the vicinity would have to be quarantined and that he thought in all probability that this dog might have been one bitten by the McKenna dog, which was killed lately.

Here's Instant Relief from Bunions and Soft Corns

Actually Reduces the Swelling—Soft Corns Dry Right Up and Can Be Picked Off.

Lee & Osgood Says Emerald Oil Must Give Complete Satisfaction or Money Cheerfully Refunded.

Get a two-ounce bottle of Moone's Emerald Oil (full strength) today. Every well stocked drug store has this, with the distinct understanding that your money will be cheerfully returned if it does not reduce the inflammation, soreness, and pain much quicker than any remedy you ever used.

Your bunions may be so swollen and inflamed that you think you can't go another step. Your shoes may feel as if they are cutting right into the flesh. You feel sick all over with the pain and torture and pray for quick relief. What's to be done?

Two or three applications of Moone's Emerald Oil and in fifteen minutes all the pain and soreness disappears. A few more applications at regular intervals and the swelling reduces.

And as for Soft Corns a few applications each night at bed time and they just seem to shrivel right up and scale off.

No matter how discouraged you have been with pads, shields or other applications, if you have not tried Emerald Oil then you have something to learn. Something that will end your foot troubles forever.

It's a wonderful formula—this combination of essential oils with camphor and other antiseptics so marvelous that thousands of bottles are sold annually for reducing varicose or swollen veins.

Lee & Osgood and every good druggist guarantee Moone's Emerald Oil to end your foot troubles or money back.

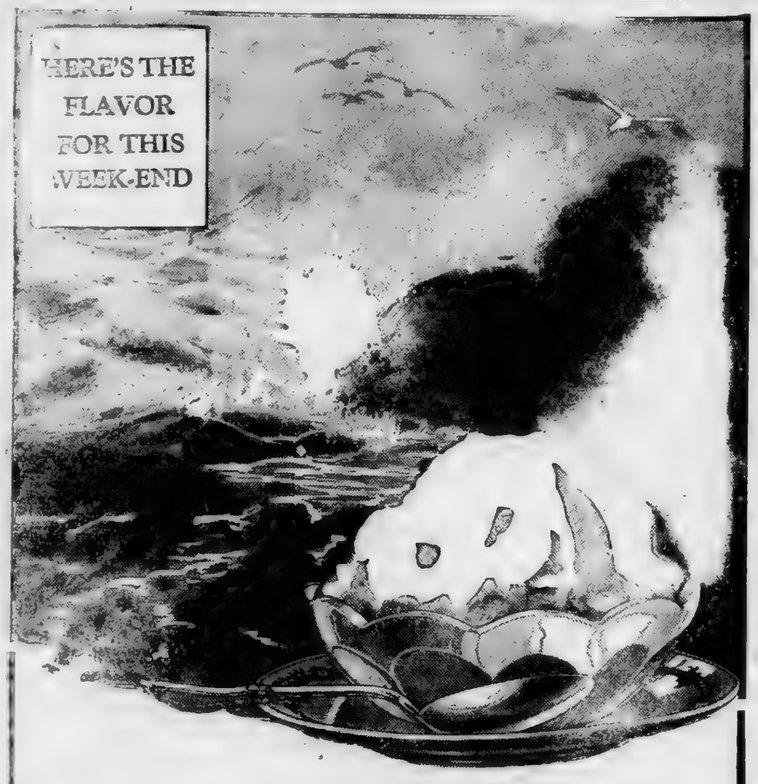
COULD NOT PUT ON HER SHOES

Mrs. Daugherty Was so Weak

In a little town of the Middle West, was a discouraged woman. For four months she had been in such poor health that she could not stoop to put on her own shoes. Unable to do her work, unable to go out of doors or enjoy a friendly chat with her neighbors, life seemed dark indeed to Mrs. Daugherty.

Then one day, a booklet was left at her front door. Idly she turned the pages. Soon she was reading with quickened interest. The little booklet was filled with letters from women in conditions similar to hers who had found better health by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

"I began taking the Vegetable Compound," Mrs. Daugherty writes, "and after I took the third bottle, I found relief. I am on my eleventh bottle and I don't have that trouble any more, and feel like a different woman. I recommend the Vegetable Compound to everyone I see who has trouble like mine. I am willing to answer any letters from women asking about the Vegetable Compound."—Mrs. Ed. Daugherty, 1308 Orchard Ave., Muscatine, Iowa.



Chocolate Nut Bisque

"Say, Ma, this's good! Why don't you get twice as much? I could eat lots more. Don't taste Ice Cream like this every day. What's it called? Chocolate Nut Bisque, eh? Well, I'm no nut when I tell the world that's a real flavor."

No wonder it's good! Tasty English walnuts are whipped into a wonderful custard and then blended with delicious chocolate Ice Cream. Delightful! Have it for dessert on Sunday—enjoy some at your dealer's today.

"I Never Knew—"

Well—in the first place I got a letter from a girl.

One of those letters full of life and youth and get-up-and-go—just a real red-blooded American girl.

She had a confession to make.

She came home from college for her Spring vacation with a picture of the Jordan Playboy and posted it on her father's dresser.

The inscription read, "A daily reminder for father."

Did it work? It did.

Then she wrote this letter.

"I never knew what a motor car could be until I drove the Playboy.

"I never knew what a thrill there was in the smooth, ample, flowing power that only an eight can give.

"I never knew while driving father's big bulky car what ease of handling really was.

"I never knew the difference between a cheap car and a real one.

"You see I had not had the experience until I got the Playboy.

"You have advertised the Fullsteel body—

"You have featured the Line Eight motor—

"Why don't you tell everybody in the world how it feels to drive a Jordan."

That girl has an idea.

I'll tell you why it is good.

Engineers who have built motors for many years tell us the Line Eight is the smoothest eight cylinder on the road.

Jordan owners by the thousands who are driving this car will tell you of its power, light weight and road balance.

Everybody knows the charm of the Playboy appearance.

Every Jordan owner knows the reliability of Jordan engineering.

Only those, who like this girl, have driven the Line Eight know how that motor feels.

There is a leap and a dash and a get-away-quick which makes the person accustomed to driving other cars feel that at last this is motor satisfaction.

Watch the Jordan jump away in the lead when the traffic whistle blows.

Notice the ease with which it finds a place at the curb.

Talk to the owner and you will learn of his satisfaction.

By all means drive a Jordan and feel that motor before you buy.

DANIELSON

SERVICE BATTERY LEAVES FOR TOBYHANNA, July 6

(Special to the Bulletin)

DANIELSON, JUne 18—Plans for the journey of the officers and men of the Service battery by motor trucks from Danielson to Tobyhanna, Pa., call for an early assembly at the state armory here on the morning of July 6. They will have breakfast at the armory and expect to be on their way by 6:30.

Proceeding to Hartford, the battery will stop at the arsenal there to pick up certain equipment, including cots and other baggage. The day's run will end between Waterbury and Danbury. The second day's run will bring the convoy to the Hudson river, which will be crossed on the Bear Mountain bridge. The trucks will travel in almost a direct line across a section of New York state. Three nights will be spent on the road, the battery getting into camp at Tobyhanna some time on the third day out from Danielson. With other trucks that will join the party at various points in Connecticut there will be about 75 machines in the convoy on the journey through New York state and into Pennsylvania.

This year's fireworks display at Goodyear will be on the evening of July 3. Saturday, the night before the Fourth. There has been some confusion in the minds of many as to the night when the display was to be given, some believing that the Fourth itself was the night and will be observed Monday, the 5th. However, Saturday, July 3, is actually the night before the Fourth and that's when Goodyear will have its biggest event of the year and about the best fireworks display for the number of years it has been given. Goodyear is expecting a special train from Eastern Connecticut to come to the place and there will be a big crowd.

As delightful an outing as the members of Sarah Williams Danielson chapter, D. A. R. have enjoyed in a long time was that held Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. George M. Keat in Brooklyn. Following the business meeting a cafeteria supper was enjoyed on the lawn. The hostesses were Mrs. George M. Keat, Mrs. Alice Sabin, Miss Bessie Chappell, Mrs. W. H. Mason, Mrs. L. S. Ingalls, Mrs. J. D. Potter and Mrs. Helen S. Howe. The members entertained many guests.

The baccalaureate service for the junior class of Killingly high school will be held Sunday evening, beginning at 7:30 o'clock, at the Westfield Congregational church. Seats at the front and center of the auditorium will be reserved for members of the class and the high school faculty. Rev. Harding W. Hayden, the pastor, will give the sermon, his subject being "Today." Clergymen from other churches in town will occupy seats on the platform. The musical part of the service will include two selections by a special quartet and a solo by Mrs. Harold E. Atwood. The girls' choir of the church will be augmented by girls from some of the other church choirs and they will sing the processional and the recessional.

Friday of next week at Bates' grove, Webster lake, a union picnic for the Congregational, Baptist, Episcopalian and Methodist Sunday schools of Danielson will be held. Motor coaches and private cars are to supply transportation for those parts that it is expected will be long. The committees in charge of the arrangements are: transportation, B. G. Hopkins; grounds and concessions, A. D. Pierce; entertainment, Mrs. S. P. Marshall; sports, Miss May Hammett, Tom Day, Mrs. H. W. Gaylord, Lyman Lyon, Douglas Logee, Alice Bacon, Mrs. H. W. Bigelow, R. C. Stimson; food, Mrs. A. E. Withington, Mrs. Lyon, Mrs. T. E. Hammett, Mrs. J. H. Smith, Mrs. A. L. Reed, Mrs. F. O. Armington, Mrs. Sidney P. Stone, Miss Alice Briggs.

The Buddies are out in front in the standing of Danielson's Twilight league with a percentage of 1.000, this representing three games won and none lost. The Buddies are the American Legion team and are under the management of Lucient Lambert. There is great but friendly rivalry between the six teams and they will play out a schedule that will not end until late in the summer.

Members of Moriah lodge, A. F. and A. M., are to assemble at their lodge rooms, Sunday morning and march in a body to St. Alban's Episcopal church to attend the 11 o'clock service in observance of St. John's day. Rev. Leonard R. Richards will conduct the service and preach the sermon.

Clarence Young of Cleveland was a visitor here Friday with his mother, Mrs. Arielia W. Young, who has been critically ill for a number of weeks.

Boys and girls of Danielson churches will engage at noon Sunday at the Baptist church in a speaking contest arranged by the W. C. T. U. and the public has been invited to be present.

Charles Pierce left Friday afternoon for New York and this (Saturday) afternoon will be enroute to Chicago, where a business trip has called him and where he will have an opportunity to attend some of the ceremonies incident to the Eucharistic congress.

Miss Grace Stanton is to be the speaker Sunday morning at the worship led by the pastor, Rev. C. J. Armstrong, at the Baptist church and will give a report of the Northern Baptist convention recently held in Washington, D. C., and which she attended.

Members of the senior class of Killingly high school to be graduated next Thursday are on a motor trip to Mt. Tom today (Saturday) for the class picnic. They left, if they left on schedule time, at 5:30 this (Saturday) morning. They will spend the day at the mountain and hope for a moonlight ride on their way home tonight.

Sensing the fact that a great many of them probably have not heard about it as yet, being busy at one thing and another, it may be well to mention that Sunday will be Fathers' day and quite a bit is to be done about it.

Arthur Williams, student at the Connecticut Agricultural college is in New Hampshire and will be engaged there on forestry work during the summer season.

A ladies' night gathering was arranged for Friday by members of the Men's club of St. Alban's church, in the parish house.

John C. Vilbert of Springfield is spending the week end with friends in Danielson.

All bids for the $150,000 of the town of Killingly school bonds will be in by Thursday noon of next week. The bids are being received by Town Clerk Frank T. Preston.

That the people may have an opportunity to attend the baccalaureate service at the Congregational church here Sunday evening, there will be no Sunday evening service at the Congregational church in South Killingly.

A number from this town went to the Peter J. Cnabot farm at Wauregan Friday evening for the twilight gathering of those interested in alfalfa growing.

The fancy iron grill that reparated the walks from the roadway on the Quinebaug river bridge in Main street and which had been mangled by automobiles running against it has been removed and replaced with rails of wood.

Less than two weeks of the trout fishing season of 1926 remain. For the great majority of fishermen it has not been a season of big returns although a great many trout have been caught and a few very fine ones.

Stock is being gradually run out at the mills of the Attawaugan company, which have been operating on short time for a long period, and there is nothing to indicate that any change for the better is to be anticipated for some time to come.

Night Officer John Gebert continues to be watchful of traffic going over the Main street crossing at times when Bar Harbo rexpresses are coming through. Were it not for this self-imposed duty, some very bad accidents would have happened at this crossing, at which there is no gateman on duty after 10 p. m., though two trunk line highways are routed over it.

The kids—young and old ones— have about given up hope that a circus will come to Danielson this season. Danielson has been passed up by the tented attractions for several years, yet Danielson has for many years rated a good circus town.

A. V. Woodworth, J. C. Witter and A. E. Withington were at Sturbridge to attend the horse races held there.

An institute to be held in Williamantic the week of June 28-July 4 will be attended by a number from the Danielson Methodist Episcopal church.

Norman A. Reeves, who is organizing the Alumni team for the annual baseball game with the K. H. S. team next week expects to put a winning combination on the field.

GRISWOLD MAD DOG BITES MISS ARMSTRONG OF P. H. S.

BROKE BOTH HIS ARMS AT THE WRIST, IN FALL

(Special to the Bulletin)

PUTNAM, June 18—Richard Cotton, who fell from a scaffolding while painting a house on Fremont street Thursday was found after an X-ray to have broken both arms at the wrist. There was also a scalp wound and the young man was badly bruised. It will be many weeks before he will do any more painting.

NEEDLE WORKED INTO LEG LOCATED BY THE X-RAY

(Special to the Bulletin)

PUTNAM, June 18—Mrs. Ramadar Hassan of North Grosvenordale while hemming an apron, ran a needle into her leg just above the knee. She was brought to the Day Kimball hospital and an X-ray picture showed the exact location of the little bit of steel. It was removed with little difficulty.

There was a recent auction sale at the former stable of F. S. Bruce on Livery street, of household furniture, bokos, and other articles formerly the property of William Ordway Partridge, the well known sculptor. The property was left there for storage by Mr. Partridge when he disposed of his home on Seneca road several years ago and has never been claimed. Mr. Bruce recently disposed of his house and barn and it became necessary to dispose of the articles.

Mrs. Russell Codman, Jr., was among the passengers on the Paris when it sailed recently from New York. She was Miss Eleanor Patterson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Medill Patterson of Chicago who was recently married to Mr Codman here in Putnam by Rev. N. B. Burton. She accompanied her mother, Adrian and left her young husband on the pier.

As Eleanor Patterson the young woman had played the role of the Nun in The Miracle and had arranged to go to Salzburg where Dr. Max Reinhardt, the producer lives and conducts a summer festival. He expects to have a role for her in his new production with Morris Gest in New York. Mrs. Codman said that her husband would join her later.

Little Var Zvalcko was taken to her home from the Memorial hospital in Worcester this week. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Zvalcko of Mechanicsville and is the child so badly injured by an automobile in front of the Mechanicsville school building last September. She has not been a complete recovery but will be able to wear an iron on her leg until she is stronger.

The 200th anniversary of the founding of the town of Uxbridge, Mass., will be celebrated next June 10. Mr. Rodney Sharpe formerly of this city and son of the late Dr. and Mrs. William H. Sharpe is one of the committee of arrangements. President Coolidge is to be invited, also representatives of cities bearing the name of Uxbridge, including Uxbridge, England, Ontario and Australia.

It is said that the state highway department is planning a new bridge over the Little River to replace the present one on the Woodstock road at the foot of the hill near the residence of C. C. Miller, formerly known as Anderson's corner. A survey is being made by Engineer George W. Perry. Plans have not been completed but it is thought that the new bridge will be near the present one and the pumping station will cut through south of the former Sweetser dry works making a straight roadway from the pumping station to the corner. The bridge is now said to be first planned to replace the present bridge and timber was on hand for the purpose but it is now said that this has been abandoned and is taken to mean that the piers on the new bridge and road will be begun at once and be pushed to completion.

A supper which was to have been served by the Ladies' Aid society of the Brandy Hill Baptist church has been postponed because of the death of Mrs. Frank C. Hall, one of the members.

Dr. H. L. Pease has returned from Syracuse, N. Y., where he and Mrs. Pease went to attend commencement exercises of Syracuse university where their son Stuart Pease was one of the graduates. Dr. Pease was accompanied home by his son and his daughter, Miss Edith Pease, a student at Oberlin, Ohio, college. Mrs. Pease is visiting at her former home at West Winfield, N. Y.

Dr. E. F. Perry and son, Myron Perry, went to Amhurst, Mass., to attend the graduating exercises at Amhurst college of which Dr. Perry is an alumnus and where his son, Franklin Perry is now a student.

When you pay for Tydol you get Tydol

—the sealed pump is your visible protection

GASOLINE is a water-white liquid. And to the average motorist all gasolines look alike. Only an expert chemist, through analyses, can distinguish the true quality of gasoline —before it is used.

That makes it easy to substitute a poor gasoline for a good one. And when the quality of a gasoline is as high as that of Tydol, the risk of substitution is great.

Last fall, for example, New York City was flooded with so-called "bootleg gasoline." This was cheap, third-rate stuff that dishonest distributors unloaded on the public by selling it through pumps which bore the trade-marks of well known, high quality gasolines.

It was not until Tide Water sealed every Tydol pump in New York, so that Tydol and Tydol alone could be run through a Tydol pump, that the gasoline bootleggers were defeated, and New York car owners could buy high quality Tydol without fear of substitution.

It is to prevent any possibility of such a condition ever existing in this city, that the Tydol dealers have united in sealing every Tydol pump in this section.

How Tydol pumps are sealed

Your Tydol dealer will be glad to show you how his pump is sealed. The seal is his proof that he not only sells quality Tydol gasoline, but that he is taking every step to safeguard that quality.

The black and orange sealed Tydol pumps are everywhere. Drive up to any of them and you can be sure of getting genuine high quality Tydol.

Enjoy Tydol results

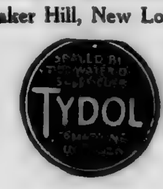
Stop, today, at a sealed Tydol pump and fill up with Tydol. Then as you drive away you'll quickly learn why we have gone to such lengths to protect Tydol quality. You'll notice the quick start, the instant pick-up, the wealth of sustained power. And later, you'll discover how increased mileage and decreased carbon have given Tydol the name of "the economy gasoline."

Fill up at any Tydol pump, where quality is safeguarded by the "Seal of Protection"

TIDE WATER OIL SALES CORPORATION

Quaker Hill, New London, Conn

TYDOL
ECONOMY GASOLINE



This seal is affixed to the intake pipe of every Tydol pump in this section. Nothing but genuine Tydol can flow from a Tydol pump into the gasoline tank of your car.

THE BLAIRSVILLE WRECK

When such wrecks as that which occurred near Blairsville, Pa., causing the deaths of 15 persons and injuries to 50 others happen on the best of the railroad lines one wonders how many narrow escapes there are from just such frightful crashes.

In this instance the fast express, drawn by two locomotives was making good speed. It was following another which, if everything went well, would have been out of the way and provide a clear track. But there are times when trouble develops and that was the case Thursday. It became necessary for the first train to stop because of a broken air hose, and according to reports the fireman of the standing train fastened torpedoes with fuses for the purpose of flagging the fast express that was known to be on its way. These warnings were placed. If the reports are correct, but whether they were at a sufficient distance to have made it possible to check the oncoming train is not stated. Just what the distance was is not indicated, but whether it was sufficient or not to have brought the express to a stop without a rear-end collision the fact is that no such stop was made and appalling losses resulted.

With responsibility tentatively placed upon the engineer of the colliding train the investigators will establish the fact, although it is realized, that the explanation by the engineer of just what happened is not going to be available.

It is one of those instances however, which demonstrates the need of an automatic train stop. With three steel cars "crumpled up like paper" there was apparently slight if any slowing or stopping of the limited. Why the engineers disregarded the torpedoes and the fires no one knows. It is a case where conjecture can run wild in offering possible explanations, but the outstanding fact is that there was no stop before the collision. Had automatic train control been in operation on that particular section at that time it is to be believed that nothing would ever have been heard of that locality in connection with such a train wreck at this time. It indicates anew that the times when the human factor cannot be relied upon are too frequent and that whatever can be done through automatic mechanism to reinforce it is needed at all times.

UNDERGROUND WIRES

Ohio has this week experienced a severe wind and electrical storm with the result that there was a death toll of 14 and extensive damage to property of all kinds. One picture shows a street in Toledo flooded with a line of telephone poles carrying many wires lying completely across the highway.

Middle west states are subject to severe wind storms. They can expect no means of preventing the storms although they do have their opinions as to ways for the prevention of the loss of life. When it comes to the telephone and telegraph lines there is a chance of eliminating the havoc that occurred in Toledo by placing the wires underground. That being done pole lines and tangled and broken wires are stopped. Once the wires are placed in conduits they are out of the way of the wind there are no poles and aerial lines to be blown over and there is an important safeguard against any interruption of service.

The putting of wires underground is being done in many other instances and on the busy city streets. It costs more money for such construction when first done but there is eliminated the matter of replacements and there is overcome the expense of renewings and rebuilding the pole lines, while the protection from wind and ice storms is of no slight consideration.

Every instance of the kind like that at Toledo, which by the way is not so unusual as to cause surprise, sends home the argument for getting the wires underground. This is particularly true of the pole lines which carry a large number of wires since that makes them more susceptible to the wind and which permits a greater weight during an ice storm. Thus while the city streets are being freed from the overhead wires for several reasons which might not exist in the case of streets on the outskirts or country roads the costs attached to upkeep, replacements and storms would go a long way toward meeting the laying of wires in conduits where maintenance is a different proposition.

GERMANY'S REFERENDUM

For a long time Germany has had before it the question of disposition of the valuable properties of the former ruling houses of Germany. Are those properties going to be allowed to remain under their present control or are they going to be taken over completely or in part by the state? That is what the people of Germany have been called upon to decided, and they will have a chance to give expression to their wishes on Sunday when a national referendum will be held.

There is a referendum because a sufficiently large petition was presented in behalf of such a move. Thus whether the government was disposed to do anything or not in the way of disposing of the property there was nothing else for it to do when the demand for a referendum was made.

With all the interest of a hotly fought campaign, preparations have been made for Sunday's vote. Although he is supposed to maintain a neutral attitude, President Hindenburg has been gotten to say as a private individual that he does not favor seizing the properties. This has not reacted to his benefit. It has given those who urge seizure a chance to capitalize his statement and claim, in spite of his devoted service to the republic, that he is playing with the nationalists. It has even encouraged the assertion that the outcome of the referendum would indicate the sentiment of the people for or against the republic.

Germany, of course, isn't voting upon that question. It is a case of disposing of the royal properties and nothing else. Whatever the people call for by their votes it is to be presumed that the government will put into operation. President Hindenburg can be expected to abide by the decision whatever it is and regardless of his personal views. That is, he should either do that or put in his resignation, and he has made no statement indicating that he plans any such step.

CAN SAFELY AWAIT REPORT

Almost from the time the present session of congress was opened there has been talk about adjourning. The desire has been to have congress knuckle down to business and shut up shop and go home, but congress has given no heed.

There is talk now about winding up the session next week, but there has also been statements made to the effect that there will be no adjournment until certain measures have been passed and congress will have to stay busy if they are given attention in another week.

There are always measures which can be delayed without doing any great harm and there are always those which are lost in the shuffle of the closing days. It is therefore certain that many will fall of action at this time regardless of the day agreed upon to adjourn.

In connection with the bills which have been offered concerning the Philippines there seems to be no assurance that they will be reached at this session, but inasmuch as the president has sent a personal representative to the islands to make a survey, it is not a bad suggestion that has been advanced to the effect that measures dealing with the islands which do not concern emergency conditions, should be put aside until the December session in order to have the benefit of the investigators report. Whatever may be felt concerning the measures at the present time it is not improbable that additional light will be thrown upon them, favorably or unfavorably, by the report of Investigator Thompson and Letts' resignation made possible.

POSTAL SERVICE AND RATES

When Senator McKellar of Tennessee points out that the postal service during 1925 handled 721,000,000 fewer pieces of mail than it did in the previous year he refers of course to the effect that the increased rates had upon the mail users. He knows that either those who had been using the mail either gave it up, as was the case with the picture postcards, or else they got their distribution through some other agency. The result was that Uncle Sam was paying more money for the operation of the postoffice department and because there was resentment of the raising of rates to take care of that expense business fell off.

In the rendering of service to the public in connection with the mail, it is to be expected that provision will be made for accommodating all the business offered regardless of volume, and that the endeavor will be to encourage rather than discourage the use of the postal service.

The effect of rates which mail users regarded as unjust was to decrease the postal business, the department thus paying more money for less work, when an increased volume in 1925 over that of 1924 might just as well have been handled, with the beneficial effect of larger revenue.

The revision of rates made this year is based upon proper reasoning but even that change had failed to go the whole distance and actually provide the service which those who pay for it are entitled to and at rates which are proper.

THE MAN WHO TALKS

The recent gathering of the nations at Geneva recalls others centuries ago that were decidedly religious in character but which ended just as fruitlessly. Some other gatherings in centuries past at Geneva have given to the city enduring fame. During the reign of Queen Mary, the work of furnishing an improved English version of the Bible was arrested in England, but received a new impulse among the exiles who fled to Geneva. Their New Testament was printed in 1557, and their whole Bible in 1560. "In correct expression of the sense of the Hebrew and Greek originals, this version excelled those that had preceded it, and for 60 years it was in more general use than any other." It paved the way for King James' edition of 1611. Geneva was the Washington of the middle ages as a place for great conventions. Its geographical position of central locality had much to do with it, also its wider and more liberal spirit had still more to do with it.

Furnishing wholesome amusement for more than 5000 school children the other day at the Duwell athletic field was a fine deed from the psychological standpoint—and from every other. What it meant in the lives of the little folks is more than we can realize. Coming as it did near the close of the school year it must have been quite recreational, and in other ways their sharp eyes and quick minds took in much that was really educational. Children like to see the daring and spectacular, and these furnish the thrills that are necessary to stimulate healthy development. They will never forget the experiences of the day and the general effect of the entertainment taken as a whole will tend to react from any sluggishness of either body or mind.

Even the lower animals have an affectation for children as the following indicates: It is the story of the strange actions of a dog which shows at least kindness if not intelligence. In the pioneer days of New England there were many dangerous reptiles, about that have disappeared before the advance of civilization. On one occasion in those primitive days a mother intrusted her little girl to the protection of a powerful St. Bernard dog which was much attached to the child. Shortly she was alarmed by loud screams, and rushing to the door she saw the dog some distance away dragging the child on the ground. Thinking that the animal had suddenly gone mad, she seized a shotgun and ran to the rescue. She didn't shoot the dog, however, for about ten feet away was an enormous rattlesnake coiled up ready to spring. The dog had saved the child. If a man had done this we would have called it intelligence. Was it only instinct in the dog?

In the Christian calendar there are days that call for special observance. In the process of time some of these have dropped out while new ones have been added. One need not be very old to remember when children's day came into general use. It might be a shock to Puritan severity to see how far the little child has advanced in the life of the church. The great spirits of the past, austere as their beliefs were, had—many of them—warm loving hearts, and it requires no wrench of the imagination to see Cotton Mather and Jonathan Edwards holding little babies in their arms and saying with great depth of feeling "for of such is the kingdom of God." There is no service to which the church gives its authority more appealing and tender than the recognition of the little child as a part of the divine institution. It is very appropriate that is should come soon after Mother's day.

The closing of the public schools, academies and the observances of Children's day quite generally in our churches centers our attention particularly on the young people at this season of the year. Somethings we hear about them open our eyes wide with amazement. And we ask ourselves if these reports are true, and if so are they not greatly exaggerated? About the worst thing said is that they are to a considerable extent drinking; that the boys carry flasks in their hip-pockets containing liquor, and that the girls also to some extent are drinking. Personally the writer is very slow to believe these things about the young people. If it is, then a grave injustice is done to our young people. If it is true we ought to know the cause and remove it. It would be well for those who deal particularly with young people to give the public a frank statement about it. No one fully acquainted with the facts has a right to sleep under the imputation.

Is society as widely awake to the gambling business as it ought to be? Gambling has a great many ramifications to many of which we are blind. In regard to this form of social ills Washington Gladden in his very important book, Social Salvation, makes this pertinent remark: "Whatever one wins in gambling some one else loses; by as much as he is enriched some one else is impoverished; for all he has got he has given no equivalent; other people have parted with what he has gained and he has given for it no merchandise, no service, no pleasure, no accomodation, nothing whatever." The gambler's relation to society is essentially that of a thief. There could be no economic society if all men followed his rule."

It seems very strange to us in this prosaic age of ours that the time ever was when poetry was regarded as the supreme possession. We would naturally infer the more advanced a people were in the arts and sciences the stronger would be their relish for idealism such as poetry expresses, but it is quite the reverse. Advance civilization abounds in the exact sciences and speculative philosophy. It has also carried industry and commerce to a point that the ancients never dreamed of, but poetry, one of the finest of the arts, has always been cultivated by the nations in their infancy. The Iliad, perhaps the greatest of all poems, was written when Greece was young. Virgil, the greatest Roman poet, lived in the days of Augustus. Italy was also young when she gave Dante to be world. Shakespeare was a product of the middle ages. Of one thing we are sure with the advance of general learning imagination seems to decline.

ROTARY'S ETHICAL INFLUENCE CIRCLES GLOBE.

Business and professional men representing 35 countries, journeying from Australia, Japan, the Philippines, South Africa, Spain, Holland, Norway and Sweden, Denmark and the Balkan states, as well as from all other important countries of the globe, have been in session all this week at Denver to gain knowledge of the activities of Rotary and develop new energy for the participation of their clubs in the local affairs of their many communities, where Rotary encourages and fosters better living conditions, commercial, social and civic, among its many benefits.

This gathering of probably 10,000 Rotarians becomes a revelation of the influence of friendship and comradeship in common interests and with a concerted feeling of service to all humanity itself. This is not a "high-fallutin" analysis of mere superficial sentiment. It is practically experienced by the type of men composing the memberships of the many clubs, and the 3500 communities throughout the world have felt in some manner the practical results of the activities of men with such visions.

That the demand for the increasing development of the institution of Rotary has been met by the secure supervision of the organization of each new club is shown by the fact that there have never been any paid organizers and that only one charter has ever been surrendered by a club.

Started in 1905

Upon solid foundations of practical service well defined and correctly understood, the advance of Rotary, first from Chicago in 1905 to the west and then to the east, clubs being formed in San Francisco, Seattle, Oakland, New York, Boston, Minneapolis, was followed by a general development in the United States, which began in 1911.

That the idea of an organization strong enough in personnel to take interest in any activity in the community could proceed without conflict with other civic organizations, was amazing to wise-acres who did not understand that the first principle of the institution was to be the inner circle of all circles, the inspirer of action in all societies. This was to be accomplished by the unusual policy of a single representation of each business, trade, or profession, which would ensure one emmissary going forth from the Rotary meetings to inject into the society or club composed of men of his own complexion, representing only his own position in the community.

Thus, one Rotarian would rotate among those of his own business trade or profession in his community and general field of contact, with a message and vision and inspiration representing the inner circle of thought and determination in the community. All these members of Rotary being unable to exchange thoughts or ideas identically alike would come to a common understanding of that most desirable action or position to take in the community and the best of concerted action for the benefit of the community would result.

This alone was a novelty in institutional and community life in this country. The many safeguards which were constructed to prevent error in the practical application of this powerful purpose gave the founders many problems to solve. The preservation of the institution for 21 years proves the soundness of the original plans and the unwearying attention given to the construction of constitution and bylaws which would govern correctly such a huge structure in the making. The vision must not be compare with Gargantuan, it must be translated into human possibility and that is where it is to be found today, a human institution with functions deeply imbedded in the present structure of community, state, national and international society.

Needed in the Old World

With such a successful position in the United States and Canada, Rotary was soon recognized as a social element needed in old-world centers. Although Dublin accepted the principles of Rotary as early as 1911, soon followed by London in August of the same year, the great expansion in Great Britain and on the continent did not take place until several years later, the British Isles now having nearly 200 clubs, all established upon the same bases of ethical principles and practical operation as those in the United States and performing similar activities in the interests of their communities.

Not only have the English speaking countries accepted the desirable idea of this world-wide social institution. Countries with other than the English language, such as Chile, China, Japan, Denmark, France, Italy, Holland, Guatemala, Mexico, Spain, Norway, Switzerland, Brazil, among others, have felt the necessity for an organization of leading men of their own communities which bring together representatives of every branch of commercial and professional thought and effort, with but one intention—to understand civic needs and to investigate and discover the inner meaning of every old and new local interest.

It was to be expected that all English-speaking countries would desire such a common ground of fellowship and understanding, but the development of the clubs in countries with languages other than English has been of striking significance because of the composition of the original charter memberships, which have not been of English speaking men but of native citizens who have understood this unique human bond of social equality where religion, politics, and social position have no distinguishing power, but where there is a single level of association and intercourse.

Social and Community Life

That there was but one definite group of purposes is shown by the uniform similarity of the work done by the many clubs in Europe, Asia, Africa, Australasia, South America, for the benefit of the social and community life of their cities and communities. The work of the clubs of the United States can be seen represented in these few exemplary incidents;

The Rotary club of Sidney, Australia, learned that the Boys' brigade needed $25,000 to extend the work into new districts in the city, and set to work to raise that sum; the amount obained was $65,000. Similar work has been done in many clubs throughout the world.

In Mexico, every Rotary club has started work among boys—Chihuahua, Torreon, Saltillo, Monterey have furnished playgrounds and skating rinks, fostered and paid for by Rotarians. Vera Cruz started a Boy Scout organization, uniformed the boys, built a stadium, also a boxing ring, supplied athletic equipment, a radio and a library, at the expense of the members. In Vera Cruz a prospective small pox scare and epidemic was prevented by the members of the Rotary club and their wives who went out and vaccinated 20,000 persons, in many instances proving to the doubting natives that the vaccination was not harmful, by vaccinnating themselves several times in the presence of doubters.

In Paris the club established for one of its members a laboratory where he could pursue his researches concerning cancer. In an English club a fund is maintained to assist boys to complete their college education.

Similar work has been done in Milan where the club has provided funds for the former president of the club, a physician, to study cancer; and in Genoa the club has provided the city with a quantity of radium to aid sick people who require it.

The Rotary club of Montevideo, Uruguay, secured the use of a house which has been turned into a night shelter for boys and, like many another club in the many countries, distributed to children in hospitals, blind schools and deaf and dumb institutions not only gifts at Christmas but made of Christmas a day of happiness for many who had shared but little in the gifts of fortune.

Helping the Boys

These works are exemplary of the attention which is being given in nearly 2,500 cities of the world to the well-being of the citizenship while in the making. Rotary has at least one intention that can be accomplished in every language—to make good citizens out of boy material, helping to destroy the power of juvenile delinquency in the community and increasing the understanding of world peace by beginning at the early age of boyhood. Boys' week in the United States was conceived in the New York Rotary club and has been derived from the activities of Ohio Rotary clubs in the interest of a state law for the care of orthopedic cases—today, Rotary clubs in all parts of the world are sponsoring community interest and the direction of work among crippled children, assisting local authorities where such efforts are well-organized and often supporting visiting nurses and hospitals and homes by means of funds created for that purpose.

The merchant on "Main street" is not the only type that is of Rotarian behavior and integrity; for example: The first president of the Brussels club was a prime minister, the secretary was also secretary of the Belgian Chamber of Commerce and the treasurer was secretary of the Alumni association of Belgium. The president of the Auckland, New Zealand club was president of the University of Auckland, president of the board of directors of the University of New Zealand. The first president of the Tokyo club was formerly Japanese ambassador to Germany, counsellor to the United States shipping board in Japan, and Japanese representative on the board of the Carnegie Institute. The governor of the district which includes Italy is president of the Art Society of Milan and of the Italian Cotton association.

Sunday Morning Talk

SOWING SEED

The same day went Jesus out of the house, and sat by the sea side, and he spake many things unto them in parables saying, Behold, a sower went forth to sow. Matt. 13-1,3.

His text was close at hand, the hillsides in full view were green with terraces, olive orchards, fig and almond trees on every slope. The first winter rains cause the earth to break forth into a wealth of flowers, which continues to increase until in spring this beautious coat of many colors completely cover the surface. Their variety and color baffles description. One botanist said no land could compare with Syria for flowers.

There was the corn fields descending to the waters edge. There was the trodden pathway running through the midst of it, with no fence or hedge to prevent the seed from falling here and there. There was the rich soil, which distinguishes the whole of that plain from the bare hills elsewhere descending into the lake, and where there is no interruption produces one vast mass of corn. There were the large bushes of thorn to nobble the kind which tradition says that the crown of thorns was woven springing up like fruit trees in the midst of the waving wheat.

Jesus states the facts, points to natures picture, this picture is impressed on the mind, as a permanent seed plot easy to be retained; out of which can come a perpetual harvest of spiritual truths, easily recalled whenever these facts are presented to eye or mind. This method will enable one to plant truth in unwaving minds, shut to other methods of teaching. It illustrates the truths, like the sun shining through a stained glass window. It puts truth in forms that gradually unfold under larger experience, as an acorn develops into an oak. "Who hath ears to hear, let him hear." this is a call to pay special attention to what Jesus had been teaching, implying that there was a deeper spiritual meaning. Mines of gold and gems beneath the surface that would escape the notice of the careless hearer.

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

Prof. Homer S. Wark, who has accepted an offer of the presidency of West Virginia Wesleyan University, has been professor of missions at the Boston University School of Theology since 1921. He is a native of Indiana, and received his education, in part, in Kansas. He holds degrees of A. B. and A. M. from Washburn college, a D. the degree of bachelor of sacred theology and doctor of philosophy from Boston university. Prof. Wark has travelled and studied extensively in Egypt, Palestine, India, Burma, China, Korea, Japan and in Europe. During the war he was a chaplain in the 137th United States infantry and served 11 months overseas. Later as a senior chaplain he was in charge of a hospital center in France. Upon his return from Europe he accepted a pastorate in Wichita, Kas.

From Small Beginnings

Cyrus Hamlin, the Great Missionary to Turkey

On the banks of the Bosphorus, not far from the City of Constantinople, stand the imposing buildings of Robert college, an institution that has done more than anything else to awaken the spirit of thought and progress in the Balkanlads and in Turkey. That institution, founded through the generosity of the American for whom it is named, was given its influence and power because of the earnest work and the remarkable diplomatic ability of Cyrus Hamlin, an American missionary.

The man who was destined to build up this most important educational institution in the Near East was born in Maine, the son of very humble parents. When his father died, in Cyrus Hamlin's infancy, the mother was obliged to carry on the hard work of the little farm on which they lived. The boy knew no luxuries, and indeed scarcely the necessities of life. Much to the discouragement of the hard-working, overtaxed mother, the boy gave no promise of ability. Apparently, he was to be a new source of anxiety. The opportunity came to send the boy to a relative, with whom he might work in the jewelry business.

In the home where he went the young man found books, read them, became interested in learning, and determined to work his way through college. He managed to support himself, to graduate from Bowdoin, and then from the Bangor Theological seminary. At the age of 27 he set out for work as a missionary to Turkey.

Now the young man whom everyone had regarded as having small ability, showed the greatest ability. He mastered Armenian, Turkish and Greek with ease. He overcame every obstacle that was put in his way, and established a school for the training of teachers and preachers. In the Crimean war, he took care of the wounded soldiers, and provided excellent food, without profit to himself. In 1863 he established Robert college and for years carried it through astonishing difficulties. He feared neither Sultan nor Turks, and made Robert college a strong force for good.

His success in maintaining the work of the institution was one of the wonders of his day. In his later days he returned to America and became president of Middlebury college, Vermont. He died in 1900, at the age of 89.

Stories That Recall Others

As We Are Done By

A mother saw her six year old son chasing a playmate down an alley. She called to him, but he hurled a stone at the playmate before stopping to reply to his mother. He marched rather slowly to the door, where his mother was waiting for an explanation of his conduct.

To the question: "Richard, why did you throw that stone?" he replied, "Well, he threw a stone at me, and doesn't the Bible say, 'To do unto those as they do unto you?'"

A Good Seat

In a fifth grade geography recitation the pupils were enumerating the industries along the New England coast and also the factors which made these industries profitable in this particular region. Among those named was that of fishing. The teacher then asked if anyone could tell why so much fishing was done. Madge, a girl who was always ready to answer, raised her hand. She named some three or four conditions favorable for fishing, hesitated a moment, then very seriously said, "And there are several good mountains."

The teacher looked amazed for a few seconds, then said, "Madge, you gave several good conditions, in fact, all but the last were good; but I can't see what mountains have to do with fishing, what do you mean?"

Madge spoke right up and said, "Guess the fishermen have to have seats don't they?"

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Frosts in July and August Also

Mr. Editor: How easy it is to forget? A dozen or more correspondents have made note of the great wonder —? of a frost June 17. Now then what about June 21, 1916? Over here in Oneco gardens were completely destroyed, pole beans half way up the poles in my garden were frozen stiff and everything destroyed. The worst of it is that June 17 is not the last frost to be with us in 1926. There will be frosts in both July and August.

Testing Fake Gems

Jewel forgers have become so clever that a special gem-testing institute has been established in Vienna, says Popular Mechanics, and similar studies are being carried on in this country to detect imitations.

Imitation diamonds are numerous and it is possible to make real ones in the laboratory, but the cost or the process is about $200,000 a carat, while natural ones can be purchased at from $100 to $300 a carat. Rubies can be made by laboratory methods in about six hours, and some of them are so nearly like the real stones that other tests than with the eyes are necessary to distinguish them.

While the synthetic emerald has brilliance and realistic color, it usually can be told from a genuine one with little difficulty. They are often built up in three parts which are fastened by invisible cement. The top and the bottom part may be glass crystals cut in many facets with a thin shaving of a real emerald between them to give the color. Others may have a slight cavity between the two crystals which is filled with a green liquid. Both imitations are easily detected by submerging the stone in a certain kind of oil and holding it up to the light.

One woman can be awfully fond of another—if they are a hundred miles apart.

Theodore Richards of Honolulu and Joseph Richards of New York have been visitors at the home of Joseph T. Church in Montville.

Rev. E. J. Skelly, who was recently ordained is to read the masses at St. Francis' church, Crescent Beach, at 9 o'clock and at St. Agnes' church, Niantic, at 11 o'clock, Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. C. S. Storms were in Providence this week attending the commencement exercises of Brown university. Their son, William F. Storms, was a member of the graduating class receiving the degree Ph. B. cum laude.

REVOLUTIONARY LIST OF IRISH NAVAL HEROES

A list has just been issued from New York which will be valuable information for those who consider themselves eligible to one of the patriotic American societies because of the service of their ancestors during the Revolution.

Strangely enough, the list has been compiled from the records kept by a native of Stonington, Conn., the only man and officer who served under Commodore John Paul Jones in European waters, Nathaniel Fanning, midshipman on the Bon Homme Richard, Serapis, Alliance and Ariel. Fanning also served for a time as secretary to the commodore.

Nathaniel Fanning was the descendant of Edmund Fanning who was driven from Ireland in 1641, during the land confiscations of Cromwell, a decade after. According to Savage's "Genealogical Dictionary of First Settlers in New England," the emigrant ancestor of the American Fannings died from Duke, Isle of Wight, and after marriage to Ann [illegible] died in Groton in or [illegible] 1665. There were many confiscations of Fanning property during the specified Cromwellian settlement of Ireland so that many members of this family were among those transplanted by the forces of this depredacious invader in Limerick where Fannings had served as mayors, sheriffs, bailiffs and aldermen for many years. One Dominick Fanning was executed in 1651 by Cromwell's general, Ireton. There were two branches of the family in Ireland, one descended from the Gaelic chieftan 'Flonnan' (diminutive of "Flonn" fair) and the other of Norman lineage, settlers in the western and southern parts of the island. Edmund Fanning, the first Amer. emigrant and supposed nephew of Dominick Fanning is the accepted ancestor of Nathaniel Fanning who [illegible] brothers Gilbert and Thomas served in the Continental navy.

[illegible] was the eldest of the [illegible] Fanning and [illegible] Mary [illegible] Fanning [illegible] Fanning [illegible] Fanning

AMERICAN WOMEN TENNIS STARS TAKE WIGHTMAN CUP FROM BRITISH

WIMBLEDON, England, June 18.—(AP)—Sensational tennis history was written here this afternoon when the quartette of American women racquet stars regained the Whitman cup, emblematic of team supremacy in women's tennis. They took the cup from their English cousins in one of the closest international tennis contests on record.

Americans won four matches to three, but the last and deciding match, doubles, was a close affair, and it might have been a different story if the Yankee players, Miss Mary K. Browne, captain, and Miss Elizabeth Ryan, had not been able to come through with the winning games when, in the deciding third set the score was four-all. They defeated Mrs. Kitty McKane Godfree and Miss Evelyn Colyer, 8-6, 6-2, 6-4.

The trophy thus will go to the United States for the first time since 1923, when it was established, at that time it was won by the Americans, seven matches to nothing, at Forest Hills. For two years, the Americans tried unsuccessfully to take it. Great Britain winning six matches to one at Wimbledon in 1924, and again at Forest Hills last year, with a score of four matches to three.

At the end of the first day's play, yesterday, the British and American teams each had a victory in the singles. Today Miss Joan Fry, of England, defeated Miss Browne, 3-6, 6-0, 6-4; and Mrs. Godfree defeated Miss Elizabeth Ryan, 6-1, 5-7, 6-4, giving the British team two more matches, for a total of three. The Americans had three victories today, for a total of four. Mrs. Marion Zinderstein Jessup, United States, defeated Mrs. D. C. Shepherd-Barron, 6-1, 5-7, 6-4; Mrs. Jessup and Miss Eleanor Goss defeated the British pair, Mrs. Lambert Chambers, and Mrs. Shepherd-Barron, 6-4, 6-2, and the Misses Browne and Ryan defeated Mrs. Godfree and Miss Colyer.

The final doubles match which followed the spectacular victory by Mrs. Jessup over Miss Shepherd-Barron was one of the most thrilling ever witnessed at Wimbledon. With the score three matches all, Miss Ryan and Miss Browne went out to do or die against the formidable combination made up of Mrs. Godfree and Miss Colyer. The latter was making her first appearance of the day and consequently was in fine form, while the others were fatigued with their previous strenuous matches.

The Americans lost the first set, 3-6, due largely to Miss Colyer's hard service. But Miss Ryan and Miss Browne fought back, the former brilliantly, but at times ineffectually, and the captain playing a cool, steady game in tight moments. The second set went to America, 6-2; then came the deciding play.

For eight games it was nip and tuck, with the score standing four-all. At this juncture the umpire called a fault on the Americans, although the members of both teams and most of the spectators considered the ball good. In sportsmanlike manner the English women deliberately missed the next shot to give the Americans an even break. There were times in the course of the next two games when many persons in the stands held their breath, but the Americans, in a final spurt, realizing the responsibility that was theirs, took the next two games and the match, and the coveted cup was won.

A good exhibition of gameness and fine tennis was afforded by Mrs. Jessup in her singles match with Mrs. Shepherd-Barron. The score was then three matches to two against America, and if Mrs Jessup had lost, England would have won the cup. Both players were greatly fatigued by their previous strenuous efforts in the doubles. With the sets one-all, and four games piled up against her at the start of the final set, Mrs. Jessup made a great rally and took six straight games, creating an opening for the Americans in the doubles.

The outstanding virtues of the Americans generally were their superior hard, fast Yankee twist service, their ability to come to the net and better team work in the doubles.

FLOWERS AND FITZSIMMONS FIGHT NO-DECISION BOUT

JERSEY CITY, N. J., June 18.—(AP)—Tiger Flowers of Georgia, world's middleweight champion, toyed with young Bob Fitzsimmons, son of the former heavyweight champion, in a ten round contest at Boyles thirty acres tonight. Flowers stepped out of his class, conceding 17 1-2 pounds to the son of fighting Bob and then gave the heavyweight a scientific demonstration of all the finer points of the art.

With Jim Jeffries, former world's heavyweight champion and Tom Sharkey, a contemporary of Jeffries, sitting in ring side seats, Flowers administered a severe drubbing to Fitzsimmons, outboxing and out punching him in every skirmish.

Fitzsimmons went in weighing 184 pounds while the champion scaled 166 1-2. The son of the former champion came out with both eyes cut by Flowers' chopping jabs and punches and his ribs reddened by the champion's concentrated attack to the body. The contest was a no decision affair but newspapermen at the ringside were unanimous in giving the champion every round.

George Cook, Australian heavyweight, decisively outpointed Harold Mays of Bayonne, N. J., in the 10-round semi-final.

Jimmy Francis of Union City, N. J., scored a technical knockout over George Smith of Brooklyn, in the third round of the first 10 round match.

Jim Braddick, Jersey City heavyweight, knocked out Lee Dobson of Montclair, N. J., in the first round of a six-rounder, while Pep Mazza of Brooklyn and Johnny Kreiger of Jersey City, middleweights, fought a six round draw as a curtain raiser.

Plenty of parking space.

BRISTOL NEW DEPARTURE CLUB AT RIVERVIEW THIS AFTERNOON

With the New Departure club of Bristol opposing them this afternoon at the State Hospital diamond, Riverview will have a tough afternoon taking this club into camp. New Departure has a team that is out to take all state honors in semi-pro ball and is rated as one of the fastest clubs in Connecticut outside of organized ball. The team is largely composed of players who have played in the Eastern League at various times, a team of seasoned ball hawks who know the game. This is the fastest club to appear this year at Riverview.

Manager Zemke of Riverview is taking no chances with this club and is using his strongest collection of ball players that he can round up. One new player appears in this week's lineup, who is to take care of the second base position. Tommy Burns is a Sub Base player, who was a member of the All-Navy team of last year. Also Myers, who is another All-Navy man is to play in the outfield.

Riverview: Normandin rf, Lithgow 3b, Mills lf, Hamill rf, Burns 2b, Moore cf, Harrell 1b, Belair c, West, p, Gibbons p, Myers rf.

ELM CITY COLORED GIANTS AT TAFTVILLE TODAY

Taftville A. A. will meet the famed Elm City Giants, champions of New England this afternoon at the Providence street grounds. The game is scheduled to start at 3:15 o'clock sharp.

The Elm City Giants will be a team that will leave its impression upon the local fans for some time to come. Little is needed to be said in regard to this visiting team, inasmuch as the team is claimant to the New England championship. Followers of the national pastime have read of the accounts of the victories which the invading team has piled up in its tour through the New England states.

Manager Jim Troland has made plans for a record-breaking crowd. On street cars, show windows, pole and in every conspicuous place notices have been posted of the coming to town of this aggregation of ball players. The attraction is the topic of discussion among the fans. It is one out of the ordinary number of games which Manager Troland is giving to the followers of the game as a real treat.

Lefty Dugas will be seen on the mound for the local aggregation, with Eccleston on the receiving end. Cardin will romp about first, Tombari at second, Ray Yerington at third, Gauthier, short stop; Gaudette, left; Lloyd Jarvis, center; and Leo Jarvis, right field.

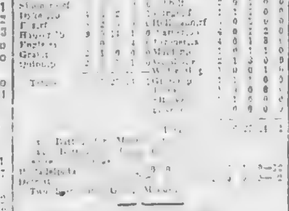
ATHLETICS WIN HECTIC GAME FROM TIGERS

DETROIT, June 1.—(AP) — A wild sixth inning marked by an argument between Manager Cobb and Umpire Rowland and by the scoring ten runs by the Athletics, featured today's 12 to 2 victory of Philadelphia over Detroit. The half inning in which the excitement occurred required 40 minutes to play, part of which was taken up by the dispute which ended in Cobb being chased from the field. It started over a decision at first base. The Athletics made eight hits in this inning, two were walked and there was an error by Blue which ran the count up. Every Athletic score in the sixth inning.

It was the second game in two days that Sam Gray started and the second which he failed to finish. Score:

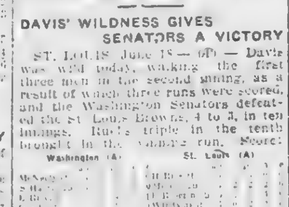
Philadelphia (A) — Detroit (A)



DAVIS' WILDNESS GIVES SENATORS A VICTORY

ST. LOUIS, June 18 — (AP) — Davis was wild today, walking the first three men in the second inning, as a result of which three runs were scored, and the Washington Senators defeated the St Louis Browns, 4 to 3, in ten innings. Rice's triple in the tenth brought in the winning run. Score:

Washington (A) — St. Louis (A)

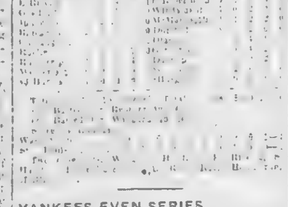


YANKEES EVEN SERIES WITH THE WHITE SOX

CHICAGO, June 18.—(AP)—The league leading Yankees opened up the series with Chicago today by pounding out a 10 to 2 victory. The visitors landed Ted Thomas in the first four innings, scoring five times before he gave way to Thurston. Thurston was unable to check the attack, though the attack for the visitors was led by his teammates two doubles. Each contained two doubles, two runs with the bases loaded.

Score:

New York (A) — Chicago (A)



REDS HOLD LEAD BY SWAMPING THE PHILLIES

PHILADELPHIA, June 18.—(AP)—Cincinnati retained the lead over the Pittsburgh Pirates today by trouncing the Phillies in a long tedious game, 13-5. The wildness of the Phils' pitchers, who issued ten bases on balls, helped the Reds collect almost as many runs as hits. Pete Donohue, of Cincinnati, was sent from the bench by Umpire Rigler for protesting against a first base decision. Score:

POWER CO. TEAM SWAMPS BON TON IN TWILIGHT GAME

The Eastern Connecticut Power Co. team of the Norwich Twilight league took a one-sided game from the Bon Ton club 16 to 4, Friday evening in the first league game for the two clubs. With the exception of the third inning when the Power team scored a dozen runs the game was good. The Bon Ton team suffered from stage fright considerably but after the third inning settled down and played good ball. Simcox pitched good ball throughout the game weakening in the fifth inning, and allowing three runs to score. The score:

PUTNAM SILK SOX TO PLAY 2 WEEK END GAMES

The B H Silk Sox, of Putnam, will play two games over the week end. On Saturday, they will go to Woonsocket and play the crack team representing the Guerin Mills of that city. As the Guerin club is considered the fastest semi-pro collection in Rhode Island the Silk Men are expecting a hard game. On Sunday the return game with the Fort Trumbull Stars will be played in Putnam on Adams Field. As the Stars recently handed an 8-6 defeat to the Taftville A. A. a fast game should result.

Johnson, whose arm is now in perfect shape, will be called upon to do the box work on Saturday. Fisher, who showed so well against the Seigles last week, will be seen in action on Sunday in the Fort Trumbull game. The Putnam men will do much to win these contests in preparation for the games next week against the Cheney Bros. A. A. and the Corbin Red Sox.

HAGEN TRAILS ABE MITCHELL AT END OF FIRST 36 HOLES OF GOLF MATCH

VIRGINIA WATER, Sussex, England, June 18.—(AP)—Walter Hagen, American star, tonight was trailing Abe Mitchell, ace of the British golf professionals, after the first day's play of their long heralded 72-hole match for the unofficial world's match play championship.

With 36 holes played Hagen was four down to the British star in his fight for the championship and the largest stake money in the history of golf—£500 a side and other wagers. But Hagen and his retinue which includes an imported caddie were anything but downcast. The American star's followes were least of all dismayed. They cited Hagen's last encounter with Mitchell in America when the Briton was four up and eight to play and still Hagen pulled through victoriously.

The American star who spent last night on a train from the north of England arrived here debonair as usual and the picture of sartorial perfection. He was garbed in a white sweater with a delicate coring, mauve plus fours and white shoes. Mitchell's golfing clothes were a drab gray but his playing made up for his lack of sartorial splendor.

The morning round found Hagen three down to Mitchell. Although the British player was powerful through the fairways he was a little shakey on the green and if he had taken all the opportunities that Hagen offered he would have left the American six down instead. Their morning cards were as follows:

Out Hagen	5	4	4	4	4	5	5	3	—	38
Mitchell	5	4	4	4	3	5	4	3	4	—37
In Hagen	5	4	3	4	5	4	5	4	3	—39—77
Mitchell	5	5	3	4	4	4	3	5	5	—36—73

Mitchell started the afternoon round like a streak by holing out long putts on the 19th and 21st for threes. Increasing his lead to five, Hagen, however, brought this down to four at the 28th where Mitchell pulled his drive into the rough.

The American took another hole at the 32nd where Mitchell approached poorly, but went four down again at the 36th when his own second shot lodged in a water logged bunker, giving him a six.

The two professionals will finish the match tomorrow on the St. George's Hill course at Weybridge.

The afternoon cards were as follows:

Out Hagen	4	4	4	4	3	4	4	3	5	—35
Mitchell	3	4	3	4	5	4	3	2	4	—34
In Hagen	4	4	3	4	3	4	4	3	6	—35—70
Mitchell	5	4	3	4	4	4	4	3	5	—36—70

Two incidents of good sportsmanship, which was typical through the match, occurred on the home green. Mitchell played a bad drive which finished in a cart rut from which the local rule allowed him to lift and drop his ball. Although the referee told the British star he might move the ball without penalty Mitchell answered "I am not sure this is a cart rut and would rather play it."

Hagen's second shot overran the green on the same hole and disappeared in a waterbury bunker. He went after it twice with his niblick and was successful the second time. After failing to sink his own two yard putt, he then smiled and conceded Mitchell a two foot putt for the hole.

YALE WILL PUT FRESHMAN CREW ON THE RIVER

GALES FERRY, June 18. — (AP) — With Sillman and Jenkins in camp here tonight and Fenton, Button, Eddy, Drake and Brown on the way, Yale is now confident that a freshman crew will meet the Crimson in the opening event of the annual Harvard-Yale regatta on June 26th. The three men, not disqualified with the other six of the original crew, will be used as a nucleus for the reorganized freshman eight.

Dr. James C. Greenway, director of the Yale university department of health, arrived at the training quarters to conduct the physical examinations for the new crew candidates.

It was announced at the camp tonight that the lineup of the reorganized yearling boat would not be published until the day before the race.

Whitney, stroke of the junior varsity shell, is definitely out of the sport for the rest of this season. Several days ago he strained his side and until tonight it was believed that he would be able to return to the lineup. A. M. Quarrier was placed in the combination eight at number 6 in place of Callender, who was moved to the junior varsity to fill the vacancy left by Whitney.

Griggs, formerly number 6, is now stroking the second eight, Crosby was moved from number 4 to number 6 and Callender put at number 4.

In the combination shell E. C. Childs replaced Potter at stroke. The afternoon was spent at light workouts for all three crews.

J. Blossom, graduate director of athletics visited the training quarters today.

WASHINGTON MAKES CLEAN SWEEP OF DUAL REGATTA

PRINCETON, N. J., June 18.—(AP)—The University of Washington made a clean sweep of the dual regatta with Princeton on Carnegie Lake here today, winning both the varsity and junior varsity events by substantial leads.

The Pacific coast eight swept to an impressive triumph in the feature event winning by six lengths while the junior varsity oarsmen propelled their shell ten and one-half lengths ahead of the Tiger boat over the one and three-quarter mile course.

The shores of the lake were lined with a colorful commencement day crowd as the far western sweepers registered their twin triumphs in their warm-up for the inter-collegiate regatta at Poughkeepsie, June 28.

The junior varsity event was a Washington parade, the coast shell not being extended any time after the first quarter mile post was passed.

Princeton fought gamely in the varsity event but availed little against the sturdy rythmic stroke of the Washington eight. The official times for the two races:

Junior Varsity—Washington 9:44; Varsity—Washington 9:38; Princeton 9:95.

HORSES ARRIVING FOR BAY STATE MEETING

Today and Sunday will see a large number of horses arrive at the Fairgrounds for the meeting of the Bay State Short Ship circuit which opens on Tuesday. The meeting at Sturbridge closes this afternoon and the horses will come by truck from the Massachusetts track to Norwich. Sunday will be a busy day at the track and many tryouts will be held during the afternoon for some of the horses are already quartered at the track.

From all indications the meeting this year will be one of the largest and best meets of the year. Never has such a brilliant array of horses been at a local track and it is the opinion of many devotees of racing in Norwich that the local track record will be broken during the meet. This is most likely to happen in the free-for-all which will bring together Margaret Dillon, Sir Roch and Sarnardo.

WILL ANNOUNCE "KID" KAPLAN AND GARCIA BOUT

HARTFORD, June 18.—(AP)—Joe Humphries, noted fight announcer of New York, today agreed to come here June 28 and do the announcing at the world's featherweight championship bout between Louis "Kid" Kaplan, of Meriden and Bobby Garcia, of Baltimore.

It is just 25 years since that Humphries officiated in a like capacity at the world's championship fight between Terry McGovern and Young Corbett in this city. The Kaplan-Garcia fight will be the first one in this city involving a world's championship since the Thanksgiving day in 1901 when Corbett knocked out McGovern and won the title.

Humphries application to the Connecticut athletic commission for a license was signed by Governor Al Smith, of New York, Mayor James Walker, of New York city, U. S. Senator Edwards, of New Jersey, Mayor Hague, of Jersey City, and George M. Cohan, theatrical producer.

MISS WILLS WILL PLAY IN WIMBLEDON SINGLES

LONDON, June 18.—(AP)—Announcement was made tonight by the secretary of the All-England Lawn Tennis club that a message had been received from Miss Helen Wills, the American tennis champion, stating that she would play in the women's singles of the Wimbledon championship.

Miss Helen Wills, America's tennis star, underwent an operation for appendicitis on June 4 at the American hospital at Neuilly near Paris. Her last words while she was on the way to the operating table, whispered to one of her teammates, were she would be "all right" for Wimbledon. She was playing when stricken in the international hard court tourney at Paris.

It was previously announced she would go to Wimbledon only as a spectator.

All Stars Booking Games

The Jewett City All Stars have reorganized and are now booking games for the present season. This team will compare favorably with any team in this section and is out to clinch the Eastern Conn. title. Challenges are directed to the leading teams such as, Taftville A. A., Ashland A. A., (twi-light game preferred), Hanover, Versailles, Assawaga, Conn. Mills, or any other fast team. We play in Jewett City on Saturdays and out of town on Sundays. Reasonable guarantees asked and given. Casper of St. Thomas and Tapor, formerly with Ashland, A. A., will divide the mound duties. Two other ex-Ashland luminaries, Gilbert and Kududa have been signed. The remainder of the team is composed of players that have gained a reputation for good ball playing on Eastern Conn. diamonds. Write C. J. Parkhurst, Box 373, Jewett City or telephone 34-12 any evening between 6 and 6:30.

CHERRY PIE WINNER OF THE HANOVER HANDICAP

NEW YORK, June 18.—(AP)—Cherry Pie gained the decision by a nose in winning the Hanover handicap at Aqueduct today, from Cloudland and Harrovian in a blanket finish. Sanford, son of John and High Star were out of the money. The time for 1 1-16 miles was 1:45 2-5.

Percussion took the fifth at Latonia squeezing through on the rail to beat Traymore by a head. Winter Street was third over the mile and seventy yards. The time was 1:42 3-5.

Jack Alexander, Strut Miss Lizzie and Bolton scored in that order in the fifth at Aurora, the six furlongs being run in 1:15.

YANTIC-WARRIORS GAME EXPECTED TO DRAW CROWD

A large crowd is expected at the Yantic diamond on Sunday afternoon when the Warriors will oppose the Yantic club.

Yantic will present practically the entire Lebanon team of sluggers and should make the local team travel every minute of the contest. The team that will play for Yantic Sunday will be the same nine that will represent them in the Norwich Twilight league.

The Warriors with a 6 to 4 victory over Yantic earlier in the season to their credit, will present the strongest lineup possible in order to make it two straight. The Warriors will also present the team that will represent them in the Norwich Twilight league.

The game will start at 3 p. m. sharp, D. S. T.

Challenge

The Bearcats are without a game Sunday and would like to hear from the following teams Valiants, Warriors, Hardigs and Yantic. For arrangements call 1933-3 Saturday evening from 6 to 7.

The Waterbury team, champions of the Eastern league in 1924 and 1925, is finding the road to the top considerably rougher this season.

WESTERLY

BOY ARRESTED IN NORWICH GETS JAIL SENTENCE AND FINE

(Special to the Bulletin)

WESTERLY, R. I., June 18—George St. Pierre, 17, a waif from Hartford, a follower for meals with the Coleman Brothers Carnival Shows, exhibiting the past week on the circus lot off Noyes avenue, Pawcatuck, was presented in Stonington town court this morning before Judge William A. Wilcox on a charge of theft of $10 from Herbert Akroyd of Westerly, employed by Nardone and Company. St. Pierre was arrested Thursday night by the police of Norwich, having been taken into custody on a telephone description by Patrolman Adin R. Sheldon of Pawcatuck, who was on the youth's trail, and sent word that he was coming toward Norwich in a red auto truck.

While several Westerly young men lay on the grass on the circus lot with St. Pierre, one was reported to have given him a $10 bill to get changed and the circus follower was said to have skipped with the money. His version was that he "picked it off the grass," while another reported Akroyd's pocket picked. At all events, St. Pierre was seen running from the lots. Officer Sheldon was notified and found that St. Pierre had stopped at Blanchard's on the North Stonington road and spent 50c for ice cream, doughnuts and coffee, and proceeded. Reaching North Stonington, Officer Sheldon telephoned Norwich and the young mans arrest followed.

St. Pierre was found guilty of theft and sentenced by Judge Wilcox to 10 days in New London county jail and the payment of costs amounting to $28.07. A mittimus was issued and Officer Sheldon took the defendant to New London for commitment.

Forty-two couples participated in the outing of the M. V. C., a society of Westerly high school students and former students, held Thursday evening at the Inn in Haversham. At 6:30 o'clock the following dinner was enjoyed:

Fruit Cocktail
Olives Celery
Roast Duck with Dressing
Mashed Potato Turnips
Jelly
Strawberry Shortcake
Coffee

Later there was dancing to music by the Crandall-Sutcliffe orchestra of four pieces. The committee of arrangments consisted of J. Harold Kenyon, John R. Oppy and Rupert H. Austin, president; Raymond H. Hiscox, vice president; J. Harold Kenyon, secretary; Gilbert Bissett, treasurer; and Advisory Board, Wilfred B. Utter, Robert F. L. Barr and Russell Hemphill.

The June meeting of Westerly Chamber of Commerce, Lewis Stanton, president, is to be held Tuesday evening, June 22nd in the Council Chamber of Westerly town hall.

A regular session of the Third District court was held Friday morning in the District court rooms, town hall, when Judge Oliver H. Williams called the following docket:

Addison S. Archie vs. Harold A. Flood, alias. Continued one week.

State, Frank H. Brown vs. Louis O. Littleton. Solicitor Ferguson asked for a continuance of two weeks, as he understood that the defendant was in the south.

Trial Calendar

State, Frank H. Brown, chief of police of Hopkinton vs. Frank Luzzi of Westerly. Luzzi was arraigned on the complaint of operating an automobile on the 9th of June on Broad street in Hopkinton at a rate of speed, without due regard for traffic and use of said highway. He pleaded guilty to the operation of an automobile at the rate of 39 miles per hour. Solicitor Ferguson told the court that the operation was between 7 and 8 o'clock in the evening and that the defendant did not pass an auto and only met one going in the opposite direction, there being no pedestrians on the highway. Being found guilty, he was fined $35 and costs.

State Frank H. Brown vs. Lawrence W. Westin of Westerly was a complaint for the operation of an automobile on June 10th on Broad street in Hopkinton at a rate of 39 miles per hour. When first arraigned the defendant entered a plea of "not guilty" and the case was set at a continuance of one week with surety, $500 bonds. After a recess of the court, Westin came before the judge and changed his plea of "not guilty" of operating an automobile at a rate of speed greater than reasonable and proper; his plea then being one of "nolo." Judge Williams fined him $35 and costs, amounting to $38.60, which was paid.

When the case of State, William L. Kay, deputy chief of police of Hopkinton, vs. George W. Brown, was called, Sheriff Mitchell announced that the respondent was not present in the courtroom. Brown, a colored auto driver for the McCormick Construction company, with a residence 35 Council street, Providence, was given a summons by Officer Kay, when he operated the auto truck on June 2nd down the steep hill into Hope Valley at a reckless rate of speed. Not appearing in court, the Rhode Island State Board of Public Roads will be notified and his operator's license suspended.

At Solicitor Ferguson's request the case, State, Frank H. Brown, complainant vs. Harry H. Ullman, was called, continued and court adjourned.

Mrs. R. Charles Kastner and children, Dorothy and Patricia, of New York are guests of Mrs. Kastner's father, Dr. Fremont Nye, and Mrs. Nye. They will attend the wedding of Mrs. Kastner's brother, John F. Nye, in Mystic today (Saturday).

William L. Kay of Hope Valley, deputy chief of police of the town of Hopkinton, was in Westerly Friday.

Charles F. Champlin of Maple Breezes, North Stonington road, was a Westerly business visitor Friday morning.

Today (Saturday) is circus day in Westerly when Christy Bros. Big 5-Ring Wild Animal Shows come on a railroad train of 20 circus cars from Middletown, Conn. The train routes to Saybrook, then to Westerly where it is expected to arrive at 5 a. m. Then will begin the "duties" of small children (and many larger ones) in superintending the unloading of the cars at the Westerly freight yard. Siding tracks have been cleared to permit the unloading of cars on the cement freight yard drives. It will be but a short haul to the show grounds, so that the street parade can start at 12 o'clock noon. The same circus exhibited in Westerly last year. From Westerly the circus goes to Norwich.

DRYING UP WESTERLY BEFORE CIRCUS ARRIVES

(Special to the Bulletin)

WESTERLY, R. I., June 18.—There will be less dampness about the circus lot today (Saturday) at Riverside park, Stillmanville, as a result of eight raids made Friday evening by Chief of Police Thomas E. Brown, armed with search warrants and accompanied by a large party of raiding officers of the police department. Five out of the eight places visited were found to be somewhat moist. The seized liquors and intoxicants and the alleged owners will be called upon to make appearance in the regular session of the third district court next Friday.

The Black Coffee house, 65 Pleasant street, kept by Edward and Consetta Liotta, was visited about 7 o'clock by Patrolman Michael Curtis and Constable James Maxwell. Their search was rewarded by finding about 12 bottles of whiskey and a quantity of home brew.

The place of Tony Pelore, Pierce street, received a visit from Patrolman Robert M. Kessel and Constable Alexander Mitchell. Here were found beer, whiskey and gin.

The barber shop in Havens block on Canal street, opposite the Armour beef house was raided by Patrolman George H. Champlin and Constable Frank Knight. They took away whiskey and gin.

At Gaetano Bianchi's home, 10 Shady Side, a call was made by Patrolman George L. Madison and Constable Russell L. Slocum. They found beer and gin.

Mary Nugent, Canal street, above Riverside park, was visited by Chief Brown and Constable Samuel Patton; the officers found two cases of beer.

At Frank Julien's on Pierce street, and the two-family house adjoining, visited by Patrolmen Fred Ferraro and Leroy Norman, nothing was found.

Mrs. Mary A. Brown has returned to her home on Stonington road, after passing the winter at the home of her daughter in Tallahassee, Fla.

MYSTIC

Graduation exercises of Mystic academy Thursday evening attracted an audience that filled every seat and all the available standing room. Those taking part had excellent compositions showing careful training by the two teachers, Mrs. Harry Hill, who taught the first half of the year owing to the illness of the principal, Miss Joanna Burnett. The class members all had high marks and the roll of honor is composed of Miss Rancona Hanks 94, Lucia and Everett Woodbury 93, Osmond Kinney, Cora Stanton 92, John Dodge, Raymond Williams 91, Hazel Kappers, Mary Mortimer 89, Morris Bennett, Richard Gray, Harry Meyers 87, Ethel Wilson 85. Rev. F. G. Coulter, pastor of the Congregational church who delivered the address, complimented them on their splendid English in the compositions and emphasized the importance of building on a solid foundation. His talk was full of practical suggestions.

Dr. J. M. Arkin spoke briefly and presented the prizes. The first was a $5 gold piece presented by the Parent-Teachers association for highest scholarship and this awarded Ramona Hank of Burnett's Corners. The Frances A. Nye prize a graded annual, for the pupil making the greatest improvement in drawing, was given Lucia G. LEDYARD

The Missionary society held its June meeting at the parsonage Wednesday afternoon with an attendance of about a number of out of town guests present. The meeting was opened with the hymn, "The Morning Light is Breaking," followed by responsive reading of the scripture and repetition of the 121 Psalm in unison. The secretary, Mrs. Flora Gray called the roll, also gave a brief account of the work of the society for the last ten years.

Mrs. Wm. Bushnell, formerly Miss White, gave a very interesting talk about the needs of the school at Tongaloo, Miss., where at one time she taught music. Miss McCall also from Saybrook told about the work of the society. Miss Nellie W. Geer and Mrs. Carl Holdridge reported the meeting of the Eastern Connecticut branch, held in Norwich, June 9 at the Park church. The collection was presented Mrs. Bushnell, to be sent to Tongaloo to help in providing lights for the dormitories. The meeting closed with the hymn "Blest Be the Tie That Binds," and the Mizpah benediction. The refreshment committee Mrs. John Finegan, Mrs. Fred Burton, Mrs. Millie Gray and Mrs. Enos Gray Jr. served salad, rolls, cake and tea.

Among those attending the Children's day exercises Sunday were Mrs. Chas. Cutting, (a former pastor's wife) her son Charles, his wife and four children from New Haven. They made a few calls on friends, returning home in the afternoon.

Miss Fanny Heeley is spending a few days with her cousin, Mrs. I. G. Geer.

NOANK

Miss Lizzie Doyle is recovering slowly from severe illness.

Nathaniel Avery has returned from New York to his home at Groton Long Point.

Mrs. Herbert Hannig of the Point is in Old Mystic on a visit.

Herbert Sherwood of Hartford was a recent caller at Groton Long Point.

Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Osborne of Holyoke, Mass., are at their cottage at the Point.

Word has been received of the marriage of Mary Frances, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Seymour Morrow Jr., at Sandwich, Mass., to Eugene Haines, of that town. Mr. Wallace Morrow lived in the village for years.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Chapman, of Providence, are visiting local relatives.

Mrs. Rose Blackman of Hyde Park, Mass., is visiting her brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Durfee.

The Sardine club met Thursday night at the home of Walter Willis. It was voted to have a day's outing and water racing at Crane dock, next month. The committee is Walter Willis, Clifford Phelps and Neil Morrison. Also they are to have a swimming team. William Franklin gave an address on sportsmanship. After the meeting a roast beef supper was served by Steward Leo Harris. A collection was taken up for the good of the club and $4 was in the box.

Mr. and Mrs. Trask who are spending the summer at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Fitzpatrick have gone to Cape Cod for a few weeks.

Bridmon, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Tourjee is ill with a severe cold.

Philip Steele has left the boat Idella and has shipped on another boat for the lobster season.

Miss Charlotte Smith of Hartford spent a day recently at her home here.

Raymond Sisler is in Bridgeport for a few days.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Chesebro have gone to Amherst, Mass. Their son Paul was graduated from college in the class of 1926. The exercises began Friday and continued till Monday.

You can telephone direct, without calling "Toll Line" from Norwich to Danielson or Mystic

BEGINNING TOMORROW, to make a telephone call from any point in the Norwich Exchange to Danielson or Mystic, just give the number you want to your local operator, and hold the receiver to your ear until the called number answers or the operator gives you a report.

This direct method of making calls from Norwich to Danielson or Mystic is known as the A-B Toll Call. It is the same simple method by which you now telephone to Colchester, Jewett City, Lebanon and New London.

This type of service applies to number calls only. If you don't know the number you want, ask "Information" for it. There is no change in the method of handling calls for a particular person. Such calls should be given to "Toll Line" in the usual way.

The A-B Toll call is a modern development of inter-city communication. Its extension to Danielson and Mystic marks an addition to the service given in Norwich, and people will be quick to take advantage of this swift and easy method of calling.

ECHOES FROM THE LODGE ROOMS

GROTTO

Nemrod grotto is arranging for its annual serenade to the Yale and Harvard crews at Gales Ferry on the eve of the boat race and letters from the crew managers have informed the Grotto committee that the serenade will be very welcome. The Gales Ferry people are co-operating in carrying out the plans.

It is planned to assemble so as to leave here at 7 o'clock, taking a band the Grotto drum corps and the patrol which will be in uniform. The Yale crews will first be visited and the Nemrod men will leave their automobiles in the ample parking space which Gales Ferry provides, marching from the center to the Harvard quarters to complete the serenading.

Upon the return to the center refreshments will be served at the Gales Ferry country club and there will be dancing there for the rest of the evening.

IN NORWICH FIFTY YEARS AGO

Fifty years ago this week the West Chelsea school district at a meeting appointed a committee to arrange for the erection of a new school building, two stories high, with four school rooms, the cost of the lot and building not to exceed $6,000. The same week the then recently elected council held its organization meeting with Mayor Osgood in the chair. The 18th regiment, C. V., held its annual reunion at the fairgrounds and at the association's business meeting, William G. Ely was elected president. Interesting items taken from the files of The Bulletin of June, 1876, are as follows:

Monday, June 12, 1876—A service was held at the East Main street M. E. church yesterday afternoon, in memory of the late Dr. J. W. Mallan. Soon after coming to this city, the deceased connected himself with that church and became a member of the choir, which position he held until his death.

There will probably be no public celebration of the Fourth in Norwich. With the cry for retrenchment and reform, people will feel that they cannot consistently spend money for fireworks.

Yesterday was one of the most oppressive days of the season, and the air being close and sultry and the actual heat at 85 and greater. The evening was much cooler and filled the streets with people who had kept indoors till then.

Tuesday, June 13, 1876—The first meeting of the new common council was held last evening. The meeting was called to order soon after 8 o'clock by Mayor Osgood. The mayor appointed the following committees:

On finance—Alderman Adams and Councilman Slocum.

On streets—Alderman Carpenter and Councilmen Sears and Hopkins.

On the fire department—Alderman Lanphiers and Councilmen Brown and Wattles.

On public grounds—Alderman Adams and Councilmen Browning and Parke.

L. W. Carpenter was appointed water commissioner.

The steamer Lawrence will take the place of the Boston tomorrow night, the latter going off for some repairs about her machinery.

The Georgia minstrels which appear here this week, are one of the best companies traveling and old favorites. They will have a warm greeting.

A trot will be given on the fairgrounds track on Thursday afternoon of next week for a purse of $200, open to all Norwich horses and no other.

Wednesday, June 14, 1876—Another one of our oldest and most respected citizens has just passed away, Mr. George Sherman died at his residence in Bean Hill, yesterday morning in his 73rd year. He was a native of Lebanon but removed in early life to Norwich, becoming one of our most active mechanics and builders.

The commissioned officers of the Third Regiment will meet at the armory of Co. 3, on Saturday, June 24th for the purpose of discussing and making arrangements for the centennial trip. Instruction in tactics will also be given.

The board of education have voted to retain Prof. Butterfield as musical teacher of the schools in the Central district another year. The Rev. S. O. Seymour was chosen to fill the vacancy in the board caused by the death of Mr. J. G. Lamb.

Thursday, June 15, 1876—A meeting of the West Chelsea school district was held last evening. Joseph A. Smith was appointed moderator and A. Y. Hebard, clerk, protem. A building committee composed of Messrs. J. P. Collins, Thomas B. Woodworth and Edson S. Bishop was appointed to select a plan for a building and grant the contract for erecting it to the lowest bidder at a cost not to exceed $8,000 for house and lot. The building will probably be a two story frame structure with four school rooms.

It gives us much pleasure to announce that the Hon. James A. Hovey was nominated yesterday for judge of the superior court. No gentleman stands higher for ability or integrity where he is best known than Judge Hovey.

Chief Engineer Carrier has invented a flag staff especially adapted to private houses and offices. By an ingenious arrangement it can be affixed to and detached to a window sill at a moment's notice.

Friday, June 16, 1876—The reunion of the gallant 18th was held at the fairgrounds yesterday. This regiment was raised in this vicinity and has one of the best records of any of the Connecticut troops. It suffered severely in battle and nearly half of it suffered the horrors of southern prisons, not far from 500 officers and men being captured at the battle of Winchester.

President A. G. Scranton of Danielville presided and the following officers were elected: President, William O. Ely; vice presidents, Henry Peale and William Caruthers; recording secretary, Charles F. Case; corresponding secretary, Gordon Wilcox; treasurer, Henry Durfey.

Capt. L. A. Gallup, one of the best known of our business men, has bought the entire stock of fancy dry-goods of Mr. C. B. Platt and within a few days will engage in the business.

A new lodge of Good Templars is being formed in this city about 50 names having been pledged for the order. A meeting will be held this evening at the residence of Mrs. B. B. Watermen, to perfect an organization.

Saturday, June 17, 1876—The National Guard—The camp of the Connecticut regiments at Philadelphia, is to be situated on Lancaster avenue and in close proximity to the centennial grounds. It covers an area of 1,200 by 800 feet and is greatly superior to the locality first chosen on Belmont avenue.

Mr. Cosgrove, who has recently fitted up and will soon open the handsome new store in Hoadley building corner of Church and Crown streets is known throughout New England as the great shoe man. Mr. Cosgrove is largely interested in the manufacture of goods, makes his headquarters at Norwich, Conn., where he has one of the largest stores in the state, and has built up an enviable trade—New Haven Journal.

Collander's Georgia Minstrels—This company had an enthusiastic audience in Breed hall last evening. We have no hesitation in recommending the troupe as the best that has ever visited this place.

The Central Baptist church had a very pleasant strawberry festival last evening.

Clears away itching rash in two days
Uses Resinol now for all kinds of skin ills

Tacoma, Wash., Jan. 4:—"On July 20, 1917, just before I was called to service in France, I was advised by my druggist to use Resinol Ointment for a rash which I had on my arm. It relieved the itching and the rash was gone in two days. Later I cured two friends of mine who were suffering from some kind of skin trouble. We all agreed that it was 100% stuff for anything like a breaking out.

While in France I had a bunch of boils that nothing seemed to cure until I had the doctor fix the little place up (after a treatment with a knife) with Resinol. Needless to say, I soon lost all my boils and from that time on I became the outfit's boil and pimple doctor.

Since coming home I have used a great many jars of Resinol and I swear by it. Every little cut or scratch gets its immediate application of Resinol. It is a wonderful, non-equaled ointment." (Signed) Chas. [illegible] Jr., 3015 So. 7th St.

CHAPLIN

The last meeting of the Ladies' Aid society for the summer will be in the form of a picnic, held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Chick at the farm formerly owned by W. E. Gallup, Tuesday, June 25.

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert E. Plass and family of Glen Ridge, N. J., have arrived at their summer home in Chaplin, where they will spend July and August, as usual.

Miss Florence Hunt, is at home after spending some time in New Britain. Mrs. E. J. Hunt who has been ill in Hartford is much improved and is expected home soon.

Rev. and Mrs. J. N. Knott attended a ministers' meeting at Lebanon Monday. Rev. Mr. Knott attended a similar meeting at Pomfret Tuesday.

Miss Marion Bentley of Mystic, teacher at the North Corner, closed her school last Friday with a picnic on the grounds of Tyler Hapgood. Miss Bentley has been very successful in her school work and will remain for another year.

Miss Mabel Trowbridge who has been ill with measles is able to be out.

Severe colds have been prevalent, some taking the form of laryngitis.

W. B. Gallup, who has been ill with bronchitis, is able to sit up for a short time each day.

Earnest Back of Washington, D. C., is making repairs on his buildings in Chaplin, Wilfred Robert doing the work.

EAST HADDAM
Mrs. Winifred P. Warner and Mr. and Mrs. Edward Bertram were in New Haven last week, attending the graduation exercises at the New Haven Normal School of Gymnastics. Miss Barnard Warner is one of the graduates.

George E. Emmons of Pasadena, Cal., was a recent visitor at the home of his brother, Marshall Emmons.

George Worthington, a native of East Haddam, died at his home here last Saturday, after a long illness. The funeral was held Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock, with burial in Moodus cemetery.

Mrs. George O. Fielding and Miss Mamie Hanna have returned from Stonybrook, L. I., where they went to see their uncle Sidney L. Davis, who is seriously ill.

Mrs. Dennis Kiley and daughter Miss Mary were recent visitors in East Hampton.

Michael W. Wall of East Hampton was a recent business caller in town.

Mrs. Margaret Butler, with her daughter Marion, spent the week end at her summer home here.

THE SOCIAL CORNER

ONE OF THE GREATEST ARTS OF LIFE IS FINDING HAPPINESS IN LITTLE THINGS.

SOCIAL CORNER POETRY

Why, Mother, Why, Why?

Why, Mother, I want to know why
The roses are red and the violets blue,
The birds can fly, but if I try to
I just fall down and I have to cry,
Why, Mother, please tell me why?

Why, Mother, I want to know why
The clouds that are sailing so high above,
And are white like the wings of the whitest dove—
Why they don't fall right down from the sky.
Like the white rose petals, O tell me why

I want to know why the grass is so green,
Why the buttercups have such a golden sheen.
Where the sun goes when he sinks in the west,
What kind of music God likes best,
If the fairies drink from the lily's cup,
If God looks down when we look up,
If each baby bell as it sways and swings,
Is making a sound like a bell that sings,
Chanting a hymn to God on high
Why, Mother, please tell me why?

Do the pure white bells on their curving stems,
Of the valley lilies, set like gems,
Ring sweet the fairies dinner bell,
And call the bees to their feast as well?

Why, Mother cannot you tell me why,
Why, dear one, must I sit and sigh,
And never know, though I try and try,
And am patient and good and think all day,
As I do sometimes in a wonderful way.

Never know if these things are so;
For the grass to fall, but not bow to
I cannot go out, so with never a pout,
I wonder and wonder with never a sound.
For mother says I must be still today,
When I have a question or look around
While the children are all at school or play.
But I guess I shall never sure'e know,
Whether these things are truly so;
So I'm not going to cry
For I must ask you why,
Why Mother why, why?

When Silvery Moon Is Shining on Hills of Dear Old Maine

I left my home, way down in Maine,
And loved ones long ago
'Twas autumn when the leaves were red,
And gold
In dreams I see those scenes again,
They ease my heart of pain.
Sweet memories of those happy days of old,
The homestead on the hill,
The stream and rustic mill,
And shady places there beneath the pines
Now my thoughts forever roam,
To that dear old state and home
I'm dreaming of the dear ones left behind.

Chorus

When the silvery moon is shining
O'er the hills of dear old Maine,
I'm longing so to see the folks
At home sweet home again
"O where is my wandering boy tonight
I hear that sweet refrain,
When the silvery moon is shining
O'er the hills of dear old Maine.

Today I see the home again I left
When but a boy
At twilight when the lights are soft and low
A vision of the days to come
Now fills my heart with joy
Sweet moments with the ones that love me so.
A mother waits for me
A daddy there I see is strong so to cheer
The one that's sad
Now I'm waiting for the train
That will take me back to Maine
I'm longing so to make those dear hearts glad.

READING THE PAPER

Ma reads the Woman's Column an' about the Woman's clubs,
An sister reads the Beauty Hints an' of the social dubs.
I read the funny paper an' the latest in baseball
And brother reads the sporting page—the races, fights and' all.
But Pa skips all o' that, you bet, an' buts in his best licks
A-reading what the paper has to say on politics!

Ma reads the advertisements an' she goes out bargain days,
An comes home tired out, but, jest the same, she, she's a daisy.
An' she looks in the paper for the headin' theirs
The other things she reads, but there's a favorite of hers.
Sometimes I read the "Light bo rounds' when there has been a mix.
But Pa don't read a blessed thing at all but politics!

An' uncle reads about the crops an what the prospect is
For gittin' bumper harvests, fer he's in the farmin' biz.
An' auntie sez the "Home and Health" department takes her eye.
'Cus there she gits the new recipes for makin' cakes an' pie
An' Cousin Henry reads the "Poultry News"—he's raisin' chicks—
But Pa don't care a durn fur anything but politics!

An' grandma reads the story that "continued in our next."
An' grandma reads the sermons, an' remembers ev'ry text.
She hunts the "daily puzzle" up, and sits there half the night
A-figurin' the answer, and' she allus gits it right.
We have to give the papers up to pa from five to six 'Cus he comes home to supper then an' jes' reads politics!

The column called "House Beautiful" ma sez she most enjoys;
The "Juvenile Department" is the bully thing for boys.
An' then there's the "Art News"—sister's interested there.
But fer the "Fashion Notes" they print ma don't seem to care.
An' as fer me, he wishes that the editor would fix
Things in the paper so they'd print a lot more politics!

The Old Wooden Clock in the Hall will sing you a song of the days that are past my home in a land far away

I love once again to look back with delight the scenes of my youth bright and gay

When I think of the blessing and comforts of home
Many joys does my memory recall
But the treasures most rare there's but one dear to me
'Tis the old wooden clock in the hall.

Oh the dear country homestead that stands 'neath the hill
By the side of the low murmuring stream
Now in fancy it comes through the years that are gone
Back again to my heart like a dream.
Once again I can see dear old Mother so true,
How she knelt, how she prayed for us all
But she's gone to her rest and but one friend remains
'Tis the old wooden clock in the hall.

I have traveled by land, I have traveled by sea
North and south, east and west far away
And the time soon will come when my own sun will set
At the close of life's long weary days.
Oh I'll hie me agin to the home of my youth
To the spot that is dearest of all
And though loved ones are gone one kind face I shall see
'Tis the old wooden clock in the hall.
Tick Tick Tick Tick Tick Tick Tick Tick Tick
Marking the moments for all
Oh my heart fondly clings to those bright happy days
And the old wooden clock in the hall.

JELLY AND SUMMER DRINKS

Dear Social Corner Editor and Sisters: Currants make the best jelly of all, and can be made into a relish to serve with all meats to cook with spices. For jelly, pick over and wash the currants, but do not stem them. Put the fruit in a porcelain kettle and stand in a larger vessel of water.

Steam until the juice is extracted, then pass through a flannel bag and let drip all night, but do not squeeze it. (You can use the residue in other stewed fruits.) For each pint of currant juice allow a pint of sugar (spread on platters and place in the oven to become hot, but do not allow it to brown at all.) Let the juice boil for 20 minutes, then add the sugar and let all come to the boiling point, skim and fill into glasses that have been sterilized. Stand in the sun until firm. For spiced currants use brown sugar and allow 4 pounds of it to 4 pints of the fruit; 1 pint of vinegar, 2 tablespoons of ground cinnamon, and 2 tablespoons of cloves. Cook until thick, then pack in jelly glasses.

For Bar le Duc, use either red or white currants of the finest quality, ripe but still firm. Strip from the stems and for every pound of fruit allow a pound of granulated sugar. Spread the sugar on the plates and stand in a hot oven until it begins to melt but do not allow it to color or become a syrup, or let it stand in the heat long enough to reach the melting point. Have hot platters ready, spread over them a layer of the sugar, then one of the fruit and a second of sugar. Cover with clear panes of glass (but do not let the glass press on the fruits) and stand in the bright sunshine all day. At night bring into the house without disturbing the dishes and repeat the sunning process for three or four days, when the fruit should be transparent and tender. Lift the fruit out of the syrup with a skimmer and fill into small tumblers.

Boil the syrup down to a jelly, then pour over the currant and seal tight. Should one of the three days provide no needed sunshine, make a substitute of the oven, but let it be only warm not hot.

Raspberry shrub or raspberry vinegar makes a most delicious warm weather drink. Put fresh ripe raspberries into a stone jar and pour over them cider vinegar in the proportion of one quart to two quarts of fruit. Cover and stand in a cool place for two days, then drain off the liquor, without mashing the berries. Pour it once a like quantity of the freshly picked fruit, cover again and stand for two days. Repeat this operation a third and at the end of the sixth day strain through a muslin cloth or bag.

Then add one pound of sugar to every pint of the liquid; boil slowly for five minutes, skim thoroughly and let stand 15 minutes to cool. Bottle, seal and store in a dark place. When desired, add iced water to suit the taste.

—GUESS WHO.

WEDDING ANNIVERSARIES

Dear Corner Sisters: Whenever possible the wedding anniversaries should be celebrated as this helps to keep sentiment alive and sets apart the day, one of the most important in the lives of the man or woman concerned, from any other time in the whole year. Various quaint and interesting ceremonies have gradually grown up about these celebrations, but their origin seems shrouded in mystery. Just why the first celebration should be called the "cotton" wedding or the second paper nobody, not even historians or learned professors schooled in folk lore seem to know. The fourth celebration is passed by unnoticed without a special function of any sort, while after the fifth, the "wooden" wedding five years go by before the next marked anniversary arrives. And so the list gradually lengthens until arrives the 50th anniversary, which not one couple in 10,000 lives long enough to see.

The first anniversary, the "cotton" wedding, should, if possible, be celebrated by a jolly party of some sort. One novel table decoration for the first anniversary party many consist of spools of cotton for candle holders and balls of darning cotton for place cards. Many other schemes can be easily devised by any woman with a little ingenuity. It is great fun to give one of the old-fashioned sheet and pillow-case parties on this occasion. Send out your invitations for the affair at least two weeks in advance and write them on pieces of stiffy-starched cotton cloth cut to fit ordinary correspondence envelopes. The host and hostess at this affair can dress in costumes made of sheets and drapin Greek style.

They are not masked as they have to receive the guests who come in dominoes made out of sheets and mask, contrived by putting an old pillow-case over their heads and cutting two holes for the eyes and one for the mouth. This forms an almost impenetrable disguise for man or woman. Dancing can form the amusement of progressive games, and at a given signal, just before going to supper the company can unmask.

The second anniversary is the "paper" wedding. For this there are innumerable paper decorations that can either be made at home or purchased ready made that tend to make the parlor or living room things of beauty. One dainty color scheme is in pink and white. The tablecloth is in white figured paper imitating damask. The plates are of white paper which are laid on doilies of pink lace paper. Besides each plate can be placed a white ice cup, to hold charlotte russe, jelly or bonbons. Fan place cards use a small white wedding bell decorated by a small pink paper rose. Then there are tiny baskets of pink tulips with slender handles decorated with bows of baby ribbon.

The chef d'oeuvre of the table should be a centerpiece called a rose Jack Horner pie. The foundation for this is a shallow tin covered with green crepe paper. This is entirely concealed by a mammoth wide open pink rose from the center of which rises a most artistic bunch of bridesmaids' roses and foliage with a gorgeous black and gold butterfly hovering over the blossoms. These roses, which are of paper like the rest of the decorations, are tied together by a tiny bow of baby ribbon to hold them upright. When the supper is over the hostess unfastens the ribbon and asks each woman guest to pluck a rose, which she does, pulling it easily through the petals of a huge centerpiece. To her surprise and delight she finds a dainty souvenir of some sort neatly wrapped in white paper, tied with pink ribbon, and attached to the end of the stem.

The wedding anniversaries are as follows:

First, cotton; second, paper; third, leather; fifth, wooden; seventh, woolen; tenth tin; twelfth, silk and fine linen; fifteenth, crystal; twentieth, china; twenty-fifth, silver; thirtieth, pearl; fortieth, ruby; fiftieth, golden; seventh-fifth, diamond.

A TABLE DECARATION FOR JUNE

Dear Social Corner Friends: We all know this is the month of roses, although at the time of writing it looks more like November; and trusting that warmer days will bring out the roses, both the wild and garden varieties, I thought I would do my bit, long delayed, for the Corner by telling of a pretty way to arrange wild roses.

Use a plate about the size of a dinner plate to hold the roses and ferns. Get five large ferns, the ordinary, delicate ferns found in the woods and also five of the more hardy, rock ferns. Arrange the delicate ferns evenly around the plate, and between each of these, place one of the rock ferns not letting the rock ferns extend as far out as the other kind.

This has something the effect of a small star of the dark rock ferns overlying a larger star of the lighter colored and more delicate fern.

Fill the center with wild rose buds selecting those that are about ready to open, bringing a bud as far out on each fern as possible, and still have four stems well in the water, and laying the other flat in the center of the plate, just letting the bud lined out of water. Pick off some of the leaves so that there will not be so much foliage that the buds are hidden.

If this is arranged the day before it is wanted, the buds will open and you will have a beautiful and fragrant bit of woodland loveliness to feast your eyes upon.

The buds seem to open better when laid flat in the water than if bunched together in a vase and the beautiful shades and color of the opened flowers is better displayed against the background of leaves. Used arranged in this way.

If handled carefully, the roses will last two days without dropping their petals and the ferns will stay fresh enough to look well for a new lot of roses.

I think almost everyone has gathered wild roses in full bloom only to find them on the way home the petals drop and go reviving before getting them home. But those who love them enough soon learn that if gathered in the buds they will open in water and last long enough to reward us for the thorn pricks we get in gathering them.

I send my thanks to A Social Corner Member for the pretty calendar which I have placed where it is easily seen and which has told me for many months now and will tell me for many to come not only the date but the kind thought of the giver.

As I have written of June roses, I am going to close with the verse about June. the last two lines of which are so often quoted. Maybe there are others who like myself for many years have meant the first two lines, but never happened to hear the more beautiful ones that follow. I believe the author is James Russell Lowell. When I came across this poem I memorized the first verse, and as I quote from memory there may be some inaccuracies.

What is so rare as a day in June?
Then, if ever, come perfect days;
Then heaven tries the earth if it be in tune,
And over it softly her warm ear lays.
Whether we look or whether we listen,
We hear life murmur or see it glisten.
Every clod feels a stir of might,
An instinct within it that reaches and towers,
And groping blindly for light,
Climbs to a soul in grass and flowers.

And here's hoping in the coming June days, there may be in the many of them when the earth is truly "in tune," and may they bring happiness to our editor and all Cornerites.

I enclose some verses, which are also suitable for the month of flowers and which may please those who are mothers of children at the question-asking age, if the editor has room to publish them.

CARING FOR CAT

Social Corner Editor and Sisters: This at least has been more like a summer day.

Kitty Lou: I believe cats need raw meat. From my own experience I know that raw meat has done my cat ever so much good. He gets some raw meat at least once a day, usually in the morning and has gained weight and appearance since I started feeding him that way. A friend has a big white cat that has been fed almost entirely on meat and that cat weighs at least 18 or 19 pounds. Another friend has a big cat, (half brother to mine) weighing 17 or 18 pounds. But I don't believe too much salmon is good for them even though mixed with bread. Did you know that condensed or evaporated milk was good for them? I get fish heads for mine and he's crazy for them. You know, too, that it is the nature of a cat to have raw meat. I use vaseline mixed with sulphur for his fur and find it is very good. Once in a while I mix powdered sulphur with his meat. To be sure he doesn't like it but will eat it when he finds there's nothing else to be had.

Primrose: I hope your stock of patience is still good. Will call you as soon as possible.

Best wishes

OLD WRITERS SHOULD BE HEARD FROM

Dear Editors and Social Corner Sisters: What has become of all the old writers of Club 2? Why don't they write? It is very seldom we see a letter from any of the old time writers. Let us wake up and do our bit, write some interesting letters for surely every one can find something that would be interesting. If you have been away on a visit, tell us about your trip; no matter how short it was, make a story out of it.

Club 1 seems to be asleep too. We used to read nice letters from them.

It is nice to hear from so many new writers, but we don't want our old ones to stop writing. So wake up sisters and write, if it is only a line or two. We'll be glad to see your name on our page again.

Club 2 has closed its doors for the summer and when we open again in the fall let every member be present and bring someone with them.

I understand Club 5 is to continue their meetings all summer, so now sisters here is your chance to visit Club 5. I feel that any of us will be welcome at the Buckingham as any of Club 5 would be made welcome at Odd Fellows hall, for are we not all sisters, in more ways than one?

Maple Leaf: Hiawatha and I will be there with bells when the time comes.

Wishing a speedy recovery for all sick ones and extending my sympathy to all the sisters who have lost their dear ones I will stop so to leave room for some one else.

Success to all Social Corner clubs.

WORTHWHILE RECIPES

Dear Social Corner Members: Here are some recipes worth trying:

Almond Biscuit: This is a California recipe. 3 cups flour, 5 teaspoons baking powder, 1 teaspoon salt, 3 tablespoons butter or lard, 1 cup finely chopped almonds, 1 cup milk.

Sift together flour, salt, baking powder, 3 times, then cut into the mixture with knives or work in with the finger tips the shortening, add almonds (chopped fine) which have been blanched and slightly roasted. Mix this in thoroughly and add milk. Drop on a floured board and pat down with your hand about 3-4 inch thickness, cut with biscuit cutter and bake 20 minutes at 450 degrees F.

Brown Eyed Susans: 1 cup flour, 1 teaspoon salt, 4 teaspoons sugar, tablespoons sugar, 6 cupfuls of sifted entire wheat flour, 2 cups walnut meats, 2 cups raisins, 5 cups milk.

Sift together flour, salt, baking powder, sugar, entirewheat flour, mix times, add 2 cups walnuts, 2 cups raisins, (chopped) mix altogether, add 5 cups of milk. This makes 3 large loaves, bake at 375 degrees about 60 minutes depending on the size of the loaves.

Fourth of July Sandwiches: Cut circles of white bread with red cookie cutter and a little red pepper in the filling tied with narrow blue ribbon; round red and white radishes in blue dishes, and the cutest little tomato stands, made of a whole big scarlet tomato. There is a big cake frosted in white with red stripes across, and a tow cannon perched on the center. There are also cunning tarts filled with red jelly and little cup cakes with blue frosted flowers. Then the ice cream can be mounted up so it will look like a hill of snow with a tiny flag waving on the top of it. A couple of torpedoes, a few white candles tied in a tissue paper to look like torpedoes.

Prune Corn Bread: 1-2 pound of prunes, 2 cups flour, 1 cup corn meal, 6 teaspoons of baking powder, 1 teaspoon salt, 1-4 cup sugar. Sift all together except the prunes 3 times, then add prunes, 1 egg, 1-4 cup milk and 2 well beaten eggs, pour into a well greased baking dish bake 30 minutes at 450 F. Serve hot. Cut in squares.

Lemonade Syrup: 4 cups water, 8 lemons (juice). Cook until thick and bottle in sterilized bottles till wanted. At serving time, add the juice of half a fresh lemon to the syrup. Dilute in the proportion of two tablespoons of syrup to a glass of water.

Bull Dog Punch: 1 bottle of ginger-ale and one orange, 1 tumbler orange juice, set in cold water or crack ice and place in tumbler or punch glass.

VISITED AN OLD CHURCH

Dear Corner Folks: Well, here I am again. Hello everybody. It's a long time since I saw any of you and a long time since I wrote. I guess I am getting slow but sure am not old. It seems to take so long to do what I have to do I don't go much, but sit down and rest all I can. I've been to the shore for a few days and last week went to see some friends in Brooklyn and had the great pleasure to go in and look over the oldest Episcopal church in the United States built in 1711. It is still in good repair with high backed pews, high fronts made like school desks and doors to shut you in with and buttons to fasten. Oh my how very straight one would have to sit. No danger of any one going to sleep in church in those days. A large cemetery is all around the church where I was told the slaves used to sit in slavery days, as there were many in that section. They had a narrow board to sit on with those awful straight backs. There are no services there now only on All Saints day which is the first day of November, when the have a big union meeting. There is a large grave yard back of the church where many a slave lies buried. We had a long walk through the woods to get to this church which I greatly enjoyed as there were many friends along with us.

This week my only granddaughter graduates from grammar school and we are very busy getting ready now.

Sure you will think I am getting old but never mind "sometimes" I feel quite young. At last we have had some nice rain and we sure needed it. People thought we would never have any but we have the promise of a seed time and harvest as long as the world stands and although sometimes it seems long in coming it always comes.

Every month I think I will go to a Social Corner meeting but something seems to happen so I can't but always wishing I was with you. Sometime I will be there. Much sympathy to all in trouble and those who have lost dear ones and hope all the Cornerites have not forgotten

GREETINGS FROM FULLER PHUN

Dear Social Corner Sisters: How nice our Social Corner page looked Saturday. I only wish we had a page like that every week. I did enjoy the poem sent in by Rhody Louise, and in fact I cut it out and saved it, a thing I seldom do. Also the one Majestic sent in was so true to life.

Comfort: Do I know you? If I do, how well your name suits you, because you sure did look as if you took all the comfort in the world when you rode by Sunday. Is that correct?

Smiles: Where are you? Don't you ever go out. I know you too. Now I've got you guessing, haven't I?

Bony: You don't live up to your name. I know your sisters real well and also your nephew, Charles.

Ma of Greene Gables: What nice letters you write and oh! such goodies as you make judging from the recipes you've sent in.

By Jingo: Didn't you live in J. C.? If so I know you. I think your hubby was in a garage. Am I right? If not tell me.

Hope Cobweb: How nice and proud you must feel to have a son graduating from W. P. I. You see I am a mother too and know what it means when our children do well in this world.

Well I guess I've pretty near said enough, but before I go I want to ask the kind editor to look around and see if he has a stray Social Corner pin that would like a good home. If he does find one just send it to Fuller Phun who will take the best of care of it.

Thanking you and best wishes to all the sisters new and old alike.

I am always

CORNER MEMBERSHIP INCREASED

Social Corner Editor: I attended the Shore Line Club No. 6 this week and I enjoyed it very much and would like to become a member of the Corner and Club 6.

Will you please send me a pin?

LES FLEURS

Dear Sisters of the Social Corner: This is the season of nature's sublime expressions, Les Fleurs of the springtime.

Those who live in sympathy with nature's choicest gifts, rich and poor alike, may reveal in their loveliness and share in their exaltation. The weary soul is touched by their esthetic beauty, and is revived by their fragrance.

The frail flowers of the forest are of special delight, but quickly perish when taken from their natural homes. The wild flowers that grow in hidden recesses are usually the most fragrant. The trailing arbutus, the sweetest flower of the forest, grows in seclusion.

A drive along the country roads will reveal these peerless flowers of the springtime. Bunches or dogwood float, dazzlingly white against the background of green foliage. In the sloping pastures the petals of the pink apple blossoms shine like the stars of the night, an dthe wild cherry blossome make fragrant the hidden highways. The lilacs, purple and white, grow in huge clumps around the ancient houses. Occasionally a clump of lilacs on a lone hillock guard the site of a lost home. The fields are wild with buttercups and daisies and the side hills are adorned with patches of blue violets. Yonder, among the bushes, sway bunches of piquant swamp apple blossoms, or wild azaleas. Among the swamps the blue flower-de-lis brightens the dusky meadows. The lady's slipper, the delicate fringed gentian, and the sweet wild strawberry blossoms peer from amid the long grass. The frazile water lilies that float listlessly on the water's breast, and droop and close their petals when the shadows fall.

And as we journey on the beauty of the bands of forget-me-nots along the footpaths, the wandering sweetbrier rose, clinging to the falling rocks, the gaudy laurel and stately rhododendrons, making gay the hillsides, the sweet scented honeysuckles and the sweeping rows of green ferns that fringe the broken tree stumps and line the long, lonesome country roads, exceeds the gendre of the artisan.

Among the garden flowers, riotous tulips and peonies, bunches of purple wisteria, clusters of snow balls, lilies of the valley and narcissus, and the clumps of old fashioned syringas, with the never fading ivy and beds of green myrtle, from a mantle of color equal to that of the gardens of the forgers.

These flowers, the tokens of unspoken remembrance, are wreathed around the graves of the past, and the cherished memories of other days are as of the present. Paces long since vanished, voices long since hushed, footsteps long since silenced, live again in Les Fleurs of the springtime.

THE LITTLE SPINSTER.

PRESERVING SUMMER FRUIT

Dear Social Corner: Summer brings with it the best of the small fruits, and offers the opportunity for preparing preserves, jams, jellies and relishes.

Cherries along with raspberries make tempting hot weather drinks. Some currants can be used alone or with other fruits.

There are many varieties of cherries and all are delicious, but for preserving the Black Tartarian and the Morellos are the best. These are dark in color and rich in flavor. The White Oxhearts and other light colored cherries are too delicate to cook or combine with sugar.

Old English cherry jam is a great favorite with many. Only the finest fruit should be used which should be weighed before stemming. For each pound of fruit allow a pound or granulated sugar. For every six pounds of fruit allow a pint of red currant juice and an extra pound of sugar. Remove the pits from the cherries and place in a preserving kettle, heating slowly. Simmer gently until tender, then add the sugar and currant juice with a few cherry kernels removed from the stones. Boil slowly for nearly half an hour or until the jam thickens. Stir well from time to time and skim off all scum as it rises.

Rich, ripe cherries made into old-fashioned preserves are always welcome. There are several methods that can be employed, but none better than the following, which is of old English origin: Choose ripe, but not soft, fruit and allow three-quarters of a pound of sugar to each pound of fruit. Remove the stems and pits, keeping the fruit as whole as possible. Make a syrup with the sugar—a gill of water for every two pounds. When clear, drop the cherries in and boil for 15 minutes, skimming frequently. Turn into an earthen dish and let stand over night; then drain the cherries through a sieve, putting the syrup back into the preserving kettle with the juice of white currants in proportion of one pint to a pound of fruit. Boil until the syrup is thick, skimming to keep clear. Pack full into jars and seal tight. Currants added to the cherries greatly improve their flavor.

Canned fruits are never so rich as preserves, but they retain the natural flavor and are preferred by many. Cherries can be treated after the manner of strawberries, allowing one-quarter of a pound of sugar to every quart jar (sterilized) and process cooking 10 minutes. Both dark and light-colored cherries can be used in this way, and if the cooking is carefully followed the natural flavor will be retained.

Raspberries, being somewhat seedy when cooked, are more limited in their possibilities than either cherries or strawberries. Combined with currants (which have been canned before raspberries are ripe) they make a tasty jam and the juice can be made into a delightful refreshing drink. For every pound of raspberries allow a pound of sugar also one pint of red currant juice. After placing the berries in a preserving kettle beat them with a wooden spoon. Heat slowly, and boil for 15 minutes more, skimming all the time until the jam is perfectly clear. Pack in jars and store in a cool place.

KITTY LOU.

ANOTHER USE FOR NEWSPAPERS

Dear Sisters of the Social Corner: There have been many good suggestions made as to the uses of old newspapers, and I would like to add one more that I have discovered as very practical. I am having two rooms renovated at present, by painted ceilings, varnished woodwork, and new wall paper. After removing everything from the rooms, I laid old newspapers (opened out) all over the floor. I made a small quantity of paste, and pasted the edges of the papers together to hold them in place, and in this way, they will not slip as you step around the room or in moving a step-ladder. The floor is kept clean, free from spots of paint or varnish, also during the papering which necessitates much litter. The idea of laying papers in the floor is nothing new, but to paste them so they will remain stationary is the point that is an improvement, and only a little extra bother or work. It is worth it, and when ready for floor finish, after papers are all taken up, the hard wood will be found clean.

I wish to thank sisters, Catnip, Cady, Black-eyed Susie and Tuxedo for the birthday cards received on my anniversary. I enjoyed a very pleasant day, with my son and family. My daughter-in-law made a lovely birthday cake for me. Three little grandchildren helped me to enjoy June 5th.

Best wishes to all.

JENNIE.

GREETINGS FROM KOCHIE

Dear Social Corner Friends: We are getting a little of that promised weather. Saturday was perfect, and I know every one did appreciate it.

Wasn't it nice that we found a letter from Grandma Gray, and also the information for anyone wanting a back number of the Bulletin. Well she always had a wonderful heart, and always was thinking of others.

Perhaps it is due to when she was teaching years ago, trying to drill it into the youngsters.

Rural Auntie: Sorry my auto woke you up. That rod has been fixed, and if you had a good hot fire that day, I would have stopped in and mended it in your kitchen range. Peter Prose was out with her hammer last Saturday,—even with her rhubarb short cake.

Balsam Fir: Your card received and many thanks. The snappy sayings were very good. Handed them along to Peter Prose. Glad to know you are fine and daddy. See that Delia's dead is now located with some of your cousins.

The little verse that Paula had in her letter last week was very good indeed.

Drove by Historian's home on Wednesday of last week, but did not get a glimpse of him, but saw his better half out in the yard.

Almost time for the mail man so will close. Wish one all the members a prosperous season.

As ever,

KOCKIE.

SUNSHINE ALTHOUGH IT RAINED

Dear Editor and Sisters: I had such a delightful time at the fourth meeting of the Shore Line No. 6 held in Veterans hall in Westerly, R. I. Tuesday that I must write a few lines to the Corner, although it may be a little late. It was dark and rainy outside but all was sunshine and good cheer inside, each one doing their best to make the meeting go down in history as one of the best. Idalene and Melissa were hostesses and with their helpers served a delicious dinner, the only thing being shy was dishes as some of the sisters forgot to take theirs along. But those that had plenty divided with the others and so each did justice to the delicious viands provided.

Crimson Rambler: Was disappointed you did not come but suppose it was too wet for you to wait for the bus. How are you getting along on that work?

Glad to see the sisters from Willimantic, hope to see you at the next meeting.

Olga: Where were you? I missed you very much.

Primrose: I don't think the one you mentioned is a member.

Eva G.: How about it? I will answer that letter before long.

As it is nearly time for the postman I will close with best wishes to all.

HOW TO CAN CHICKEN

Dear Editor and Social Corner Friends: It has been sometime since I have written for the Corner. But today a reminder comes of my subscription due for the Bulletin so thought I would be the two and one man as we hear over the radio sometimes. I have a friend that has a very nice radio. We have spent a good many evenings listening in to some fine music. I went to the Corner meeting that was held in Danielson and such a nice dinner as we had. I saw many old friends and met new ones, we all were so happy that the time passed too soon.

I read sometime ago how to can chicken for cooking. As my family is small I use pint cans. Cook the chicken so you can take the meat from the bones and then put meat in cans with broth to cover and a level tablespoon of salt.

Put the cans in water and let boil steady for an hour. Do not shut the lids down tight, until cooked. This is nice to do if you have more than you want to eat up at once. I know this will keep for I took up a can the other day for dinner.

ROSALIND.

CAKE AND BREAD RECIPES

Dear Social Corner Sisters: I will send a few cake recipes:

Cream Caramel Cake: Place in mixing bowl 2 unbeaten eggs, 3-4 cup brown sugar, heavy cream, beat with egg beater until mixture is somewhat thickened, add 1 3-4 cups flour, 2 1-2 teaspoons baking powder, pinch salt, which have been mixed together, add 1 teaspoon cocoa, beat thoroughly, pour into a square cake pan and bake in a moderate oven. Frost when cool.

Irish Bread: Mix and sift 2 cups bread flour, 3 teaspoons baking powder half teaspoon salt, 1 tablespoon sugar. Work in 3 tablespoons butter, add half cup raisins, half cup currants, 1 tablespoon caraway seeds, 1 cup milk. Mix thoroughly, bake in a round pan for one hour in a moderate oven.

True Blue: Thank you very much for birthday gift. You are a good guesser. You certainly supplied me with those pretty handkerchiefs and will do something for you some time. Sick husband feels much better.

PAULA.

ANNE D'S BEEF LOAF

Dear Social Corner Friends: I think all who attended the social in Danielson given by Club No. 4 will agree with me that all enjoyed a very pleasant day and that the ladies in Killingly surely know how to entertain. The day was perfect as a June day could be and every one in good spirits, greeting one another with a handshake and a smile. The tables fairly groaned with the good things to eat, so there was enough and to spare.

Peggy Alder: I hope you did not break your cup going home as the mate to it would feel lonely if it happened to go to another meeting this summer. I will send in a recipe of a beef loaf which my family think the best ever.

Beef Loaf: 1 1-2 pounds round steak, 2 slices of fat salt pork, ground together. Roll four crackers and pour on enough hot water to swell them. Beat one egg, add 1-2 cup milk, salt, pepper, add 1-2 teaspoon mustard. Mix well and pack in pan. It is very tender so put it down firmly. The pan needs no greasing.

Kind greetings to all members and a pleasant summer.

ANNE D.

GOOD ATTENDANCE DESPITE RAIN

Dear Social Corner Members: Although Tuesday was so unpleasant we had 28 in attendance at Club No. 6's meeting. Some new members were added. We were much pleased to have four from Willimantic and one from Norwich with us. Hope to see them often. Melissa and Idalene were hostesses and with their helpers made the day a success. We missed Clarinda and Nancy Peck who were unable to be present owing to illness. Hope they will soon be well.

Lucile Drew: Your guest was there, but where were you? Guess you had been doing too much traveling and slept seeing the past two weeks. Shall look for you at the next meeting.

Wheeler: Glad to hear the sick one is better.

Every One's Favorite "SALADA" TEA

Because It Is Delicious

HOME MADE COOKER

Dear Social Corner: I am a regular reader of the Social Corner and I am pleased to say it has helped me a good deal, so I would like to offer a suggestion that might help others.

I live in a small apartment and find that I can't use the oven without overheating the rooms and I could not afford to buy one of those cookers that will roast and cook the vegetables just the same as the oven does so I made one. I took a tin pie plate, turned it upside down on the gas (very low flame) and then I put a 10-cent asbestos mat on the pie plate and I put my meat in a pan; to keep the steam in, I put my iron on the lid to make it tight. I do not put water in with the meat just a little fat; the steam from the food cooks it and I do not have to look at it or baste it. When I think the meat is cooked I put my vegetables in and they are lovely cooked this way.

I hope this will help others as it has been a great help to me. It not only saves overheating the house this warm weather but it saves stoves, time. I will send in a few more suggestions later on if I may.

Muskrat Play Days

Playing in the Smiling Pool
Little muskrats go to school.
—Jerry Muskrat.

Those little Muskrats didn't know that they were going to school, any more than Peter Rabbit's children in the Old-Briar-patch knew that they were going to school, or than Unc' Billy Possum's children in the Green Forest knew that they were going to school. But they were. All of them were going to school when they thought that all they were doing was playing. That is the very best kind of a school. To think you are playing, yet all the time really be going to school, is the best way of learning that I know of.

Those seven little Muskrats, Jerry Muskrat's children, were as lively a lot of little folk as you will often see. That evening when Peter Rabbit saw them all together with their mother was the first night that they had all been out for a look at the Great World. Now, to them, the Smiling Pool seemed a very great and wonderful place. It really was the Great World to them. They had been born in a snug nest in a house in the bank, with an entrance under water. When they were born they were quite helpless as any little babies could be. Their eyes were shut and they didn't have any fur coats. But they had a mother who knew how to take care of them, and it was surprising to see how rapidly they grew. Their eyes opened and they got little fur coats. But these little fur coats were not brown like the coats of Jerry and Mrs. Jerry; they were a sort of grayish color.

That was the night that Peter Rabbit saw them

Not until they were about a third as big as their parents did Mother Muskrat allow them out of their house. By that time they pretty well filled it, and they were getting impatient. At first she let one or two out. These were the strongest and smartest. Then one evening she took them all out. That was the night that Peter Rabbit saw them. She had charged them that they must stay together and that under no circumstances must they fail to obey her.

"When you hear a slap on the water like this," said Mother Muskrat, bringing her tail down sharply on the surface of the water, "you must at once dive and swim to a hiding place. That is a danger signal. You will never hear it unless there really is danger. So don't forget."

All the little Muskrats promised her they wouldn't forget. So then Mother Muskrat began to play with them. What she really was doing was beginning to teach them, but they didn't know it. That is the way it was all play. She would dive and swim under the water. Then the seven little Muskrats would dive and swim under water after her, for they, too, could swim as far as she did. At first they could swim only a very short distance before having to come to the surface for air. But as they did more and more they played a splendid game which they played together. They swam farther and farther before having to come up, and at last they could swim almost as far as Mother Muskrat. When they thought they were simply playing a game of "tag" they really were learning how to swim and how to stay under water for a long time.

Another game they liked very much was "hide and seek." It was lots of fun to hide among the rushes with nothing but a little nose above the surface. It took a long time to find one then. So a lesson, although they didn't know it.

The next story—Little Mister Know-it-all.

A popular belief in Wales is that rheumatism can be relieved by binding a split mackerel round the affected part.

I find it safer to wash clothes
—this easy way

I USED to have to rub and scrub cuffs, collars, hems, etc., to get them clean and white. No wonder they became frayed and threadbare so quickly.

But no more hard rubbing for me now. I just soak my week's wash in Rinso suds—then rinse—and my washing is done—safely. Clothes get whiter and brighter than ever before.

No washboard rubbing—even the most soiled spots become snowy with a rub or two between the fingers.

Rinso makes the water wonderfully soft and sudsy. It saves my hands, too. They never get red and washworn now.

Rinso

The granulated soap that washes clothes whiter—no scrubbing

POETRY

In the Spring-time of the Year

Oh, I am glad I'm living now that Spring once more is here,
Now that birds are sweetly singing in the Merry-time of the year,
When the apple trees are blooming and the cherry petals white
Fall in millions like the snowflakes dropping on a winter's night.

There is something in the weather that makes me want to sing,
It's a something I can't fathom, but I get it every Spring;
Makes me want to keep a-hopping and a-jumping like a toad
And forget my every trouble, all my cares and every load.

I just long to grab a shovel and a weeder or a hoe,
Get the rusty rake a-working for to make the pusies grow,
Help the Missus in her planting, hill the corn and brush the peas,
Even though my back is aching and there's numbness in my knees.

It is great to hear the mooing of the cows down in the field,
While I stand a-speculating what the meadow crops will yield;
I've been counting up the pullets though the eggs have not been set,
For the Spring is in my system and it must get out, you bet.

I can hear the bullfrogs croaking when the twilight's coming on,
It sounds to me like music and I miss it when it's gone,
And the nightly serenading of the cats inspired to sing
Does not bother me the least bit, for it proves that it is Spring.

I can even stand the sulphur and molasses I must take,
And smile when Miss Mirandy gives me bitters of her make;
Though I know they're gosh-durn foolish and they do no good at best,
It's the time of year to take them, so I take mine with the rest.

But you can't beat good old Nature for a tonic in the Spring,
When the air is cool and bracing and you have a hankering
Just to sprawl down by the willows with a spring hooked to a fly
That you cast into the brooklet where the speckled beauties lie.

Oh, I'm so glad I'm living now that Spring once more is here,
And the birds are sweetly singing in the Merry-time of the year,
When it seems that God is smiling through the blue sky overhead
And by some strange turn for fortune Earth is Heaven's land instead.

—Charles L. H. Wagner.

A Song of the Woods

The birds, they are my playmates,
And every tree my friend,
And all about the wildwood
Scents quaint and witching wend.
Beneath blue skies
Gay butterflies
Their bright enchantment lend.

Flee from your fevered houses,
Where art the prison walls;
Unfading joys are waiting
The weary pleasure thralls;
Its pleasures never pall

The birds, they are my playmates,
I never do alone,
The spreading trees, they love me,
And crown the whole day long;
At every rest,
A welcome guest,
I'm greeted with a song

—Samuel Minturn Peck.

FRAUD POULTRY BUYER WORKS OFF BOGUS $135 CHECK AT NEW LONDON

(Special to the Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, June 19—Another check swindler and operating in a rather different line from any of the previous fraudulent check passers, defrauded Joseph Dean, proprietor of the Live Poultry market, Bank street, of about $100 today. The check passer was not known to Dean and he has no knowledge as to whether the crook resides in this city or the adjacent country, but it is believed he is a resident of a nearby town.

The fellow, who gave his name as "Joe Davis," appeared at the market about 9 o'clock and made it known that he desired to purchase a quantity of live chickens. He inspected the large stock and finally selected four crates of the choicest of the poultry. When payment was made for the birds, Davis tendered a check, for $135, purporting to be signed by himself and drawn on the New London City National bank. The check was accepted and delivery of the chickens was made to Davis, who placed three of the crates in his team and stated that he would return a short time later and take charge of the remaining crate. Dean went to the bank shortly after 10 o'clock and attempted to negotiate the check, but was not successful for Davis did not have an account there, nor was he known to any of the employes. Realizing that he had been victimized by a crook, Dean hastened to the police station where he made a report of the fraudulent transaction. Dean described the crook as being 35 or 30, about five feet 10 inches in height and weighs about 135 pounds.

Automobiles furnished business for the police court today, the offenses including violations of the state law and municipal ordinances. There were a dozen cases alleging infraction of the parking regulations, and the group of offenders was made up of men and women residents of this city and strangers within our gates. It is the wonder of the police and the prosecutor that people will not comprehend that violations of the traffic ordinances will not be winked at. Day after day there are cases of this nature before the court and notwithstanding the publicity given them the offenders seem not to comprehend what is expected of them. The offenders today were first-time evaders of the provisions of the parking ordinance and with one exception they were allowed to go on suspended judgment. In the case in which penalty was imposed the fine was $5.

Carl Angle was accused of having operated an automobile without having a license to do so. Carl was as open as a church door as to what he did. He said he became the owner of an auto about three weeks ago, but that he had not operated his horseless wagon until the day he was arrested, when he was scudding over the Thames river bridge with a chauffeur who knows all about driving, and who was at his elbow in the event that anything went wrong. Sergeant Nelson Smith stopped Angle and asked to see his license. Carl supposed Smith meant his registration for he never had possessed a license to operate. He told the officer the paper was at the base where it actually was. Angle was ordered into court to explain. He appeared to make a satisfactory explanation and judgment was suspended.

Vincenzo Damenzo was fined $3 for operating an auto without having the necessary authority to do so from the motor vehicle department. He had registration, but had lost his operating license.

A couple of drunks forfeited bonds for failing to appear and make any defense they were capable of making.

The cases of a couple of parking ordinance violators went over till tomorrow

Mr. and Mrs. Sylvester Z. Poli and their son-in-law and daughter Mr. and Mrs. Walter Shean, of Springfield, were in New London last evening attending a banquet at Ocean Beach. They left here for home at midnight.

Mrs. Donald McKenzie and infant daughter, of Waterford and Mrs. Benjamin Mittelman and infant daughter, of Brooklyn, N. Y., were patients discharged at Lawrence-Memorial Associated hospital today.

Commissioner of Motor Vehicles Robbins B. Stoeckel today ordered the suspension of the operator's licenses of John Rogerio, 22 Denison avenue; Miss Phyllis Jewett, 39 Morgan street and Bruno Gurri, 39 Morgan street.

Joseph A. St. Germain has sold to Harry and Clara Edgcomb a house and lot on Walden avenue.

George W. Nichols has sold to William J Brady a building lot on Dell avenue.

The estate of Joseph Pozzello has sold a house and lot on Woodbridge street to Leonardo Pozzello. The price paid was $3,900.

Richard Stapilns, 14, was turned over to Patrolman David Nagle on State street, at 1:30 o'clock this morning, as the boy declared that he was without shelter and means to obtain it. The youth stated to Patrolman Nagle that his mother was visiting friends in Groton, but that he had been staying with his aunt, who resides on Tilley street. Last evening when the boy returned home, he stated, his aunt refused to longer provide him with shelter and he was driven into the street. Patrolman Nagle escorted the boy to the police station where he was taken care of for the night. This morning Probation Officer Richard W. Mansfield took charge of him.

John Higgins, of Park street, who has been arrested a score of times, principally for intoxication, will be presented in the police court again tomorrow morning and on a more serious charge than ever before; intoxication and driving a motor vehicle while under the influence of liquor. Higgins was driving his car on State street about 9 o'clock, fortunately at an hour when traffic was not great. The course taken by the automobile, was so irregular that Higgins attracted the attention of Sergeant Nelson Smith, Patrolman Ernest Opperman and Traffic Officers Clyde Murphy and William Corcoran. The automobile was held up and it was plain that Higgins was intoxicated. He was locked up. Higgins was in such a state that he could not be presented at today's session of the police court.

PALMERTOWN BOYS ADMIT OAKDALE POSTOFFICE BREAK

(Special to the Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, June 18. — Two Palmertown boys are under arrest here for breaking and entering a store at Palmertown last night and breaking and entering the Oakdale postoffice a week ago. The arrests were made by State Police Officer Frank Kulowski of Groton barracks, following the break in Palmertown last night. Officer Kulowski obtained clues which resulted in the arrest of the two boys and it was afterwards revealed by their own admissions that they were guilty of having robbed the postoffice. Plunder obtained from the postoffice was about $40, no stamps being taken. The boys will probably be given a hearing in a justice court at Montville Saturday.

EMPTIED JARS INTO SINK, BUT RAIDERS FOUND HOOCH

(Special to the Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, June 18. — Joseph Sadeski of 19 Valley street extension, will be in the police court Saturday morning on a possible charge of the possession of intoxicating liquor without a government permit. A raiding party consisting of County Detective William Jackson, Prohibition Enforcement Officer Stanton L. Briggs, Capt Frank W. McLean and Officers Roderick Lariviere, Arthur Hurley and Albert Monti, this evening entered Sadeski's home and found two quart jars and a gallon can, the contents of which had been moonshine. According to the officers the moonshine had been emptied into a sink shortly before their arrival. Sadeski was standing next to the sink when Capt. McLean entered the room, and the officers state that Sadeski was engaged in emptying the glass jars. A jar taken from him was quarter-filled with the liquid.

DR. M. L. SMAIL HAD DRUGS AND SOLD THEM READILY

(Special to the Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, June 18—Dr. Martin L. Small, about 60, residing on Thames street, Groton, a practicing physician in New London, having office in the Goldsmith building, State and Main street, was arrested this afternoon by four federal agents from Boston and Providence in charge of F. A. Kenafeck. The specific charge against the physician is violation of the Harrison act, a law prescribing the handling and dispensing of narcotics. Bial was fixed in the sum of $2,500 and the physician obtained two sureties qualified to become his bondsmen for his presentation before a United States commissioner tomorrow.

The four federal agents arrived in New London about noon and it is understood that they had information that the physician was making a practice of dispensing narcotics. It is also understood that they brought a stool pigeon along and that the tool of the agents visited the office of the physician and obtained a quantity of morphine, greatly in excess of an amount that it is legal to dispense at any one time. The agents reported that the physician's supply of drugs on hand in his office exceeded by a large amount that which the law provides can be in stock in a physician's office.

Dr. Small has been a practitioner in New London about 10 years. He is a member of several fraternal and beneficial organizations, but is not a member of the New London Medical society.

At 9.30 o'clock tonight, Commissioner Earl Mathewson was located in Norwich and he consented to accept the bond. Agent Kenafeck accompanied Dr. Small to Norwich, where Augustus C. Stearns of Quaker Hill, doing business in New London and Ira S. Avery of Groton, qualified as sureties on the bond.

The funeral of Frederick A. Rhodes, resident at Odd Fellows' home Fairview, Groton, was held this afternoon at the home. The services were conducted by Rev. Horatio J. Chase, pastor of Montauk avenue Baptist church. Burial was in Odd Fellows' cemetery, Fairview.

P. LeRoy Harwood, vice president and treasurer of the Mariners Savings bank, has accepted an invitation to address the Rotary club, Worcester, Mass., July 8. Mr. Harwood will take for his subject, "Whaling Days". Mr Harwood recently addressed the Rotary club of New York.

The New London Y. M. C. A. has decided to purchase property at Gardner lake which will be used as a boys camp. A meeting of the trustees of the association yesterday afternoon voted to obtain an option on the properties and this was done with A. C. Brown of Norwich. The purchase price of the property is $7,500. At the meeting were Trustees Ernest E. Rogers, chairman; Milton M. Baker, secretary, Norman M. Ruddy, Nathan Fisher, Ward Alling and Albert C. Woodruff. The association has maintained a boys' camp at the lake for several years, renting various properties in order to provide the youths with a healthy and safe place for annual outings.

The public schools of New London closed for the annual summer vacation today.

Joseph F. Platz of William street, and Mrs. Irene W. Avery, Glenwood park, were married at the parsonage of the First Baptist church yesterday afternoon. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Chester H. Howe. Mr. Platz is manager of the local office of the Standard Oil company.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles I. Stone, Woburn, Mass., and Mrs. George P. Quint, Peabody, Mass., have concluded a brief visit with Mr. and Mrs. Joseph E. Bliss, Montauk avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Losano, 346 Vauxhall street, have announced the engagement of their daughter, Miss Ruth, to Albert Skinner of Meriden.

The warm and pleasant weather this evening had the effect of bringing out automobiles in large number and that made a pronounced congestion of traffic at Bank and Truman streets. A police officer at that point was kept busy holding up traffic that pedestrians could cross the street.

The Yale-Harvard races will be held on the Thames a week from today, but there is no evidence of the fact in the interest the races are arousing. When the races were first rowed on the Thames the newspapers carried long and detailed stories of what the crews were doing, an da week before the races the hotels had big patronage.

COLCHESTER

Bacon Academy baseball team played its last game for the season with the Manchester High school team, on the park grounds, Thursday afternoon and was defeated, 4 to 1. It was a good game. Both pitchers were finely supported. Two of the Manchester runs were made on errors. One of the errors gave one of the Manchesters a home run. It was a bad error by the Academy's center fielder Shendroff, the Academy short stop, made one of the finest pickups seen on the park running from short shop to short right field picking up a fast grounder and getting to it first in time for a put out. The Academy team made two fine double plays. The Manchester team has been beaten but once this year and the Academy team did fine to hold them to the small score. The attendance was large. Principal Atwood is being congratulated on having one of the best teams that the Academy has put in the field. Samuel Siarkin umpired satisfactorily to both teams.

Morris Broder, who is attending Wesleyan university, is at his home on Lebanon avenue for the summer vacation.

F. L. Farnework of Hartford was in town Thursday.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

JORDAN MOTOR CAR CO. TALKS OF SATURATION POINT

Four things will make 1926 a most satisfactory year from the standpoint of general business as well as from the standpoint of the automobile industry, according to Edward S. Jordan, president of the Jordan Motor Car company.

First. The fact that everyone is buying conservatively, conserving resources and not expanding inventories, is the most satisfying fact in the present merchandizing situation.

Second. The awakening of automobile manufacturers to the necessity of regulating production in keeping with the financial resources of the dealer's organization, has sufficiently restrained production to avoid any slump which might come as a penalty for over-production.

Third. The public, from whom the demand for new cars is insatiable, is beginning to reduce prices on their old cars, realizing that the dealers cannot afford to pay as much for second hand automobiles as the public thinks they should. This means a decent profit for the dealer and his entry in the general market as a class with a substantial buying power.

Fourth. The automobile industry, which is buried once a year by people who sell stocks short in the market, was slated for a funeral this spring. This was fortunate because it was the means of curtailing production at just the time when overexpansion was threatening.

Sales during the second quarter will again demonstrate the fact that the saturation point will never be reached until everyone has one and none ever wears out.

Broadway Theater

Some of the largest and most gorgeous sets ever used in a motion picture were constructed for The Love Thief which has its local premier at the Broadway theater on Sunday. Norman Kerry and Greta Nissen have the major roles.

One tremendous set was an exterior of a square in an old-world town. It was lined with buildings of another era and the old cobblestone street was a tribute to the technical knowledge of the men who built. The entire set called for several weeks of research work.

Then a throne room, modeled after the actual throne room of one or the European monarchies, was constructed in elaborate detail with an eye to the perfection of the set. This set cost thousands of dollars.

Another set was the exterior of a castle with beautiful windows, attractive shrubbery and intricate detail. This impressive set added enormously to the production cost of the picture.

The cast of this picture which John McDermott directed, includes Marc MacDermott, Cissy Fitzgerald, Augustino Borgato, Carrie Daumery, Nigel Barrie, Clarence Thompson, Charles Puffy, Alphonse Martel, Anton Vaverka and Lido Manetti.

Fighting Fate, appearing at the Broadway theater as the second feature Sunday is described as a zippy comedy-drama with a boxing bout that will make you sit up and take notice. Billy Sullivan, the young actor who won his first screen laurels as the central figure of Universal's Leather Pusher stories when he succeeded Reginald Denny as the hero of that successful series, is starred in Fighting Fate.

From all accounts, this is a clean, wholesome little story into which excellent entertainment has been woven.

A new Kinograms completes an exceptional picture program.

Breed Theater

Life on the campus of one of America's greatest institutions of learning has been immortalized by Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer in their production of Brown of Harvard, which opens tomorrow at the Breed theater. The picture was directed by Jack Conway, and was adapted from the famous stage success of the same name by Rida Johnson Young.

Brown of Harvard is by far the best story of college life that has yet reached the screen. It possesses a sincerity and a lack of the usual mock-heroics that have been noticeably missing in other stories of youth. The boys in the story are human beings, having as much fun as is permitted. They never appear automatons in the hands of a director.

The Freshman crew race is excellently done, and the football game between Yale and Harvard, many of the scenes having been photographed last fall at the actual game, is by far the finest thing of its kind that has ever been seen in pictures.

William Haines notably advances his popularity as Brown. He is the typical American youth, with an excellent appearance, likeable personality, and extraordinary acting ability. This picture will go far toward making him one of the most popular men on the screen.

Christy Bros. Circus

There have been marvels through all ages, and the seven wonders of the world have been known for centuries to the entire civilized universe, but it has remained for Christy Bros. big five ring wild animals shows, which exhibit on Duwell Athletic field on Monday, June 21 to produce others as equally well worthy of recognition. Jungle melodies and scenes from the immense steel gilt arenas that would have held a Pharaoh spellbound, are reduced to perfect harmony and sets the blood of the onlooker to dancing in his veins, as they witness the disciplined submission of the fiercest and most ferocious African lions, Bengal tigers, with other wild animals, as they obey the will of man, and at a simple and quiet direction perform the most marvelous feats.

Fire, the most terrifying of elements to the beast creation, is encountered without hesitancy at a simple word of command. Un-leashed in the great steel ribbed arenas a big African lion springs like a wild cat to the back of his intrepid mount and with all the grace and dexterity of riding rivals performs feats that are almost incredible. Hoops of fire have no terror for him as he leaps through them with all the abandon of a finished artist.

These are but a few of the leading trained wild animals acts, which also include performing bears, leopards and leopardesses, pumas, boar hounds, zebras and zebrulas and a troupe of trained wild elk. For the very first time two troupes of wolves are introduced. This is the first time that these animals have ever been educated to perform and they are marvels in keen conception of what they are doing. A quartette of llamas perform wonders. It is the first time they have been trained to perform.

Pages might be written and then not tell in advance all of the startling novelties introduced in Christy Bros. Shows, which are vastly superior to any other show of the kind in the world.

Life of Moses in Moving Pictures

On the coming Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock at the Norwich Y. M. C. A. the first half of the intensely interesting Bible story of Moses will be shown in moving pictures. This will be a most complete picturization of the Bible story and will be an unusually realistic showing of this long and eventful period of Hebrew history. The films on this occasion will include Pharaoh's decree regarding the first born of the Israelites, the child found and cared for by Pharaoh's daughter, Hebrew burdens and sufferings, Moses marriage, he meets with God in the burning bush; he finds Aaron, he persuades Pharaoh to set the Israelites free, The miracle of the rod and serpent; the coming of the plagues, the passover feast instituted. Aaron and Moses receive command to lead the Israelites. This is a real opportunity to study one of the most interesting characters of history, and to note how wonderfully God dealt with him in his varied experiences. Hugh Kinder will furnish music for the picture and also render vocal solos. A brief talk in line with the picture will be given. Both men and women are most cordially invited and boys and girls fourteen and over will be admitted.

GALES FERRY

A meeting of the Village Improvement association was held at the country club house Monday evening, the president, Walter T. Clark, presiding. STOCK PRICES DROP

NEW YORK, June 18—(AP)—Stock prices underwent a sharp reversal of form in today's market, moving up steadily throughout the greater part of the session and then toppling with startling suddenness just before the close under an avalanche of selling. Closing quotations disclosed considerable irregularity, a long list of net gains ranging from 1 to 7 points being offset by a longer list of net losses running as high as 9 points Total sales aggregated 2,320,600 shares, compared with 2,426,100 yesterday.

In the absence of adverse news developments, the reaction was generally regarded as a natural correction of a temporarily overbought condition resulting from the sustained advance of the past few weeks. Banks called loans freely during the day, keeping the renewal rate at four per cent., but the stiffer rate was believed to be only temporary.

The weekly mercantile reviews continued to report irregularities in general business. Cotton weather is said to have retarded distributive trading.

Profit-taking sales were unusually heavy in some of the recent leaders, U. S. Steel common, which has advanced about 16 points since the first of the month, closed 4 1-2 points lower at 124 1-2. General Motors dropped from 148 1-2, a new high record for the year, to 142 and then rallied to 143 1-8, off 3 3-4 net.

Bullish demonstrations were successfully conducted, however in a wide variety of issues. Gotham Silk Hosiery and Commercial Solvents B each soared 4 and 3 points to high records for the year. Other specialties to register substantial gains for the day included Mack Trucks, Kresge S S, Kresge Dept Stores, Lambert, Lehn & Fink, Lima Locomotive, Loew's, Inc., Loose Wiles Biscuit, Lorillard, Mack Trucks, Mathieson Alkali, Mid-Continent Petroleum, Mohawk Carpet, Montgomery Ward, Nash Motors, National Biscuit, National Cash Register A, National Lead, New York Air Brake, North American, Pacific Gas & Electric, Packard Motor, Pan American Petroleum B, Penn Seaboard Steel, Pullman, Radio Corporation, Remington Typewriter, Sears Roebuck, Simmons, Standard Oil of New Jersey, Studebaker, Texas Gulf Sulphur, Texas Pacific Coal & Oil, Union Bag & Paper, Union Carbide & Carbon, Union Oil, United Drug, United Fruit, United States Industrial Alcohol, United States Rubber, United States Steel, Vanadium, Virginia Carolina Chemical, Western Union, Westinghouse Electric, Woolworth, Wright Aeronautical and Yellow Truck & Coach.

Commodity markets were mixed. Wheat futures changed [illegible] bushel on unfavorable weather reports. Cotton and coffee prices showed only narrow and irregular changes. Raw sugar dropped 1-100 of a cent a pound.

Time money and commercial paper rates were unchanged.

Foreign exchanges were [illegible] with the exception of [illegible] which registered [illegible] Spanish pesetas which [illegible] points to around 16.25 cents. French francs ended 5 points lower around 3.76 1-2 cents and [illegible] recessions took place in the other leading continental currencies.

NORWICH TOWN

Sunday evening there is to be a union meeting of the Junior and Senior Christian Endeavor societies of the First Congregational church.

The Juniors are to give a short program, and there is to be special music and two or three short talks of interest to both Juniors and the Seniors. The members of the Senior society will be given an opportunity to take part, the subject for the evening being "What We Learn From the Out-of-Doors."

The service will be held in the chapel.

Following ill health for the past two years which resulted in serious illness for about a month, Mary Elizabeth Carey, widow of Henry Geer, died Thursday evening at 7:50 o'clock, at the Johnson Home, where for nearly six years she had been a member of the household. She was the daughter of James E. and Mary B. Carey, of Canterbury, in which town she was born, April 21st, 1840.

Many years ago, she was united in marriage with Henry Geer, they having resided for some time after their marriage in Scotland, Conn., where Mrs. Geer remained about seven years after the death of her husband. Prior to entering the Johnson Home, July 26th, 1920, her residence was on Cliff street, Norwich.

Some years were spent in Providence, where Mrs. Geer was a member of St. Andrew's church. Since her residence in Norwich, she attended Trinity Episcopal church. There are no children. Mrs. Geer being survived only by two nieces Mrs. Fred Tillinghast (Jennie Carey) of Center Village and Mrs. Edith Carey Walker, of Balboa, Canal Zone, wife of Meriweather Walker, governor of Panama. She leaves also a nephew, Major Edward Carey of Vineyard Haven, Nantucket and a sister-in-law, Mrs. Fanny E. Carey of 62 Williams street, widow of George L. Carey. Mrs. Geer, was of fine personality, quiet and unassuming she was a valued member of the Johnson Home family.

There are now 12 members of the family, remaining under the care of the matron, Mrs. May Rollins.

Of interest locally, was the announcement last week following the meeting of the Society of Founders of Norwich, that through the committee, President Edwin A. Tracy, Who is to confer and act with Selectman William S. Murray, entrance markers are to be placed at the Mason monument on West Town street, and at Norwich Town cemetery, on Old Cemetery lane. In the cemetery 62 Revolutionary soldiers, and 20 unknown French soldiers are buried. Each year Faith Trumbull chapter, D. A. R., holds memorial services near the boulder erected by the chapter in honor of these men and their Revolutionary comrades.

This year Selectman Murray manifested much interest in the work, assisting by providing helpers, etc., the grass was cut and the grounds cleaned up generally. The cemetery committee of Faith Trumbull chapter, Mrs. E. Allen Bidwell, chairman; Mrs. Arthur Harvey Lathrop, Mrs. Elisha E. Rogers and Miss Natalie Hamilton, has been very active in accomplishing improvements at the expense of the chapter. Mrs. Lathrop especially, with the assistance of Mrs. Rogers and others was successful in locating the graves of the Revolutionary soldiers. These graves were reclaimed, stone repaired and re-set in cement and the general aspect of the ancient burial-ground improved. The regent of the chapter, Mrs. William H. Dawley and others have complimented the committee for the many achievements in this historic spot, where are buried the ancestors of some of the first families of Norwich. It is hoped that interest may be aroused among younger generations whether residents of Norwich or not, in promoting the upkeep of this cemetery, thereby to continue the improvement inaugurated by Faith Trumbull chapter, with the co-operation of Selectman Murray and members of the committee.

Except for having the land ploughed and made ready for planting Mr. Weaver has done the planting and work alone. In approaching his flower garden where are 3,000 aster plants, which when in bloom will display a number of colors, as well as 500 gladioli bulbs, one at first comes to a section of the plot laid out to represent the American flag. In this plot aster plants have been arranged in red and white to reproduce the stripes, while interminglied with the blue to form the union, are white to typify stars. The staff is set in lavender. Rows upon rows of lavender, scarlet, white and yellow aster plants, each color planted in its own separate section fill the greater part of this garden which covers nearly an acre.

ALL SIX UNCONTESTED DIVORCES ARE GRANTED BY JUDGE SIMPSON

The members of Trinity Methodist church are announcing a church outing for Saturday afternoon and early evening of June 26 at Mohegan park. Two ball games are scheduled besides various field day sports. Pictures will be taken of the different groups. The transportation is furnished by the committee in charge, leaving the church any time from 1:00 to 2:00 p. m.

CONNECTICUT 25TH IN MOTOR CAR INCREASE

Connecticut stands 25th in a list of states arranged according to numerical increase in motor vehicle registrations for the past year, which has been issued by the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce. The state has dropped back four places from its position in a similar arrangement of states compiled last year on the basis of 1924 registrations.

The same organization lists Connecticut as 19th in order in regard to the percentage of increase in 1925 registrations over those for 1924. It indicates that Connecticut registrations for 1925 were 15.4 per cent. greater than 1924, whereas the 1924 increase over 1923 was 9.5 per cent. This latter percentage in 1924, gave Connecticut 14th place in a similar arrangement of states.

Arranged according to total registration, Connecticut stands 23rd in the chamber of commerce compilation for 1925, which would indicate that the state had dropped back one point in the year.

These compilations, however, are based on a registration of ?,000,000 in Connecticut, which is 71,395 less than the total of 1925 registrations shown by the records of the state motor vehicle department. The discrepancy is due to the fact that the chamber of commerce statistics do not take into account taxi, hearse, trailer, combination, manufacturers', repairers', tractor and dealers' registrations, so far as Connecticut is concerned, at least. Since these registrations are factors in traffic, the Connecticut motor vehicle department includes all such registrations in this state for department convenience in determining registration fees.

If a uniform policy with respect to such registration is followed by the chamber of commerce compilations, Connecticut's position in arrangement of states would remain unchanged; otherwise Connecticut would move to at least the limit of the states arranged according to total registrations having New York, Connecticut, Pennsylvania, Illinois, Michigan, Texas, Indiana, Iowa, Massachusetts, Missouri, Wisconsin, New Jersey, Minnesota, Kansas, Oklahoma, North Dakota, Nebraska, Washington, Idaho and Virginia ahead of it.

NEW LONDON COUNTY BAR DELEGATES TO DENVER

William H. Shields, president of the bar of New London county, has appointed Hon. Arthur M. Brown, delegate, and Hon. Lee Roy Robbins, alternate, and also Abel P. Tanner, delegate, and Charles W. Whittlesey, alternate, to attend the annual national conference of bar associations of the United States at their annual meeting to be held at Denver, Colorado on Tuesday, July 13th.

These delegates are chosen to represent the New London county bar at the conference in Denver. The American Bar association is to hold their annual meeting at Denver on Wednesday, July 14th, the day following the Conference Bar association's meeting.

ENTERTAINING VISITOR FROM ISLES OF PINES

Mrs. V. J. Plante is entertaining Miss Ornie A. Robillard who is spending several months in New England. Miss Robillard has been living in Isle of Pines, Cuba, for the past three years and finds the climate there ideal. She will return there about October 1st. Her parents came north about five weeks ago and at present are visiting relatives in Fall River, Mass.

WOODSTOCK SCHOOL GIRL PERFECT FOR SIX YEARS

Eleanor Starr, age 12 years, three months, graduates from English Neighborhood school, town of Woodstock this month. She has never been absent or tardy during the six years and four months she has attended this school.

Much credit should be given her also her parents, who, through snow, rain and mud so ably assisted her.

She expects to enter Woodstock Academy in the fall.

Brinkmann-Jerome Engagement

Mr. and Mrs. Walter C. Brinkmann of Newcomb street announce the engagement of their daughter, Ruth Grace to Laurence J. Jerome, son of Mr. and Mrs. Laurence B. Jerome of Waterford.

Attended Tufts Comencement.

Rev. A. N. Foster preached in Brookline, Mass., last Sunday and attended the 76th annual commencement exercises of Tufts college on Monday.

OVER 20 SPEAKERS FOR STATE C. OF C. PROGRAM

Over 20 speakers on business and general subjects and a host of social and athletic events feature the program of the 27th annual convention of the Connecticut chamber of commerce which will be held at the Hotel Griswold, Eastern Point, New London, on Tuesday and Wednesday, June 22 and 23.

Various committees of the state chamber have arranged the speaking programs for the different section meetings and for the banquet, while a dozen committees of prominent New London people have arranged the program of social and athletic activities.

Over 500 persons comprise the various committees which have had charge of arranging the details of the state chamber's convention.

The convention formally opens next Tuesday noon with a luncheon meeting of the directors of the state chamber at 12:30 at the Griswold.

COLCHESTER FARM WILL SHOW ALFALFA-CLOVER

Monday evening at the farm of Michael Tynda, Colchester, there will be a twilight meeting of farmers interested in alfalfa and clover, according to an announcement made Friday evening by County Agent Walter T. Clark. The meeting is scheduled for 6:30 o'clock standard time. J. S. Owens of Storrs will be in charge as the county agent will be in New York on an important business trip with other agents of southern New England.

Mr. Tynda's farm is located on the New London-Hartford turnpike near the Salem-Colchester town line. He has been growing alfalfa and clover on his small dairy for the past five years quite successfully. He has been able to increase his livestock capacity because of these crops. Mr. Tynda is a Polish-American who is making a success of his business using up-to-date methods in his rotation management.

WATERFORD COW LEADS IN COUNTY TEST FOR MAY

The May report of the New London County Test association made public Friday by County Agent Walter T. Clark shows that there were 498 cows tested in the 24 herds, 96 of which made the honor roll requirements of 40 pounds of butter fat or 1200 pounds of milk.

The high cow for the month is again Carlotta owned by Thomas Wood of Waterford. She made 2641.3 lbs. milk and 83.46 lbs of fat.

F. B. Ames again leads with the most cows on the honor roll, there being twenty to qualify.

The total number of cows on the honor roll in May is twelve more than April. There has been a steady increase since the association started. The following are the five high herds.

With Thousands
turning to the New Willys-Knight Six
Why should you be content with less?

It has:

Speed between 60 and 70 honest miles an hour.

Extraordinarily long sustained high speed.

Power on any hill to pass most cars on high.

Quick as a cat—acceleration 5 to 25 miles in 7¼ seconds.

Powerful four-wheel mechanical brakes, the last word in safety.

54 horsepower, long stroke motor, rated at 20.

The tax saving is only part of this economy.

THE Willys-Knight "70" Six with the most powerful standard motor of its size in America was born this year.

Today, six months old, it is the fastest selling Six of its price in the world.

Its motor is an exclusive feature, possessed by no other car in America.

Twelve years' tests have proved it to be the most efficient type of automobile motor built.

Better and more powerful than any other motor of its size when new, it grows smoother, more powerful, more efficient with use.

It has no valves to grind. You never lay it up for carbon cleaning.

It has no springs to weaken.

It is practically fool-proof and wear-proof.

No Willys-Knight motor, so far as we know, has ever worn out . . .

Such advantages cause owners to speak of Willys-Knight with extravagant affection—cause them to drive their cars far beyond the average life of the average car—cause Willys-Knight to take top place in resale value.

You will find the Willys-Knight Six to be the most economical and continuously satisfactory car you can drive.

Please ride in it. We believe you will find it the car you long have been looking for.

The Willys Finance Plan means less money down, small monthly payments, and the lowest credit cost in the industry.

Willys-Knight Six prices from $1295 to $1495 f. o. b. factory. We reserve the right to change prices and specifications without notice.

POLICE GET SEVERAL IN RAIDS FOR ILLICIT BOOZE

(Special to the Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, June 20—The police court docket for Monday morning will be a heavy one. It will include two cases of violation of the liquor laws, four of breach of the peace and one of drunkenness. Early Saturday evening, a raiding squad consisting of County Detective William E. Jackson, Prohibition Enforcement Agent Stanton L. Briggs, Captain Frank W. McLean and Officers Arthur Hurley, Roderick Lariviere, and Albert Montie raided the store and apartment at 46 Union street of Mrs. Celia Chasen, an old violator of the liquor laws and placed her under arrest. Later she was released under bonds of $500 furnished by Merrill H. Jones, for her appearance in police court Monday morning. At the same time, Mrs. Katie Kashaba of 11 Chapman street will be arraigned on a charge of transportation of intoxicating liquors, the offense occurring later Saturday evening. She too was released on similar bonds, furnished by Thomas Lucas.

In the Chasen raid, according to the officers, Mrs. Chasen was descending a stairway upon their entrance and she tossed a jug, the contents of which they claimed to be moonshine, over Prohibition Officer Briggs' head, the jug breaking into pieces when it landed on the floor below.

Captain McLean arrested Mrs. Kashaba, whose husband was convicted last Monday on a possession charge and fined $200 and costs, after trailing her down Valley street Saturday evening about eleven o'clock. The arrest was made at the intersection of Valley street extension and Jackson streets and Mrs. Kashaba was carrying a gallon jug filled with moonshine. At first she was reluctant about surrendering the jug to the officers but after some persuasion she yielded the evidence.

George Morin, Jr., of this city, driving a Chevrolet sedan, struck and knocked down a child on Brook St., Saturday noon. Morin reported the accident at the police station, saying that the child was playing in the road with other children and that the mishap was unavoidable on his part. Morin took the child to a local physician for treatment.

Samuel Woda of this city and Merwin Royce of South Willington were arrested by State Policeman Clifford Willis late Saturday afternoon in the town of Mansfield for violation of the motor vehicle laws, operating automobiles with defective brakes. The cases are returnable before the Mansfield town court Monday, June 28.

The annual memorial exercises for the deceased members of Natchaug lodge, No. 22, Knights of Pythias, were held Sunday afternoon in Castle hall. During the past year, two members of the lodge have died, Alan McArthur and John A. Powell, both of whom have been buried in the Willimantic cemetery. Sunday morning, a committee of members decorated the graves of all the deceased members, 74 in number. At the exercises Sunday afternoon, the following program was carried out: Hymn, We Shall Meet Beyond the River; invocation, Past Chancellor, George H. Arnold; hymn, One Sweetly Solemn Thought; Imperial Male quartet; introductory address, Chancellor Commander Samuel S. Anthony; roll call of the deceased brothers, Past Chancellor Jerry J. Lennihan, keeper of records and seals; eulogy, William N. Potter, past grand chancellor; hymn, Absent; Imperial Male quartet; address, Past Chancellor Herman Meyer; hymn, Nearer My God to Thee; prayer, Past Chancellor George H. Arnold, prelate; closing exercises, Chancellor Commander Anthony in charge.

In the local police court Saturday morning the case of Josef Sedeski of 5 Valley street extension, dry law violator, was continued for one week upon the request of the counsel for the accused. After his arrest Friday evening, Sedeski was released on a bond of $300. Similar disposition was made in the case of Louis Brettschneider of 36 Chapman street, another dry law violator, after he had told the court that he had a lawyer engaged from Hartford but that the latter could not be present for the hearing. This case has already been continued once and Judge Frank H. Loomis, after granting the continuance to Brettschneider that he would be granted no more continuances. Nolles were entered in the cases of Napoleon Bacon of this city and Stanley Bielera of Rockville who were charged with reckless driving. Prosecuting Attorney Harry S. Gaucher informed the court that the two parties had come to an agreement as to a settlement in a recent collision.

Employes of the cone and tube winding department of the American Thread company enjoyed a "June strawberry fantasia" Friday evening in the fire brigade rooms of the company, about 100 persons attending.

In the vestry of the South Coventry Congregational church Friday evening, the Storrs Camp Fire Girls "Tamaki-Unaliyi camp" gave a public ceremonial under the auspices of the newly organized Unaliyi Camp Fire of South Coventry which was attended by many local people. Camp fire pictures from the New York national headquarters were shown. The South Coventry camp is non-sectarian in nature and its membership of 15 girls meets regularly at the library for instruction in hand craft, nature lore, citizenship, home craft, camp lore, business and health.

Peonies and other flowers at Hy-Bloom Gardens on Lewiston avenue, the home of Judge and Mrs. Otto B. Robinson, are now in full bloom from now until the last of this month. On Sunday Judge Robinson extended a general invitation to the public to visit the gardens.

At the Windham county superior court chamber in this city Saturday afternoon, Miss Marjorie Bradford of Putnam granted second citizenship papers to the following applicants: Alexander Halechi, Joseph Leger, Joseph Lorenc, Frank Nycek and the Misses Elizabeth and Katherine Peacock.

Richard W. Holden of Norwich, retiring physical director at the local Y. M. C. A. who is enjoying a two weeks' vacation, after which he will go to Chester where he will be one of the directors at Camp Hazen, late Saturday afternoon was presented a pencil and fountain pen set by a group of friends. The presentation was made by Otis Macomber. Mr. Holden enters Springfield college in the fall.

Miss Ella Johnson, supervisor at the local exchange of the Southern New England Telephone company and in the service of the company for the past nine years, Friday evening was presented with a leather suit case, a huge basket of cut flowers and a box of candy by the employes of the company, the presentation being made by Miss Bessie I. Brown. Miss Johnson has tendered her resignation as supervisor.

Mrs. Dinah Fuchs and Carl H. Olson were fined two dollars and costs each, amounting to $14.55, and Charles Ketchum was fined one dollar and costs in the Andover town court Saturday morning for violations of the dog laws. All three admitted failure to license their dogs. Grand Juror George T. Platt prosecuted. Dog Warden George W. Platt man the arreste

Justice of the Peace Curtis Dean's decision Saturday morning in the case of Mary Mattucks of Chaplin, versus the Laramie Brothers, proprietors of the Brick Top Wet Wash Laundry, was in favor of the defendants for recovery of costs.

The funeral of Adelard Boucher was held Saturday morning from the late home on Jackson street with a solemn high mass of requiem following at St Mary's church at nine o'clock, Rev. J J. Papillon being the celebrant, Rev H. C. Belec deacon and Rev. E. A Mathieu sub-deacon. The funeral was largely attended by relatives and friends. Mrs. Joseph F. Gaudreau at the organ, played Chopin's funeral march as the remains were being borne into the church. Solos sung during the service follow: Kyrie, Mrs. Lodia Fortier; Dies Eyries, Miss Florence Coutu; Sanctus, Mrs. Marceline Goodwin; O Meritum, Joseph Veglard; Agnes Dei, Mrs. Wilbur Kilburn; and AuCiel Au Revoir, Mrs. Lodia Fortier. At the offertory, Edward Rocheville was heard in a solo, As a recession, Mrs. Gaudreau played Beethoven's funeral march and Nearer My God to Thee. Interment was in the family burial plot in St. Joseph's cemetery, a committal service being read at the grave by Rev. Father Papillon assisted by Rev. Fathers Belec and Mathieu. The bearers were Delphis G. Boucher Sr., Xavier Boucher, Cyril A. Lamoureaux, Prosper Veglard, Conrad Dubeau and Arthur Bertrand.

THE MAGIC OF THE MEDICINE MAN

In the pioneer days of this country, the Indian Medicine Man found in the roots and herbs of the woods and fields a remedy for almost every ailment of mankind. So potent did it prove that the relief from suffering seemed almost like magic.

From roots and herbs, Lydia E. Pinkham of Lynn, Mass., made her famous Vegetable Compound which many women have relied upon for over fifty years.

The Dawn of a Better Cigarette

55 inches of the world's finest cigarette enjoyment ~ 15¢

THE world moves. This year's motor car is better than last year's. There were good radio sets on the market three years ago—but they can't keep company with the sets they're making today.

The inventor, the scientist, or the chemist who begins his work today—builds on the discoveries of yesterday and improves on them.

For many years there have been a number of good popular-priced cigarette brands on the market.

But when Lorillard started to create and perfect a new 15c cigarette it had the advantage of all that had been done before—plus its own resources for improving on the old standards.

So OLD GOLD represents a supercigarette. It embodies all the merits of the old—with new refinements in taste, in delicacy of aroma, in smoothness and mildness—which new-day science and modern resources have perfected.

There are 55 inches of the world's finest cigarette enjoyment in one package of OLD GOLDS. Try one—and you're won.

LARGE ATTENDANCE AT GRADUATION EXERCISES

(Special to the Bulletin)

DANIELSON, June 20—In the presence of the clergy of St. James' parish, their relatives and several hundred parishioners 21 members of the graduating class of St. James' parochial school received their diplomas Sunday afternoon from the pastor, Rev. Joseph Deschaux, M. S., at graduating exercises held in the town hall.

Because of the fact that the parish numbers so many people, admission to the exercises was restricted to those holding cards.

An evidence of the thoroughness and attention to detail with which the Sisters of St. Joseph, in charge of St. James' school discharge their duties was the very handsomely decorated stage, banked with palms and ferns and masses of beautiful cut flowers and with the national colors predominant.

There was a capacity audience which gave evidence of its appreciation of the splendid program of exercises. The addresses at the exercises were delivered by Rev. James McCartney, M. S., who spoke in English and Rev. Fr. Desault, M. S. whose address was in French. Miss Josephine Gareau was at the piano.

The program of exercises, marking the end of another school year, and the list of graduates follows:

The class motto was Excelsior and the graduates were: Rosanna Bailey, Cecile Blanchette, Stella Boucher, Loretta Chabot, Julienne Chartier, Madeline Fournier, Florence Loiselle, Doris Monahan, Doris Picard, Lucia Pompeette, Arlene Quinn, Pierre Rousseau, Omer Caron, Theodore Trapuse, Robert Fafard, George Fogerty, Hector Joly, Victor Joly, Leo McDanald, Archille Racine, Donat Savoie.

OWNERS OF DOGS MUST OBEY DEPARTMENT RULING

(Special to the Bulletin)

DANIELSON, June 20—All dogs in the towns of Plainfield and Griswold are to be quarantined next Sunday, June 27, by order of James M. Whittemore, commissioner of domestic animals of the state of Connecticut. This order is issued by losing the biting during the past week of four residents of the towns mentioned as well as Stafford Springs. Two of these bitten by the dog, Miss Evelyn Armstrong, a teacher in Plainfield high school, and Kenneth Kent, are children of the owner of the dog, Joseph Gerutz of the town of Griswold.

Elsewhere in this paper appears the legal notice announced by Commissioner Whittemore giving in detail the quarantine regulations. These details are of special interest to owners of dogs in towns mentioned because they are to be rigidly enforced and the pleading of lack of knowledge of them will not serve any person in case a dog that should be in quarantine is found running about or in other respects in violation of the law.

Incidentally, the rules provide that any dog or other animal that has been bitten by a rabid dog shall forthwith be mercifully killed by the dog warden of the town in which the dog is owned unless the dog so bitten has received prior to the time of being exposed to a rabid dog, a vaccination treatment prescribed by the state in the notice mentioned.

The order effective next Sunday will be effective until further notice. The quarantine for an indefinite period, that is a suspension in such case, will not apply to removal until there is certainty that no other rabid dogs are abroad in Plainfield or Griswold or that to develop rabies through contact with the dog killed last Friday by Chief Special Deputy Howard A. Hill in who made a hurried trip from Hartford to visit the Gerbitz place.

Edmund Goodness, 54, died at the Kimball hospital in Putnam Sunday morning, the body being removed to his home near South Killingly in charge of Undertaker L. E. Kennedy. Mr. Goodness had undergone a surgical operation at the hospital some time ago. His friends knew he was not on the road to recovery and the news of his death came as a shock to them.

Mr. Goodness was born in this town and always has lived here. For years he has operated a farm on what is known as the Moosup pond road, about a mile south of South Killingly. He leaves his wife a daughter, Mrs Harold Woodmansee of Ashaway, R. I., and the following brothers and sisters: Peter of Wauregan, Frederick of Putnam, Joseph of Danielson, Leon, Mrs. Jack Bassilon and Mrs. Eugene Dagne all of Putnam.

Saturday morning the funeral of Mrs. Denie Potvin, widow of Alexander Potvin, was held from her home in Moosup with services at All Hallows' church at 9 o'clock. The officers of the solemn high mass of requiem were Rev. Joseph E. McCarthy, the pastor, Rev. J. C. Mathieu, pastor at Wauregan, and Rev. Oscar Norman. Many relatives and friends attended the service. Burial was in All Hallows' cemetery. The bearers were William Bellevance, Adolphus Cloutier, Arthur Zerne, Henri Lussier, Treflee Benet and S. Beauvais. L. E. Kennedy was the funeral director.

Excepting alone the Alumni banquet of the past week, the first of the important functions of the commencement period—the baccalaureate service—attracted a very large attendance to the Westfield Congregational church Sunday evening. The class, with members of the faculty nearby, occupied seats at the front and in the center of the church.

Rev. Harding W. Gaylord, pastor of the church, delivered the address, taking as his subject Today. Clergy of other churches in the borough were seated close to Rev. Mr. Harding. The musical part of the service was especially fine and included numbers by a girl school selections by a quartet and solos by Mrs. Harold E. Atwood soloist of the church.

Graduation exercises are to be held next Thursday evening in the town hall and will be open to the public. They will be preceded by the class day exercises Thursday afternoon admission being by invitation. The class reception, the last event of commencement week, will be held Friday evening at the new pavilion at Wildwood park. The Alumni association gives the reception and dance in honor of the members of the senior class.

A week from next Thursday morning sight of the mail planes making their daily trips over Danielson will become a reality. Announcement was made through the post office department by Postmaster General New that a contract for mail service with the Colonial Airways, Inc., has been made and the planes will begin flying between Boston and New York on July 1. The route is directly over Danielson, which plans to develop an emergency landing field on the borough farm, off Dyer street. The distance between Boston and New York, via Hartford, is 192 miles. Mail carried on the route will make connections with the overnight mail route between New York and Chicago. The postage rate between Boston and New York will be 10 cents an ounce or fraction thereof, between Boston and Chicago, 15 cents an ounce or fraction thereof.

By invitation of Mrs. A. E. Withington, members of the Roundabout club and their guests were entertained Friday afternoon and evening at the Withington camp on Orient Heights. Mrs. Helen S. Dowe won first honors at whist and the consolation honors went to Mrs. Grace Kenworthy. A committee made up of Mrs. N. A. Witter, Mrs. L. S. Ingalls, Mrs. J. A. Gilbert and Mrs. Oliver Bassett prepared and served an excellent supper. Before leaving for their homes the members gave a rising vote of thanks to Mrs. Withington and to the members of the supper committee for the very fine afternoon they made possible.

There will be an outpouring of lovers of horses and light harness racing this week from Danielson and all the surrounding territory for the races that are to be held at Norwich and which are rated by horsemen here as likely to be about the best that eastern Connecticut has seen.

Persisting in being unusual, June turned in an early morning temperature of 40 degrees on Sunday.

Wednesday afternoon members of the Alumni team will play the annual commencement week baseball game with K. H. S., the game at the Connecticut Mills grounds.

State officers kept up a constant patrol of state highways hereabouts Sunday, when motor traffic was particularly heavy.

Opening of the new dance pavilion at Kum-Along-Inn, on the West Side, on the Danielson-Brooklyn state highway, attracted many Saturday evening. This pavilion is 70 feet in lengths, has promenades at each side and a porch approach. At the south side an orchestra stand off the first floor has been built. This is Brooklyn's first open air dancing pavilion and it was indicated Saturday evening that it is to be popular. There was attendance from many eastern Connecticut towns.

Employes here of the Danielson and Plainfield Gas and Electric company were shocked Sunday when they warned of the electrocution of one of their fellow workmen of the Putnam Light and Power company, as told in the Putnam news this morning. Both concerns are subsidiaries of the Eastern Connecticut Power company.

On Wednesday morning of this week there is to be a high mass of requiem at St. James' church for Mrs. Virginia Perreault, mother of Dr. J. N. Perreault. Mrs. Perreault died in Manchester, N. H., a few days ago.

PUTNAM

INSTANTLY KILLED WHILE WORKING ON MAIN LINE

(Special to the Bulletin)

PUTNAM, June 20—Arman Lucier a lineman in the employ of the Putnam Light and Power company, was killed this morning by touching a high voltage wire on a pole in front of the Putnam Savings bank.

With several fellow workmen, he was engaged in relocating some of the wires at that point. He was strapped to the pole by a safety belt and was wearing rubber gloves but in some way his wrist came in contact with a wire, just above the edge of the glove. The shock caused one leg to drop against another wire, and 2,300 volt vurrent went through his body.

Norman Gomo, who was also strapped to the pole, heard him groan and saw his head drop forward. With the assistance of the formers' cousin, Edgar Lucier and other employes of the company his body was lowered to the sidewalk and Dr. F. F. Russell sent for. Dr. F. A. Morrell, medical examiner, arrived a little later and the two physicians worked for 30 minutes in trying to resusticate him but without avail.

The victim of the accident was 27 years of age, married and had two children, a boy of four and a girl of two. He had been in the employ of the Light and Power company for about seven years. A brother, Alferic Lucier, is the foreman of the repair crew for the same company but he was not at work Sunday.

The accident occurred shortly before nine o'clock and many people were passing along the street.

TOWN MEETING MUST VOTE MORE MONEY FOR BUILDING

(Special to The Bulletin.)

PUTNAM, June 20—On Friday, June 25 there will be a special town meeting to determine if the town will vote an additional $30,000 for the new addition to the State Trade school at Putnam. This was deemed necessary at a joint meeting of the building committee and the school board which disclosed that the appropriation already made of $30,000 was insufficient. Items such as the rearrangement of partitions to accommodate new department, arrangements, interior painting, electric wiring, heat and power and architects fees were not included in the plans and specifications submitted for bids.

The bids on the original plans were all beyond $40,000. After opening these bids the committee revised the plans and specifications, eliminating many items in order to reduce the cost.

Bids on the revised plans are as follows: L. H. Ward compan, Worcester, $47,264; Central Engineering Co., Pawtucket, $50,400; A. F. Smith Construction company, Pawtucket, $50,074; Tracey Bros., Danbury, $53,777; Pierre H. Myers, Putnam, $51,424; H. Wales Line company, Meriden $33,830; Demais Boulais, Danielson, $30,455.

Commencement exercises of the Putnam high school began Sunday night with the baccalaureate service at the Second Congregational church.

Class day will be held on Tuesday evening at the high school auditorium. Admission to this is by invitation only. Until last year this function has always been held in the daytime.

The alumni banquet will be on Wednesday night at the high school hall.

Graduation exercises will be on Thursday evening at the Bradley theatre when Professor Walter C. Bronson of Brown university, Providence, will make the address on The Coming American. The honor pupils are: Miss Frances Miller in the classical course and whose essay will be on American Architecture; Miss Edmaer Guy, honor pupil of the general course, will take The Art of Dancing as the subject of her essay; Miss Pauline Jeary of the commercial course, essay Neglected Friedships.

For the first time in the history of the Putnam high school the members of the graduating class will have caps and gowns.

The senior reception will be at the state armory on Livert street on Friday evening, June 25. The music will be furnished by the Blue Moon orchestra of Providence, an organization which has made a favorable impression here.

The following was the program of the baccalaurate service at the Second Congregational church:

Robert Rawley of School street is the guest of relatives in New York city.

Mrs Morris Needles and little son, Louis, of Mechanics street, are the guests of relatives in Boston.

PLAINFIELD

Joint memorial services were held yesterday at Evergreen cemetery for the departed brothers of the Protection lodge, No. 18, I. O. O. F., and the sisters of the Rebekah lodge, No. 66, I. O. O. F., of Central Village. Both lodges met at the cemetery at 3:00 p. m. and with the flowers brought by each member, the graves of those members who had passed on were decorated. Rev. George H. Reese of the Congregational church of Central Village, delivered an inspiring address and music was rendered by the Odd Fellows quartet. A committee from each lodge, made arrangements for the occasion, acting in conjunction with each other.

A meeting was held on Sunday afternoon at the K. of C. rooms in Moosup by the Windham County American Legion, and the Legion auxiliary. The legionaires and auxiliary of Tolland county, who are in the same district as those of Windham county, held a separate meeting under the direction of Vice Commander Prichard, this meeting being arranged by Commander De Forge of Moosup on account of the distance for the Tolland County members would have to travel.

Several of the state officials were present including State Commander Harry Jackson of New Britain and Grand Chef de Gare Fisher of the Forty and Eight. Following the meeting, and addresses a social time was held.

WESTERLY

SEVERAL INJURED WHEN AUTO CRASHED INTO POLE

(Special to the Bulletin)

WESTERLY, R. I., June 20—The sharp curve at the junction of Pleasant street and High street on the new cement state highway by way of Noose Neck hill to Providence from Westerly, was responsible on Sunday morning at 5:45 a. m. for another bad automobile mishap.

An Oakland sedan, 45098 R. I., was being operated by Miss Bertha Minor of 71 Seventh street, Providence, from that city to Ansonia. As the curve was being rounded the car held too closely to the left of the road, passed off of the cement, struck a telegraph pole, movin git out of line and then turned over on its left side. The steering wheel was broken off, the front glas sbroken and radiator badly crumpled. The occupants, four in number, were dragged from the machine and taken to the home of Mary Jane Sullivan. Dr. M. H. Scanlon was called and took them to the Westerly hospital. Miss Minor was found to have sustained abrasions to her left side of her head and right chest. Other occupants injured were Paul Hughes, 32, of 363 Manton avenue, Providence, abrasions and lacerations on the left side of his head. Edmund Hughes, his brother, of 10 Carr street, Providence, injuries to his forehead and his wife Mrs. Elsie Hughes, seated on the back seat with him, lacerations over her left eye. The smashed automobile was towed to the Rhode Island garage.

Frank Bova, 129 Pacific avenue, Stamford, who was apprehended for speeding and operating an automobile without a license by Connecticut State Trooper Frank W. Kulowski of the Groton barracks, the week before Memorial day appeared in Stonington town court on Saturday morning before Judge William A. Wilcox. He was found guilty by Judge Wilcox and sentenced to two days of stay in jail, court and costs amounting to $16.10, which were paid.

Some one hundred members of Fraternity No. 1 F. S. A. M. of Westerly, Ashaway, Hopkinton, Bradford and Pawcatuck, met in the Masonic rooms on High street on Sunday evening, 7 o'clock for the observance of St. John's day and marched in a body to the First Baptist church on Broad street. A sermon, The Temple Builders, was delivered by Rev. Byron U. Hatfield of West Mystic, who is chaplin of the Grand Lodge of Free and Accepted Masons of Connecticut.

SMASHED AUTO HAD SEALS FOR PRE-VOLSTEAD LIQUIDS

(Special to the Bulletin)

WESTERLY, R. I., June 20—"Hermitage, 1896. Hand Made Sour Mash Whiskey, W. A. Gaines & Co., Distillers Frankfort, Ky."

"W. A. Gaines & Co., Manufacturer Permit No. KD-[illegible] Whiskey 1 Pint Proof [illegible] made spring 1918 date affixed. For medicinal purposes only. sale or use for other purposes will cause heavy penalties to be inflicted."

"Bottled in bond—bottled in bond 25c one quart—100 proof—100 proof—distilled by W. A. Gaines & Co. Distillery No. 4 Louisville, Ky. Export—spring 1917 fall 1922."

The above was the way a large quantity of labels and stolen seals read when they appeared in court on Saturday morning before Judge William A. Wilcox in a session of Stonington town court, being a part of the stock in trade of bootlegger James S. MacDonald, 30, of 3 Dexter park, Cambridge, Mass., together with a pint bottle, one quarter full of whiskey and concentrated malt, all in 1 pail being part of a moonshine outfit, "made as you go." No one appeared these but a list of customers in Stamford and New Haven and a Connecticut route.

Court session resulted from an automobile crash at Wilcox curve on the Mystic-Stonington state road, when the automobile driven by MacDonald smashed into the auto of Henry Chesebro occupied by himself and wife and resulting in injuries to Mrs. Chesebro's back. Passing through Mystic Patrolman Frank Burrows observed MacDonald leaning over the steering wheel and his companion Frank M. Kelliher of Boston, Mass. lolling out of the door window of their Hupmobile, 34773, Mass., and was unsuccessful in an attempt to stop it. Soon after came the report of the crash and Patrolman William Oatman of Stonington borough took the men to the Stonington lockup.

In town court MacDonald was arraigned on a charge of operating an automobile under the influence of liquor. Being found guilty Judge Wilcox observed, "there are too many intoxicated persons driving machines," and sentenced him to five days in New London county jail, also to pay a fine of $200 and costs amounting to $16.25. He was committed.

Kelliher was arraigned on a complaint charging intoxication and being found guilty was sentenced to pay a fine of $10 and costs $2.25, which he paid.

MacDonald claimed to have been the owner of the $1500 automobile on which he had paid $800.

Fire alarm No. 33 was sounded on Sunda yafternoon at about 2:30 o'clock for a brush fire near Dunn's corners on the Boston Post road.

Sergt. Marks of New London, a member of the New Haven railroad police, was kept busy on Saturday about the waiting station at the Westerly depot of the New Haven railroad in warning autoists, who attempted to use the station grounds as a parking place. If an unoccupied machine was found a typed notice was left in the auto for the operator to report to Westerly Chief of Police Thomas E. Brown. Continued violation of the non-parking rule will eventually lead the infractor into Third district court.

Members of Harvard university class of 1906 to the number of nearly 200 will assemble today (Monday) at the Ocean house, Watch Hill, for their 20th reunion. Edwin B. Stillman of Westerly and Arthur Perry, Jr., of Boston, a frequent Westerly visitor with relatives, are members of this class.

Rosie Diangi, 9 year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Santo Diangi of 101 St. Stillman avenue, Pawcatuck, lost the sight of her left eye, on Saturday evening, as the result of falling on a sharp stick, which punctured the optic nerve.

Westerly Chief of Police Thomas E. Brown is in receipt of a telegram from Clyde S. Edeburn, inspector of detectives in Pittsburgh, Pa. From the telegram it was learned that George R. Wood, who has a deserted wife, living at 72 Mechanic street, Pawcatuck, is held for federal authorities for a hearing set down for September next. Wood was arrested in Pittsburgh at 805 North Canal street, where he was residing with Miss Margaret McGrath as his wife.

The mopping-up campaign started Friday night in Westerly by Westerly Chief of Police Thomas E. Brown for the purpose of seizing intoxicants before the arrival of Christy Bros circus, was continued on Saturday morning even up to the hour just preceding the start of the circus parade.

The residents of Harry Stewart, 135 Canal street, on the south side of the dwelling house, owned by Abraham Kaplain, was visited at 11:35 a. m. by Westerly Police Patrolman LeRoy H. Norman and Constable Frank Knight. Search of the premises produced nine quarts of "black and white" whiskey in a cubby hole in the attic. In closets in the front hall were found 14 cases of beer and also a boiler of mash of home brew beer. The seized liquors were taken to the Westerly police station and the alleged owner, who was not present at the time of the raid received a summons.

Miss Louise Carr of Westerly motored to Wickford on Saturday evening to spend the week end as the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Sherman.

SEVERAL CHILDREN BEING GIVEN PASTEUR TREATMENT

(Special to the Bulletin)

JEWETT CITY, June 20—Health Officer Dr. C. H. Jeannotte stated Saturday that an order would be issued that all dogs in Griswold and Plainfield must be quarantined. He was on his way to receive the Pasteur treatment to two of the Gerbitz children. One had been bitten by the dog which had the rabies and the other had a sore on the arm. A Plainfield dog bit a Lisbon girl on the [illegible] last week. He had run away and two days later the owner took him back to Plainfield. There are any number of dogs in Jewett City that are on the streets and not with their owners. No one knows whether these have been bitten by any of these dogs or have come in contact with those dogs in their travels around the county.

Several cases were disposed of in Judge Barrett's town court Saturday morning. The case of Jeoffrey O'Hara of Tuckahoe, N. Y., who cut in ahead of a truck, nearly coming in collision with another machine was nolled on payment of $25. The case of Albert Senecal for non support was continued for two months. Dog Warden W. R. Palmer presented two men from Glasco for keeping unregistered dogs. Frederick Payne and Roy Lewis. They were fined one dollar and costs.

The Congregational Sunday church picnic is to be held next Saturday, afternoon at William McNicols property, the Manston House in Preston.

It is expected that the redecorating of the interior of the Baptist auditorium will commence this week.

Miss Mary Gesler of Willimantic was a week-end guest of Miss Alice Barnett.

OBITUARY.

Mrs. A. Judson Bowen

The death of Mrs. Frances Fellows Bowen, widow of A. Judson Bowen occurred Saturday morning at the home of her niece, Miss Florence E. Fellows, No. 17 Grove street where she has resided for nearly five years. Mrs. Bowen was born in Weathersfield, Vermnt, in 1842, of Colonial and Revolutionary ancestors. She married A. Judson Bowen, a civil war veteran, who served with the Second Colorado Cavalry. Following their marriage they took up their residence in Florida where they resided for many years, coming to Norwich in 1902. Mr. Bowen died some years ago.

Mrs. Bowen, through her kindly nature and pleasing personality made many warm friends. She was ever ready to serve others and in spite of her advanced age possessed a remarkably keen intellect.

At 3 o'clock Saturday afternoon a prayer service was conducted at the house by Rev. Samuel H. Howe, D. D., pastor of Park Congregational church. Relatives and friends were present and there were floral tributes. The body will be sent to Weathersfield, Vt., on the 3.15 a. m. train this (Monday) morning.

Mrs. Herbert E. Draper.

Mrs. Minnie E. Draper, widow of Sheriff Herbert E. Draper, died Friday afternoon at the home of her sister, Mrs. Frank H. Lee in Palmer, Mass. Mrs. Draper underwent an operation before Memorial day and was getting along finely when she was suddenly taken ill with acute Bright's disease and failed to rally.

Mrs. Draper was born in Norwich, January 8, 1861, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Johnston, and most of her long life was spent in this city. She was united in marriage in Norwich with the late Sheriff Herbert E. Draper, whose death occurred six years ago last March. Mrs. Draper was a member of St. Andrew's Episcopal church. She had been living with her son, George O. Draper, in Plainfield, N. J. but some months ago went to Palmer to spend the winter with her sister, Mrs. Frank Lee.

Mrs. Draper is survived by one son, George O. Draper, of Plainfield, N. J., one brother, James E. Johnston of Norwich, and three sisters, Mrs. V. B. Heldeloff of Plainfield, N. J., Mrs. Frank H. Lee, Palmer, Mass., and Miss Frances Johnston of Plainfield, N. J. There are also three grandchildren. Burial will take place in this city.

Edward H. Capron.

Edward H. Capron, 82, eldest son of the late Clarence and Martha Smith Capron, died Sunday evening at the Norwich state hospital where he had been employed as an attendant for about 13 years. Mr. Capron took up his duties there August 25, 1906. He had been in his usual health and was suddenl, taken ill, lapsing into unconsciousness Sunday and dying shortly after 10 o'clock in the evening. He was taken ill on the shore of the Thames river where he had gone for a stroll.

Surviving are a brother, Clarence B. and one sister, Mrs. Charles H. Lamb. Mr. Capron was born in Norwich May 15, 1844. He was a member of the Odd Fellows and of the Orientals, connected with the Odd Fellows. Mr. Capron was a musician of merit and played both the violin and drums. Besides his brother and sister, he leaves an aunt, Mrs. Eva Sims of Brooklyn, and several cousins.

Mr. Capron has been employed under the three superintendents of the state hospital, Dr. Pollock, Dr. Erdman, and Dr. Wilcox, the last named expressing on Sunday night to the family his regret at losing Mr. Capron and speaking of him as a faithful and valued employe.

Walter Louis Sedler.

After an illness of a year, Walter Louis Sedler, 49, died Sunday evening at 6.30 o'clock at his home, 142 1-2 Town street, Norwich Town. He was born in Belgium, Nov. 7, 1877, the son of August E. and Anna Sedler and came to this country about 33 years ago. He made his home in Woonsocket and Stafford Springs for a number of years, n Norwich 27 years ago he was married to Miss Agnes Herbert in St. Patrick's church, who survives him with two children, Walter William and Mabel Agnes Sedler, both of Norwich.

He was a dyer by trade and followed this occupation in Stafford Springs, Westerly and other cities. He was a member of the Dyers and Finishers' association of Providence and of the Worsted and Woolen Overseers' association of Boston. He was a member of Sacred Heart church, Norwich Town.

Francis A. Bidwell

The death of Francis A. Bidwell, who has lived a retired life for the past 12 years at his home at 70 McKinley avenue, occurred at 8:15 o'clock Sunday evening following an illness of little over a week. Before his retirement from active work Mr. Bidwell had been employed as chief engineer of the New England Navigation company since about 1869, running on boats between this city and New York. He had been a resident of this city for about 75 years and was well and favorably known throughout the city and state, where he had a wide circle of friends.

Mr. Bidwell was born in Lowell, Mass., Aug. 31, 1835, and was the son of Ira M. and Nancy Church Bidwell. He was married twice, his first wife being Mary E. Ladd, who died in Norwich in 1859, a year after their marriage and his second wife was S. Elizabeth Allen, who survives him. He also leaves two sons and a daughter, Gurdon L. Bidwell and E. Allen Bidwell of Norwich and Mrs. Clinton D. Higby of Erie, Penn.

Mr. Bidwell was a member of Somerset lodge, No. 34, F. and A. M., Franklin chapter, No. 4, R. A. M., Franklin council, No. 3, R. and S. M., and Columbian Commandery, No. 4, K. T., being the oldest member of the commandery at the time of his death.

FUNERALS

Mrs. Burrell H. Fielding

At 8:15 o'clock Saturday morning the funeral of Mrs. Burrell H. Fielding was held from her home in Mohegan with many relatives and friends present. At 9 o'clock there was a requiem mass in St. John's church, Rev. John O'Meara, celebrant. At the offertory the choir sang We Shall Meet Beyond the River and at the recessional Nearer, My God to Thee was sung. Burial took place in Shantok cemetery, Mohegan. The bearers were A. [illegible] G. Fielding, Edwin E. Fowler, Roscoe Skeesuck, Louis Dolbeare, James G. Strickland and Robert Shultz. Mourners were present from New London and Willimantic and there were many beautiful floral tributes. Undertaker C. A. Gager had charge of the funeral arrangements.

MAYOR WATERS NAMED ON STATE SESQUI-CENTENNIAL COMMITTEE

Governor John H. Trumbull has appointed Mayor Milo R. Waters a member of the Connecticut state commission to arrange for the celebration in this state of the 150th anniversary of the Declaration of Independence and for the commemoration of the 100th anniversary of the death of Thomas Jefferson, the author of this great document. The state of Connecticut has been invited by the United States commission, created under act of congress, to join in the nation-wide celebration. Governor Trumbull, in notifying Mayor Waters of his appointment, states that a meeting of the state commission will be called in the near future. Mayor Waters has accepted the appointment. The letter from the governor notifying Mayor Waters of his appointment, is as follows:

Mayor Milo R. Waters,
Norwich, Conn.

Dear Sir: The state of Connecticut has been invited by the United States commission, created under act of congress, to join in the nation-wide celebration of the 150th anniversary of the Declaration of Independence, and in the coincidental commemoration of the death of Thomas Jefferson, the author of this great document.

Connecticut's answer is: "We will rather lead than join in such a patriotic movement."

The commission, which is known as the Sequi-Centennial of American Independence and the Thomas Jefferson Centennial Commission of the United States, has in all 19 members, including the president and vice president of the United States and the speaker of the house of representatives. Connecticut has the distinction of having two representatives in the persons of Senator George F. McLean and Congressman John Q. Tilson. A very interesting, educational and patriotic programme has been prepared by this commission, which we shall endeavor to follow and observe throughout the state. To this end I am now appointing a commission for the state of Connecticut, consisting of those prominent patriotic citizens with whose assistance we wish to carry the message to the people of Connecticut.

I have chosen you for appointment as a member of this commission for Connecticut and I assure you that I will be gratified to have your co-operation. This is, as it should be, a non-partisan, wholly American effort, which commands the united support of all patriotic citizens. I know that you will heartily endorse my wish, as governor of the state, to have Connecticut distinguish itself in a demonstration of that patriotic spirit which has always distinguished our state from the very days of its early settlement and through all the days of our Revolution, in which we helped to found and establish our beloved country.

May I have your early acceptance, so I may call a meeting of the committee without any delay?

Assuring you of my appreciation of your co-operation, I beg to remain,

Sincerely yours,
JOHN H. TRUMBULL.

The Connecticut committee, headed by Governor Trumbull, includes Senator George P. McLean, Senator Hiram Bingham, former Governors Charles A. Templeton, Everett J. Lake, Marcus H. Holcomb, Frank B. Weeks, Henry Roberts and Simeon E. Baldwin; Lieutenant Governor J. Edwin Brainard; Mayor William G. Fox and Walter S. Garde, New London; Mayor Milo R. Waters, and Dr. J. J. Donohue, Norwich; Charles F. Smith and P. F. McDonough, New Britain; Willard B. Rogers and Dr. Edwin G. Dolan, Manchester; Charles T. Treadway and William J. Malone, Bristol; L. F. Butler, Charles Wesley Gross, Isidore Wise, Thomas A. Shannon, Anthony Andretta, George Zunner and State Librarian George S. Godard of Hartford.

BULLETIN "FARM DAY" PRONOUNCED BEST EVER

Manager William H. Oat of The Norwich Bulletin was host to two score employes of The Bulletin Saturday at his farm, Ludlow, town of North Stonington. The employes of the editorial and mechanical departments of the newspaper and of the job room made the trip to and from the farm in automobiles. A baseball game between the married men and the single men featured the sporting events of the day, the single men carrying off the laurels.

A delicious chowder was served at noon under the direction of Chef Bert Lunds and his assistants and during the late afternoon a chicken pie menu was served. The day was ideal in every way and the "boys" voted it the best outing ever.

Old Leaves on Fire.

Sunday afternoon at 1.38 o'clock the fire department responded to a telephone call for a small fire on the banks of the Central Vermont railroad, off Forest street. The firemen found a quantity of old leaves burning and quickly extinguished the blaze. Children are thought to have been responsible for the blaze.

Friday evening about 7.15 o'clock the department went out on a telephone call for a rubbish fire on Talman street. The flames were extinguished by a stream of water, the line being laid by Squad A.

Short Circuit in Automobile

A short circuit in the Ford automobile owned by John Boynton, son of Dr. Boynton of 272 Broadway, called out the fire department at 12.35 o'clock Sunday morning. The car caught fire between McKinley avenue and Broadway on Otis street and three gallons of chemicals were used to extinguish the blaze.

Attended Class Reunion

Raymond F. Royce and John T. Young of New York were home over the week end to attend the fifth reunion of the class of 1921 of the Norwich Free Academy of which Mr. Young was president. The reunion was held Saturday evening at the Norwich Golf club.

JUNIOR TOWN IS FORMED AT CHAUTAUQUA

Orchestral music featured the Saturday night program at Norwich Chautauqua on the Academy campus. The Zedeler Symphonic quintet under the leadership of Nicola Zedeler played the music of the masters in ensemble and in solo. Miss Leighton E. Cook gave a group of vocal numbers with orchestra accompaniment.

In the afternoon the editor of the "American Pigeon Journal," Frank H. Hollmann, lectured on "What We Can Learn from Pigeon." Mr. Hollman had twenty-eight varieties of birds on the platform. The birds were entirely in their natural state, untrained, unplucked, just as they grow in the open.

Junior Chautauquans of Norwich held their daily meeting Saturday at nine o'clock. The main "business" transacted was the election of Junior Town officers. Junior Town is patterned exactly after the municipal government and the kiddies are governed in their miniature town by exactly the same series of officials as are their elders in the greater city.

Allen Brown was elected mayor. The city clerkship was bestowed on Miss Letitia Parker. To Elmer Edwards was delegated the duty of reporting the doings of Junior Town to the press. The chief of the law and order commission is James Dutton. His able assistants are Stewart Hynel, Thomas Baker, Wilbert Perkins and Nelson Weymouth. Mary Stewart was selected health commissioner. Assisting her in the job of preserving the physical well-being of the youthful citizens are Barbara Angelone, and Nancy Pitcher. The service commissioners are Weston Pullen, Robert Page and Gavin Pitt.

Sunday night a community service was held at the big brown tent at which there was a large attendance. Edwin Hill, general secretary of the Norwich Y. M. C. A. gave a very interesting talk on "Unity". The symphonic quintet gave a musical program.

Ninth Birthday Party

A pretty party for the ninth birthday of Anita Green, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. A Green of 423 Main street, was given Saturday afternoon. There was a large birthday cake and ice cream, candy, fruit and jelly was served. Piano and Victrola music was enjoyed and all the children had their pictures taken.

Those present: Anita Green, Wilda Cyr, Claire Cyr, Billy Lamonto, Raymond Gignac, Helen Sadusky, Stanley Sadusky, Shirley Green, Dorothy Jincks, Joseph Green, Ernest Green, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Green and Frankie Green.

TWO BOUND OVER FOR OAKDALE BURGLARY

Benjamin Emilyta, 17, and William Jackryousky, 16, both of Oakdale, were bound over to the next term of the criminal superior court and Henry Remington, 18, of Palmertown was fined $15 and costs and given a suspended sentence of one year when the three were presented before Justice of the Peace Oscar Church in Montville Saturday morning on charges of breaking and entering at night. In default of obtaining bonds of $500, Emilyta and Jackryousky were incarcerated at jail in New London.

The three were arrested by State Policeman Frank Kulowski following a three week's investigation by the state policeman into a break into the Oakdale post office and one at a grocery store in Oakdale.

The three confessed to stealing about $20 in cash from the post office and a quantity of candy and cigarettes from the grocery store

WEDDING

Guerevitch—Goodman

A very pretty wedding took place Sunday afternoon at No. 74 Summer street, when Miss Ida Goodman, daughter of Benjamin Goodman of Danielson, was united in marriage with Maurice Guerevitch of New York city. The bride was charming in white cantoon crepe trimmed with beads and lace, with a beautiful veil and carrying a handsome bouquet. Rabbi Max Stamm performed the ceremony.

The bridal pair entered the prettily decorated parlor to the music of the bridal chorus from Lohengrin, played by Rose Goodman on the violin.

The places of honor were filled by Mr. and Mrs. Sam Silverman uncle and aunt of the bride.

Guests were present from New York, Boston, Putnam, Danielson, Mystic and other places.

After the ceremony a full course wedding dinner was served by a caterer.

On completing a short honeymoon the happy couple will make their home in New York where the groom has a large dental laboratory. Telegrams of congratulations were received from many different places.

INTERNATIONAL SILVER CO. EMPLOYES HELD REUNION

C. A. Sherman, general manager, Otto Mush, bookkeeper, and Bennett Gaines, superintendent, at the Norwich factory of the International Silver company were at Saybrook Saturday to attend the reunion of employes of the company, which was held at the Pease house. Employes from 10 factories of the company, some coming from as far away as Toronto, Hamilton, Ontario and Florence, Mass., were in attendance.

After the dinner, addresses were made by Congressman Daniel A. Reed of New York city and George H. Wilcox, president of the company.

There was a ball game and a programme of sports in the afternoon.

NORWICH BOYS GOING TO STATE Y. M. C. A. CAMP

A number of boys from the Norwich Y. M. C. A. are planning this year to spend their vacation time at the state Y. M. C. A. camp at Chester which opens its season July 1, the site having been given by Senator Edward W. Hazen of Dan Haddam and comprising 60 acres on the shore of Cedar lake, a spot which is ideal for this purpose.

Camp Hazen will have for its camp director, L. A. Stanley, the boys' work secretary of the state Y. M. C. A. and the assistant camp director will be Clarence C. Bishop, Yale '26 who has served for four years at Camp Hazen. The department directors will be boys' and county work secretaries physical directors and other employed officers of the Y. M. C. A.

A radical change is to extend to tent leadership goes into effect this season. The tent leaders will be mostly college men and will be employed under salary for the full camp season, enlisting for this important post only virile Christian young men of unquestioned character. The tent leaders are each responsible for seven boys, helping them in their work and play and giving freedom to act, the supervisor both during the day as well as in the tent house at night.

Normally the period here between 11 and 12 weeks and those applications have been approved by a Y. M. C. A. secretary or church pastor will be received by cigarette smokers are barred from applications. The camp season is divided into four periods running from July 1 to Aug 26 each of two weeks in length.

A programme which ministers to all sides of boy life is carried out in camp and the religious service are held in the open air chapel made possible through the gift of the parents and grandparents of Robert Montgomery of Norwich, a former camper and tent leader, in whose memory the chapel was erected

GOVERNOR

LARGE ARRAY OF BOXING TALENT ON PARADE THIS WEEK IN NEW YORK

NEW YORK, June 20—(AP)—Kings of fistiana, held in check somewhat by temperamental weather moves, will swing into action this week in various metropolitan rings in the most pretentious program of glove encounters yet arranged for a single week.

A champion, a former champion and several potential titleholders will figure in the series of contests scheduled for every night in the week with the exception of Wednesday and Saturday.

Top-lining the week's card will be the 147 pound championship contest between Pete Latzo of Scranton, Pa., newly crowned ruler of the welterweight division, and Willie Harmon, rugged New Yorker, at Dreamland park, Newark, N. J., Tuesday night.

While this contest is officially docketed as a no-decision match, the champion can lose his royal robes by a knockout or a foul.

The secondary feature of the week will be staged in Tex Rickard's million dollar arena, Madison Square Garden, where Thursday night, Mickey Walker, recently dethroned welterweight champion, will inaugurate his comeback campaign by meeting the outstanding contender in the division, Joe Dundee, hard-hitting Baltimore boy. This contest is programmed for 10 rounds and Latzo is morally bound to face the winner at a later summer date.

The Velodrome and the Dexter park arenas will vie with one another for popularity tomorrow night with three ten rounders each. Italian Jack Herman will meet Sergeant Jack Adams in the windup at the former club while Phil McGraw, Detroit lightweight, will face George Baldie of Portland, Me., in the feature at Dexter park.

Sergeant Sammy Baker, Maryland field doughboy, will meet Meyer Cohen in the main event at the Queensboro, Tuesday night in a 10-rounder supported by a card including Johnny Leonard of Allentown, Pa., vs. Joe Mimone of St. Paul and Emil Pauliso of Salt Lake City vs. Joe Ross of Buffalo, in 10 round affairs. The card in the Long Island City arena will run in opposition to the welterweight title match in Newark.

The Coney Island stadium will present a program of choice 6 round attractions on Friday night in which Ruby Goldstein, colorful New York lightweight, will take Joe Hozman of Omaha

RIVERVIEW LOSES TO NEW DEPARTURE CLUB

Riverview lost the Saturday encounter with the New Departure team of Bristol 6 to 5 on the state model diamond. Tom West, the Old Southpaw of the Riverview team was far from his usual form and was ineffective with men on bases. He found himself continually in a hole and was unable to pitch himself out. He was touched for nine hits and passed four.

Those who pounded for New Departure was also marked for nine hits but only in two innings was Riverview able to tally them for runs. Riverview scored in the second and third innings only getting one in the second and two in the third. In the second Manny Liberty was passed and was followed with Farrell and Moore singling. Both scored and Liberty scored. The two runs in the third inning came when Toms doubled and was scampered when Mills was safe. Both runners advanced on Hamill's sacrifice and scored when Liberty poled out a triple. Toms ended the scoring for Riverview.

The Bristol boys scored in the first inning when Ryan got Zeltke doubled and scored himself when Normandin drew a walk to first after making a nice stop of Reilly's hard hit ball. They added another run in the second inning when Forslund got two bases when Hamill misjudged his fly. Horky was passed. Malcolm fanned and the following batter popped out. West then walked two men in succession scoring in a run. On a double by Zeltke, an error by Burns and Horsey in the sixth. Another run was scored in the eighth. Another run placed on the records and one in the ninth. The scores:

JARVIS HOLDS GIANTS TO ONE LONE HIT

In one of the hardest fought games in years the Taftville A. A. defeated the fast Elm City Giants by the score of 2 to 1. The game was a pitchers battle between Lloyd Jarvis and Cannon Ball Smith with Jarvis having the best of it holding the fast colored boys to one hit and should have had a shutout only for 2 misplays by his teammates in the 6th inning. Cannonball Smith also pitched good ball holding the hardhitting Taftville boys to five hits and striking out seven. Cardie was the star hitter of the game with two hits and was also robbed of another by a wonderful one hand catch by McLane in the fifth inning.

The Taftville boys scored their first run in the third inning when Cardie doubled to left field and went to third on Brady's error and scored when Lathrop connected with one of Cannonball's fast ones for a hit. The Giants tied the score at one all when Brady the first man up hit to Gauthier who fumbled the ball and the runner was safe and then scored when Smith hit a fly to right when Dona and Lathrop came together and was dropped. Then Taftville won the game in the eighth when Lathrop got on an error going to second on a wild throw, was then sacrificed to third by Dona and then scored on a perfect bunt by Eccleston. This ended the scoring for the game and thus giving Taftville a victory in one of the hardest fought games of the season.

At Mystic Sunday the Taftville team was swamped by a score of 10 to 3 in a lose played game. The scores:

TENNIS INTEREST CENTERS ON WIMBLEDON TOURNEY

LONDON, June 20—(AP)—Interest in the great week of sport in England which has the British open golf championship as its prime feature, will centre tomorrow at Wimbledon, where the jubilee lawn tennis tournament will begin, with the event honored by the official presence of King George and Queen Mary.

Suzanne Lenglen with her customary breeziness, is already very much in the Wimbledon picture for the honor which she has already captured six times in the last seven years, the only break in her run of victories being 1923, when she did not defend her title. Her principal American competitor this year will be Miss Mary K. Browne, whom she defeated in the recent Paris championship and whom she will meet in the first round of the Wimbledon competition.

Tennis followers are looking forward with much interest to this classic, but possibly even more to the probable meeting of Suzanne and Senorita D'Alvarez, the Spanish star, which is likely to occur in the fourth round. Senorita D'Alvarez is being talked of as the likeliest among the women players to give Suzanne a real battle.

Among the men, the Americans number only two—Vincent Richards and Howard Kinsey, the French hard courts doubles champions. Much is looked for from them, not only in their paired playing but in their probable progress upward through the singles.

WESTERLY BEATS STONINGTON IN FINAL LEAGUE GAME

(Special to the Bulletin)

WESTERLY, R. I., June 20—Westerly high school baseball team now stands tied with Norwich Free Academy for the leadership in the Rhode-Island-Eastern Connecticut Interscholastic Baseball league as the result of the baseball game played Saturday afternoon on the Westerly athletic field, off High street, Westerly, when a ninth inning rally left the final score W. H. S. 6, S. H. S. 5.

A gallery of nearly a thousand fans witnessed the first scoring by Westerly high. Stonington forged ahead in the third inning only to be tied by Westerly and then Stonington adding a tally each in the sixth and seventh. Westerly staged a comeback in the last half of the ninth, when three runs were netted by them without a man out.

It is expected that the Norwich and Westerly teams will meet some day this week to settle the championship.

BROWNS RALLY IN NINTH TO BEAT OUT SENATORS

ST. LOUIS, June 20—(AP)—Three hits and a walk in the ninth inning broke a tied score with Washington here today and enabled the Browns to win 5 to 4. Williams, pinch hitting for Gerber in the seventh, clouted out a home run with two on base, tying the score. It was Williams' eighth homer of the season and Walter Johnson's seventh straight defeat. Manager George Sisler returned to first base, he injured his right arm. The score:

MILLER HAS BETTER OF HEIMACH IN PITCHING DUEL

CLEVELAND, June 20—(AP)—Cleveland made it three out of four from Boston and the rout of 14 from the eastern clubs today when it defeated the Red Sox in a pitcher's battle 1 to 0. While Heimach, pitching his first game for Boston allowed eight hits and passed four he was stingy in the pinches, Cleveland having 11 men left. The Indians scored the only run of the game in the second inning.

Boston had runners on third and first with two out in the ninth but Ehmke, pinch hitting for Heimach struck out. The score:

KAMM'S DOUBLE GIVES WHITE SOX A VICTORY

CHICAGO, Ills., June 20—(AP)—Chicago broke even with the league leading Yankees today when Willie Kamm's two base hit into the crowd sent over the run which gave the local the final game of the four games series 4-3. The Yankees closed their western invasion with nine victories and six defeats. Ground rules made long drives good for two bases only.

The Yankees tied the count in the seventh inning by driving Faber off the hill. With one out and the bases filled, Blankenship then checked the rally and prevent New York from even threatening thereafter.

The crowd, estimatde at 44,000, was the largest that ever witnessed a game in Comiskey park, Soccer.

RUTH IS TWO HOMERS BEHIND 1921 RECORD

Chicago, June 20 (AP)— Babe Ruth today was two home runs behind his schedule for 1921, the year he set his record of 59 for one season. One circuit wallop during the past week gave a total of 23 while the same date five years ago saw him register the 25th home run of his record season. Exceptional pitching staffs faced on the past week's schedule held most of the leading clouters to bass blows.

CUBS AND REDS BREAK EVEN IN DOUBLE PROGRAM

CINCINNATI, June 20—(AP)—Chicago and Cincinnati divided a doubleheader here today the Reds taking the first half five to one and the Cubs the latter four to three. Opportune hitting off Blake kept the league leaders well to the front throughout. White Mays held the Cubs scoreless, except in the first inning.

In the second, Art Nehf, starting his first game for the Reds, was knocked out of the box in one-third of an inning after yielding three hits on a base on balls which netted four runs. Luque who relieved him kept Cubs in check for the remainder of the contest, but the Reds were unable to hit consecutively against Kaufman and Root.

SWALLOWED POISON AFTER HIS ARREST AT DARIEN FOR THEFT OF AUTOMOBILE

(Special to the Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, June 20. — Harry Leroy Ward, 20, stationed at the United States Coast Guard academy, is a patient at a hospital in Darien as a result of his having attempted suicide early this morning following his arrest charged with the theft of an automobile owned by David Barnes, Waterford. Ward's condition is such as to believe that he will not recover, according to advices made to the New London police by the Darien authorities.

Mr. Barnes drove his automobile to this city Saturday evening and parked it on Meridan street. When he returned for the automobile he discovered it had been stolen and notified the police. The state police at Groton and Centerbrook as well as the police at Norwich, Westerly, New Haven and Hartford, were requested to be on the lookout for the stolen automobile.

Early this morning the police of Darien, who had been notified of the theft of the car by the state police at Westport, observed the stolen automobile parked on one of the principal streets. In the car were Ward and Sam Turello, 17, of New York, and Francis Wilson, 16, of Hyde Park, Mass. Ward finally admitted having stolen the automobile in this city and it was revealed that Wilson was picked up in New Haven and Turello was taken in the car at Bridgeport.

Ward was arrested and after being locked up he obtained a glass of water and placing one or more tablets of bichloride of mercury in the water he swallowed the contents of the glass. A short time later Ward was found in an unconscious condition and was removed to the hospital where he remained unconscious a long time. Whether Ward will recover will not be determined for a day or two. Barnes went to Darien this morning and recovered his automobile.

John J. Higgins of Park avenue, this city, is the possessor of a Buick automobile, but he hasn't any license to operate it, nor has he ever had such, according to the police. He was running the car near his home Friday when neighbors watched him and thought him to be intoxicated. They telephoned to the police station and John was taken into custody. The police said the abuse Higgins gave to his wife could have come from any man who was intoxicated. They locked him up until he secured a bondsman and was released. In court Saturday he had a plausible story which was to the effect that he was only putting the car in condition and was trying it out to be satisfied that it was right to run. He denied that he was operating the car in the sense that he was doing anything other than trying the engine. He was not prosecuted for operating the car while intoxicated, but for using it without possessing a license. For that he was fined $10. The charge of operating a car while under the influence of intoxicating liquor was continued till the 17th of July.

John Moriarty forfeited $25 because he did not appear to answer to a complaint that alleged intoxication.

Four violators of the parking ordinance were arraigned, but they received suspended judgment. Two continued cases of breach of the peace were nolled and one was continued in the hope that cause of complaint would be removed.

FORMER NORWICH MAN DIED AT OCEAN BEACH

(Special to the Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, June 20.—Daniel C. Wetmore, 71, died Friday night at his former residence, Arabella cottage, 9 park place, Ocean Beach. He is survived by his wife, two sons, Ralph Wetmore, Saunders street and Herbert Wetmore, United States navy; a brother, Thomas T. Wetmore, Huntington street, and a sister, Mrs. Emma T. Barnes, Bank street. Mr. Wetmore was a carpenter, but for a number of years he had not followed that vocation, but had conducted the Arabella cottage as a summer lodging house. He was a republican by politics and had served as city sheriff. Mr. Wetmore resided in Norwich during his early life, but removed to New London when a young man and continued his residence until his demise. Mr. Wetmore had not enjoyed good health for several months, but about a month ago complications developed, which gradually proved fatal.

The funeral of Mrs. Florence C. Cockell, wife of Patrolman George K. Cockell, was held Saturday afternoon at her residence, 76 Brainard street. The services were conducted by Rev. J. Romeyn Danforth, pastor of the First Church of Christ. Burial was in Yantic cemetery, Norwich, where services were conducted by Rev. Myron E. Genter, Norwich, and formerly pastor of the Methodist Episcopal church, this city.

Piero Mango, 79, died Saturday morning at his late home, 310 Mitchell street, Groton, death ending a lingering illness. He was a laboror by occupation.

Arthur S. Broman, 38, died Friday night at his late home, Pepper Box Hill, Waterford, death ending a long illness of tuberculosis. He is survived by his wife and one child. Mr. Broman was a native of Sweden and was a steam-fitter by occupation. Until his health became impaired he was employed by the Hopsen & Chapin company, this city.

Mrs. Luke Bowen and infant daughter, 245 Ocean avenue; Master Carl Barber, 39 Prest street; Frederick Edwards, 59 Mahan street; Nelson Lucker, Stonington; Miss Bessie Wilbur, 118 Monument street, Groton; James Saunders, 48 Reed street and William Stanton, Fall River, Mass., patients at Lawrence hospital, were discharged Saturday.

Joseph A. St. Germain has sold to J. Arthur Panciera, Stonington, a building lot on Montauk avenue.

Mary P. Bishara has sold to Benjamin A. Armstrong a building lot, Front street, corner of Crystal avenue.

Catherine Fleming has sold to Clarence Macintosh, a building lot on Henry street.

Emile Tetreault, 842 Montauk avenue, reported to the police Saturday morning that while his automobile was parked at Ocean Beach Saturday evening a thief entered the car and stole his operator's license and registration.

Commissioner of Motor Vehicles Robbins B. Stoeckel Saturday morning suspended the driver's license of Raymond Bailey, 83 Bilnman street. Commissioner Stoeckel also ordered the return of the licenses of Robert McFee, 29 Golden street and Joseph Caracausa, 318 Ocean avenue, their licenses having been suspended a fortnight ago. Caracausa, however, may draw another suspension of license for during the day he parked his automobile on Main street longer than is permitted by city ordinance and he was ordered to present himself in the police court Monday morning by Traffic Officer Clyde Murphy.

An automobile owned by William J. Prescott, 32 Tilley street, was stolen from in front of his residence Friday night. The automobile, a Chevrolet touring car, was parked for the night and in the morning Prescott discovered that it had been stolen.

Benjamin Larrabee, 210 Huntington street, reported to the police Saturday morning that while his automobile was parked in front of his residence Friday an automobile robe was stolen from the rear of the automobile.

William Curtiss, colored, and whose home is unknown to the police, was committed to the State hospital, Preston, Saturday afternoon by City Physician George F. Cheney. Curtiss was found acting queerly on Jay street during the morning and the police were notified. He stated to officers sent to take charge of him that he was a circus worker and that he had fallen from a train near this city. He stated he made his way to a highway and was given a ride to New London by the driver of a bread truck. At the hospital Curtiss' injuries were not considered serious and he was discharged. A short time later Curtiss was observed marching around the lawn in front of the hospital and after he had made several laps, the hospital authorities notified the police of the queer action of Curtiss. Officers sent to the hospital brought Curtiss to the police station and there he was examined by Dr. Cheney and then committed to the asylum.

John W. Burke, 39 Morgan street, was committed to the State hospital, Preston, Saturday afternoon, his insanity having been clearly established by his acts and utterances. Burke had written a most irrational letter to Archibald S. MacFarlane, Montauk avenue, in relation to a mortgage on his home and so rambling was the contents of the letter that the matter was placed in the hands of Acting Prosecuting Attorney Perry J. Hollanderaky. Sergeant John Cavanaugh arrested Burke at his home and later at the police station when he was examined by City Physician Cheney. Burke's mental condition was revealed to be such that his immediate commitment was ordered. Burke is a World war veteran and it is understood that he was gassed and as a result of that affliction his mind became affected.

William Jackryousky, 16, and Benjamin Emilyta, 17, Oakdale, and Henry Remington, 18, Palmertown, who were arrested Friday night by State Police Officer Frank Kulowski, Groton barracks, charged with breaking and entering in the night season, were presented before Justice of the Peace Oscar Church, Monville, Saturday morning when probable cause was found and the accused held for trial before the next term of the criminal superior court. Bail was fixed at $500, Remington obtaining a surety on his bond, but his companions were not so successful and were remanded to the county jail here to await trial. The boys admitted breaking into a grocery store at Palmertown Thursday night and stealing a quantity of candy and cigarettes and also admitted having burglarized the Oakdale post office a week ago and from which they stole about $40.

Three liquor law violation cases are to come before the police court Monday morning, the accused being Henry Gavitt, Joseph Naples and Mrs. Joseph Naples, the two last named the proprietors of the Fournier house on Bank street. The former is charged with selling, while Naples and his wife are accused of selling and of keeping liquor with intent to sell.

Arthur Page, driver of an ice cream truck of the Tait Brothers, is booked for appearance in the court Monday morning for operating his truck without registration. He is also charged with a violation of the rules of the road in not yielding the right of way to fire apparatus when the latter was responding to an alarm of fire. The violation of the laws with which Page is charged grew out of a collision between the ice cream delivery truck and the automobile of Fire Chief Rose. The latter suffered a broken leg and he has been in the hospital since the hour of the collision. He is there still, but whether he will be able to appear in court Monday is not known.

Oscar Profitt must answer for a breach of the peace tomorrow. He was arraigned several days ago and then a continuance was granted till Monday. Ray Richmond is also to appear in court tomorrow for violation of the parking ordinance.

It is anticipated that a report will be made to the city council Monday evening on the matter of alleged encroachment of land of the city by the Bath and Beach club, where bath houses have been erected on Pequot avenue. The matter has been in the hands of committee since Charles Schall made complaint and asked for the removal of the bath houses several weeks ago. What the report will be no one can tell, but it is claimed that unless there is an agreement there will be a suit in the courts to adjust the matter. The claim is that the bath houses are an encroachment upon the highway. Mr. Schall is the owner of land nearby and he represents that he has sustained injury by the erection of the bath houses.

The New London police were requested this evening to be on the lookout for John Maloney, 33, who escaped from the Norwich State hospital, late this afternoon. Maloney is described as having light brown hair, brown eyes, and wearing khakki trousers and blue shirt and cap.

A woman in passing through Fuller street, Saturday night about 11 o'clock was assaulted by an unidentified man, the fellow walking up upon the woman and striking her a blow upon the head and then retreating through Fuller street to Colkan street where he disappeared in the darkness. The police were informed of what had occurred and officers sent to the scene of the assault failed to locate him. Peculiar enough, the assaulter did not attempt to molest the woman after he attacked her.

The task of raising the S-51, which was scheduled to take place this afternoon has been postponed until tomorrow morning. Everything is in readiness for the attempt to float the submersible, which was sunk off Block Island on the night of September 25th last by the Savannah liner, City of Rome. If favorable conditions prevail Monday the navy tugs and wreckers will make the united effort to bring the submarine to the surface. Captain Ernest J. King, commandant at the submarine base is confident that the undersea craft will be floated and if she is the submersible will be taken in tow and hauled to Brooklyn navy yard where the 24 bodies will be removed, if they are found in the compartments, and it is believed that they will be, and arrangements made whereby they will be taken charge of by relatives.

James Sullivan, Norwich, formerly employed by the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad in this city, now employed in theatrical work in Newark, N. J., spent Sunday with friends in this city.

The crowd at Ocean Beach Sunday was the largest of any this season. Open cars were operated the greater part of the day and the number of automobiles was greater than any time this season. The patronage of the concessions there was also greater, which was greatly welcomed by the merchants, inasmuch as inclement weather has caused a heavy loss to them.

Breed Theater

Depicting the youth of today faithfully and at the same time sympathetically was the task that Jack Conway set himself in his picturization of Rida Johnson Young's play, Brown of Harvard, the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer picture now playing at the Breed theater.

Conway believes that there has never been a picture that has caught the spirit of modern youth. The young men and women of today have been painted as sensation seekers, reckless youngsters, or sentimental, misunderstood victims of circumstance.

The director has tried to show them as they really are in Brown of Harvard, possessing a little of each of the above qualities, but most of all seeking a fundamental reason, and accepting nothing because they are told by their parents that "it is so because I say it is."

Each character in this picture is a character study in itself.

Brown of Harvard is probably the first film to catch the true spirit of college life and to reproduce authentically the very atmosphere of a university campus. College graduates will be carried back to their years at school by this striking film, while those who have passed college up will learn for the first time the ins and outs of life on the campus. The remarkable work of the four leading players accounts largely for the film's fidelity to collegiate life.

Desmarais Studio

As an appreciation of the manner which the good people of Norwich and vicinity have welcomed my efforts to give them good photographs at reasonable prices, although but six months in your city I have had my entire studio remodelled and decorated, also have installed new and modern furniture, improved photographic apparatus, etc. Also have enlarged the same having rented the entire two top floors of the Allce building annex, so that I will be better capable than ever of satisfying my ever growing clientele. I can safely say that Norwich possesses the finest appointed photographic studio in eastern Connecticut. A visit will convince you. I also wish to announce that I have disposed of my Wecnsecket studio so that I may devote all my time to my Norwich clients. Thanking you for the large patronage you have accorded me since my advent among you and assuring you that I will continue to give you the same high grade portraiture, prompt and courteous service as in the past I remain gratefully yours. Hector Desmarais, Studio at 326 Main street.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

McGlynn In "Abraham Lincoln"

Tonight at 8 o'clock the great American actor, Frank McGlynn, will appear at the Norwich Chautauqua being held on the Academy grounds in John Drinkwater's immortal drama "Abraham Lincoln." Mr. McGlynn is assisted by his daughter and the original New York cast.

This is Mr. McGlynn's first appearance on the road. The play has previously been presented only in New York, where it ran for two years, and in London. In the latter city, despite the unfamiliarity of many of the people with the history of our country before and during the Civil war, the play was a great success. Mr. McGlynn has been pronounced by the critics of the metropolitan press, the living image of the martyred president.

The production opens in the modest home of the Lincoln's in Springfield, Illinois, where the nomination for the republican candidacy for president is offered to Mr. Lincoln. The ensuing act carries the story through a stirring cabinet meeting when the "Emancipation Proclamation" is adopted.

Grant's headquarters with the army on the Potomac is the scene of an act which deals with the surrender of General Lee and the end of the confederacy. Finally the tragic scene in Ford's theatre is enacted.

Christy Bros.' Circus

The circus is one of the big things of America that has made the traveling observer pause and think. The marvelous system which achieves the building of a well ordered village and population of one thousand in the hours of early dawn each day, and packs up and re-establishes itself miles away for the next breakfast, has attracted the serious study of military chiefs and other leaders of great bodies of men, and huge business institutions. It is this marvelous management that draws multitudes of people to the train yards to witness the unloading of Christy Bros., big five ring wild animal shows.

The great caravans are unloaded with dispatch, and the circus man and animal upon whom devolves the burdens incident to placing the tremendous equipment upon the show lots glide gently and efficiently into the place allotted for individual duty. It takes special trains to carry Christy Bros.' colony from town to town.

Everything must be spic and ready for the daily parade, starting from the circus grounds at noon. The several hundred horses that take part in this big spectacle are freshly groomed every morning, and the thousand or more men, women and children are alert and contented looking in the gorgeous pageant.

This street display rises above all other efforts of the kind for fascinating detail, magnificent display and extraordinary length. Most circus parades are tiring affairs, because of the unkempt expression of people and things. The horses are apt to be slow-moving and worn, and the people, as a rule, strongly suggest the idea of strenuous times. At last, thanks to the able management of the Christy Bros. Shows, this is changed, and the morning of circus day a procession winds its way over the business streets of the town that is worth much inconvenience to see, and that is altogether superior to anything of the kind ever organized before.

Hundreds of graceful women riders modishly gowned; expert men riders mounted upon blue-blooded and high-stepping equines; scores of open animal dens; merry groups of oriental minstrels; oddly dressed clowns; soldier types; fairy-land ideals; resplendent musical vehicles; gorgeous tableau floats; students, flower girls, dancers; rough riders, Indians, fashionable carts—in fact, this street pageant is the most munificent and magnified display of circus glories ever brought forward by amusement enterprise. This feature alone costs the management of the Christy Bros. Shows a million dollars, and is an imposing demonstration of their tremendous resources and determined ambition to make this circus institution the greatest on earth.

Two performances will be given here at two o'clock in the afternoon and eight o'clock in the evening on Monday, June 21 at the Duwell Athletic field.

Broadway Theater

Drama, comedy and a gorgeous background are the outstanding remembrances of the opening performance of The Love Thief at the Broadway last night.

Rapid action, a sweet love story, and some very clever comedy to relieve the dramatic moments are the "makings" of this pot pourri of entertainment.

Duels, fights, disgrace, escape and final happiness occur in rapid succession to the impressive back ground of lively court scenes, beautiful sets and attractively uniformed men.

Kerry rises to dramatic heights in this picture of greater sincerity than anything he has done recently and he has done some very fine work in recent pictures.

That little Norwegian girl, Greta Nissen, discloses the reason she was brought from Europe and immediately starred. She is beautiful, wistful and a consummate actress.

Special credit must go to John McDermott. He wrote the story and then directed it himself. Its dramatic structure is excellent.

Several short features was also greatly enjoyed.

This Wednesday evening coming, the management is offering in conjunction with Mr. E. E. Baker, that well known local teacher of violin, a real symphony concert with 40 local people participating. It is a foregone conclusion that it is the one big musical event ever to be held in this city and one that is going to attract all local and out of town music lovers.

WARRENVILLE

A large number attended the graduation exercises held at Knowlton Memorial hall Friday night. The graduates were:

Milian T. Barcak, Irene R. Bilis, Frank Fazekas, John Terence, Gabriele Kosa, Frank Medura, Mary Mihancki, Julia Nagy, Elsie Rychling, Jennie Sopatyle, Stephen J. Supina, Joseph J. Sustek, Anton T. Trenity, William Vostinak and Carrie W. Wilson. The Babcock band gave several selections. There was an operetta The Enchanted Garden, by the school children, also a minuet which was beautiful. The Westford Hill band deserved much credit.

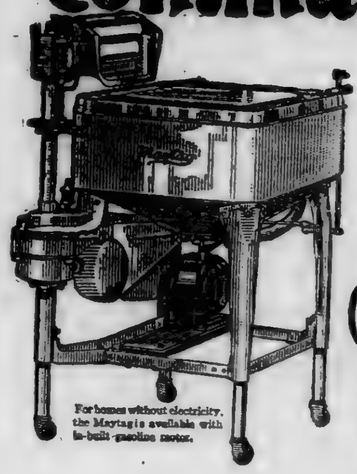
Continuous



1 Washes faster.
2 Washes cleaner.
3 Largest hourly capacity. Tub holds 21 gallons.
4 Most compact washer made—takes floor space only 25 inches square.
5 Cast aluminum tub—can't warp, rot, swell, split nor corrode—cleans itself.
6 Easily adjusted to your height.
7 Clothes can be put in or taken out with the washer running.
8 All metal wringer. Self adjusting. Instant tension-release.
9 Electric motor for wired homes—Gasoline motor where no electricity is available.

For homes without electricity, the Maytag is available with in-built gasoline motor.

THE Maytag is a continuous washer. No need to stop it to put in or take out clothes because the tub has no machinery inside to interfere, or to take up clothes room or washing space. No need to change water during a washing because the cast aluminum tub is heat-retaining—keeps the water hot throughout an entire washing. And the water stays clean because the washed-out dirt settles into the sediment trap beneath the gyratator.

Wash with the Maytag at our expense.

Phone Us - Try the Maytag on a week's washing! If it doesn't sell itself, don't keep it.

LEGAL NOTICES

AT A COURT OF PROBATE HELD at Norwich within and for the District of Norwich, on the 19th day of June, A. D. 1926.

Present, NELSON J. AYLING, Judge.

Estate of Emily B. Swan, late of Preston, in said District, deceased.

The Administrator appeared in Court and filed a written application alleging that said estate is now in settlement in said Court, and praying for an order to sell certain real estate belonging to said estate, fully described in said application.

Whereupon, it is Ordered, That said application be heard and determined at the Probate Court Room in the City of Norwich, in said District, on the 24th day of June, A. D. 1926, at 2 o'clock in the afternoon, and that notice of the pendency of said application, and of said hearing thereon, be given by the publication of this order once in some newspaper having a circulation in said District at least three days prior to the date of said hearing, and that return be made to the Court.

NELSON J. AYLING, Judge.

The above and foregoing is a true copy of record.

Attest, HELEN M. DRESCHER, Clerk.

AT A COURT OF PROBATE HELD at Norwich, within and for the District of Norwich, on the 19th day of June, A. D. 1926.

Present, NELSON J. AYLING, Judge.

Estate of Emily T. Davies, late of Norwich, in said District, deceased.

Andrew B. Davies, of Norwich, Conn., appeared in Court and filed a petition praying, for the reasons therein set forth, that an instrument purporting to be the last will and testament of said deceased, be admitted to probate.

Whereupon, it is Ordered, That said petition be heard and determined at the Probate Court Room in the City of Norwich, in said District, on the 24th day of June, A. RULES CONCERNING DOGS IN THE TOWNS OF GRISWOLD AND PLAINFIELD

Whereas, a rabid dog has recently run at large in the towns of Griswold and Plainfield, thereby exposing persons, dogs and other domestic animals to the infectious disease known as Rabies, now

Therefore, the Commissioner on Domestic Animals, deeming it reasonable and necessary for the security of the inhabitants and their property and to prevent the spread of said disease, and to protect the public therefrom, in pursuance of the authority given under Chapter 269, Public Acts of 1925, hereby makes and promulgates the following rules and regulations for confining, controlling and destroying dogs and other domestic animals in the towns of Griswold and Plainfield:

1. All dogs or other animals in said towns known to have been bitten by a rabid dog or other animal shall forthwith be mercifully killed by the dog warden of the town unless the dog so bitten has received, prior to the time of the biting or inoculation by a rabid dog, a vaccination treatment known as the anti-rabies vaccination, which treatment must have been applied by a registered veterinarian who shall furnish the Commissioner on Domestic Animals and the dog warden of the town a certificate to that effect, giving date of application of treatment, the method used, and the name of the manufacturer of the biological product so used; or unless a dog which has been bitten by a rabid dog shall have received within three days after such bite or inoculation, the first injection of the treatment known as the anti-rabies treatment or Pasteur treatment for animals, such animal being held in quarantine while under this treatment and until released in writing by the Commissioner on Domestic Animals or his agent.

2. All dogs in said towns known to have been in contact with a rabid dog but not positively known to have been bitten by said rabid dog, and all dogs showing symptoms of rabies shall be quarantined in close confinement to the acceptance of the dog warden and the special deputy until released by the Commissioner on Domestic Animals or his special deputy.

3. All dogs in said towns shall be quarantined in close confinement or securely chained on the premises of the owner or keeper and no dog shall be shipped, taken or removed out of the towns of Griswold and Plainfield without written permission of the Commissioner on Domestic Animals. No dog shall be allowed to go at large from and after the date these rules shall go into effect until the same are rescinded,

EXCEPT

(a) Dogs being led or held on leashes of not more than five feet in length in the hand of the owner, keeper or attendant, provided such owner, keeper or attendant is of responsible age.

(b) Hunting dogs while actually engaged in hunting game accompanied by a licensed hunter.

(c) Sheep and cattle dogs while actually engaged in driving or tending sheep or cattle and accompanied by and in control of the owner, keeper or herdsman.

(d) Dogs which have been vaccinated from ten days to one year prior to June 14, 1926, under proper certification.

4. The dog wardens or any constable or police officer having jurisdiction in said towns shall humanely kill all stray dogs which they may find at large without collar and license tag attached. Said dog wardens shall capture and take into their custody every dog in said towns found with collar and license tag attached NOT confined and controlled agreeable to the foregoing, and shall impound and hold such dog seventy-two hours and kill the same if unclaimed as is provided by law.

5. These rules shall take effect at 12 o'clock noon, Eastern Standard Time, the 27th day of June, 1926.

PENALTY

Section 32, Chapter 269, Public Acts of 1925: "Each person owning, keeping or harboring a dog who shall violate any provision of this act for which no other penalty is provided or any rule legally made and published, for restraining or destroying dogs, shall be fined not more than twenty-five dollars or imprisoned not more than thirty days or both."

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

WEEKLY FINANCIAL REVIEW

New York, June 20—(F)—A decidedly more optimistic tone was prevalent in business and financial circles this week. A spirited advance in stock prices, which wiped out much of the ground lost in the drastic recessions of March and April indicates at recent pessimism on the business outlook had been overdone, but opinion was still widely divided as to whether it forecast a marked improvement in business this fall.

Easy money rates and the enormous volume of funds seeking investment are widely regarded as prime factors in the upward movement of securities. With the U. S. treasury doing no financing this quarter, other financing took a big spurt, the week's total of new offerings running close to $175,000,000 including the $60,000,000 issue of Federal Land bank bonds.

Commodity markets pointed upward with prices determined largely by weather reports. Wheat closed a little higher on the week with considerable uncertainty developing as to the effect of heavy rains in Kansas and other sections of the southwest. Cotton futures showed net gains of about $1.25 a bale. The sugar market displayed a much firmer undertone and coffee prices advanced moderately.

Renewed weakness of French francs which carried them down to within a few points of their record low, and the strength of Spanish pesetas were the contrasting features of the irregular foreign exchange market. Selling of Paris exchange was in direct response to another political and financial crisis which accompanied the resignation of the Briand cabinet, with a sharp recovery taking place in the closing days of the week. Spanish exchange touched the highest level in years. Demand sterling held fairly close just above $4.86.

POETRY FOR THE WIDE AWAKES

Do It Today!

Today is the day that your tasks should be done—
The day that God's given you;
You're living right now, and this day is the one
To do what you're going to do!
This second, this minute is all that you've got;
The future's a myth, anyhow;
The past, with its shadows, the sooner forgot
The better—so do it right now!
You number your days from the day you were born,
And count them with singing and tears,
In spite of the calendar years;
Each day you start life with a view-point that's new;
The past is a dream that has fled;
You cannot go back to the you that was you,
In days that are finished and dead,
Nor can you go forward one day in advance,
And glimpse what the morrow may hold;
You can't change the future, or one circumstance,
Except as the minutes unfold;
Today is the day that your tasks should be done;
So live it that you need not fear
What's "going to happen" with each rising sun—
Next week, or next month; or next year!

—James Edward Hungerford.

AN INSPIRING DISPLAY OF RELIGIOUS FERVOR

At Congress of Catholics in Chicago Yesterday More Than 200,000 Worshippers Congregated in the Great Memorial Stadium For the Celebration of the Pontifical High Mass by Cardinal Bonzano—A Choir of 60,000 School Children Sang the Responses to the Altar—Police Estimated That 350,000 Persons Were in the Area of Two Square Miles of Which the Stadium is the Center.

Chicago, June 21.—(AP)—Pilgrims [illegible] the cardinal met on the shores of Lake Michigan today in the most impressive demonstration of religious zeal ever witnessed in America if not in the world.

[illegible] threatening skies and a [illegible] unprecedented a mile, more [illegible] people pressed into [illegible] stadium extended [illegible] shore front for the celebration of solemn pontifical mass by Jean Cardinal Bonzano, [illegible] of Pope Pius eleventh to the international eucharistic congress. It was estimated that 350,000 persons thronged the area of two square miles of which the stadium is the center.

A choir of 60,000 school children, clad in white and papal gold and seated on the vast green mall between the towering concrete stands, sang the responses to the altar.

The sermon of the mass was delivered by Archbishop Curley of Baltimore.

After the pontifical blessing which ended the mass, thousands of devout [illegible] the field from the stands and pressed forward through police [illegible] to the space before the great [illegible]-hundred-foot stairway leading to the [illegible] stadium, thousands knelt in prayer before the tabernacle [illegible] the eucharist rendering it impossible to continue with the speaking program which had been arranged to follow the rites of worship.

So intent were the fervent throngs upon approaching as nearly as possible to the altar that the managers of the ceremonies were forced to appeal to the multitude over the public address system to leave the field at once. In the same manner, a warning was sounded that the wooden elevation on which the altar stood was [illegible] by the thousands which [illegible] the steps.

CABLED PARAGAPHS

DRESDEN, Germany, June 21.—(AP)—Standard houses built in cylindrical form have been elected at Greiz, in Saxony from plans designed by a civil engineer with a view to solving the housing problem.

LONDON, June 21.—(AP)—Lieutenant F. H. Boutecou, U. S. A., riding Bally Maeshane, won the King George gold cup, valued at £700 with a cash prize of £100 in the jumping contest at the international horse show in Olympia. There were 63 entries, representing several nations.

DUBLIN, June 21.—(AP)— Patrick Garland of New York, arrested last April on his arrival at Queenstown and arraigned in criminal court early this month on charges of conspiring to spread sedition, was fined $250 in court here today.

WARSAW, Poland, June 21.—(AP)—Radziwill Oskilko, Ukrainian leader, was assassinated today at Rovno. Oskilko was former chief of the troops and a follower of General Simon Petlura, an anti-Bolshevik military leader in Ukrane, who was assassinated in pair on May 25 last. The communists are suspected of having plotted both killings.

COOLIDGE ADDRESSED SEMI-ANNUAL BUDGET MEETING

WASHINGTON, June 21—(AP)—Announcing a probable $290,000,000 treasury surplus for this fiscal year, ending June 30, and promising comfortable balances for the next two years, President Coolidge tonight warned that another tax reduction must await a full test of the new revenue law.

Outlining a program of "constructive economy" to department and bureau chiefs of the government, in an address to the semi-annual budget meeting, President Coolidge said the treasury should end next year with a surplus of $185,000,000 and the following fiscal year with a margin of $20,000,000.

But it would be "unfortunate" to promise additional tax reduction on the basis of these figures, Mr. Coolidge declared, "until we are sure that the state of our finances justifies it." This was the first official declaration by the executive on the tax question, which has caused considerable discussion recently in congress as the surpluses for this year jumped far beyond the experts estimates.

"What the complete result of the 1926 law will be," he cautioned, "is still a matter of estimate. The correctness of the theory that reduction of tax rates economically applied will stimulate business, and thereby increase taxable revenue, is being demonstrated. To what point further reduction can be carried cannot be told until the new tax law has had sufficient opportunity to become fully effective, and experience has shown what revenue it will produce.

"The question is on the lips of many as to whether there is prospect of another tax reduction in the near future. I think the answer to this question should be delayed until we know definitely the revenue producing ability of the present revenue act."

TO RAISE THE S-51 SOON AS WEATHER PERMITS

NEW LONDON, June 21.—(AP)—The navy tonight marshaled its forces for the raising of the sunken submarine S-51, sent to the bottom off Block Island last September after a collision with the steamer City of Rome.

Late today the S-50, a sister ship, and the submarine S-1 were ordered by wireless to discontinue battle practice in which they were engaged in Long Island sound and to join the salvage fleet. The two submersibles with fully charged air tanks are to stand by to aid the Falcon in supplying air to the pontoons which surround the S-51 and to the submarine itself.

The actual raising operations, which if successful will be only a matter of minutes as compared with months of preparations, are now a matter of hours. Orders are "to proceed with the raising as soon as weather permits and otherwise ready."

A derrick crew from the Brooklyn navy yard arrived here tonight and was taken aboard the Penobscot and then taken to Point Judith, R. I. There the men are put aboard the derrick "United States." This derrick towed by two tugs, is to accompany the salvage fleet to New York after the S-51 is raised.

MISS BELLE SHERWIN IS COMING TO LYME

NEW YORK, June 21—(AP)—American women are again taking the lead in a matter of vital importance to women everywhere, this time in the cause of world peace, Miss Belle Sherwin, president of the National League of Women Voters, said today. She arrived here today after attending the congress of the international suffrage alliance in Paris, May 30 to June 5.

"The appointment of an American woman, Miss Ruth Morgan, of New York, to be chairman of the newly formed committee on world peace," she said, "came as a practical climax to many indications of the confidence felt by the congress in the capacity of the women of America to work for the cause of peace."

Asked about the dispute over the proposed entrance of the National Women's party to the alliance, which the American delegation from the National League of Women Voters was largely instrumental in defeating by a vote of 123-49, Miss Sherwin merely replied: "A working alliance was impossible. We are too far apart in our methods of working as well as the things we are working for.

"And a vote is a vote."

Miss Sherwin is registered at the Cosmopolitan club here until tomorrow, when she will go to Lyme, Conn., and later to Washington.

SREWSTER LEADS IN EARLY RETURNS FROM MAINE

PORTLAND, Me., June 21—(AP)—The returns from a little more than one quarter of the state gave Governor Ralph O. Brewster a lead of 4,887 over Major Arthur L. Thayer for the republican nomination for governor in today's Maine primary. The vote in 129 precincts out of 633 in the state representing 132 cities and towns out of 519 was Brewster 7192, Thayer 4929.

JUDGE REBUKED JURY FOR ACQUITTING A SPEEDSTER

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., June 21—(AP)—A jury that found William H. Trysdale of Boston not guilty of speeding after he admitted he had been traveling 40 miles an hour was rebuked by Judge George A. Flynn today.

"If any of you men is struck by an automobile going 40 miles an hour, don't complain," the judge said.

New Angle in Penn. Primary Inquiry

Beidleman Charges That He Failed to Get Credit For All the Votes Cast For Him.

WASHINGTON, June 21.—(AP)— A direct charge that he failed to get credit for all of the votes cast for him in Pennsylvania's recent $3,000,000 republican primary was made today before the senate campaign funds committee by Edward E. Beidleman, defeated for the gubernatorial nomination by John S. Fisher.

At first Beidleman questioned the right of the committee to extend its inquiry to the fight for the governorship, but under the persuasive questioning of the chairman, Senator Reed, democrat, Missouri, he told of filing more than 1,000 petitions in the courts asking for the right to examine the official return sheets in Allegheny county, then in the possession of the county commissioners.

"If you had been able to get the return sheets do you think you could have changed the result?" Senator Reed asked.

"I don't think there is any question about it," Beidleman replied.

"You think you were deprived of the nomination?" the chairman pursued.

"I don't know that I would put it as broad as that" was the reply. "I think I did not get all of the votes that were cast for me in Pennsylvania."

Beidleman was one of six witnesses examined at morning and afternoon sessions by the committee which turned aside from a query into the activities of the Anti-Saloon league in a further effort to get at the inside story of the Keystone state's expensive primary.

From John S. Fisher it learned the coalition between him and Senator Pepper was formed as a sort of defensive alliance after Beidleman and Representative William S. Vare, the successful candidate for the senatorial nomination in the race with Pepper and Governor Pinchot, had decided to join forces.

W. Harry Baker, recently succeeded as chairman of the republican state central committee by W. L. Mellon, a new of Secretary Mellon, told of a series of ineff-ctual conferences he had here with the Mellons and others in an effort to get their support for Beidleman's candidacy.

Baker was so vague about one of the conferences held at the home of the treasury secretary that Senator Reed excused him until tomorrow with the admonition to freshen his memory in the meantime.

Before quitting for the day the committee began an inquiry into the controversy in the Women's Christian Temperance union of Pennsylvania over a fund raised by that organization for use by the state in enforcing the prohibition law.

Chairman Reed did the unusual thing of calling two witnesses to the stand at the same time—Mrs. Maude F. Seymour, of McConnellsburg, a vice president of the union, and Mrs. Ella M. George, of Pittsburgh, president. Both will be examined again tomorrow.

Mrs. Seymour told the committee that during the heat of the campaign she charged the women's organization never had been given to account for the funds which on last September had reached a total of $120,685.

She added that she "did not charge any fraud or that anything was wrong except that it was impossible to get a definite statement of the fund."

A charge was made by Mrs. Seymour that Governor Pinchot used the county organizations of the Temperance union as his political organizations during his campaign for the senatorial nomination. She said the governor had written to the county presidents directing them to hire stenographers and to rent quarters.

Asked by Chairman Reed if they were paid for their services, Mrs. Seymour said that "a number of them received appointments to the sesquicentennial on commissions."

PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE TO THE DISABLED VETERANS

ATLANTA, Ga., June 21—(AP)—Assurance from President Coolidge through a personal message that the government will aid in restoring disabled veterans of the World war to their proper places in the community, was given at the opening of the annual convention of disabled veterans of the World war here today.

The message from President Coolidge expressed regret he could not attend the convention and praised the work of the organization. In conclusion it said: "Whatever may properly be done to restore disabled veterans to their places in the community and to relieve their conditions will be done."

The president's message, which was read to the convention, said further that the "government takes pride as well as satisfaction in fulfilling the duty owed to those who sacrificed their health and strength to uphold the national honor in our participation in the World war."

Madame Schumann-Heink sang after invocation by Rabbi Michael Aaronsohn, of Cincinnati, national chaplain. At the conclusion of a moment of silent prayer, the silvery tones of the singer rang out with "Taps."

His physician, a heart specialist, said today, however, that he continued to show improvement, and probably would be in shape to leave for Canada by the end of the week.

House Vote Blocks Early Adjournment

Opponents Send Resolution to Ways and Means Committee For Consideration.

WASHINGTON, June 21—(AP)—Upsetting the program of republican leaders, the house declined today to set a definite date for the close of the present session.

By a vote of 191 to 132 a move, sponsored by Rep. Tilson, the republican floor leader, to bring about adjournment on June 30 was defeated, for the time being at least.

Headed by Representative Madden, republican, Illinois, a group of western republicans and southern democrats mustered sufficient strength to send a resolution proposing sine die adjournment a week from Wednesday to the house ways and means committee.

The action of this group, as explained by Mr. Madden, was prompted by a desire to prolong the session until the senate can act on the rivers and harbors bill and farm legislation.

Mr. Madden also said he was opposed to setting a definite adjournment date until the second deficiency bill has been passed by both house and senate. This measure is expected to be reported this week by the house appropriations committe of which he is a man.

It will carry funds for starting construction this summer of a number of new post office buildings, and Mr. Madden contended, if congress should decide how to adjourn at a special time the way would be open for disappointed senators to conduct a filibuster against the bill.

Chairman Snell of the rules committee, presented the adjournment resolution shortly after the house convened at noon. He said he offered it at the direction of Mr. Tilson.

Mr. Madden asked for time to discuss the proposal, but Speaker Longworth held it was not debatable. Madden then moved to refer it to the ways and means committee, 98 republicans, 90 democrats, 1 progressive-socialist, 1 farmer-labor and 1 independent supporting his motion. Voting against the Madden proposal were 87 republicans and 44 democrats.

JOY AND TRAGEDY HIDE IN CHURCH BELL'S PEAL

SAVANNAH, Mo., June 21 (AP)—The sweet-toned pealing of the bell in the tower of the Christian church here on a quiet Sabbath morning reveals not the many secrets that it holds.

Joy, sorrow and the tragedy of disaster have been rung out of this famous old bell for three-quarters of a century. Its useful mass spans the great wars of a nation. Its ringing has made history.

In the early 50's when palatial steamboats plied the Missouri river this old church bell was in its infancy. It was then the ship's bell on the steamboat Saluda, a noble packet that was a part of the great river commerce of that day. On one of the Saluda's trips in April, 1852, unusually high waters and an exceedingly swift current were encountered. The ship, crowded with Mormon immigrants had to [illegible] to stem the river's current near Weston, Mo., but finally was forced to drop back to the levee.

The morning of April 9 Captain Dunn's T. Bell decided to try to make the bend again. Informed that the boilers had on all the steam they could hold safely, the captain rang the bell for full steam ahead. A single revolution was made by the engines and then a cracking roar rent the air. The boilers had burst.

The ringing of the bell had proved the death knell for more than a hundred persons, for that number of bodies were recovered and it was supposed that as many more victims were blown into the river and no trace of them ever found. Nearly all the officers of the boat, including Captain Bell, were killed.

LIGHT VOTE CAST IN MINNESOTA PRIMARY

ST. PAUL, Minn., June 21—(AP)—A light vote was cast in Minnesota's primary election to nominate candidates for state and congressional offices today. Absence of pointed issues accounts for the luke-warm interest which generally characterized the election.

Attention centered chiefly in the race for governor.

Opposing Governor Theodore Christianson, for the republican nomination was Mayor George Leach of Minneapolis.

Magnus Johnson, farmer labor party successor to Knute Nelson as United States senator, and Tom Davis, Minneapolis attorney, were opposed in the farmer-labor gubernatorial race. The democratic candidate is unopposed and did not appear on the ballot.

Except in the fourth congressional district, where prohibition crept strongly into the campaign, re-election fights for congress were without feature. Six of the incumbents were unopposed in the ten districts.

AIRPLANE POLICE TO PREVENT LOW FLYING

HARTFORD, June 21—(AP)—Details for the airplane police to prevent low flying at dangers over the Yale-Harvard regatta at New London Friday have not been completely worked out, Captain Clarence M. Knox, deputy state aviation inspector said tonight. The "police force" with Captain Knox as "chief," will consist of a flying boat detailed by the coast guard, a speed boat from which Captain Knox will direct his forces, and an airplane from Brainard field. The pilot for the plane has not yet been named. Captain Knox said tonight that he expected a considerable number of airplanes at the regatta, but anticipated no trouble in keeping them at their proper height. The coast guard, according to Captain Knox is cooperating with the state forces in the arrangements for the air patrol.

FORMER GERMAN RULERS STILL ARE IN JEOPARDY

Their Vast Possessions Are Partially Threatened by a Compromise Bill, Soon to Be Taken Up in the Reichstag—Measure Would Make Retroactive Numerous Settlements and Disregard Titles to Numerous Castles and Palaces Which the Government Believes Should Remain Public Properely.

BERLIN, June 21.—(AP)—Although the vast possessions of the former ruling houses of Germany are safe for the present, they are still partially threatened by a compromise bill which will soon be taken up in the German reichstag.

With almost 15,000,000 voters demanding the seizure without compensation of the property of their former princes in yesterday's plebiscite, the government of Chancellor Marx now will devote its immediate efforts to obtaining speedy parliamentary action on the compromise bill.

This compromise, while not depriving the former rulers completely of their properties, nevertheless takes scant cognizance of their claims. Not only does it make retroactive numerous previous settlements entered into with Prussia and other federated states but it also disregards the alleged titles to numerous castles and palaces which the government believes should remain public property.

The bill will be discussed by the judiciary committee tomorrow and will be reported to the reichstag for further action at the end of the week. The socialists, who fought for the complete confiscation measure, are not expected to support the compromise, thus offsetting the opposition of the nationalists who have been holding out for more generous concessions to the deposed ruling houses.

While confiscation without compensation failed to win the support of half the German electorates, as was required under the law, the nationalist organs and party leaders have been uncomfortably impressed with the size of yesterday's vote. The affirmative vote on the confiscation measure was 14,89,702.

"Class hatred has been inflamed Moscow has won a victory," says the Deut Che Allgemeine Zeitunk. Count Westharp, the nationalist leader, asserts the plebiscite vote constitutes a lesson for foreign powers in that they must once for all learn that the economic interests of the German people must be accorded consideration if Germany is to remain a bulwark against bolshevism.

Further analysis of yesterday's vote indicates there was a vast defection in the ranks of Rhineland centrists. Despite their party's opposition many of them supported the confiscation proposal and the centrists' organ "Germania" openly accuses the recalcitrant voters with "insubordination to ecclesiastical authority."

Industrial and financial circles have been visibly relieved by the defeat of the confiscation measure, which was sponsored by the socialists and communists. One of the first reactions to the outcome of yesterday's balloting was supplied on the Bourse today when heavy advances were noted all along the line.

Heavy foreign buying of dyes and potash resulted in sharp advances in those stocks.

1,500 COTTON WORKERS ON STRIKE AT ADAMS, MASS.

ADAMS, Mass., June 21.—(AP)—Half the town's working population was without employment tonight as a result of a strike of 1,500 employes of the Berkshire Cotton Company, the town's largest industry. After operating through the forenoon with ten per cent of the normal working force, the company suspended operations.

The strike grew out of an attempt of the mill to increase the number of frames operated by speeder tenders from two to three. Forty workers went on strike a week ago and were informed that they were discharged.

The Polish weavers' union declared the strike today in sympathy.

The strike, which is the first in Adams in several years, was entirely peaceful. During the forenoon pickets were station at the gates of the big mill plant but in the afternoon they were withdrawn. All of the workers came to the gates as usual this morning but comparatively few went in. An hour after the factory opened the company announced its intention to suspend. The mill, which manufactures umbrella cloth, rayon and various grades of fine cotton, has been on a five day a week schedule for some time.

J. R. Simpson, of Fall River, agent of the American federation of textile workers, was here today, in charge of the strike. He declared that speeder tenders would be unable to operate three frames, make satisfactory wages and do good work. The mill officials contended that it would be easy to operate another frame or they would not have required the change.

DRUG PEDDLERS ARRESTED ON N. Y. CITY HALL STEPS

NEW YORK, June 21—(AP)—Two men were arrested on the steps of city hall today as they were pocketing money given them by a federal agent in payment, he said, for a quantity of drugs. With the arrests federal agents revealed three other men had been arrested on the same place last week.

The two men—Charles Brandi, 25, a truck driver of Brooklyn, and James Clark, a hotel porter—were taken inside city hall to be searched. The doors were locked to exclude a crowd attracted by the arrests.

The narcotic peddling ring, according to the agents, worked on the theory that city hall's steps would be the last place to seek drug peddlers." After last week's arrest, a supply of drugs was found hidden behind a subway entrance in city hall park a short distance from the federal building.

Peter Benda, 12, was shot in the right thigh tonight when narcotic agents opened fire on an escaping drug vendor. They had purchased drugs from a youth a few minutes before and were placing him under arrest when he escaped.

WOMAN HYSTERICAL IN CAPITOL AT HARTFORD

HARTFORD, June 21—(AP)—Cries and screams of Christina Douglas, of Bloomfield, caused considerable excitement at the capitol this morning when she became hysterical, under the impression that she was to be arrested, as efforts were being made to take her to th municipal hospital. She had applied to State Agent Raymond F. Gates for "transportation anywhere," and asked that the mode of conveyance be a "horse and buggy."

The strange request caused Mr. Gates to question her further and her answers he said, showed him that she was mentally ill. He called the hospital and was about to take her there, with the assistance of Inspector Antonio Clementino, when she began rushing about shouting between screams, that she did not want to be arrested.

She was quieted finally and went readily to the hospital.

MAY PREVENT LEGISLATION ON FEDERAL JUDGESHIPS

WASHINGTON, June 21.—(AP)—A disagreement which was developed between the senate and house over the creation of additional federal judges threatens to prevent any legislation on the subject at this session.

The senate some time ago passed five separate bills authorizing five additional circuit judges and one new circuit judge. Today the senate judiciary committee struck out all of the bills' provisions and left only the five additional judges provided by the senate.

House members interested in this legislation have sent word to the senate that it cannot have this five unless the nine gets in 10. An effort will be made to adjust the dispute in conference.

The circuit judges would be for the second judicial circuit, including New York, Vermont and Connecticut. The district judges stricken out by the committee included three for the southern district of New York, one each for the northern district of New York, the eastern district of South Carolina, the eastern district of Michigan, the district of South Dakota, the southern district of California, and the northern district of California.

The five remaining in the bill are for the western district of New York, the district of Connecticut, the eastern district of Pennsylvania, the district of Maryland and the southern district of Iowa.

FIRE DESTROYED SIX BARRACKS AT CAMP DEVENS

CAMP DEVENS, Mass., June 21—(AP)—Fire which started in a barracks of the Fifth Infantry Regiment today burned that and six unoccupied barracks and a one story heating plant. The flames were extinguished by local apparatus, aided by equipment from Harvard, Shirley and Ayer, but not before much of the nearby pine grove had been destroyed.

A discarded cigarette butt was thought to have started the fire. The cantonments were old, having been built for the war time camps in 1917, and the damage was not expected to reach $1,000.

ALTERATIONS MADE IN M'NARY FARM BILL

WASHINGTON, June 21—(AP)—Figuring a spread of less than a dozen votes between victory and defeat, managers of the McNary farm bill in the senate sought today to placate the opposition with amendments.

The measure came through the day with alterations and more are planned for tomorrow. None, however, is regarded by proponents as involving the principle of the bill.

Numerous conferences were held between those in charge of the measur, and opponents regarded an lukewarm in their position, in an effort to save the bill as not more than 40 senators were willing its sponsors conceded, to support it in its original form.

NOTORIOUS SWINDLER POSED AS COLONEL GEORGE HARVEY

NEW YORK, June 21.—(AP)—Charged with swindling a woman out of $500, a man who posed as Colonel George Harvey, former ambassador to Great Britain, was arrested today and identified by police as a notorious swindler.

His arrest came after Mrs. Mary Johnson went to police headquarters and picked out of the rouges gallery the picture of the man she said had victimized her. The prisoner said he was Robert McCullagh and denied he had posed as Colonel Harvey.

Police said he had a criminal record dating back to 1553 and had been arrested 16 times. He is known, they said, as "English Bob." Robert Hart, William Henry, Bob Hogan and various other aliases.

A young man who said he was Colonel Harvey's secretary visited Mrs. Johnson in response to an advertisement and leased her apartment, the woman said, the young man explaining that the ex-ambassador wished to hide himself away from friends who were pressing him to "let them in on the ground floor of some Florida real estate investments."

In return for a favor, she alleged, the fictitious Colonel Harvey "let her in on the ground floor" to the extent of $500 and then after taking her for a drive, disappeared, his secretary having gone to the apartment in the meantime and removed his belongings.

Police also said that the man had leased an expensive automobile from a chauffeur by the month, posing as Colonel Harvey, and, after using it for a time, vanished without paying for the use of the car or the services of the chauffeur.

10-YEAR-OLD GIRL WAS SHOT IN WORCESTER

WORCESTER, June 21.—(AP)—Rose Marchese, aged 10, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Angelo Marchese, was shot through the head this afternoon about 3 o'clock in the house at 24 Norfolk street, and Nicola Fiustaci, aged 35, who resides at the latter address, is under arrest charged with the crime. No hope is entertained for the recovery of the girl in City hospital, to which she was hurried in an ambulance. The father of the girl is suffering from a broken wrist. He went to visit at the house at 24 Norfolk street. The little girl followed him and was playing with other children in front of Fiustaci's basement tenement when she, according to witnesses in a drunker frenzy, ordered them to keep quiet. The children laughed at him and he brought out a rifle, firing into the crowd of little ones. The bullet struck the Marchese girl and Fiustaci ran from the scene but was arrested shortly after.

MAN TAKEN FROM BENEATH HUNDREDS OF POUNDS OF ICE

NEW HAVEN, June 21.—(AP)—Buried by hundreds of pounds of ice, Guido Bignami, of 390 Beach street, West Haven, was dug out of his icy prison by firemen this afternoon, and escaped with nothing more serious than two smashed fingers.

Bignami was employed at the bologna factory of Henry Klein at 134 Liberty street and was working in the huge ice box. Without warning a section of the ice box collapsed and great cakes of ice fell on him. Men from Engine Company No. 1 were called and after they had removed the ice, Bignami was taken to New Haven hospital. He was released a short time later.

SAFETY MEASURE FOR THE RACE OBSERVATION CARS

NEW HAVEN, June 21.—(AP)—Many of the observation cars in the train which the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad company will run on the bank of the Thames river Friday, for the Yale Harvard regatta will have mesh wire screen on the ends as a "safety measure." The operating department of the road afternoon said that following its policy of 'safety first,' it had been decided to experiment and screen in ends of observation cars to stop passengers from moving from one to another. This was done, it was stated, on its own initiative.

INCOME TAX PAYMENTS GREATER THAN LAST YEAR

WASHINGTON, June 21.—(AP)—Income tax payments this June 15 will total about $440,000,000, or almost $70,000,000 more than was received a year ago, it was estimated today by the treasury.

The increase moved treasury officials to predict a surplus of $390,000,000 for the close of this fiscal year, June 30. The treasury announcement came a few hours before President Coolidge and Director Lord of the budget were to discuss the government's financial standing at the semi-annual budget meeting.

The $290,000,000 surplus is almost four times larger than was counted upon six months ago and it was attributed by acting Secretary Winston to unexpected income tax collections and increased receipts as a result of a special drive by the internal revenue bureau for back taxes. It will be used to pare down the public debt to about $19,670,000,000 at the end of his fiscal year.

By this operation the treasury will have reduced the debt $846,000,000 during this year, the greatest out made since 1924. Of the total reduction $317,000,000 was made from funds in the sinking fund, created by congress for debt retirement; $169,000,000 by war debt payments received from foreign governments and the remainder from the treasury surplus.

The large increase in income tax collections despite the recent heavy cuts in tax rates was declared by Mr. Winston to be the result of "unusual prosperity" last year.

MAY ANNOUNCE NEW FRENCH CABINET TODAY

PARIS, June 21.—(AP)—Premier Briand's new ministry will probably be announced tomorrow afternoon. M. Briand made this statement tonight after further conferences with M. Poincare and Doumer. Though tired, he seemed confident of ultimate success.

"I will have a conference over the whole matter with a number of my former collaborators," the premier explained. "I cherish the hope we will agree. In the course of the conversations on the ministerial situation today our viewpoints got together gradually.

"The bases of our combination will be laid tomorrow," M. Briand asserted, "and they will be solid."

The premier again declared that he was certain the cabinet would be constituted tomorrow afternoon.

The finance portfolio, a semi-official communique issued late today says, has been offered to M. Doumer a former finance minister, and not M. Poincare. Poincare will probably take the post of minister of justice, and with it the vice presidence of the cabinet and the direction of Alsace-Lorraine affairs.

M. Doumer's acceptance is taken for granted, and there is a possibility that he, M. Briand and M. Poincare will form a triumvirate within the cabinet to deal with financial questions.

COMPLAINT AGAINST HIGH BROW ADVERTISING

PHILADELPHIA, June 21.—(AP)—A complaint against "too much highbrow advertising" was made by Clarence T. Hubbard, of Hartford, Conn., at the convention of the Associated Advertising Clubs of the World here today.

"Simpler copy than we see at present is desirable," he said.

"Many of the words used at present are so difficult they can hardly be understood. In one magazine the other day, I found 14 words which would have been too much for a well educated man."

ANTI-VOLSTEAD MAN LEADS IN MINNESOTA PRIMARY

ST. PAUL, Minn., June 21—(AP)—Melvin J. Maas, advocate of modification of the Volstead act, took a commanding lead for the republican nomination for congress in the fourth district (St. Paul) in early returns from today's primary election.

One hour after the polls closed, a scattering vote consistently gave Maas a marked advantage over Oscar Keller, present congressman, and Fred A. Snyder, his opponents.

INTENTIONAL SECOND EXPOSURE

WILLIMANTIC

Office, 864 Main St. Telephone 1181-2.

DIED SUDDENLY MONDAY — FOLLOWING HEART ATTACK

(Special to the Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, June 21—John Teevan, 48, died suddenly at his home, 13 Fairview street, this morning at two o'clock of angina pectoris. Sunday evening, Mr. Teevan had retired apparently in the best of health, after an outdoor walk, during which he conversed with several people on the street. When he was stricken, Dr. Samuel J. Turcotte was summoned but death had occurred before the arrival of the physician. Rev. Charles M. Kelly administered the annointment rites of the Roman Catholic church. The deceased was a member of Willimantic lodge No. 1311, B. P. O. E., and he has been interested in the management of road carnivals. The news of his death caused a great deal of grief throughout the city. Medical Examiner Dr. Louis L. Mason conducted a preliminary investigation. Mr. Teevan was born in this city May 26, 1878, a son of John and Mary Geary Teevan. He is survived by his mother, Mrs. Mary Teevan of this city; four sisters, the Misses Catherine and Mary Teevan and Mrs. Henry Hornberger of this city and Mrs. Harry Allen of South Coventry; two brothers, Matthew of Lowell, Mass.; and Frank of this city; two nieces and three nephews.

At St. Mary's church Monday morning at seven o'clock, Desire Turcotte and Miss Lina Lemaire of this city were married by Rev. H. C. Belec who also was the celebrant of the nuptial high mass. The nuptials were largely attended by relatives and friends. The witnesses were Maurice Faucher and Wilfred Daigneault.

Luther H. Fuller of Washington, D. C., who is attending the 55th anniversary reunion of the class of 1871 at Yale college in New Haven this week is a native of Scotland, Conn., and a brother of the late Thomas Hart Fuller, a Yale graduate in the class of 1863, who was at one time principal of the Natchaug school in this city. Mr. Fuller will probably visit Scotland before his return to Washington.

JEWS IN COLUMBIA PLAN TO ERECT A SYNAGOGUE

WILLIMANTIC, June 21—Of particular interest to the residents of the town of Columbia as well as other people throughout the state is the announcement that last January eight of the Jewish residents of the town organized a society for the purpose of purchasing a new Bible and looking to the erection of a synagogue in the near future. The society is next called "Chevria Anguma Acaim Onshaym" which translated means the bonding together as brothers, the people of Chestnut Hill, Columbia. The following officers were elected: President, Jacob Zibulsky; vice president, J. Sultin; secretary, Archie Berkowitz; and treasurer, Abraham Tarnelauno. Sunday in celebration of the purchase of the new Bible a parade and exercises were held with about 150 people taking part, including visitors from New York city, New Haven, Hartford and this city. Rabbi Isaac K. Sachs of this city was the principal speaker. Among the Columbia people present were Selectman Joseph N. Carlo, Mr. and Mrs. George K. Champlin, Town Clerk and Mrs. Hubert P. Collins, Miss Beatrice Collins and Mrs. Fannie Dixon Welch.

TELEPHONE POLES VALUED AT $40,000 LOST IN FIRE

(Special to the Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, June 21—Three thousand telephone poles were destroyed in a fire which broke out early this afternoon in the pole yard of the creosoting plant of the Southern New England Telephone company off West Main street. The damage was estimated to be in the neighborhood of $40,000. There was no one in the yard when the fire started. Foreman H. H. Vail and employes being engaged in dining in the office at the time. When they came out of the office, the pile of poles was aflame. A telephone call was directed to the Bank Street Engine House and the day platoon in charge of Assistant Chief Michael J. English, manning all the available apparatus at the station, responded with Fire Chief Henry J. Kelley. The heat emanating from the blaze was terrific and hand capped the work of the firemen. Heat waves could be seen wafting over the flames. A bell alarm was also sounded from Box 13 at West Main street near the residence of C. M. Holbrook. According to a statement made by Foreman Vail, there were between ten and eleven thousand poles in the yard, three thousand of which were destroyed. A small percentage of those destroyed had been creosoted. The average length of the poles varied between 25 and 50 feet and averaged ten dollars each in value. Three hose connections were made and water was played on the flames from both Columbia avenue and West Main street. The three creosoting tanks are located about 150 feet from the location of the fire and there was no danger in regard to there catching fire. A large crowd of people assembled after the alarm and witnessed the progress of the flames. The creosoting plant was erected by the Southern New England Telephone company about four years ago and the poles after undergoing the creosoting process are sent to all sections of the state. The poles in the yard were divided into two large sections by a railroad spur track.

Mary Luske, 6, was the child who was struck and knocked down on Brook street Saturday noon by a Chevrolet sedan driven by George Morin Jr., of this city. She is under observation at her home, 49 Brook street. She sustained painful lacerations about the body and a contusion of the right forearm.

At a pretty wedding Monday morning at eight o'clock in St. Mary's church, Miss Florina Agnes Dubreuil, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Octave Dubreuil of 261 Jackson street, became the bride of Florimond J. Bergeron, son of Mr and Mrs. Romuald Bergeron of 42 Willowbrook street, the ceremony being performed by the pastor, Rev. J. J. Papillon. The attendants were Louis Paulhus Jr. and Miss Rose Bergeron, a sister of the bride. Rev. Father Papillon also was the celebrant of the nuptial high mass. During the ceremony, and mass, the quartet from the St. Cecelia choir rendered special music under the direction of Joseph F. Gaudreau with Mrs. Gaudreau at the organ and at the offertory, Mrs. Eva Austin, cousin of the groom, rendered Johnson's Ave Maria. The bride wore a charming gown of white duchess satin with a bridal veil trimmed with orange blossoms and she carried a shower bouquet of double Killarney roses. Her maid of honor wore yellow georgette and a picture hat and carried a shower bouquet of yellow Killarney roses. The groom presented his best man a white gold Knights of Columbus ring. The bride's gift to her maid of honor was a gold mesh bag. A wedding reception followed at the home of the bride.

Relatives and friends were in attendance from Southbridge, Mass., Woonsocket, R. I., Groton, Hartford and this city. Later Monday, the newlyweds left on their wedding tour by motor, intending to travel through the New England states and Canada. They will be tendered a reception when they return to this city July 3. The bride's going away gown was tan colored trimmed with blue imported crepe. They will reside upon their return at 42 Willowbrook street. The bride has been in the employ of the Holland Manufacturing company. The groom is the proprietor of a tinning and gas range repairing shop at 10 North street. They received many beautiful and useful presents.

Maurice Rosen of 630 Main street and Louis Beausoleil also of this city narrowly escaped death early Sunday morning when the automobile Rosen was driving skidded on the curve at the north approach of the twin bridges spanning the Natchaug river, crashed through the railing and dropped into the stream a distance of ten feet landing right side up. Both young men were thrown into the water and had to swim ashore. The car was recovered. A pair of horses was used in getting the wrecked machine out of the water and onto the road, from where it was towed to a local garage. Rosen state that he and Beausoleil had been on a trip through Ashford looking for a place where a dance was to be held and were on their way home when the accident occurred. The car was not traveling in excess of fifteen miles an hour. The front wheel struck a plank causing the accident. State Policeman Harrison Hurlburt investigated the accident and notified Rosen to appear before the Mansfield town court on Tuesday, July 6, to answer to a charge of reckless driving. Beausoleil will be a witness in the case.

When the case of Mrs. Celia Chasen came up in police court Monday morning Prosecuting Attorney Harry S. Gallivan asked for an indefinite continuance as he said that there are complications in the case which warrant further investigation. It is understood that no search warrant was issued and that there had been no complaint. Mrs. Chasen was charged with possession of intoxicating liquor with intent to sell.

Clayton Taylor, 35, John Moran, 17, John Bell 20, and Henry LaPlante, charged with breach of the peace, were fined five dollars and costs amounting to $12.15. Leonard Hall, 18, who pleaded not guilty to a charge of intoxication, was assessed ten dollars and costs. Arthur Desaulty, 25, of Hartford was fined ten dollars and costs for driving an automobile without an operator's license. Louis Beausoleil was assessed a similar amount for a similar offense. Mrs. Chasen was represented by Attorney Arthur T. Keller. Mrs. Katie Kashala charged with violation of the liquor laws on two counts, transportation and possession, after pleading not guilty, was fined two hundred dollars and costs.

Ex-Alderman and Mrs. David P. Ahern and the former's brother Henry Ahern of Hartford, were passengers on "The Montrealer" which was wrecked at Riverton, Vt., Saturday morning. None of the trio was injured.

Edwin A. Foley of Chicago, the hiking evangelist, arrived in the city from Middletown Monday morning and in the evening he delivered his first sermon at the corner of Main and Church streets. His subject was "God Is Love". Foley has been hiking for the past five years or ever since he was poisoned by carbon monoxide in a garage in Minneapolis. It was while struggling between life and death that he was prompted to become an evangelist. Foley says that he is of no denomination and that he is connected with no denomination. His next hike will be to Providence, R. I.

JEWETT CITY

JEWETT CITY D. A. R. CHAPTER CLOSES SUCCESSFUL YEAR

(Special to the Bulletin)

JEWETT CITY, June 21.—A year of marked activity was brought to a close in a most delightful manner when the Anne Brewster Fanning chapter, D. A. R. celebrated the 29th anniversary of its founding at Wild Acres, the hospitable home of Mrs. F. L. Kanahan, on Friday afternoon, June 18th. Mrs. Charles E. Spicer who has so successfully served as regent during the past year, presided.

Although the chapter numbers but 20 resident members, the average attendance has been 12 and much has been accomplished along various lines. The treasurer's report showed that the receipts for the year had been $505.69 and the disbursements $382.96, thus leaving a substantial balance in the treasury, undoubtedly the largest ever left by a retiring regent. The chapter has met all of its quotas for state and national work, furnished prizes in history for the eighth grade of the Riverside grammar school, also flags for the graves of all the Revolutionary soldiers in the town, besides making voluntary contributions to various kinds of regular D. A. R. work.

The outstanding feature of the year has been the furnishing of a room at the Backus Hospital, Norwich, to be known as the Jewett City room. The idea originated and was set in motion by the former regent, Mrs. Henry E. Olney, but the furnishing has been carried out during the regency of Mrs. Spicer. The color scheme of the room is cream and old blue and the furniture dull mahogany finish. A convenient closet was built in and the following furnishings placed: One chest of drawers, Colonial mirror, Windsor rocker and side chair, Morris chair with old blue cushions, night stand, electric reading lamp made from a yellow glass fluid lamp with Godey parchment shade, two braided rugs two pictures and D. A. R. insignia framed. Covers of unbleached muslin with old fashioned flowers in applique, window draperies of cream colored marquisette with overdrapes of old blue marquisette all hemstitched by hand attest to the fine needlework of some of the members. A brass plate with old time engraving, the gift of Dr. H. E. Spicer, the regents son in law, the door of the room and a few minor accessories give it a homelike and restful appearance. It is the wish of the chapter that it may shorten the hours and cheer the patients who come within its walls and especially residents of the town of Griswold.

During the business meeting the following officers were elected: Regent, Mrs. Edward A. Hausly, vice regent, Mrs. John P. Post; secretary, Miss Henry E. Olson; treasurer, Miss Alice A. Brown; registrar, Mrs. Ida B. Ladd; historian, Mrs. James E. Crary; librarian, Miss Eleanor Stetson; chaplain, Miss Ida L. Lester.

At the close of the business meeting a program consisting of Current Events was provided by Mrs. E. A. Ladd. Mrs. Kendrick was assisted in entertaining by Mrs. John P. Post and when the guests were invited to the dining room a table of rare beauty and interest awaited them. The centerpiece was a birthday cake surrounded by lighted blue candles and garnished with bachelor's buttons and white daisies, the D A R. colors. This was a surprise gift from the retiring regent, Mrs. Charles E. Spicer, and the vice regent, Mrs. John H. Tracy. The china service used was of blue and white Spaulding china which had been in Mrs. Kendrick's family for over 100 years.

Morgan O'Neil of South Carolina and Stella Kozlowski were married Monday morning at St. Mary's rectory by Rev. J. J. McCabe. The bride wore white satin and carried a bouquet of white roses. The bridesmaid was Mary Kozlowski, who wore yellow georgette and hat to match and carried yellow roses. The best man was William Nolle. The bride's gift to the bridesmaid was an aqua marine ring and the groom gave the best man a pair of gold cuff links. A wedding breakfast was served at the bride's home on Brown avenue. The bride received gifts of linen, china, cutglass and money. Mr. and Mrs. O'Neil will later go to South Carolina to live.

Supt. and Mrs. F. H. P. Clement and family are at Hampton Beach, N. H.

An automobile accident occurred Saturday evening at the junction of Mathewson street and Green Avenue, when the machine driven by Miss Doris Myott struck that driven by Lorenzo Richard. Neither party was injured but the machines were damaged considerably.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Smith of West Warwick, R. I., were week end guests of F. H. Gilbert.

The Fourth of July real of last year's big time here, is to be shown again soon. It is the property of the town.

Madeline and Marguerite Gill, twin daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Gill, were given a surprise party on their 20th birthday. Twenty-two of their friends celebrated the event at Gordon Willis' camp Thursday evening. They each received a white gold ring with sapphire stone. There were two birthday cakes on which were 20 pink candles. Delicious refreshments were served.

The married men who won at the chamber of commerce field day are going to give the single men another chance some afternoon soon.

Deputy Sheriff Dolan states that while driving home on the river road Saturday evening he came upon a New Jersey Cadillac machine which was afire around the motor. Several men were throwing sand and dirt on the fire in an effort to extinguish it with no oeffect at all. A Griswold machine came along and stopped with a fire extinguisher and immediately the fire was put out. The owner of the extinguished remarked that it would need to be recharged at the expense of $1.50. Whereupon a woman in the machine from New Jersey said most indignantly, "Nobody sent for you to put out the fire." This seemed to be the sentiment of the owner. After some argument the Griswold man was grudgingly reimbursed for saving the machine from being entirely burned up!

You'll never acquire popularity by telling your neighbors how to do things.

Rare Turkish tobaccos give distinction to Chesterfield's blend

Drawing from a photograph by our Mr. Gary, showing the loading of Turkish tobacco aboard lighters to be transferred to the ocean liner in midstream.

For Chesterfields, the best Turkish tobacco —and nothing but the best!

Where does Chesterfield get its spicy tang, its delicate piquancy of taste and aroma? From costly Turkish tobaccos, world-famous for their distinctive character, their sheer excellence of quality.

And how does Chesterfield get its mellow fullness and its satin-smoothness? From the way this fine Turkish is blended with the choicest Domestic leaf; carefully, shrewdly, in that can't-be-copied Chesterfield way that brings out the hidden flavors in each type of leaf.

It took no end of skill and patient experiment to get this blend right.

Was it worth it? Just smoke a Chesterfield and let the good tobaccos speak for themselves!

DANIELSON

CONNECTICUT COMPANY REMOVING MORE OLD RAILS

(Special to the Bulletin)

DANIELSON, June 21.—Tuesday morning the Connecticut company will set a force of men to work on the job of removing trolley rails and ties in Furnace street, between Main and Cottage streets and in Cottage street, from opposite the Kennedy corporation's property to Water street. This work will mark the beginning in the borough of a program that will eventually lead to the complete disappearance of the trolley tracks.

Rails running through Water street and through Dyer street and thence along the state highway to where the line turns off into the fields on the route to Wauregan have not been disturbed as yet and will not be immediately, but will be taken out in due time. There is the possibility that the rails through the permanent paving in Main street will be allowed to remain until such time as the state resurfaces this highway. It is regarded as likely that it would be cheaper to allow these rails imbedded in pavement pavement, to remain where they are, to be eventually covered up than it would be to take them out, as they would not bring a big price if sold.

When the new state highway between Main avenue and Elmville was resurfaced last fall, the trolley rails and ties along the easterly side of the highway were taken out. That made the first real break in the line in this immediate territory.

The work starting here today again impresses those who think of such things with the practically certainty that trolleys are gone for good and all in Danielson. While there may be a bit of sentiment about this, the fact remains that the motor coaches that replaced the trolleys on December 1 of last year have consistently rendered satisfactory and adequate transportation to patrons of the Connecticut company, and the coaches do not represent the investment or overhead cost involved in trolley maintenance.

As to the removal of the rails, great numbers will hail this as good news. It will permit of improving the section of Furnace street mentioned and also that part of Cottage street through which the line runs. These sections of streets are in poor condition just now, and this is largely due to the presence of the trolley track.

Dancing tonight at Kum-Along-Inn pavilion, Brooklyn road, 8 p. m. D. S. T.—adv.

Danielson is going to confine its observance of the Fourth to the usual noisy welcome, which involves the shooting off much and many varieties of explosives and fireworks, to dancing, feasting at a big shore dinner on Pace field, attending theatres and with parties at home. There will be no official observance of the day, nor has there been for many a year, something that a great many regret.

From various sections of eastern Connecticut and particularly Windham county, come reports of the operations of short change artists, usually this particular season, men who stop to buy gas for their cars, or to purchase a soda, cigarettes or cigars and then tender a large bill in payment. Usually, after the bill has been ordered and change made the excuse is offered that the buyer has the right change, which he hands in, and then asks for the return of his $19 or $20. It is at this point that the seller gets wise changed and is apt not to discover the fact until it is too late and the stranger has gone away.

When the alumni baseball team takes the field Wednesday afternoon for the annual game with Killingly high school there will be numbers of graduates on hand firm in their belief that the old grads are going to win. Their confidence is largely based on the fact that Manager Norman Reeves of the alumni team is gathering a group of players that are good and who have been getting some practice this spring. There are a number of graduates of the high school in the Twilight league that are playing very good baseball.

As to the riding of bicycles that have no lights, automobile drivers continue to voice their complaints, these arising largely from the fact that they are afraid they will run down somebody on a wheel at night and become involved in a very difficult situation on account of it. The riding of bicycles without lights is common in Danielson and nearby towns. The offenders are largely boys, though some adults also take the chance of being hit by a car.

At sunset Monday the wind was from the south and as the summer solstice began at 11:30 Monday night, it was a consolation to those who have faith in such long range weather predictions that this southerly wind when the "sun crossed the line," forecasts good weather for the next three months and not the March-like days that June has been producing.

A check-up Monday indicated that no serious motoring accidents occurred over the week end anywhere in the territory hereabouts, notwithstanding that the traffic was exceedingly heavy, and this is good news, indeed.

Among other places that one may go for diversion and to witness an old-fashioned observance of the Fourth will be East Killingly, which each year has a parade and various functions to make the day one of real interest.

J. Dyer Potter, new treasurer of the Cargill Trust company and formerly assistant treasurer of the Brooklyn Savings bank, has purchased a home in Putnam and is to remove with his family from Brooklyn to that city.

Members of St. James' school baseball team were at Hartford Monday for a game with the junior team of LaSalette college. Rev. F. X. Richards, M. S., accompanied the boys on the trip, which has become an annual event.

No specific information is available here as to when work will begin on the Wauregan-Danielson state highway, this work involving cutting out certain curves and otherwise improving the present layout.

With June in its last full week, corn crops through this territory show in the best inches only about four inches above the ground, while in other places it is just breaking through the soil.

Hundreds of parishioners will attend the masses at St. James' church in observance of St. Johns day on Thursday.

This week will bring the beginning of the heavy northward rush of travel by the Bar Harbor expresses through Danielson.

Miss Migonne Morin left Monday for a two weeks' visit with relatives in Canada. Miss Morin is a graduate of Villa Maria convent in Montreal.

Mr. and Mrs. George Morin motored over the Mohawk trail on Monday.

Excavations for the new ten-inch main being put in by the Crystal Water through Mechanic street have now extended down to Academy street. The work has been underway for weeks.

Chief A. P. Woodward and Tyler P. Andrews, one of the drivers of the fire department, left Monday afternoon for Manchester, N. H., to attend a convention of fire chiefs from towns and cities in the New England states.

On Wednesday afternoon members of the Roundabout club will hold their final meeting of the season with Mrs. Alice Clark of Hutchins street.

Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Greene of North Main street have returned from Ashland, Mass., where they spent a few days with their son, George M. Greene, and his family. Miss Alice M. Greene accompanied them. At the present time Mr. and Mrs. Greene have visiting with them their daughter, Miss Mary E. Greene, a teacher in Dexter school at Brookline, Mass. Miss Greene will remain here during part of her summer vacation period.

The work of varnishing the Captain Put pumper and the hook and ladder truck at the central fire station was started Monday. This work will be done as rapidly as circumstances will permit.

Danielson will be represented at the horse races in Norwich this afternoon by about all the horsemen here resident who can make arrangements to be away from their usual duties.

Tonight opens the week's schedule of the Twilight league with Paco playing the Nail Drivers. Wednesday night's game will be between the Buddies and the Kilowatts, and Thursday night's game between the Cleavers and Connecticut Mills. All of these games will be played on Paco field.

A drill Monday evening for members of the Service battery at the state armory brought the outfit with a fortnight of the date of departure for Tobyhanna, Pa. The battery is recruited to full strength.

A. W. Buchanan, agent of the state board of education, was a visitor in Danielson Monday. He will make another visit in the immediate future to issue work certificates to pupils who will have employment [illegible] summer vacation season.

Tomorrow (Wednesday) brings the end of the school year for students in Killingly high school. Graduation and class day exercises are to be held in the town hall on Thursday of this week.

Women's Happiness

Rests largely on solving their oldest hygienic problem this new way—true protection; discards like tissue

TO be fresh and charming every day, to live every day unhandicapped, to wear sheerest frocks without a second thought, any day, anywhere . . . you can now do all, a new way.

It is called "KOTEX." Ends the insecurity of the old-time sanitary pad. Five times as absorbent! Deodorizes, too. And thus ends ALL fear of offending.

NO LAUNDRY

✓ As easily disposed of as a piece of tissue. No laundry. No embarrassment.

You get it at any drug or department store simply by saying, "KOTEX"; you ask for it without hesitancy.

Costs only a few cents. Eight in 10 better-class women employ it. Proves the unnecessary risk of old ways.

KOTEX

No laundry—discard like tissue

Bed-Bugs Killed This Magic Way

Here is the simple and quick way to kill bedbugs, roaches and fleas: Just pour some of the new chemical discovery—P.D.Q., wherever you find these pests. The moment it touches the insects—they die. Can do no damage to your springs or furniture; won't rot or stain clothing. P.D.Q. is used and recommended by leading hotels, hospitals and railroads as the quickest and safest way of getting rid of pesky insects. Instantly it smothers and kills the living creatures; coats their eggs and stops them from hatching and multiplying. A 35c package of this golden chemical will make a quart of mixture—so deadly it will kill a million bed-bugs. P.D.Q. can also be had in double-strength liquid form—ready for use. Free patent spout enables you to reach hard-to-get-at places with ease. Get P.D.Q. at your druggist's today. Your money back, if the bugs are not gone tomorrow.

PUTNAM

L. F. NOYES ELECTED COACH AT PUTNAM HIGH SCHOOL

(Special to the Bulletin)

PUTNAM, June 1—L. F. Noyes of Wilton, Maine was elected sub-master and athletic coach of the Putnam high school for the coming year by the school committee at a special meeting held in the office of the secretary, Charles L. Torrey.

He has taught science in the schools where he has been engaged and will teach physics, chemistry, biology and general science in the high school here. He comes recommended in the highest terms for the position and has had marked success both as a teacher and a coach.

Mr. Noyes is 27 years old, is married and has two children. He is a graduate of Wilton Academy and the University of Maine. He served for one year as sub-master of the Whitefield, N. H. high school and for the past three years has been sub-master at Wilton Academy. While at college he was a varsity basketball and track man.

Putnam now has two through trains to New York. Both are routed by the way of Waterbury to Bridgeport. One train leaves at 9.48 a. m. and the other at 12.33 p. m. A train leaves New York for Boston by way of Waterbury, Hartford, Willimantic and Putnam at 7.35 a. m. and is due at Putnam at 12.43 p. m.

A new time table has recently gone into effect. Aside from the above mentioned trains, Putnam is but little affected by the new schedule. The State of Main leaves New York 30 minutes later and leaves Putnam 17 minutes later, or at 11.18 p. m. instead of 11.01 as heretofore. The Pennsylvania and Bar Harbor expresses have been restored for the summer but neither train makes Putnam a stop.

The piano pupils of Frederick Very gave a recital Monday night at the Putnam high school hall. The program was as follows: La Belle Canadienne, Grant-Schaefer, Miss Pauline Rawley; Scarf dance, Chaminade, Miss Ruth Bradley; Minuet in E flat, Mozart, Master Donald Bradley; Tarantelle, Dennee, Rosarie Beausoliel; Kobold, Greig, June, Tschaikowsky, Miss Edna Kent; An den Fruhling, Greig, Hopak, Moussurgsky, Miss Helen Varbedian; Impromptu in C sharp minor, Reinhold, Francis Reardon; Etude Fantastique, Friml, A-la-bien-aimee, Schutt, Miss Rhea deCoudres; Liebestraume in A flat, Liszt, Impromptu in F sharp, Chopin, Mrs. Katherine Lown.

The Masonic club and the members of the Eastern Star will have a strawberry supper on Monday evening next, at the club house on South Main street. The menu will consist of cold ham, potato salad, old fashioned strawberry short cake with whipped cream. This will be the last social event of the season and it is expected that a large number of the lodge will be present.

After the supper an orchestra will furnish music for those who wish to dance. Others who are suffering from rheumatism or infirmities of old age will be given the privileges of the club and may play billiards, pool or cards.

Miss Katrina Thayer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles T. Thayer of Pleasant street will sing from the Worcester Telegram broadcasting station this (Tuesday) evening June 22, between 8:30 and 9 o'clock. She will be accompanied at the piano by Frederick C. Bailey of Worcester, with whom she has studied. Miss Thayer has a rare, beautiful contralto voice and Putnam radio fans will be listening in to hear her.

The Men's club of the Congregational church is planning an outing for June 29th at Roseland park from 5 p. m. until dark. All men of the church have been invited with their families. There is to be a program of sports followed by a basket supper.

Miss Nellie Egan of this city and her niece, Miss Eleanor Egan of Wauregan were at Worcester last week and attended the commencement exercises at Holy Cross college.

Mrs. Joseph Monroe and daughter Ethlyn of Warren, R. I., are the guests of Mrs. Monroe's sister, Miss Ernestine Sherman of Woodstock avenue.

Dolor Bernier, who underwent an operation for appendicitis at St. Vincent's hospital in Worcester a few weeks ago, has recovered sufficiently to return to his home on Providence street.

Miss Rhoda Gilpatric of Mt. Holyoke college is at home for a few weeks before going to a girls' camp in Maine where she is to be a consular.

Mr. and Mrs. Otto Wulf, Miss Lillian Joli and Miss Durand, recently motored to Manchester, N. H., to visit Miss Rachel Cain, who is a patient at Notre Dame hospital there.

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Slye, formerly of Stafford Springs, have moved to Putnam and are now living with Mrs. Slye's sister, Miss Mary Wilbur, on Ring street.

Mrs. Thomas H. deCoudres and two daughters, the Misses Rhea and Ruth, who have spent the winter at Providence where the young ladies were attending school, are now at their home on Woodstock avenue.

Miss Elizabeth Bigelow, daughter of Rev. and Mrs. F. H. Bigelow of Pomfret, is at home from Smith college for the summer.

Miss Betty Noyes of Stamford has been the guest of her aunt, Miss Noyes at Topsfield. She will sail on June 26th for Europe.

Miss Ester Gustafson, who is completing her work for the summer at the Eastman School of Music at Buffalo, N. Y., will sail early in July to spend the summer in Europe.

Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Bigelow who have spent much of their time during the winter at the Meadows, the home of the Pomfret rectory school, have re-established themselves at the Christ church rectory.

Dr. A. W. H. Eaton, the distinguished historian and essayist of Boston is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. John D. Campbell at the Matheweson cottage in Pomfret.

Miss Margaret Dolan of Chapman street spent the week end with relatives at Providence.

Mrs. D. D. Sargeant and Miss Bertha Sargeant of Worcester, Mass., were recent guests in the city.

PENDLETON HILL

The funeral of Mrs. Martin O. Chapman, (Susie Worden Chapman) was held on Sunday at the church. Beautiful services were conducted by Rev. E. P. Mathewson, who delivered his usual fine address followed by a few feeling and fitting words of a personal character. Mr. Mathewson had married Susie Worden and Martin O. Chapman, 41 years ago and had conducted her husband's funeral services only a few years ago.

Miss Cecil C. Palmer sang very sweetly Oft Sweetly Solemn Thought and with her sisters, Miss Kittie Palmer and Mrs. Charles A. Cottrell sang on closing Jesus Lover of My Soul.

The flowers were many and very beautiful. A large piece of Easter lilies covering the casket came from the family, a very beautiful wreath from Mrs. Chapman's sister, Mrs. Hannah Hiscock of Jewett City and a wreath of galox with a large bunch of pinks, from three of the neighbors' families were among some of the largest pieces.

A large number of people, as evidenced by more than 35 automobiles, were in attendance and gave testimony to the love they bore for their departed friend and neighbor.

All arrangements were in charge of Charles H. Gavitt of Westerly.

Friends are mourning with Mrs. George Palmer the loss of her sister, Mrs. Joseph Gerard of Canonchet, whose funeral was held recently at the Hope Valley church. The interment was at Wood River cemetery.

Nils Hansell of New York city rode a bibycle from that place to Pendleton Hill and return during the past week.

HOPKINTON

Miss Mildred K. Taylor, sailed from New York, Saturday for a vacation trip to Europe. She will visit Scotland, Holland, Belgium and Paris.

Rev. E. P. Mathewson attended the Brown university commencement on Wednesday, also witnessed the defeat of the Brown baseball nine by Vermont university.

Little interest is shown so far in registration of voters in this town. The election next fall is a very important one and it is hoped taht those who are obliged to register in order to vote will wake up and attend to it before the end of the month.

Lloyd Langworthy attended the sermon of his regiment in Boston last week and Mrs. Langworthy visited relatives in Massachusetts.

Mr. and Mrs. Alonzo P. Kenyon visited Mr. and Mrs. Irene Collins in Westerly Sunday afternoon.

No great damage is reported in this vicinity by frosts, which have been severe elsewhere.

Rev. E. P. Mathewson and family and Frank W. Mills were callers at the Kimball Bird Sanctuary in Charlestown recently.

"Men Are Attracted by Slender, Beautiful Girls"

TOO FAT?

Do something about it. Hundreds of people are chewing SILPH to reduce—why not you?

SILPH Chews Like Gum—HARMLESS

It's simple—easy—safe!

If you are not the possessor of a slender, beautiful figure why not try SILPH—it has done very well for many FAT people.

With SILPH it should be a pleasure for anyone overburdened with fat to reduce. It comes in the form of a pleasant chewing gum—it is refreshing and is guaranteed not to contain dangerous drugs. Some of the fat people who are reducing simply chew 3 or 4 pieces of SILPH a day—for others 5 or 6 are necessary. No impossible over-night reductions are claimed for SILPH. It appears from reports received that the loss of weight is generally 3 to 4 pounds a week.

Men use it as well as women, and in most cases it seems to give very gratifying results. Try it yourself today, but do not accept a cheaper imitation. SILPH is the name. Comes in a handy, GREEN box—at all good drug or department stores—sells for 50 cents. If your druggist is out of it send direct to the SILPH CO., 9 West 60th St., N. Y. C.

On sale at Lee & Osgood's, Dunn's and Morgan's Drug stores.

EFFICIENT CITY GOVERNMENT

According to a statement made by Mayor Bauer of Lyn[illegible] he has saved [illegible] $214,000 [illegible] period and [illegible] and city [illegible] a council [illegible] for May [illegible] than they were [illegible] a year ago.

Because of what the Bauer administration has done [illegible] taxpayers of that city [illegible] for a two dollar reduction in the tax rate.

When [illegible] and [illegible] half of [illegible] ment under [illegible] bene[illegible] mind [illegible] It appears [illegible] trator that [illegible] to the wise [illegible] of the people's money instead of spending it recklessly just [illegible] So far as [illegible] be placed politics was not [illegible] the direction of the city's affairs and we have seen anything quite so effective in the political game than a well administered city.

Good government invariably means the keeping down of expenses. It means the efficient use of what is provided, the saving of money where possible and the getting of results for the city that would be insisted upon by a private corporation. It means the handling of city affairs in such a manner that departments are kept within their appropriations and the various services and projects are not subjected to political influence that because they are [illegible] ordered by the city.

Why shouldn't a city [illegible] who can get efficient [illegible] and give satisfactions of a [illegible] tax reduction be popular with the taxpayers? It is quite evident that it hasn't met only [illegible] He hasn't been opposed [illegible] nor has [illegible] expenditures but has taken the [illegible] the [illegible] the [illegible] how to the [illegible] made by business in a private undertaking. That is [illegible] the fundamental [illegible] conducted [illegible] and [illegible] is the [illegible] which can and [illegible] of [illegible].

MACMILLAN'S QUEST

[illegible] signed [illegible] Mr. M[illegible] [illegible] and a [illegible] in the [illegible] [illegible] concerned, [illegible] [illegible] to have gone into that [illegible] not from whom [illegible] or notes [illegible] was ever heard. This doesn't [illegible] the [illegible] [illegible] no [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] time of the year is being taken for [illegible] making an investigation which means the covering of much territory and the study of those sections where such evidence as is being sought seems most likely to be obtained. There will be careful research in order to locate if possible any traces of utensils which may have been used or any means by which it would be possible to establish what actually became of those pioneers [illegible] whom nothing were ever heard, whether they [illegible] connected with the [illegible] or whether they were eliminated by strife or disease. The hopes of finding some records or some information [illegible] the search and it cannot fail but be an interesting quest even though it may be a bit more strenuous than sitting on the piazza of a summer cottage. Now as before MacMillan will be followed with keen interest by a large number of well wishers.

THE GERMAN REFERENDUM

Germany has had its first national referendum. There has been a test of one of the features of the German republic's constitution over which there was no small degree of uncertainty, and inasmuch as it opened up serious possibilities its operation was watched with keen interest abroad as well as at home.

The referendum concerned the question of seizure of the property of the former rulers. Inasmuch as a sufficient number has petitioned for the referendum it had to be carried out by the government. Opinions differed as to whether the property should be seized, and it is apparent by the vote that there are many of the opinion that it should for there were but few who voted against, but according to the constitutional provision there must be 50 per cent of the people vote upon such a question and even though those who did vote were overwhelmingly in favor of the seizure the number lack more than 5,000,000 of being enough, it being evident that the opposition gave expression to their attitude by staying away from the polls.

The outcome is in keeping with the expression by President Hindenburg who as a private citizen, advised against the seizure but it is quite evident that it doesn't please a large [illegible] of the populace.

Whatever the outcome of the referendum, it is to be supposed that the government was prepared to abide by it even though President Hindenburg was against such a move he would be duty bound to have carried out the mandate of the people had they ordered seizure. As it is, no such move becomes necessary, although in most of the provinces arrangements has already been made with the former rulers for amicable settlements. Perhaps that accounts for the fact that there was a failure of 60 per cent of the electors to vote.

Without a doubt, however, the fact that the referendum is over is a distinct relief to the German government. The test has been made and all [illegible]

FOREST FIRE CONFERENCE

A conference of no slight importance is that which is scheduled for Tuesday morning at Hartford under the auspices of the state park and forest commission.

It is a forest fire conference and "it is hoped that farmers, land owners, [illegible] and all interested in saving to Connecticut's most valuable resources will attend."

[illegible] Forester Illawes in his [illegible] of the conference sets [illegible] that [illegible] sabotage will be discussed [illegible] as Affected by War Conditions, Grass Burning [illegible] Efficers, Forest Law Enforcement, Methods of Fire Fighting, Relation of the Fire Warden to the City [illegible] Fire Districts and An Adequate System of Forest Protection. It is evident that those for whom the conference is intended are due to get only hear much that is of vital importance but will have a chance to participate in discussions which should result in untold benefits in giving greater protection to the woodlands of Connecticut.

There is no chance that there will be much attention given to these [illegible] The need of it has been evidenced for years. The unfortunate part of it all, if there is any, will be [illegible] those who are in the greatest [illegible] impressed with such efforts will not be in attendance.

Those who own or control the [illegible] of the state are invariably [illegible] responsible for the [illegible] would get fires. But the [illegible] great [illegible] through such [illegible] as are taken for the [illegible] and not be in attendance.

Whatever the outcome of the [illegible] there will be much [illegible] report which the [illegible] [illegible] play in preparing [illegible] The conference is certainly [illegible] and deserves [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]

FLORAL MESSAGE SERVICES AT SPIRITUAL ACADEMY

Mrs. Amelia Adams, the famous flower medium was the message bearer at the second weekly meeting in the series of services now being held at the Academy. The great quantity of beautiful flowers presented at the rostrum for spiritual readings, made a most impressive scene, and was the medium through which many inspiring and comforting messages were given.

The high consecration was further edified by the delightful soprano solos of Mrs. Josephine Stewart who rendered "There Comes Peace" and "Peace to Enter In" in a most charming and masterly manner.

Chas. A. Dowsett, president of the society, announced the appearance of Oneita Norgrave famous medium, at the Spiritual Academy next Monday evening.

RENA CANTLIN'S ESSAY WINS HONORABLE MENTION

Miss Rena Cantlin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John C. Cantlin of 55 Broad street, has received word from Washington, D. C., that her essay on the topic, "Ireland's Aid to America in the War for Independence" had received honorable mention in the national Irish essay contest.

Miss Cantlin, who is a pupil in the seventh grade of St. Patrick's church, also won the $5 gold piece offered by Division 54 Ladies Auxiliary, A. O. H. for the best essay on this subject in the local parochial schools.

The two best essays written by pupils of the Catholic and Protestant schools of the country were chosen from each county and sent to Washington, where they were carefully read to determine the winners. The first prize went to a Waterbury girl.

OBITUARY

Edward Maloney

The death of Edward Maloney, retired veteran member of the Norwich police force, occurred at 2:10 o'clock Monday afternoon at the home of his daughter, Mrs. James Butler, Jr., in Preston. Officer Maloney was a regular on the force from the time of his appointment, June 29, 1904, to his retirement Nov. 3, 1925 because of poor health. Following his retirement his health continued to fail and he suffered several shocks.

Born in the Greeneville section 54 years ago, the son of the late Edward and Margaret Collins Maloney, he received his education in St. Patrick's parochial school. He learned the trade of a stone cutter in the Congdon yard in this city and had worked in quarries in Vermont.

For between five and six years before he was appointed a regular on the police force he had served as a supernumerary. He was zealous faithful and efficient in the discharge of his duties.

For a number of years his beat was in Greeneville, then on the East Side, Franklin square, the Falls and Thamesville. Mr. Maloney also served as the first traffic officer of the city at Shannon's corner.

On Nov. 26, 1901 in St. Mary's church Mr. Maloney was united in marriage with the late Margaret Lynch of Norwich. He is survived by three children Mrs. James Butler, Jr. and Edward Maloney of Preston and George L. Maloney of this city.

WEDDING

Brady-Colby

Miss Elizabeth Burgess Colby, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred O. Colby of Mystic became the bride of Ensign John Huston Brady, son of Mr. and Mrs. James L. Brady of Louisville, Ky., at 4 o'clock Monday afternoon at Stonington Manor inn. Rev. Burton D. Hatfield, pastor of the Westerly Baptist church, who united the bride's parents in marriage 24 years ago, performed the ceremony.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. The bridal party marched into the music room, where the ceremony took place, to the music of the wedding march played by an three-piece orchestra. Miss Alice Priscilla Colby, sister of the bride, was her sole attendant. Ensign MacFarland W. Wood was the best man and Lieut. J. Greely Winn and Lieut. Albert E. Freed were ushers. The bride was gowned in white satin trimmed with lace and pearls, and wore a tulle veil caught up with orange blossoms and held in place with a coronet of orange blossoms. She carried a shower bouquet of lilies of the valley. The bridesmaid's gown was of orchid taffeta. She wore a corn-colored picture hat and carried an old-fashioned bouquet of lavender sweet peas and tea roses.

After the ceremony, which took place in the music room of the Manor, a wedding dinner was served for 45 during which the bride cut the wedding cake with a sword.

Following the ceremony, Ensign and Mrs. Brady left on a wedding trip to the groom's home in Louisville, Ky. The bride's traveling gown was of blue polka dot material with a georgette shoulder cape and she wore a blue, close-fitting hat to match. On July 14 the couple will leave for Panma where Ensign Brady will be stationed.

The bride was graduated from Williams Memorial Institute in the class of '21 and from Miss Gibbs' secretarial school in Boston in the class of '23. The bridegroom is a graduate of the United States Naval Academy at Annapolis from which he received his commission in 1921. He has been stationed at the Submarine Base at Groton.

WILLIMANTIC FIREMAN HAS TWO RIBS BROKEN

(Special to The Bulletin.)

WILLIMANTIC, June 21—Wm. L. Smith, a permanent member of Engine Co. No. 1 sustained two fractured ribs late this afternoon while fighting the fire at the pole yard of the creosoting plant of the S. N. E. Tel. Co., off Columbia avenue.

Smith, who only a few months ago had a narow escape from being blinded by chemicals during a chimney fire in the lower village, complained of pains near his ribs upon his return from the fire. Early this evening he visited a doctor for medical attention. His injuries will keep him confined to his home for several days.

MUSICIANS MADE GIFTS TO SECRETARY-TREASURER

Fred N. Clark of 110 Geer avenue, secretary and treasurer of the Musicians union for over 20 years, entertained a party of eight at his home at dinner Sunday and had presented to him a Hamilton gold watch, a gift from the union, and a purse of $100 in gold which was a gift from the union and individual friends.

Mr. Clark expects to leave here to make his home in the west with his son and the musicians wished to give him a substantial reminder of their appreciation of his long and valued service in the offices he has held.

Girl Struck by Automobile

The automobile driven by John Hazler of Preston struck and knocked down Anita Green, 9 year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph A. Green of 428 Main street about 5 o'clock Monday afternoon. The little girl was on her way to Pigeon's store for a box of strawberries at the time when the street was congested with automobiles. She stepped off the sidewalk in the path of the automobile and was struck by the car. The child sustained bruises about the head and arms, and was taken to her home following the accident.

It takes a smart woman to listen when she can't talk.

WOMAN WORKER SECURES LIQUOR EVIDENCE FOR NORWICH POLICE

At the Monday morning session of the city court Judge Henry H. Pettis on the bench, Alonzo C. Geer, 48, colored, of No. 8 High street, was fined $150 and costs and given a suspended 30 day jail sentence on a liquor violation charge. Geer was found guilty of selling on June 16 a half pint of moonshine to a woman in the employ of the police department. He paid his fine.

The woman, who is white, was not called upon to testify in the case. It is understood she formerly lived in Jewett City.

John Henry, 19, a member of the crew of the U. S. S. 23, now at New London, failed to put in an appearance in court. He was charged with intoxication, having been arrested at Mohegan park Sunday afternoon. He jumped out of a rowboat and when brought ashore by his companions his condition was such that he was arrested by Officer Howard Coburn. His bond of $25 was forfeited by his failure to appear.

A local woman was fined $10 and costs for intoxication and paid. Two transients were each fined $7 and costs for intoxication.

THAMES VALLEY COMMITTEE WILL PRINT BROCHURE

With a view to raising a fund to provide for the printing of a brochure for general distribution at various conventions held in eastern Connecticut the Thames Valley Citizens committee is sending to all members of the general committee a letter asking for contributions. The letter mailed out by Herbert R. Branche, secretary of the committee, is as follows:

At a meeting of The Thames Valley Citizens committee, held Wednesday, June 2nd, in the Mohican hotel, New London, it was the unanimous opinion of the committee that there be a brochure compiled and printed for the purpose of publicizing our historical, picturesque and industrial advantages, etc., and that a sufficient quantity be available for distribution at the various conventions to be held in eastern Connecticut in the near future.

Inasmuch as the brochure will be neatly arranged and contain much interesting data on the Thames river valley, with beautiful illustrations, also a map showing available industrial sites, together with rail and water transportation facilities, it is expected there will be quite a demand for them and that they will be preserved because of the worth-while information they will contain.

It is the intention of the committee to provide all members of the general committee with a liberal quantity of the brochures for mailing purposes.

The following action was taken, that the secretary send out a form letter to all members of the general committee asking for contributions to defray the expense of such publicity, and provide a fund for future needs.

We trust this action on the part of the executive committee will meet with your approval.

Kindly make checks payable to Harry E. Hasty, treasurer, Montville, Conn.

Yours for the Thames valley development.

ROBERT W. PERKINS, Chairman
H. R. BRANCHE, Secretary.

HEBREWS IN COLUMBIA REJOICE OVER BIBLE

Columbia the gem of Tolland county as it has recently come to be known has added one more event to its record, which is of particular interest to its townspeople, as well as to many others about the state. This time its activity is among its Jewish residents, more especially those in the vicinity of Chestnut Hill and Pine street. On Jan. 14, 1926 eight of them got together and organized a society, for the purpose of buying a new Bible, and looking to the building of a synagogue in the near future. The officers elected were President, Jacob Zilukky; vice president, J. Sultin; secretary, Archie Berkewitch; treasurer, Abraham Tenenbaum.

Monthly meetings have been held and a lot of work done. Last Sunday terminated the first six months of the organization and the Bible having become an accomplished fact and paid for to the amount of $200, a great celebration was held in honor of the event.

A parade in full regalia, with band and American flags started in Pine St., proceeded over the Hebron-Willimantic state road to Columbia Center, and then marched to Mr. Kaplan's residence in Chestnut Hill, where an interesting program was carried out. There were about 400 present coming from New York, New Haven, Willimantic and Hartford.

The principal speaker was Rabbi Isaac K. Saxis formerly of New York but now of Willimantic.

Among those present from Columbia were Selectman Joseph N. Clarke, Mr. and Mrs. George K. Champlin, Town Clerk and Mrs. Herbert Collins, Miss Beatrice Collins and Mrs. Fannie Dana Welch.

DEAN OF WOMEN RESIGNS AT STORRS

(Special to the Bulletin)

STORRS, Conn., June 21—The resignation of Miss Mary Estella Sprague as dean of women at Connecticut Agricultural college, and the appointment of David L. Greene of South Weymouth, Mass., as registrar, and John C. Huden of South Glastonbury, Conn., as instructor in agricultural mathematics was announced here yesterday.

Miss Sprague, in addition to serving as dean of women at C. A. C. since 1914, has also been state home demonstration agent leader for the extension service of the college. Poor health is the reason given for her resignation, which becomes effective Sept. 15. Her successor has not yet been named.

Mr. Greene is a graduate of Amherst and as the new registrar will succeed George S. Torrey, who has served since 1918 in the dual capacity of registrar and professor of plant Pathology. Mr. Torrey will from now on devote his entire time to botany work.

Mr. Huden comes to Connecticut following service as an instructor in the South Glastonbury high school. His courses are planned to give freshmen in science and agriculture fundamental training in mathematics which will serve as a basis for the study of physics and chemistry in the sophomore year.

Y. M. C. A. TO CONDUCT "LEARN TO SWIM" CAMPAIGN

One of the biggest features of the Y. M. C. A.'s swimming program is scheduled for next week when the association will promote its annual "Learn to Swim" campaign, inviting all boys and young men between the ages of 11 to 18, who cannot swim, to enroll in a course of swimming lessons to be given free of any cost.

This announcement is calculated to capture the interest of many young men and boys of the city for doubtless there are a great many who are unable to swim, yet who would like to be included among the happy individuals who may be found furrowing the watering places during the warm summer days. Aside from being real sport and providing good healthful exercise every person should be able to swim for safety reasons for the death toll from accidental drownings is well known.

So that every boy may have an opportunity to take advantage of the course, morning, afternoon and evening classes are being formed, each group meeting daily during the week of the campaign. The course will consist of six lessons, which according to Physical Director Fritz, should enable most of the candidates to master the fundamentals of the art of swimming. The well known crawl stroke will be featured in the instruction and will be taught in such a manner as to provide an easy as well as enjoyable time for the beginners.

The recently organized swimming club at the "Y" will assist with teaching the beginners, and as the boys of the city who cannot swim are urged by the Y. M. C. A. to respond to this invitation to learn to swim under competent leadership. Boys may enroll at the office or by calling at the Y. M. C. A. anytime during this week.

GAVE FINE PRESENTATION OF "ABRAHAM LINCOLN"

Drinkwater's Abraham Lincoln was enthusiastically received by a capacity audience at the Norwich Chautauqua tent Monday evening, Frank McGlynn in the title role was particularly well received. Miss Mary Rose McGlynn showed artistic talent in the part of Susan. Secretary of War Stanton was well portrayed by Walter Peck and Andrew Andre carried the part of General U. S. Grant.

The decision to adopt the emancipation proclamation, Lincoln's interview to Grant at Appomattox and the assassination in the presidential box at Fords theatre were high spots of emotion in the tense drama. A sidelight on the humane character of the martyred president was illustrated by the pardon of William Scott, a Kentucky private in the Union army sentenced to be shot for sleeping on his post.

The keynote of unity in the audience was that Mr. McGlynn and company gave one of the most entertaining and best presented performances given in Norwich for a long time. In the afternoon Dr. Frank Pearson ex-commissioner of education of the state of Ohio delivered an inspirational lecture, entitled World Building.

Dr. Pearson's point was that if civilization is to find happiness in the future it lies in the depths of mind and not in the depths of land and sea.

It was announced that the Drinkwater offering, the drama of Abraham Lincoln, Harrison-Heimroth Musical company, and that in the evening the company would give a 45-minute prelude to the lecture "Out Our Mind" by Montaville Flowers.

INCIDENTS IN SOCIETY

Among recent registrations at the Battery Park, Asheville, S. C., were Mr. and Mrs. A. P. Hardy of Norwich.

Mrs. Otis B. Hall, 40 River avenue, has returned home after spending a week with Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin L. Hall at New Rochelle, N. Y.

Fifteen members of Sigma Sorority, N. F. A., Miss Margaret Murphy president, are guests of Miss Helene Crawford, at the Crawford cottage, Pleasant View. They are chaperoned by Mrs. Albert M. Van Wagenen, jr., and Miss Margaret M. McGarry.

The Wednesday Afternoon Literary club met last Thursday with Mrs. W. S. C. Perkins and Mrs. Frank Bentley at Ridgewood. The paper for the day, Memories of Memories, by Kate Douglas Williams was read by Mrs. Browning. The club is now entering on its 55th year, with Mrs. Perkins as president. Following the election of officers tea was served by the hostesses.

Nothing ventured, nothing gained—but you may be able to keep what you have.

NORWICH TOWN

On the lawn of the First Congregational church, from 3 to 5 o'clock Saturday afternoon, the annual cradle roll party of the Sunday school was held, with an attendance of 60 or more, including the mothers present. The children present included all ages, from less than two years of age to eight years. The youngest of the little tots was Arthur Browning, 20 months old, son of Mr. and Mrs. John L. Browning. The party was successfully arranged by the leader, Miss Bernice Underwood, who was assisted by Mrs. Ronald Nelson, Mrs. Carlos Ricker and the Misses Grace Wheeler, Dorothea Buckler, Lucile Browning and Alice Aver. At this time the mite boxes were opened and a good sum realized, but there are still more to be turned in.

During the afternoon the children played several out-of-door games, after which Miss Underwood and her helpers served ice cream, dainty cakes and fancy wafers.

For the past five or six years, Miss Marion L. Bailey, daughter of the pastor, was the leader of the cradle roll, always maintaining an active interest, assisted by her sisters, Miss Louise P. Bailey and Mrs. Walter Hitchen, Jr., in these annual gatherings, usually held on the lawn of the Congregational parsonage on Elm avenue. Miss Bailey, having resigned, she was succeeded a few months ago by Miss Underwood to whom the leadership was relinquished.

The funeral of Mary Elizabeth Carey, widow of Henry Geer was held Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock (d. s. t.) from the Johnson home, where she had been a member of the household several years. Rev. J. Eldred Brown, pastor of Trinity Episcopal church, Norwich, conducted the services.

Among the choice floral emblems, was a set piece from Home Chapter of the King's Daughters, of which she was a member. Included in the attendance, were relatives from Vineyard Haven, Nantucket, Mass., and Central Village. The bearers included four nephews, Frederick Tillinghast of Providence, Edward Tillinghast of Central Village and Colonel Edward Carey of Vineyard Haven, also a friend, Burial took place in Scotland Cemetery, where a large gathering of relatives, friends and neighbors had assembled at the family plot to pay tribute to Mrs. Geer. Rev. Mr. Brown conducted the committal services at the grave. The Henry Allen and Son Co., was in charge of the funeral arrangements.

Little Miss Natalie Balfour Browning, younger daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John L. Browning, of Norwich Town, was given a birthday party Tuesday, June 15th, in observance of her fourth anniversary, there being ten children present. The hours were from 3:30 to 6 o'clock.

Following games, the children seated at the dinning room table which had been trimmed with pink crepe paper, were served sandwiches, fancy wafers, lemonade, cake and ice cream. The table was adorned with a birth-day cake on which were four lighted candles. At each place the favors were kewpie-pop dolls dressed in pink. The little girl received a number of nice presents. Assisting Mrs. Browning were her sister, Miss Gladys Pierce, also Mrs George Raymond and Mrs. Frank Santo.

Miss Ida Hayes and Miss Maud Hawes, of Bristol, came to Norwich last Friday especially to call on Mrs. S. I. Bonney and daughter, Miss J. G. Bonney, of Harland road. Miss Bonney is slowly recovering from severe injuries received a number of weeks ago, which have kept her somewhat confined in her home.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter G. Hitchen Jr., of East Town street, accompanied by Mr. Hitchen's brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Wright and children, Donald and Janet Wright, of Medford Heights, Mass., left Saturday to pass the next six weeks, at the Hadley cottage, East Beach, Quochontaug, R. I.

Miss Marion L. Bailey of Elm avenue spent the week end at Groton Long Point, while her sister, Miss Louise P. Bailey, was the guest over the week end of her brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Bailey of Hartford. Miss Bailey is remaining a longer time in order to attend with her brother, the Yale-Harvard game today (Tuesday) in New Haven.

Mrs. George S. Beebe of Scotland road, was present Saturday evening at the graduating exercises of Quaker Hill grammar school, when her grandson, Standish Beebe, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lucian Beebe, was an honor student, being valedictorian of his class and delivering the valedictory address.

Mrs. Elizabeth R. Kinney of Town street is the guest for two weeks of her son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Alex Kinney, of Providence, who returned home a week ago Sunday after pasing a few days with Mrs. Kinney's brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. David M. Dean, Mrs. Elizabeth Kinney accompanied them to Providence.

BRITISH GUILD AFTER SECRET VOTE FOR MEN

LONDON, June 21—(AP)—The Women's Guild of Empire is "out to educate women and teach them that they must think for themselves on industrial problems and not be led like a flock of sheep," says Lady Muriel Gore Booth, the newly elected president.

The Guild is pledged to combat communism and socialism and will support any party which is opposed to it. But Lady Muriel says one of the chief things is to secure the secret ballot for all trade industrial disputes.

"I am a believer, well and strikes," Lady Muriel declares. "Most men do not like strikes and would vote for a peaceful settlement by arbitration. But I am a believer in the right to strike in extreme cases. I also suffer more by strikes than the most. It is easy when one is married to home and keep out of the way of strikes and lockouts. But I am a woman and one morning without any food and the comforts from the shops during the miners strikes and have not yet recovered them."

Lady Muriel says the Women's Guild has launched a nation-wide campaign which is gaining strength every day and hopes the movement may be made world-wide. Both Lady Muriel and Mrs. Drummond, the creator of the Guild later hope to go to America and enlist the wives of American workers in a similar movement.

Lady Muriel is no stranger to America as she has been there many times, she is a daughter of the seventh Earl of Dunmore, who was a Lord-in-waiting to Queen Victoria. Her mother was Lady Gertrude Coke, daughter of the second Earl of Leicester. Her brother, the present earl of Dunmore, won the Victoria Cross for gallant deeds in South African war. She herself is a granddaughter in Lady Muriel's case. Her husband is Colonel Harold Gore Brookes.

Lady Muriel became interested in Women's suffrage as a result of the self sacrifice which she saw women of all classes make during the Great war. After women obtained the ballot she allied herself with the Guild of Empire and has since held offices and personally managed campaigns to obtain funds for the movement.

Quick Pile Relief

Can only come by removing the cause—bad circulation in the lower bowel. Nothing but an internal remedy can bring quick and sure relief. That's why ointments and operations fail. Dr. Leonhardt's HEM-ROID banishes piles by removing the cause. Money refunded if not satisfied by Lee & Osgood Co. and druggists everywhere.

Acid Stomach

"Phillips Milk of Magnesia"

Better than Soda

Hereafter, instead of soda take a little "Phillips Milk of Magnesia" in water any time for indigestion or sour, acid, gassy stomach, and relief will come instantly.

For fifty years genuine "Phillips Milk of Magnesia" has been prescribed by physicians because it overcomes three times as much acid in the stomach as a saturated solution of bicarbonate of soda, leaving the stomach sweet and free from all gases. It neutralizes acid fermentations in the bowels and gently urges the souring waste from the system without purging. Besides, it is more pleasant to take than soda. Insist upon "Phillips." Twenty-five cent bottles, any drugstore.

"DIAMOND DYE" ANY GARMENT, DRAPERY

Just Dip to Tint or Boil to Dye

Each 15-cent package contains directions so simple any woman can tint soft, delicate shades or dye rich, permanent colors in lingerie, silks, ribbons, skirts, waists, dresses, coats, stockings, sweaters, draperies, coverings, hangings—everything!

Buy Diamond Dyes—no other kind—and tell your druggist whether the material you wish to color is wool or silk, or whether it is linen, cotton or mixed goods.

SUSIE ATTENDS CITY MEETING AND TWILIGHT LEAGUE OPENING GAME

Susie among her activities during the week attended the city meeting and although taking part in the meeting observed many interesting things of which she tells in her letter. She writes as follows:

Dear Sports Ed:

Some wise cracker wonce said that too much sports ain't good for growing girls so I plans to mix up my diet a little and so last Tuesday nights I goes to that city meeting. Seeing how's as my first city meeting since I was told to read a couple lines out of a book and was also told that I was now a voter and could have a say in the government of our fair city, state and nation, I didn't say nothing but kinda stood on the sidelines and see how it was done. Gosh them fellers spent a pile of jack in a few minutes but even at that I think they orta spend more.

Them cops and fire laddies gets their half a buck raise without no opposition and I is glad they did. I ain't no poker when it comes to spending the people's money especially when it goes to such fellers as the cops and firemens, they d serve all they can get cause they risk their lives to save some one's else property and all. Guess I was a little nervous at that meeting asking a couple questions but they didn't bite me and at that they was a lot of fellers at that meeting what [illegible] and I bet they was voting for it.

Them fellers was so intent on cutting down the appropriations that after one vote was taken it was found that the court house don't have no money for insurance, repairs nor nothing. Gosh them fellers when they found out our musta felt like a lotta boobs. Seems to me when a feller goes to a meeting he ought to know what he's voting for and if he don't know he ought to find out some way. That's what does do the voting. Then there was no vote again whether we want to have any [illegible] at all.

There's one thing that I think we ought to do and that is to get that West Thames street improved. What putting something between the trolley tracks besides ties and rocks and holes. When they found that they couldn't get no money if the court house burned down cause they didn't provide no money for insurance they changed their vote mighty sudden. But what about West Thames street? Supposing somebody drives his car up against a ledge at the side of the road and gets killed. Looks to me like the city would have to pay them damages and people would then be sorry they had not been so tight with the money. I'm not watching out. Some day somebody's going to get hooked up in one of them holes and there is going to be a crash which means to make a dent in somebody's bank roll. Well Ed, after now I didn't get up and talk at that meeting I guess I made it up by collecting for everybody what I has talked with and they could not be fixed pretty soon. We and how I enjoyed the meeting and how I know how to vote done.

Well, Ed, I sees them twilight leagues opened and I took in a couple games last week and I seems to like them games. The biggest kick I got was at the first game. When Hank Morin got mixed up with the fly rules and allowed that feller Oney whats doing relays at the bags goes right out on the ladder and [illegible] that he thought [illegible] umpires that [illegible] Hank does the umpiring but One-Eye Dugan does the crowd cheering. I sees two umpires must get along like a couple strange bull-dogs and I guess Hank don't trust Oney 'cause he won't let him hold no balls what isn't in play. Hank has to do that himself. I can see Hank is boss and knows a lot about umpiring 'cause he knows where to stand and every-[illegible] Hanks a good umpire but the crowd sure hate plenty of names when he decks a high ball. No Ed, I don't mean one of them highballs I [illegible] 'cause there [illegible] those [illegible] Well, I see I've got a swell [illegible] Dugan I still [illegible] Hank don't [illegible] Say Ed, didja know who was leading the league in batting? No? Well I'll tell you, its Jimmy Dykes. Yep, strange as it seems that's correct. Jimmy was up once and got a hike for [illegible] and now he's regular [illegible] team and is going to rest on his bench. But don't let that fool you Ed, it was the first hit he got in three years so no wonder he's proud of it. But he sure has a peeper for that even if he does bat a thousand for the season. Yes, Ed, ain't Tommy Sisler the berries. Ed, ain't Tommy Sisler the berries. Ed, ain't Tommy Sisler the berries.

WESTERLY

WATCH HILL LIFE SAVERS WENT OUT FOR KINGFISHER

(Special to the Bulletin)

WESTERLY, R. I., June 21—A crew from the Watch Hill coast guard station, Capt. Amos E. Broadmeadow, was called about 2 o'clock this morning to go out to a blazing craft in Long Island sound located four miles west of Montauk point. The call came to the Watch Hill station at 2:03 a. m. and at 2:15 a. m. the Watch Hill power boat and crew were on their way. Arriving on the scene the former famous rum-running tug, "Kingfisher," with a crew of 12 men was found with the after deck house all ablaze and the craft soon sank. The Watch Hill power boat was preceded to the "Kingfisher," by the speed boat of the Fishers Island coast guard station, Capt. Clarence E. Peckham. The Watch Hill boat traveled to the place of the sinking about 18 miles south-southeast of Watch Hill light. On their arrival there they also found a 75-footer patrol boat laying by. As there was nothing the Watch Hill life-savers could do, they returned to the Watch Hill station.

Some 125 members of the 20-year reunion class of 1906 of Harvard university arrived in Westerly Monday on the noon express, the greater number coming from the west. Suitcases were piled into two taxicabs and the guests motored to Watch Hill where they went to the Ocean House, where they expect to assemble for their reunion to the number of 200.

Recorded at the office of the Westerly town clerk appear the following transfers:

June 15, John J. Donovan and William D. Donovan to Henry and Augustus Grossman, two certain parcels of land, lots Nos. 11 and 12, Woodapple Terrace.

Irene P. Montgomery to James Lazzaro a lot or parcel of land at Pleasant View Beach on the north side of Atlantic avenue and east of the proposed Union Street.

June 15, Rogers E. Traver to Philip J. Adams of Worcester, Mass., a certain easterly parcel of land, lot No. 99 Pleasant View Beach lots, between Pleasant View and Weekapaug on the south side of Atlantic avenue and east of land of Lena S. and Madelon Burns.

Alfred E. Hudson of White Plains, New York, appeared late Sunday in a special session of Third district court charged with the murder of a pan-handle negro in Bonnet, Hudson was brought before the court by a member of the department of Rhode Island state police. Hudson came into custody on the Noose Neck Hill Rhode Island state road as the result of a minor auto accident in the town of Richmond, R. I. He was found guilty and sentenced to pay a fine of $10 and costs, but being without sufficient funds to pay the fine and costs. A message was sent to Yale headquarters and in some ten minutes time funds became available, the fine and costs paid and he was discharged.

Fire alarm No. 56 from the box at the corner of William and Bond streets in Pawcatuck was sounded shortly before noon Monday for a brush and grass fire at the end of William street. This was quickly extinguished and the firemen returned to the station house.

Repairs to the exterior of the state armory on Dixon street in the nature of re-pointing and removing worn brick, having been completed by the Rhodes Bros., the wooden staging about the building and drill shed was taken down on Monday and carted away. The exterior of the building is now in a safe condition and in the best shape it has been for many years.

Graduation exercises of West Broad street grammar school in Pawcatuck, will be held in the school auditorium this (Tuesday) evening. Featuring the exercises will be the presentation of a historical pageant in which 100 pupils will take part. A class of 51 will graduate. The production has been prepared under the direction of Mrs. Katherine Crandall, principal of the school.

The pageant will represent the sailing of the Pilgrims from Holland and their voyage to this country. Historic symbolic and realistic parts will be taken by the pupils. The school orchestra of more than 17 pieces will furnish the music.

Choral singing has been arranged under the direction of Miss Annie Spellman, teacher at the school, and Miss Mary Smith, supervisor of music.

The class prophecy, an added feature of the exercises, will be read by the following pupils: Gertude Cella, Alice Yora, Ray Burdick and Freida Pashman.

Miss Elizabeth Crosby of 59 Granite street and Anthony DePerry of 125 High street were quietly married at the rectory of the Church of the Immaculate Conception Thursday evening at 7 o'clock by Rev. Henry S. Bruno, S. M. They were attended by Mr. and Mrs. Archie D. Marr of the West Side.

A wedding trip which will include visits to several cities in Maine. Upon their return they will reside on Spruce street.

The funeral of Rose Mary Catalano, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Catalano, who died at her home, 19 Noyes avenue Friday afternoon, was held Monday morning at her late home. High mass of requiem was celebrated by Rev. Revazio, who also read the committal service at Saint Michael's new cemetery.

The bearers were Joseph Dimarco, Michael Rustico, Antonio Pampalone, Guglio Lamata, Eusebio Cirli and Gaetano Panzello. The flower girls were Marion Lombardo, Rose Sanquedolce, Annie Lombardo, Fannie Manzella, Annie Manzella, Mary Palazzolo, Mary Italiano, Josephine Agnello, Ida Longo, Rose Palazzolo, Nancy Sciro and Annie Scaro.

Richard L. Waters of Baltic was the week end guest of his brother, Mrs. Catherine E. Waters, in Westerly.

Westerly Shriners attended on Monday night the informal ladies' night of Palestine temple at Rhodesonthe Pawtuxet. The celebration was preceded by a short business session and then a returned Noble of Palestine temple, who has recently returned from Arabia, where he was adopted as a Bedouin Sheik, and in costume of the Arab, brought greetings from the tribal sheik.

While in Watch Hill Sunday afternoon about 3 o'clock Charles S. Fowler of Westerly discovered a fire on the roof of Surfside, the Watch Hill cottage of W. Snowden Smith of Syracuse, N. Y., which had caught fire from a spark from the chimney. The Watch Hill Fire department was called and a force of men with Fire Chief George W. Hoxie and Deputy Chief Reginald E. Peck responded. With the use of buckets of water the blaze was soon extinguished.

Westerly Sanitary corps observed its Memorial Sunday on Sunday afternoon at the shelter, at River Bend cemetery. Graves of deceased members were decorated under direction of Acting Commander Dr. John Champlin, Jr. Services were conducted by Rev. Lewis A. Walker, pastor of the Calvary Baptist church.

NOANK

The shore thieves have been busy at the docks recently. One boatman lost four pots and 100 feet of rope. While one lobsterman left home to get the early tide at the Race, he saw two men getting into an automobile and with a coil of rope. He shouted but the driver sped away and they left no clue. The number plates were not visible, the man stated. This is the second time this year he has lost gear by thieves and he wished the guilty ones could be caught. To fit out for lobstering for a season costs about $500.

50 awards of	5 each
79 awards, totalling	$2,500

Anyone may compete in this contest, except those connected directly or indirectly with the Standard Oil Company of New York.

The answers to the five questions may be typewritten or written with pen and ink—one side of the paper only—one answer to each question.

No single answer may be longer than 150 words, and each answer must be numbered to match the number of the question. All answers must be written in the English language and are the property of the Standard Oil Co. of New York.

All five answers should be sent in together and the contestant's name and address should be plainly written on the first page of answers.

No answers will be considered which are received later than Saturday, July 17, 1926. The awards will be made to those who write the BEST answers to the five questions. That is, to those whose answers, in the opinion of the judges, indicate that they have given most thought to the subjects covered by the questions and have learned most from The Veteran Motorist's instructions in the Standard Oil Company of New York's advertisements.

Address all answers to "The Veteran Motorist," c/o Standard Oil Company of New York, Room 411, 26 Broadway, New York City.

Question Four

Why is periodical draining of the crankcase so important?

CLEANLINESS is the greatest promoter of economy in the operation and upkeep of any type of machinery. But the automobile is used in the open, often in dusty air, and in all kinds of weather. This makes more difficult the maintenance of a clean motor unless you

DRAIN CRANKCASE PERIODICALLY

In Socony Motor Oils you are sure of oils that Lubricoat and cushion every moving part, increase compression and power, and resist high motor temperatures. But no matter how good the original oil may be, it is constantly subject to contamination that reduces its lubricoating qualities.

One part of gasoline requires sixteen parts of air to make a burning mixture. Air contains a slight percentage of water, and also dust or grit, some of which finds its way to the crankcase, particularly on dusty roads. When starting cold, some gasoline vapor may be condensed on the cylinder walls and drains to the crankcase. Dirty spark plugs will fail to fire all the mixture, and this unburned gas also drains to the crankcase.

DILUTION

Thus, the oil is diluted and eventually becomes too thin for an efficient lubricant. When thin, dirty oil is used, specks of the bearing metal will pound out. Thinned oil also increases carbon formation under the pistons, and these specks of metal and carbon promptly join the crankcase oil. In time it inevitably becomes too contaminated for use.

The safe plan is to drain out your crankcase every 500 or 600 miles, or as frequently as the manufacturer of your car recommends, and, after flushing with Socony Flushing Oil, refill with the grade of Socony Motor Oil that is recommended for your car by the Socony Chart.

POETRY

The Dancing Fern

At the time of the partridge berry harvest,
In a wood of many-colored boughs,
While through the afternoon the silver milkweed floated
And bells were silent on the lazy cows,
I was going along the wood-road over the beech leaves,
And squirrels had been before me at every turn
Taking all the chestnuts out of their velvet cases,
When I came upon the Dancing Fern.

Now, I never saw a fern like this one,
Trying her poses there alone,
Throwing back her head in ecstasy and laughing,
Curtaying to a chipmunk, dipping to a stone;
Bending far back and flinging out her tresses,
Drooping forward pensive, quivering again,
As all the while her fragile fronded shadow
Kept the wild step lightly, flickering; and then
Though falling acorns clicked like castanets, for a breeze came,
The Dancing Fern saw me—did her treetrod harper warn?
And there she stood, as motionless as water in a cistern,
Or a very scared rabbit, hiding in the corn.

—Marian Storm.

A Song to a Tree

Give me the dance of your boughs, O tree,
Whenever the wild wind blows;
And when the wind is fallen, give me
Your beautiful repose.

How easily your greatness swings,
To meet the changing hours;
I, too, would move with all my might,
And rest upon my powers.

I seek your grace, O sighing tree,
And shall seek many a day,
Till I more worthily shall be
Your comrade on the way.

—Edwin Markham.

HUMOR OF THE DAY

Where have I seen your face before?

Probably right where you see it now.—Detroit News.

Paw, what does an ambassador do?

Organize his staff every week.—Cincinnati Times-Star.

I always advise people to sleep with their windows open.

You must be a doctor.

No—I am a burglar.—The Progressive Grocer.

Visitor (nervously)—Does the criminal gazer live here?

Maid—Yes, sir; but he's over at the palmist's getting his hand read.—Pathfinder.

Boss—Want a job, eh? Well, there's not enough doing around here to need a man busy for an hour a day.

Applicant—Just the kind of a place I'm looking for, mister.—Good Hardware.

Buyer—How much is this hat?
Clerk—Ten dollars cash.
Buyer—And how much by the week?
Clerk—It's $18, ten down and one a week for five weeks.—Humorist.

She was in Alaska looking over a fox farm. After admiring a beautiful silver specimen she asked her guide:

Just how many times can the fox be skinned for his fur?

Three times, madam, said the guide gravely. After more than that he gets spoil his temper.—Vancouver Province.

"Now we'll play at 'Princes of State,' said little Joan. "You can be the attendant."

"All right," agreed tiny Tom. "You be the lady who reads notes out loud."

"Why?" asked the girl.

So that I can throw you out.—Tit-Bits.

KALEIDOSCOPE

Cinnamon bark can be obtained from trees 200 years old.

Great Britain consumes more than 5,000 tons of pepper a year.

Almost half the fires in dwelling houses are caused by overheated flues, pipes and furnaces.

Temperature and humidity are carefully regulated in silk weaving rooms to prevent breakage of threads.

Among some women in Paris a fashion fad is to have a noted artist paint necklaces and pendants on their necks and bracelets on their arms.

A mountain in eastern Canada has been named for J. Franklin Collins, a botanist of the United States bureau of plant industry, who helped make a botanical survey of that region.

Herman Petty, of Washington, N. J., claims the world's record for non-stop attendance at Sunday school. During 47 years, 41 of which he has spent as secretary of the Methodist Episcopal Sunday school, he has never missed a Sunday.

On the Bowery along Allen street and other places in New York where the pushcart is the shopping center of the multitude, one may find such delicacies as Asparagus salad, broccoli and many other imported delicacies which are almost impossible to buy in any other part of New York.

The new relations between northern and southern Ireland are reflected in the broadcasting of programs between the Dublin and Belfast broadcasting stations. From time to time each relays the other's program. Dublin regularly relays London programs, the difficulties of conveyance by land and sea lines having been overcome. The London programs are popular in Dublin.

Requests for information relative to victims whom owners believe to have been made by Stradivari, have become so numerous that one New York house uses a form letter answering questions. Thousands of imitations of the work of Cremona's great violinmaker were put out while he was alive and others have since followed. With only a few hundred of his instruments accounted for, the skilful expert quickly recognizes a Stradivarius through its fine workmanship, material and tone.

In London a resident of Muswell Hill found himself with a 12-room house on his hands, but no garage and no place to build one. The house had a wide front, and one side constituted the morning parlor while the other was a drawing room. He remodeled the front, building an artistic gateway, and turned what had been the parlor into a garage. The large windows were converted in garage doors, so that the general effect of the front of the house is not seriously disturbed.

HEAVY FINE GIVEN TO THOSE WHO WERE CAUGHT VIOLATING THE DRY LAW

(Special to the Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, June 21—More liquor dealers were handed out punishment today in the police court for selling booze indoors and outdoors. The price paid for the liquor is excessive, but there appears to be a demand for that which the laws of the country prohibit being sold. Henry Gavitt did a pocket business and sold to a fellow in the employ of the Bridgman agency who was in New London a week or more ago for the sole purpose of doing business with the men who have an idea that they can get away with selling and not taking station and detained till court convened liquor has dropped to $5 a bottle, but the claim is that the quality has also deteriorated. Gavitt was before the police court today and was fined $200. He paid, including his portion of the expense of bringing the detectives to this city. Joseph Maples and wife, proprietors of the Fournier house, a lodging place that is said not to have been a paying venture in a long time, were also before the court and were penalized to the extent of $400. They also sold to a representative of the Bridgman agency, and got $8 a bottle for what they sold. The profits are said to be large on liquor sold that way, but they are not of sufficient amount to pay fines such as are imposed in the police court.

Minnie Kerson, a colored woman with a long record before the court, was there this morning for maintaining a disorderly house at 14 Federal street which is between Main street and North Bank street. Minnie said she was guilty, and she should know as to that though there was little or no evidence to convict her had she denied her guilt. A white man named Leon Londalier was thrown out of the place after last midnight. He told the police the place was a bad one and that booze was being sold there. That story led the police to make a visit to the Kerson house, where they found a sailor named Tom Jackson asleep in bed. Tom was aroused much to his displeasure and was taken to the police station and detained till court convened today when he denied that he had frequented a disorderly house knowingly. He said he hired a room and occupied it. He denied that he knew anything about the reputation of the house or of its actual character. That led to the dismissal of the complaint against him. Minnie was fined $50 and was given a suspended jail sentence of a year.

Arthur Paige was in court today to answer two charges of violation of the automobile laws—not having registration when operating a truck of the New Haven Dairy company and with failing to give the right of way to fire apparatus responding to an alarm of fire. Paige ran down the auto of Chief Engineer Rose at the corner of Green and Pearl streets and injured Chief Rose so that he has since been confined to the hospital and where he will be for several days yet. The case went over till the 6th of July that Chief Rose may be in court when Paige gets a hearing.

There were a dozen drunks in court, but they were first timers, except in the person of Andrew Fallon, who has an extended record. He was fined $5 while the others were released with a caution to get out of town or go to jail if they remained here and became intoxicated.

Charles Lawski made the mistake of not appearing to answer for intoxication after he had deposited a bond of $5 for appearance. His bond was called and forfeited, so Charles had a rather costly drunk. So many of the accused men represented that they came from Fall River that the court asked whether the authorities of that city had a plan of sending drunks to New London to get rid of them. The reply was that it was only an incident that men from Fall River getting out to look for work happened to stop at New London.

The funeral of Arthur S. Broman was held this afternoon at 2 o'clock at his former residence, Pepper Box Hill, Waterford, the services being conducted by Rev. Joseph A. Elder, pastor of the Huntington street Baptist church, this city. Burial was in Jordan cemetery.

The funeral of Daniel C. Wetmore was held this afternoon at 3 o'clock at 48 Shapley street and was attended by a large gathering of mourners. The services were conducted by the pastor of Life and Advent church. Relatives of Mr. Wetmore acted as bearers. Burial was in Jordan cemetery.

Mrs. Anna Kulakowsky, North Plains, this state: Mrs. Selma Harrocks, New Jersey; Mrs. Mildred Webber, New York; Mrs. Anna Stess, Mountain avenue; August Nanni, 56 Belden street; Mrs. Arthur Martin, Williams street; Mrs. Calvin Beebe, 15 Federal street; Mrs. Aine Bergeron, Montville; Mrs. Joseph Serrigno, this city; Ellis Schaffer, 152 Ocean avenue; Mrs. Homer McClune, and infant child, 98 Blackhall street; Miss Josephine Lucker, Stonington, and John White, New York, patients at Lawrence hospital, were discharged Sunday and today.

Josephine D. Sutton, administratrix of the estate of Lillian F. S. Campbell, sometimes known as Elizabeth G. Sutton Campbell, has sold a house and lot on Thames street to William Bauer.

John Leavey, Truman street, was arrested this afternoon by Traffic Officer Clyde Murphy charged with intoxication and breach of the peace by his sister, Miss Catherine Leavey, of the same address. He will be presented in the police court tomorrow morning. Leavey went to his home about noon and soon after entering the house he engaged in a quarrel with his sister. Leavey was so boisterous that complaint was made against him and his arrest followed.

Commissioner of Motor Vehicles Robbins B. Stoeckel today ordered the return of the operators' licenses of Ernest Morris, United States Coast Guard section base 4, state pier, and John Guerro, Truman street. The licenses were suspended two weeks ago for violations of the motor vehicle laws.

MERIDIAN STREET IN PART IS ONE WAY STREET

(Special to the Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, June 21—City Manager William A. Holt today made additional restrictions to the parking of automobiles and caused another one-way street to be made in a further attempt to reduce the condition of congestion in the heart of the city. No parking will be allowed on the north side of Church street, between Main and Huntington streets and neither will parking be allowed on the south side of that street, between Huntington and Meridian streets. The one-way street is Meridian street, between Church and Federal street and traffic will be northerly. City Manager Holt notified Captain of Police Charles A. Pinney of the new traffic regulations this afternoon and ordered the enforcement of them beginning at once.

Mrs. Maria Mosher, 69, widow of Albert Mosher, Waterford, died at her late residence Saturday night. Mrs. Mosher, who had been in ill health a long time, is survived by a daughter, Mrs. Arthur Leiper, Broad street extension, and by two brothers who reside in Ohio.

Lawrence K. Minson, Montville and Miss V. Sistare, Waterford, were married Sunday afternoon at the parsonage of the First Church of Christ. The ceremony was performed by Rev. J. Romeyn Danforth.

Mrs. Charlotte M. Ryley, 72, widow of George H. Ryley, died Saturday night at her late home, 53 Adelaide street after a long illness. She is survived by three sons, James, Albert and George Ryley, all of New London. Mrs. Ryley was born in Waterford, but had resided in New London the greater part of her life.

The funeral of Mrs. Frederica D. Yerring, wife of Charles E. Yerring, late of Chicago avenue, Groton, was held Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock at 15 Masonic street, this city. The services were largely attended and were conducted by Rev. George R. Atha, pastor of the Groton Heights Baptist church. Relatives of Mrs. Yerring acted as bearers. Burial was in Starr cemetery, Groton.

The funeral of Petro Mango, late of 310 Mitchell street, Groton, was held this morning at 9 o'clock at Sacred Heart church, Groton. A mass of requiem was celebrated by Rev. William J. Fox, rector of the church. Burial was in St. Mary's cemetery.

Miss Sophia Wierzorich, 9 West Coit street and employed at the mill of the Max Pollock company, Poquonoc road, Groton, was struck and injured, but not seriously, this morning by an automobile owned and driven by Wells Geer, 27 Franklin street, this city. Miss Wierzorich sustained numerous cuts, abrasions and contusions, while Geer sustained bruises because of his auto overturning as he attempted to prevent the car striking the young woman.

Miss Wierzorich was walking along Poquonoc road on her way to her employment after having alighted from a trolley car. Just after the young woman stepped to the highway the auto driven by Geer came along and in attempting to avoid hitting the woman, Geer guided his auto abruptly to one side of the road. The auto, however, struck Miss Wierzorich, and knocked her down. Continuing off the edge of the road, the automobile overturned before Geer could bring it to a stop. Both victims were given emergency treatment at the mill and then were conveyed to their respective homes. Geer's automobile was considerably damaged.

Lieut. Ralph E. Hansen, son of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Hanson, Schenectady, N. Y., and Miss Helen Elizabeth Curtis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis L. G. Curtis, 263 Huntington street, were married Saturday night at the residence of the bride's parents. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Elmer M. Kerridge, pastor of St. James' Episcopal church, in the presence of a large number of relatives and friends of the contracting couple. Lieut. Walter Wetherbee was best man and Miss Helen Dwyer was maid of honor.

NEW LONDON MAY LOSE COAST GUARD ACADEMY

(Special to the Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, June 21—Councilor May, at the meeting of the city council this evening gave notice to his associates that the city of New Bedford was casting covetuous eyes at the Coast Guard Academy, now located in this city with a view to having the establishment removed to the city of Spindles, and that to bring that about the government had been offered 10 acres of land at New Bedford that the establishment might be located there. He asked that the council should stir itself to retain the academy at this city. He said that the city should realize that a large sum of money was expended here by the establishment and by the officers and men. He said that New Bedford was seeking the academy with energy. Mr. May hoped that the academy would be retained here as a moral and financial asset of the city.

Mayor Fox declared that he had been aware for some time of the activities on the part of New Bedford, but he was inclined to the opinion that the matter should not be advertised. He said that influential citizens and representative men of the state are at work and have been laboring to retain the Coast Guard academy here. He believed the proper thing was to refer the matter to committee of the whole council for further consideration.

Mr. May replied that he himself had been in conference with the congressman from the New London district and with naval officers and had endeavored to impress upon them the advantages of New London and the desire of the people to retain the establishment here.

The matter was referred to the council as a committee of the whole.

NEW LONDON AWARDS BOND ISSUE TO NEW YORK BANKERS

(Special to the Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, June 21—The city council this evening awarded an issue of $200,000 of water refunding bonds to F. B. Keech & Co., New York at a price of $202,450. The Keech bid was jointly with that of Pulleyn & Co., and is on the basis of 4.13 to 4.14.

COUNCIL DISCUSSES BANK STREET TRAFFIC AT LENGTH

(Special to the Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, June 21—The city council discussed the matter to the former method of directing traffic on Bank street this evening at a session that lasted until 11 o'clock. After the members of the council had listened to the remonstrants against the continuance of the one way street, Clarence W. Thompson presented the case for the merchants and property owners, the council went into executive session and debated the matter at great length. The conclusion was finally reached that the city manager should decide whether to abandon the one way street and return to the former two way thoroughfare. The sentiment of the board is reported to have been strongly in favor of returning to unlimited traffic on the street. Manager Holt will decide tomorrow what action he will take.

A number of Bank street merchants and property owners were present at the hearing, all determined that the existing traffic rule of sending all vehicles in one direction, and that to the northward, should be changed and the former method of two-way traffic should be restored. When the mayor asked for a show of hands in favor of the restoration of the former traffic rules should stand every man doing business on the street who was in the council chamber arose and signified that he was dissatisfied with the existing conditions.

The matter was brought up on a petition to the city manager asking a return to the former method of directing traffic and stating that the new method had brought a financial loss and inconvenience to them, and that it has depreciated the value of store property there. There were 63 signatures to the petition, which asked for immediate relief.

Councilor Scott suggested that the matter should be referred to committee that a conference could be held with the interested parties and that action could be determined upon this evening so that the city manager might bring about a restoration of the old order of things if that was deemed advisable. It was pointed out that the city manager was acting under an ordinance and that he would be willing and ready to conform to the wishes of the council in the matter when that wish was once expressed. He said the purpose was to establish traffic rules that would be satisfactory.

Councilor Scott alluded to the fact that men representing $300,000 to $400,000 of property were present and that they desired a change that would become effective immediately. He was in favor of any delay in the matter that was not imperative.

Councilor Starkey asked for a recess [illegible] conference with the property owners [illegible] had.

City Manager Holt went over the [illegible] and reviewed the action [illegible] various times in the past [illegible] the occasion at which [illegible] meeting in the council [illegible] and when there was opposition [illegible] sentiment than would prove [illegible] when it had been [illegible] carried. He pointed out that there was parking allowed on both [illegible] of the street now, which overcame objections that had been before [illegible] and that the present plan [illegible] section that had been stud[illegible] in that regard. He said that [illegible] sentiment prevailed and that [illegible] the end purpose sought to be attained. Merchants was safe now and [illegible] were in no danger of damage [illegible] accident. He was not strenuous for [illegible] plan except such as would accomplish the best results and he was of the opinion that the one-way system [illegible] that could be devised.

The matter was then referred to committee and the conference was held. There were more than two-score of interested persons in the chamber and [illegible] of them expressed their opinion [illegible] was needed.

LARGE ATTENDANCE AT FUNERAL OF MISS HENNON

(Special to the Bulletin)

JEWETT CITY, June 21.—The funeral of Miss Margaret Hennon was held from her late home on Mathewson street this morning. Solemn requiem mass was celebrated at St. Mary's church by Rev. Herbert Hennon of Littleton, N. H. Rev. Francis [illegible] Rector of Chester, Conn., was deacon, Rev. James FitzSimons of Rockville, sub-deacon, Rev. J. J. McGrath master of ceremonies and Orin Gaudet and Frank Katszoukiewicz, acolytes. Seated in the sanctuary were Rev. Benjamin M. Donovan of North Grosvenordale, Rev. John Matthew Wuerrgan; Rev. R. P. [illegible] Portland, Rev. Frederick [illegible] Ocean; Rev. S. A. Jodoin, [illegible] Rev. C. Toper of Norwich, Rev. Joseph Seiferman of [illegible], Rev. John Landry of [illegible]. The children of St. Mary's parish attended in a body. Burial was in the Immaculate Conception cemetery in Lawrence, Mass., in the family lot. The bearers were [illegible] Michael Murray, P. F. [illegible] M. E. Shea. The arrangements were in charge of Hourigan Bros.

A new superintendent, W. R. [illegible], entered the employ of Ashland Cotton company on Monday morning. Mr. [illegible] comes from Pawtucket where he was connected with the Weybosset Mills. Mr. Fleet's wife will come later. For the present he is rooming at the home of Mrs. George A. Haskell.

Mrs. W. A. Richardson and three children, Mrs. L. G. [illegible]ingham and [illegible] Arthur Gray left Sunday for Chicadee camp at Port Clyde, Me., where they will remain for two or three weeks.

Ransom Read, who fell at Aspinook bleachery recently, is very ill at his home on Palmer avenue.

"How old is your little brother, Johnny?" inquired Willie.

"Just a year old," replied Johnny. "Huh! I've got a dog just a year old, and he can walk twice as well as your brother."

Well he ought to. He's got twice as many legs.—Washington Star.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Breed Theatre

Girls keep a diary of their love affairs, but in all the sensational divorce cases, the 'man's record of his "affaires du coeur," has usually been conspicuous by its absence.

But William Haines has come forth with an idea that should solve this problem.

It is the "Sheik belt."

Haines wears it in "Brown of Harvard," in which he plays the title role. It is founded on the old idea of the notch in the gun stock for every Indian that "bit the dust." For every female conquest that Haines makes in the picture, the belt receives a notch.

"While women like to remember each young man they have been attracted to and love to recall their affairs by reading their diaries," declares Haines, "most men like to forget them as soon as possible. Their delight is in numbers rather than detail, and the 'Shiek belt' allows a great deal of personal satisfaction without leaving any incriminating evidence."

Jack Pickford plays the part of "Doolittle" in "Brown of Harvard," which is now playing at the Breed theatre. Mary Brian, Francis X. Bushman, Jr., Mary Alden, David Torrence, Edward Connelly, Guinn Williams and Ernest Gillen complete the cast. A. P. Younger adapted the story to the screen from the celebrated stage play by Rida Johnson Young. It is a Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer picture immortalizing campus life at Harvard. The play enjoyed long success on the stage and is one of the most popular stories dealing with college life ever written.

A woman can keep an expense account almost as long as a man can keep a diary.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Broadway Theater

When a shooting star suddenly bursts from its moorings and speeds across the heavens to die in a burst of flame, even the most prosaic person imaginable feels a thrill remaining after the phenomenon has passed.

It was with something of the same thrill that we came away from the initial showing of The Love Thief at the Broadway theater. The picture was a gorgeous trail of light across a neutral background.

It started like a shooting star and immediately went into action. It pursued its firm course growing more intense and suddenly, at the denouement, it flamed brightly, and faded out.

The Love Thief is a perfect story from the dramatic point of view. Norman Kerry and Greta Nissen act their roles superbly and with the delicate subtlety that court intrigues demand.

Some very spectacular shots, made, we understand, by the new Schuefftan process, are very effective and should be observed if for no other reason than to take a peep into the future of the motion picture.

Through the story runs a very moving love story that ends as it should.

John McDermott directed the picture and has done effective work. As the huge comedian, Charles Puffy contributes a large share of the laughs and proves himself a comedian par excellence.

The short subjects are a comedy of many laughs and Kinograms.

COLUMBIA

Mrs. Eugene Hutchinson who has been spending the winter in Winterhaven, Florida, has returned north and at present is at the home of Charles Friedrich.

At the June meeting of Columbia grange held Wednesday evening it was voted that the next meeting be observed as Children's night, and that the meeting be open to the members of grange families. The programme will be in charge of a special committee.

Columbia has the following pupils on the honor roll at the Windham high school for the 6th and last marking period. Seniors, Louis Zibulsky and Elizabeth Bertsch; juniors, Aemlia German; freshmen, Joseph Kresewitz.

The Misses Phoebe Agnes and Georgette Kemp of Brooklyn, arrived in Columbia Thursday afternoon and will spend the summer at the home of R. G. Proctor.

Miss Eliza Hutchins is spending a week in Springfield, Mass.

The graduation exercises of the town schools were held in the church Friday evening. The church was beautifully decorated with rose and silver, the class colors. The chorus, consisting of 30 of the higher grades, marched into the church, forming a double line, through which the graduates, 10 in number, marched to the platform. The program was as follows:

Invocation, Rev. D. V. Waln; Over the Summer Sea, chorus; Makers of the Flag, Anna Cohen; piano solo, Ahlene Badge; high noon, Harry Chowenec; Welcome Sweet Spring Time, chorus; The Dream Ship, Samuel Price; duet, Gussie Kaplan and Gussie Tennenbaum; Ivy Green, Bertha Strickland; presentation of class, Supervisor Larcomb; awarding of diplomas by Lucius Robinson, secretary of school board; medley of national airs, chorus.

The graduates were as follows: Center school, Adelia Badge, John Jackowitz, Samuel Price, Clayton Hunt Jr., and Sidney Lasky; Pine street, Helen Hennequin, Alice Hennequin and Anna Cohen; Old Hop River, Harry Chowenec; Hop River village, Bertha Strickland.

Actions may speak louder than words, but you can't make a woman believe it.

RULES CONCERNING DOGS IN THE TOWNS OF GRISWOLD AND PLAINFIELD

Whereas, a rabid dog has recently run at large in the towns of Griswold and Plainfield, thereby exposing persons, dogs and other domestic animals to the infectious disease known as Rabies, now

Therefore, the Commissioner on Domestic Animals, deeming it reasonable and necessary for the security of the inhabitants and their property and to prevent the spread of said disease, and to protect the public therefrom, in pursuance of the authority given under Chapter 269, Public Acts of 1925, hereby makes and promulgates the following rules and regulations for confining, controlling and destroying dogs and other domestic animals in the towns of Griswold and Plainfield:

1. All dogs or other animals in said towns known to have been bitten by a rabid dog or other animal shall forthwith be mercifully killed by the dog warden of the town unless the dog so bitten has received, prior to the time of the biting or inoculation by a rabid dog, a vaccination treatment known as the anti-rabies vaccination, which treatment must have been applied by a registered veterinarian who shall furnish the Commissioner on Domestic Animals and the dog warden of the town a certificate to that effect, giving date of application of treatment, the method used, and the name of the manufacturer of the biological product so used; or unless a dog which has been bitten by a rabid dog shall have received within three days from the time of biting or inoculation, the first injection of the treatment known as the anti-rabies treatment or Pasteur treatment for animals, such animal being held in quarantine while under this treatment and until released in writing by the Commissioner on Domestic Animals or his agent.

2. All dogs in said towns known to have been in contact with a rabid dog but not positively known to have been bitten by said rabid dog, and all dogs showing symptoms of rabies shall be quarantined in close confinement to the acceptance of the dog warden and the special deputy until released by the Commissioner on Domestic Animals or his special deputy.

3. All dogs in said towns shall be quarantined in close confinement or securely chained on the premises of the owner or keeper and no dog shall be shipped, taken or conveyed out of the towns of Griswold and Plainfield without written permission of the Commissioner on Domestic Animals. No dog shall be allowed to go at large from and after the date these rules shall go into effect until the same are rescinded, EXCEPT

(a) Dogs being led or held on leashes of not more than five feet in length in the hand of the owner, keeper or attendant, provided such owner, keeper or attendant is of responsible age.

(b) Hunting dogs while actually engaged in hunting game accompanied by a licensed hunter.

(c) Sheep and cattle dogs while actually engaged in driving or tending sheep or cattle and accompanied by and in control of the owner, keeper or herdsman.

(d) Dogs which have been vaccinated from ten days to one year prior to June 14, 1926, under proper certification.

4. The dog warden or any constable or police officer having jurisdiction in said towns shall humanely kill all stray dogs which they may find at large without collar and license tag attached. Said dog wardens shall capture and take into their custody any dog in said towns found with collar and license tag attached NOT confined and controlled agreeable to the foregoing, and shall impound and hold such dog 8 seventy-two hours and kill the same if unclaimed as is provided by law.

5. These rules shall take effect at 12 o'clock noon, Eastern Standard Time, the 27th day of June, 1926.

PENALTY

Section 52, Chapter 269, Public Acts of 1925: "Each person owning, keeping or harboring a dog who shall violate any provision of this act for which no other penalty is provided or any rule legally made and published, for restraining or destroying dogs, shall be fined not more than twenty-five dollars or imprisoned not more than thirty days or both."

Commissioner on Domestic Animals
JAMES M. WHITTLESEY.

Dated at Hartford, Connecticut, this 19th day of June, 1926.

SEALED PROPOSALS will be received by the State Highway Commissioner, 12 Washington Street, Hartford, Conn., until 2 p. m., EASTERN STANDARD TIME, on Monday, June 28th, 1926, for the following sections of State Work, in accordance with plans and specifications on file at the following places:

TOWNS OF COLUMBIA-WINDHAM: About 4415 linear feet of reinforced concrete pavement on the Hartford-Willimantic Road. NOTE: Portland cement reinforced concrete pipe and some cast iron joint filler will be furnished by the State. The core and joint filler will be installed on a force account basis. Plans and specifications at the office of John Smith, Division Engineer, Thayer Building, Norwich, Conn.

TOWN OF PRESTON: About 5400 linear feet of 7 inch native stone macadam on the Poquetanuck-Hallville Road. Plans and specifications at the office of John Smith, Division Engineer, Thayer Building, Norwich, Conn.

TOWNS OF WATERFORD AND MONTVILLE: About 12150 linear feet of 8 inch reinforced concrete pavement on the Norwich-New London Road NOTE: Portland cement and reinforced concrete pipe will be furnished by the State. Plans and specifications at the office of John Smith, Division Engineer, Thayer Building, Norwich, Conn.

All bids must be accompanied by a surety company bond or a certified check not less than one-third of the cost of the work. The State Highway Commissioner reserves the right to reject any and all bids.

Dated at Hartford, Connecticut, June 18, 1926.

JOHN A. MACDONALD,
State Highway Commissioner,
12 Washington St., Hartford, Conn.

MARKET WAS STRONG.

NEW YORK, June 21.—(By The A. P.)—The main tendency in today's stock market continued upward despite another outburst of selling, coincident with a further stiffening of call money rates. Net gains in most of the popular issues were relatively small, but they were spread over a fairly broad list. Trading showed a moderate falling off in volume, the day's sales aggregating 1,547,200 shares.

The average of 20 leading railroad shares touched 115.29, the highest price in several years. The average of 20 leading industrial issues moved up over a point to 140.87, a new high on the current recovery, but still 5.50 points below the year's high, established last February.

Week end business news was largely constructive in character. The May earnings report of the Kansas City Southern, the first to make its appearance, showed net of $300,557, an increase of $56,000 over the corresponding month last year.

Oil shares received increasing speculative attention due to stiffening commodity price tendencies and unusually high current earnings. Maryland was bid up over two points to 82 and then eased to 81 7-8, and California Petroleum, Maracaibo, Barnsdall A, Houston, Louisiana and Phillips all showed net gains of a point or more. Union Oil of California, which recorded a spirited advance last week, dropped from an early high of 55 1-2 to 51 1-2 on an official denial of merger rumors, and then rallied to 53, off 1 1-2 net. Such recent favorites as U. S. Steel common, General Motors, Baldwin, Mack Trucks, Packard Motors and Universal Pipe showed only fractional gains.

Bullish demonstrations were successfully conducted in a number of specialties. Pullman was bid up nearly 5 points to 180 7-8, the highest price in about 15 years. General Railway Signal advanced over 3 points to a new high at 86 7/8 on the announcement of a 35,000 order. Case Threshing soared nearly 10 points to a new high at 192 1-2 and Commercial Solvents A and B touched new tops at 168 and 170, respectively.

A jump of nearly 5 points in Delaware and Hudson and the establishment of a new 1926 high by Reading at 97 7-8 were the features of the railroad group. Good buying also was noted in Frisco common theory that it was selling out of line with other 6% dividend paying stocks.

Commodity markets were mixed. Active wheat futures dropped a cent or more a bushel, reflecting the pressure of new wheat on the market. Cotton showed net declines of 3 to 14 points with selling inspired by favorable weather reports. Raw sugar was unchanged, but the futures market was firm. Coffee rallied 23 to 32 points on buying by houses with European connections.

Call money renewed at 4 per cent, and then advanced to 4 1-2, closing at the top. Time money and commercial paper rates were unchanged.

Foreign exchanges displayed a strong undertone. French francs rallied over seven points to around 2.57 cents on the announcement that Britain had obtained a promise of collaboration from Poincare in his renewed attempt to place the finances of France on a sound basis. Most of the other European rates rallied in sympathy. Demand sterling was firm at around 4.85 cents.

CURB MARKET.

NEW YORK, June 21.—(By The A. P.)—Price movements again lacked uniformity in today's curb market. The main tendency appeared to be upward but trading was in light volume.

Oil shares failed to make much response to the bullish denominations in the petroleum issues on the "big board" but the undertone was relatively steady. Further accumulation of Tide Water-Associated around $25 a share was one of the features. While net gains as a rule were small, considerable encouragement was derived by operators on the long side from the optimistic statements on trade conditions by President Teagle of the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey. Utilities continued to respond to favorable earnings reports.

A brisk demand for Universal Pictures, which carried that issue up over 3 points to 33 3-4, was one of the features of the industrial group. Good buying also was noted in Courtaulds, Goodyear Tire, Glen Alden Coal and Tubize Art Silk. Motors were heavy. Ford of Canada dropping 15 points to 450 on a few odd lot sales, presumably in reflection of price cuts by the parent company, and Stutz yielded nearly two points. Heaviness also developed in Freshman Radio and Servel.

BOND MARKET.

NEW YORK, June 21.—(By The A. P.)—An unabated demand for bonds today carried the prices of listed issues moderately higher and resulted in the ready sale of more than $25,000,000 in new offerings. Slightly stiffer call money rates apparently had no effect on the day's trading and buying interest was well maintained in all divisions of the market.

Foreign obligations continued their move to higher ground, with good demonstrations of strength given by Mexican, German and South American issues. New high records for the year were established by several of Mexico's assente dbonds in response to the announcement that semi-annual interest payments on the debt would shortly be resumed. With the flotation of a German steel loan scheduled for this week Rheinelbe Union 7s advanced to a new peak above 104 and additional gains were registered by German General Electric 6 1-2s and Rhine Westphalia Electric 7s. Chilean and Uruguyan bonds were firm. Carrier stocks although brisk buying movement were evident in several issues. GREENEVILLE

Mr. and Mrs. Calvin Miner of 57 Eleventh street celebrated their 48th wedding anniversary on Thursday of last week. They have as their guest this week Mrs. Lamer Grodutzke of New Brunswick, N. J.

Mr. and Mrs. Calvin Miner attended the wedding of Rev. Edwin L. Thornton and Miss Mildred L. Arnold at Pawtucket, R. I., Saturday.

TAFTVILLE

De Rosier-Raymond

At 9 o'clock Monday morning at Sacred Heart church Rev. Henri P. Chagnon united in marriage Arthur H. De Rosier of Montville and Miss Rosanna Raymond of Norwich avenue. The best man was Paul De Rosier, brother of the groom and the maid of honor was Miss Anna May Raymond, sister of the bride.

The bride was beautifully gowned in white flat crepe trimmed with ribbon and lace. She carried a bouquet of carnations and lilies. The maid of honor wore a gown of green crepe with hat to match and carried pink carnations. Following the ceremony there was a reception and wedding breakfast at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Noel Raymond of 64 Norwich avenue.

Those seated at the table with the newly married couple included the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Noel Raymond, the groom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles De Rosier of Montville, Mr. and Mrs. Edward St. Amour, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Breault, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Chabotte, Mr. and Mrs. Leo Lemoine, Miss Leona Lemoine, Fred Masse, Jerry Raymond, Alfred Raymond, Miss Cecile Legare, Miss Rosalva Legare, Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Chabotte of Occum, Moses Chabotte of New York, Miss Ida Hamel of Voluntown, Paul De Rosier of Montville, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Gaudio of Baltic, Mrs. George Windsor and John Windsor of Central Village.

The bride was the recipient of many gifts including cut glass, linen, furniture and money. To her maid she presented an aquamarine ring, and to the best man the groom gave a green gold watch chain. During the afternoon the happy couple left for a brief honeymoon to Massachusetts in their automobile. The bride's traveling gown was brown crepe with hat to match.

Mr. De Rosier is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles De Rosier of Montville. His home is the dreamier of Mr. and Mrs. Noel Raymond of Norwich avenue. The young people have a host of friends who wish them prosperity and happiness in their new life.

Raymond-Bergeron

With a large number of relatives and friends attending, the marriage of Miss Leona Madeline Bergeron of Norwich avenue and Ernestus Joseph Raymond of Manchester avenue took place at Sacred Heart church at 8 o'clock Monday morning, the ceremony being performed and the nuptial high mass which followed being sung by Rev. Wilfrid Desmarais of Bristol. As the bridal couple entered the church, the wedding march was played by Miss Alice Frechette, the organist.

The bride wore a becoming gown of tan georgette over yellow crepe, with hat to match. Her bouquet was of sweet peas and Ophelia roses. After the service at the church there was a reception and wedding breakfast at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Emile Bergeron on Norwich avenue. Many beautiful and valuable gifts were received.

The bride is well and favorably known in Taftville, having graduated from the local schools and the Norwich Commercial school. She has been employed in the office of the J. B. Martin Co., Ltd. The groom is a graduate of the Sacred Heart school and has also been employed by the J. B. Martin Co. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Narcisse Raymond.

After a wedding trip by automobile over the Storm King highway, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond will be at home to their many friends in their newly furnished home in Lisbon. The bride's travelling costume was a tan ensemble suit.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilkinson and family of Providence, spent the week end with Mr. and Mrs. Edmund Hindle and family of North Third avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Hetherington of Cranston, R. I., and Mr. and Mrs. John K. Nichols of Providence, entertained 35 guests at a picnic and barbecue at Deans' Mills, Sunday, in honor of Mr. and Mrs. William H. Whitehead of Boswell avenue, who were recently married. People were present from Crompton, Cranston, Westerly and Providence. Among those attending from this village were Mrs. Jane E. Rennard and Herbert Rennard of Norwich avenue and Peter Lukoff of Boswell avenue.

Herbert P. Hoyle of South B street spent the week end in Boston, the guest of his son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Hoyle.

Miss Helen C. Aberg of Willimantic has been spending a few days at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Axel L. Aberg of North Third avenue.

Mrs. Robert Gelino of Jewett City has been a recent visitor at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Thoma and family of Lisbon.

Rev. Edwin Gordon Crowdis, pastor of the Taftville Congregational church, and the junior choir from the church school had charge of the religious service at the Sheltering Arms, Norwich Town, Sunday afternoon.

Ensign Paul Grover of Annapolis, Md., and Elliott Grover of Boston, are at their home on North Third avenue.

A Workers' conference to which other members of the Taftville Congregational church, school were invited, was held Sunday noon at the church with Superintendent Victor H Davis presiding. It was voted to hold the annual church school picnic on the 17th of July. Two special cars will be chartered for the occasion, the arrangements being made by Allan Bogle. Mr. Davis will have charge of the printing of the picnic tickets.

BRIGGS MILLS AT VOLUNTOWN GOING INTO VOLUNTARY LIQUIDATION

(Special to the Bulletin)

JEWETT CITY, June 21—A meeting of the directors of the Briggs Manufacturing Co., of Voluntown was held today and it was decided to go into voluntary liquidation. The directors are to act as trustees until the business is closed, and the present officers to retain their positions until then. The officers are George T. Briggs, president, assistant treasurer and general manager; John N. Lewis, vice president; and treasurer; Mrs. Emily Chatfield secretary. The directors are George T. Briggs, Mrs. Emily Chatfield, Mrs. Lucy E. Peabody and John N. Lewis. Edward E. Clarke is superintendent and George R. Edmond clerk in the office. In the four mills when they were all in operation there were 250 operatives. For some time two mills have been closed and the others working only four days, the payroll being about $1800. Two of the mills are in Voluntown and two in Griswold, the taxation being on $200,000 valuation.

The closing of the industry is a great blow to Voluntown and Jewett City will be affected in many ways, especially in the banking business which was all done here.

The Briggs mills in Voluntown were purchased in 1856, by the late Ira G. Briggs, from the insolvent estate of James S. Trask, formerly belonging to the Industrial Manufacturing Co., at Voluntown.

Five years before the civil war the first evidences of the hand and brain of the Briggs interest began the manufacture of cotton cloth in Voluntown as the Beachdale Manufacturing Co. A few years ago Jonathan R. Wells and Thomas R. Wells became interested, followed by John L. Ross. Within three years these partnerships were dissolved. Other subsequent purchases by Mr. Briggs were the beginning of the firm of Briggs and Spencer. The latter firm in 1861 leased the property to Hiram Jencks, who for four years manufactured the famous Voluntown twine. At the close of the war, in 1865, Ira G. Briggs took in his younger brother Ezra, soon John L. Ross was again interested and the firm name changed to Ross, Briggs & Co.

In September of 1870 the firm of Ira G. Briggs & Co., came into being, and then began some of the extensive water power privilege purchases that were the direct result of the brain and foresight of the Briggs interests. Included in these new acquirements were the Gates mill owned by Alice Branch and the John H. Doane interests on the same stream.

Since it came into the hands of the last proprietors it has been used for the manufacture of yarns and warps. After Mr. Briggs acquired in 1860, the controlling interest in the Beachdale mills he expended large amounts out of the profits in increasing the capacity and facilities of the mills by erecting new buildings, introducing improved machinery and providing a large, and more continuous supply of water power. He purchased the rights of persons controlling the outlet and flowage of Beach pond, a principal means of supply of water power to the mills in Voluntown and below on the Pachaug river, erected a new dam at the outlet of the pond, and raised the highway for half a mile. These works enlarged this natural reservoir to some 1500 acres and increased the depth of the water by ten feet, thus enabling them to run their mills throughout the year, instead of nine months. The work was done under the supervision of Ira Briggs and mainly at the expense of the firm. In 1902 George T. Briggs became president and general manager and the stone mill was purchased during his administration, making four mills in operation. A power plant has furnished electricity for a grist mill and saw mill and there were dynamos and steam engines in the mills, during these later years.

SOUTH COVENTRY SAW CAMP FIRE CEREMONIAL

Under the auspices of the newly organized Unalkyi Camp Fire of South Coventry, The Storrs Camp Fire Girls, "Tawasi-Unalkyi Camp," gave a public ceremonial in regulation Indian costumes trimmed with brown leather and colored honor beads, preceded by special Camp Fire pictures from New York national headquarters. The program was given in the vestry of the South Coventry Congregational church and was decidedly novel in its nature as organized camp fire ritual work and official motion songs have never been seen before in the vicinity. The South Coventry camp has recently been organized by Mrs. Hugh Christie, guardian and Miss Mabel Walbridge, assistant guardian. It is entirely non-sectarian in its nature and its membership of 15 girls meet regularly at the library for instruction in hand craft, nature lore, citizenship, home craft, camp lore, business, and health.

Included in the programme were an illustrated lecture by Rev. Charles G. Johnson, on international camp fire work and progress, a solo, Thank God For a Garden, by Marjorie Beebe, a solo, May Magic, by Lavonne Brown, and the awards of honors, seven crafts and health honor to Dorothy Tenney.

The ceremonial in costume was carried out by the Storrs girls under the direction of Miss Ethel V. Woodward, guardian; Miss M. Gwendolyn Athoe, assistant guardian.

FIELD MEETING FOR BEEKEEPERS OF STATE

Beekeepers of the state are to hold their field day next Saturday at the home of L. L. Reddick, Newington, who has a 150 acre farm. The gathering is set for 10 a. m., standard time, when the morning will be devoted to looking over the orchards, bees and other things of interest after an address of welcome from the host.

For those to bring a basket lunch with hot dogs, a place will be provided to roast the dogs. The "drinks" will be provided by the host.

The afternoon programme will be as follows:

1 p. m.—Address by Rev. Lloyd Reich of Newington Congregational church, on "Beekeeping as a Diversion." J. E. Crane, "Honey Production as a Livelihood," by New England's oldest and largest beekeeper. This will be followed by a discussion opened by Allen Latham of Norwich. Question box. Contest: Lighting Smoker for both men and ladies. Demonstration of opening a hive to avoi dstinging: H. W. Coley. Kinks of finding a Queen: H. W. Coley.

Cooper-Kinne Engagement

75th DIVISION TRAINING CAMP HELD AT STORRS

(Special to the Bulletin)

STORRS, June 21.—Twenty-four commissioned officers and four enlisted reserves are in attendance at the 75th Division training camp at Connecticut Agricultural college, which got under way last Monday and will continue until June 26. Intensive drill is being given daily in marksmanship, infantry weapons, and tactical problems under an instructional staff composed of Lieut. Col. Jean Randolph, of New Haven, commanding officer; Capt. George R. Barker of Hartford, instructor; and Staff Sergt. Frank A. Smonsky of Hartford, assistant instructor; all of the 76th Division.

The plan of instruction gives opportunity for both conference and practical work. This includes pistol and rifle marksmanship; map reading; close order drill; demonstrations of the automatic rifle, machine gun, trench mortar, and the 37 millimeter gun; and tactical problems.

Sergt. Roger Berger of Hartford, with a score of 238 out of a possible 250, is the only man in camp to qualify as an expert rifleman. He made a perfect score from a prone position, and a 49 out of a possible 50 from a rapid-fire sitting position.

Major Alfred P. Biles, Jr., and Capt James W. Buchanan, both of New Haven, are present at the camp as assistant instructors.

First lieutenants present include John W. Early of Hartford; James J. Dunn of Bridgeport; John B. Lightfoot of Derby; Roy H. McCormack of Norwalk; Philip H. Sherwood of Norwalk; Hardy L. Shirley of New Haven; William W. Vars of New Haven; Coville B. Smith of Providence, R. I.

Second lieutenants present include Gerald D. Allard of Putnam; Charles T. Baker of No. Grosvenordale; Wilson S. Beardsley of Bridgeport; Leland E. Evans of Hartford; Arnold H. Griffin of Winsted; William H. Griffin of Winsted; Lyman H. Hitchcock of Wollaston, Mass.; John R. Jacoby of Whitneyville; Thomas P. Kelley of Waterbury; John R. Kuhl of Mansfield; Edwin W. Nelson of Hartford; Lewis A. Ondis of Norwalk; Reginald T. Putnam of Bloomfield; Ernest E. Speers of Hartford.

MISS DOROTHY PHILLIPS GRADUATES AT SMITH

Miss Dorothy Louise Phillips, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Phillips of 186 Cedar street, this city, was among the 19 Connecticut girls who received A. B. degrees from Smith college Monday morning. Miss Phillips prepared for college at Norwich Free Academy. She majored in history and expects to teach that subject after graduation.

Four hundred and sixty four students received their A. B. degrees and 19 students were awarded their M. A. degrees. Honorary degrees were awarded to Dame Rachel E. Crowdy of the Secretariat of the League of Nations, Mrs. Minnie Maddern Fiske, the actress, and Professor Emeritus Henry M. Tyler of Smith college.

The commencement activities began Wednesday evening with the last senior step sing when the seniors, according to tradition, relinquished the students' building steps to the juniors. Large audiences attended the senior dramatics on Thursday and Friday evening when an excellent cast presented Shakespeare's "The Taming of the Shrew."

Ivy day, rich in Smith traditions, began at 9 o'clock on Saturday morning with the alumnae parade and ivy chain procession, and ended at midnight after the last Japanese lantern had been extinguished and the last senior serenade sung. Sunday morning, President William Allan Neilson delivered the baccalaureate sermon in John M. Greene hall at a service to which only members of the graduating class were admitted.

Noank Graduate at Northeastern

Among the graduating class at Northeastern university in Boston this year were four students from Connecticut, all of them in the School of Engineering. Charles Philip DeBiasi of Noank and Oscar Reinhold Lindgren of Ansonia received the bachelor's degree in civil engineering; Frank Louis Lanzi of East Hampton and Adrian M. Matthews of Bristol received the bachelor's degree in mechanical engineering.

Over 340 students were graduated Monday.

For Burial in Bridgeport

The body of Michael Dopke, 18, who died in this city Monday morning, was prepared for burial by Undertakers Cummings and Ring and sent to his home in Bridgeport on the 11:35 a. m. train Monday. Burial will take place in Bridgeport.

ROAD TO POQUETANUCK IS TO BE IMPROVED

A little over a mile of native stone macadam on the Poquetanuck-Hallville road and a little less than three miles of concrete on the Norwich-New London highway are two pieces of new road construction on which proposals for sealed bids have been submitted to contractors, according to an announcement by the state highway department.

The construction of two new bridges and about 13 miles of new road surfacing is projected in the 11 separate improvements on which bids will be received up to 2 p. m. next Monday.

The new bridges will be located in New Hartford and Canton. The highway re-surfacing projects are in several counties.

Following is a list of the sections on which contractors have been asked to submit bids:

1. Manchester—About 8,232 linear feet of 9-inch concrete pavement and three-inch asphalt, or 2 1-2 inch amiesite over 7-inch reinforced concrete base, on West Center street.

2. Westport and Wilton—About 19,277 linear feet of 3 1-3 inch bituminous macadam over 7-inch broken stone base on the Westport-Wilton road.

3. Columbia and Windham—About 4,415 linear feet of reinforced concrete pavement on the Hartford-Willimantic road.

4. Preston—About 5,400 linear feet of 7 inch native stone macadam on the Poquetanuck-Hallville road.

5. Waterford and Montville—About 13,150 feet of 8 inch reinforced concrete pavement on the Norwich-New London highway.

6. Westport and Fairfield—About 10,248 linear feet of grading and drainage and 4,134 linear feet of 6 inch asphalt over 8 inch concrete base on the Boston Post road.

7. Farmington—About 1,578 linear feet of grading and about 1,000 linear feet of 7 inch waterbound macadam in connection with the elimination of grade crossing on the Scott Swamp road.

8. Farmington—About 13,245 linear feet of 7 inch trap rock macadam on the Scott Swamp road, exclusive of work done on crossing elimination.

9. Naugatuck—About 3,568 linear feet of six-inch gravel surface on Rubber avenue.

10. New Hartford—A twin 14-foot span concrete slab bridge over Cotter Brook.

11. Canton—A concrete girder bridge of two 38 foot spans over Cherry Brook.

GAVE CONVENTION REPORT TO L. B. ALMY AUXILIARY

When Major L. B Almy auxiliary, No. 15, U. S. W. V., held its regular meeting last week in Buckingham Memorial with the president, Pauline Budzeck in the chair, regular routine business was transacted, after which Francis Fletcher gave a very fine report of the 17th annual convention held in Hartford the 11th and 12th. Other reports were read and accepted. Muriel S. Green, department senior vice, who was in waiting, was escorted in by the colors and given the triumphful arch to the platform where she was introduced by the president. Mrs. Green is also secretary of L. B. Almy auxiliary.

Under the good of the order the president read a very interesting piece about the "Making of the Flag." All members are expected to be present at the next meeting, when business of importance is to be transacted. The meeting closed in the usual form with the salute to the flag and stacking of colors.

PICTURE ON MOSES SHOWN AT Y. M. C. A.

The parlors of the local Y. M. C. A. were filled Sunday at the 4 o'clock service. The singing of hymns, scripture reading and prayer constituted the opening exercises. Hugh Kinder rendered effectively two vocal solos. The first part of the Bible story of Moses was shown in moving pictures, and it proved most interesting and instructive. The photography was first class and the story was very true to the Bible narrative.

Between the reels Secretary Hill gave a brief talk and spoke in part as follows: "There are no characters more interesting to study than the great Bible characters; such characters as Abraham and Moses. The picture today shows how wonderfully God protected the life of Moses for the great purpose he has. God doubtless has a purpose for every life, but we so often fail to swing into line with this purpose. Moses beautifully fell in with the plan of God for him, and the record of his life is grand and glorious. As soon as he realized God's plan for him, he set to following it, even though it cost him much sacrifice. The statement of Moses in scripture, that "he would rather suffer affliction with the people of God than to enjoy the pleasures of sin for a season" indicates the determination he had to be true to God and to his people. The reason our lives are so empty in many cases is that we fail to follow God's plan for us, and we fail to follow it because it costs something to do so. We get little more than we pay for in any line, and it is certainly true in the living of a godly life. We hear men say sometimes that religion is all right for women and children, but a strong man has no need of religion. How false this is. It is a real job to live a true noble life, and to follow the leadership of Christ; if you don't believe it try it for a week and see. Let us more and more follow the example of Moses and follow God's leadership no matter what it costs us." Emmett J. Fritz operated the moving picture machine.

A generous man doesn't give his friends away.

RAILROAD MAN TO TALK ON "DEBTS AND TAXES"

Robert S. Binkerd, vice chairman of the committee on public relations of the eastern railroads, will deliver an address on "Debts and Taxes" on Tuesday afternoon, June 22, in connection with the 27th annual convention of the Connecticut chamber of commerce to be held at the Hotel Griswold, Eastern Point.

Mr. Binkerd will make a strong plea for a return to more economical standards of public expenditure in the interests of the public and of all taxpayers. His talk will deal especially with taxes of state and local governments. He will bring out several outstanding aspects of the general subject of taxation.

Mayor William C. Fox of New London will deliver a brief address of welcome to the assembled directors, members, delegates and alternates at the state chamber convention on Tuesday afternoon.

R. W. Perkins, president of the Eastern Connecticut Power company of Norwich, will outline the work of the recently-established "Thames Valley Citizens Committee" whose general purpose is to bring about certain development work in the Thames river valley, of which Mr. Perkins is chairman. His subject will be "Points of Industrial and Social Interest in the Thames Valley."

The Price of Lumber and Coal Satisfaction!

THE real cost of lumber and coal is recorded in time—not in price tickets. In coal the cost is regulated by the number of heat units you get. In timber the cost is regulated by the wear. Quite often there is just a few dollars difference between the very best and the poorest grade, but many dollars difference in the price of lumber and coal satisfaction.

It is not strange then that Chappell lumber and coal is bought again and again by hundreds who have learned from experience how to gauge lumber and coal correctly.

When this business was started, nearly a century ago, the founder was persuaded and enticed, as are the owners today, to stock grades of coal and lumber which are "just as good," or "nearly as good as the best." But this company knows that the "nearly as good" never really satisfied anyone who wants the best.

Since nearly all the lumber and coal apparently look alike to the inexperienced eye, only time will tell the difference between the many different grades, as so many Chappell customers know.

There never has been and there never will be a doubt in the mind of anyone regarding the high quality of Chappell lumber and coal.

TWO WEEKS BEFORE NEXT ATTEMPT TO RAISE S-51

Chains Snapped Yesterday When the Nose of the Sunken Sub Arose to the Surface, While No Attempt Was Being Made to Raise Her—When the Chains Broke the S-51 Slipped Back to Her Old Bed Under 130 Feet of Water.

U. S. S. NAVAL, (off Block Island), June 22—(AP)—After nine months resting at the bottom of the ocean, the sunken submarine S-51 this morning suddenly rose, poked her nose out of the water, drew it back again, and today was in her old bed under 130 feet of water. It probably will be two weeks before an attempt to raise her is made, officers directed the salvage said.

The submarine rammed and sunk by the Savannah line steamer City of Rome last September, came to the surface an unwanted visitor. No attempt was being made at the time to raise her. That had been postponed because the weather was too rough for her to be towed safely. At her side on the ocean floor rested eight pontoons 65 feet long and 15 feet in diameter. Two of these were being blown full of compressed air to keep them in readiness for an attempt to raise the submarine which was to be made when the seas quieted.

Suddenly a pair of pontoons bobbed out of the water. There was a gasp of surprise from the officers and sailors on the eight ships of the salvage fleet. Then another pair of pontoons appeared. The prow of the S-51 followed, clear of barnacles and her red paint showing where the gray had been worn off by the action of the sand in the water.

The salvage ship Falcon moored over the S-51 narrowly escaped being struck by the submarine as it rose. The Falcon had been shifted 30 feet a few minutes earlier as a precaution.

"I believe the rought weather broke the sand suction that had been holding the S-51 to the bottom," Lieutenant Leland Ellsberg in charge of the salvage ships said. "The buoyancy of the vessel was too much and the suction was broken. The S-51 had heeled over several days ago. The stern pontoons were only partially filled with compressed air. The forward pontoons were nearly filled. This caused the S-51 to rise bow first. We had expected her to come up stern first.

"It is obvious that there was too much buoyancy, but we do not know exactly what caused her to come up. We do know that if the chains of the stern pontoon had not snapped we would have been able to get her on even keel in position for towing."

The sailors, however, had another cause in mind. Every one of them had sworn not to shave until the S-51 was raised. This morning one seaman had shaved. In the confusion the sailors sought him out and began shouting: "Jonah, Jonah, you've Jonahed the works."

The S-51, 240 feet long, was suspended at an angle of 30 degrees, her stern resting on the ocean floor. The Vestal, repair ship, and the Sagamore, a tug, circled around spreading hundreds of gallons of oil on the waves.

In the rough seas, Engineman William Badders leaped from a motor boat that could not quite touch one of the forward pontoons and straddling the bounding pontoon, succeeded in opening its flood valves. In doing this he was washed into the sea, but was thrown back upon the pontoon and completed his task.

Lieut. Edward Ellsberg and Capt. E J. King, officers in charge had to order back to their ships several other men who became exhausted by similar feats.

The four forward pontoons finally were flooded and the S-51 slowly sank to her bed on the ocean floor.

Lieut. Ellsberg said the pontoons that broke away would be taken to Point Judith for examination of the chains to ascertain the cause of their breaking, while under a strain five times less than they are supposed to stand.

"If the sea had been calm," Lieut. Ellsberg said, "the S-51, in spite of her unexpected raising, would be on her way to Brooklyn navy yard. I think defective links of the stern pontoon chains are to blame for the failure to keep up the S-51. If they had not broken, we could have blown up the after compartments of the S-51 and kept her on an even keel which would have made towing feasible.

"We are not discouraged to the point where we wish to quit. We are satisfied now that the S-51 can be raised by our method. We shall continue and will attempt to raise her as soon as possible. We were temporarily defeated by weather."

WARNING ISSUED BY SENTINELS OF REPUBLIC

NEW YORK, June 22.— (AP) —The combined efforts of radicals and reformers are placing the federal constitution in jeopardy and threatening to destroy the best government system that the world has ever known," according to a "call to arms" issued today by Sentinels of the Republic, a patriotic organization of 5,000 members.

The organization plans a series of patriotic congresses throughout the United States under the direction of Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, president of Columbia, the first of which was held in Boston last week, for the purpose of "defending the fundamental principles of the constitution."

Bentley W. Warren, president of the Sentinels, asserted in the announcement that reformers, as well as socialists and communists, seek a centralized form of government that their aims may be more quickly accomplished than through dealing with 48 different states.

"The federal constitution," said Mr. Warren, "is threatened by two elements of society differing widely in their aims but in agreement in their desire for a strongly centralized government as the readiest means to accomplish those aims. One element is composed of socialists and communists, openly hostile to the dual government system of this country and its strong emphasis on the preservation of local self government. The other element, composed of those desiring social reforms, oftentimes in themselves worthy, chafes at the delay in dealing with 48 states. In their zeal for the reform itself, they disregard the destructive consequences of their methods upon our institutions. The communistic element wish to destroy our principles of government; the social reforming element overlook in their haste for immediate results the importance of preserving those principles. Unless opposed, the two elements will destroy the best government system that the world has ever known."

CHANGES MADE IN HOUSE RIVERS AND HARBORS BILL

WASHINGTON, June 22.—(AP)— A rocky road appeared today to be in the making for the house rivers and harbors bill, which drew nearer the senate floor with approval by the committee's committee of the Missouri river improvement and Cape Cod canal purchase provisions with modifications.

Chairman Jones expressed hope the committee would be able within two or three days to get the measure to the senate where it faces opposition to purchase of the canal, some dissatisfaction on the part of Missouri river interests because of the modification made today, and bitter opposition from some senators from states along the great lakes to the Illinois river improvement project, approved yesterday.

Senator Howell, republican, Nebraska announcing that he would carry to the floor his fight against purchase of the canal for $11,500,00, said that the committee modification stipulating the United States should not be liable for interest on bonds of the operating company until the government has actual title to the property, did not remove his objection.

P. N. WESTCOTT COMMITTED SUICIDE BY SHOOTING

SAN FRANCISCO, June 22.—(AP)— P. N. Westcott 47, wealthy mason patron, expert skeet shooter and retired capitalist, committed suicide in his room in a club here today by shooting himself with a revolver. He was a graduate of Williams college, Williamstown, Mass., and was the son of the late Edward Noyes Westcott, New York banker and author of the novel "David Harum." He was unmarried.

Westcott, friends said, had complained several days of being ill.

CONN. GRADUATES OF THE YALE SCHOOL OF MEDICINE

NEW HAVEN, June 22.—(AP)— The degree of doctor of medicine cum laude will be conferred upon six members of the graduating class of the Yale School of Medicine at commencement exercises tomorrow. Forty nine students of the school will receive degrees.

The Connecticut students who will receive degrees tomorrow are: Hermann B. Arnold, New Haven; Timothy F. Brewer, Jr., of Norwich; Abe S. Brown, of Waterbury; Moses Cooperstock, of New Haven; Thomas Cottiero of New Haven; Bernard F. Dorgan, New Haven; John B. Griggs, Hartford; Leonard A. Hallock, Cromwell; Elizabeth R. Harrison, New Haven; Joseph L. Hetzel, Southport; Morris Hinenburg, New Haven; Kerchival R. Holt, Hartford; Maurice A. Kugel, New Haven; Frederick E. Kunkel, Hartford; Edward J. McCabe, New Haven; Samuel T. Markoff, New Haven; Joseph T. Matteis, New Haven; Charles W. O'Neill, Derby; David Roginsky, New Haven; Robert A. Scarborough, New Haven; Richard M. Starr, New London; William A. Sunderland, Danbury; Reuben Thalbert, New Haven; Edward J. Thalheimer, New Haven.

225TH COMMENCEMENT EXERCISES OPENED AT YALE

NEW HAVEN, June 22.—(AP)—Yale university in this, its 225th commencement season, today did something which it never did before, breaking a custom as old as the college itself, and that was to confer degrees in course upon its academic and scientific school seniors apart from graduates of departments. The latter with candidates for honorary degrees will be presented tomorrow.

This change was forced upon the university because of the inadequacy of Woolsey hall to hold the gathering which each year sought to obtain entrance to the signified ceremony, over which President James Rowland Angell presides, apart from the many hundreds of old graduates back for class reunions.

Today 614 seniors were given their diplomae, of which 252 became bachelors of arts, 140 bachelors of philosophy, and 222 bachelors of science. In addition 28 degrees were given to those who had taken courses to fit them for commissions in the officers' reserve corps.

SUICIDE OF PARISIAN ACTRESS AND DANCER

LONDON, June 22—(AP)—The tragic death of Mlle. Regine Flory, Parisian actress and dancer, who committed suicide in the office of Sir Alfred Buss, director of the Drury Lane theatre, Thursday night last, moved the coroner of Westminster, Ingleby Oddie, to unburden himself of certain reflections on morality, when the inquiry ended today.

"It is the penalty of people like Mlle. Regine Flory, who go to bed at six o'clock in the morning and still cannot sleep; who take drugs to keep themselves going; whose life is one thrill of extirement, who suffer from tedium vitae, depression and suicidal tendencies."

Thus the coroner summed up the private life of Mlle. Flory at the inquest, at which the verdict was that she had inflicted a mortal wound on herself while of unsound mind.

ARRESTS FOR DYNAMITING CHURCH IN BARRIE, ONT.

BARRIE, Ont., June 23.—(AP)—Clare Lee and William Butler, factory employes, were arrested today on charges of implication in the dynamiting of St. Mary's Roman Catholic church here on June 10. William Skelly, who told police he was set aside by the Ku Klux Klan to do the work was arrested yesterday.

Lee and Butler were remanded until June 28.

CABLED PARAGAPHS

ARICA, Chile, June 22—(AP)—The Tacna-Arica plebiscitary commission held a final session and adjourned indefinitely. This in effect dissolves the commission.

TOKYO, June 22—(AP)—Haruichi Nagaoka, chief of the Japanese foreign office treaty bureau and former minister to Holland, was named officially as the Japanese ambassador to Germany.

ATHENS, June 22—(AP)—The Greek royal family, now in Italy, is understood to have refused an offer by the Hellenic government that the funeral of Dowager Queen Olga be conducted at public expense.

DAMASCUS, June 22—(AP)—Damascus, ancient Moslem capitol of Syria and Holy City of the Near East, has become a fortress echoing daily to the French bombardment of Dissident tribesmen who have held the outlying gardens for the past six months. Besieged from without by dissident Druses the city is also barricaded and guarded within, to maintain order among the inhabitants themselves.

LONDON, June 22—(AP)—Arthur Elmore, a young sailor who was found trying to get out of the gardens of Buckingham palace, cannot understand why the king's town residence is not better guarded. Elmore was arrested early Saturday. His explanation was that he had wandered into the grounds through the servants' quarters in the rear of the palace and that, when he saw a bench under a shady tree, he decided to take a nap.

GOV. PINCHOT DIRECTED USE OF SOME W. C. T. U. FUNDS

WASHINGTON, June 22—(AP)—Prohibition enforcement in Pennsylvania with a special fund raised by the Women's Christian Temperance union and the efforts of Secretary Mellon and other members of his family to have a controlling hand in republican politics in that state divided the attention today of the senate campaign funds committee.

From Mrs. Ella M. George, state president of the temperance organization, the investigators learned that approximately $300,000 had been raised to enforce the state's new dry law and that Governor Pinchot had set up a special machinery with two deputy attorney generals paid out of the fund.

This testimony aroused members of the committee, some of whom thought up the legal right of a private organization to thus contribute funds to a commonwealth. Finally, Senator Reed, democrat, Missouri, the chairman, called to the stand Representative Graham, of Pennsylvania, who declared he had never known of a governor of his state accepting funds for law enforcement from such an organization until Governor Pinchot had done so.

More light on the activities of Secretary Mellon and his nephew, W. L. Mellon, president of the Gulf Oil company, in the pre-primary maneuvering was shed by W Harry Baker, now secretary and formerly chairman of the Pennsylvania republican state central committee, and State Senator Max G Leslie, of Pittsburgh.

QUARREL RESULTED IN DEATH OF MAN AND WIFE

GLEN HEAD N. Y., June 22—(AP)—The bodies of Sydney E. Brewster, New York real estate man, and his wife were found tonight in Mrs. Brewster's bedroom, each with a fatal bullet wound in the breast. Between them lay a pistol with two empty shells.

The three servants had heard the young couple quarrelling earlier in the evening, and when they heard two shots, ran to the bedroom to find both dead. No immediate cause for the quarrel could be learned, but the Brewsters were said to have frequently quarrelled.

Who fired the two shots could not be determined at first, but the Nassau county police believed Brewster did the shooting, as he was wounded in the left breast, and his wife in the right.

Brewster, who was 29, was the son of the late Samuel Dwight Brewster, and grandson of the founder of the Brewster Carriage company which later changed to the manufacture of automobile bodies. Mrs. Brewster, 26, was the former Miss Frances Tracy Lyon of New York.

The couple, prominent in North Shore society, were dressing to go to a dinner at the home of Brewster's mother at Glen Cove, Long Island, when the shooting occurred.

WILL BE CLOSE VOTE ON THE M'NARY FARM BILL

WASHINGTON, June 22—(AP)—On the verge of a vote on the McNary farm bill the senate adjourned late today with the measure swaying in the balance, each side admitting that one or two votes might decide the issues.

Managers of the proposal believed they had made inroads into the ranks of the opposition during the day by loading it down with amendments in an effort to appease opponents. They said the bill would be passed by a one vote margin while the opposition spokesmen predicted it would be defeated by two votes.

For a time it appeared that the measure would be forced to a final vote but those in charge of it abandoned the attempt when southern senators threatened to bolt the bill if an amendment offered by Senator McNary, republican, Oregon, sponsor of the proposal was adopted. It provided that not more than $75,000,000 out of the revolving funds should be used in marketing cotton.

RED STAR LINE BUTCHER IS HELD FOR SMUGGLING

NEW YORK, June 22 (AP)—Customs officials today arrested Jack Huber, second butcher of the Red Star liner, Belgenland, after finding several small packages of diamonds, valued at $50,000 on his person. Huber was held in $25,000 bail by Federal Commissioner Cutter, on a charge of smuggling.

OBITUARY

JohnF. Elston

BOSTON, June 22—(AP)—John F. Elston, whose skill as a building wrecker is credited with the saving of many lives, died today. Elston's most sensational job was the razing of the ruins of the Pickwick club disaster in which 44 persons lost their lives last July 4. With his brother Thomas, he brought from the wreckage alive many of 150 or more merrymakers who were carried down when the five story brick building collapsed.

Both men worked night and day in charge of the delicate task of clearing away the great pile of wreckage in which were pinned the victims. It was one of the most dangerous jobs they had ever undertaken but the ruins were removed without further collapse and without further injury to those trapped within, or to the workers.

170,000 Women at Pontifical Mass

At the Third Day's Ceremonies of the Encharistic Congress in Chicago.

CHICAGO, June 22.—(AP)—Two huge services in Chicago's front yard brought together today in the third day's ceremonies of the eucharistic congress more worshippers by far than ever before assembled in one day within a single enclosure.

In the morning, more than 170,000 women were in soldier's field for solemn pontificial mass celebrated by the Most Reverend Joseph Pallica, archbishop and vice gerent of Rome, and at night the stands were filled for a second time — with men only — for candle-light benediction services.

At each service, tens of thousands unable to gain admission to the half-mile field were thronged in the lake front park to hear the ceremonies over loud speakers and to witness the mile-long ecclesiastical procession to and from the great outdoor sanctuary.

Never before in history have so many women gathered in one spot as crowded the stadium area for the morning mass.

Archbishop Hanna of San Francisco, in his sermon, described the assemblage as the greatest honor to womanhood in history. Thousands of pious women were in their places at 6 o'clock this morning, and the last of the multitude did not pass out of the field until after 2 o'clock in the afternoon. A women's choir of 15,000, including 3,000 nuns, sang the propers of the mass.

Besides the sermon of Archbishop Hanna, the women heard addresses by Cardinals Pifel, of Austria, and Charost, of France, in German and French, respectively; and by Justice Pierce Butler of the supreme court of the United States.

Cardinal O'Connell, of Boston, as presiding prelate of the session, prepared an address which, though not delivered at the field was released for publication.

The men's meeting tonight, under the direction of the society of the Holy Name, was addressed by Cardinal O'Donnell, of Ireland. Cardinal Mundelein was the pontificating prelate.

Three messages from the vatican were read at the congress gatherings today. Two reached the morning services and a third was presented by Cardinal Mundelein at the afternoon meeting of the English speaking session. In each Pope Pius XI, through Cardinal Rasparri, the papal secretary of state, expressed joyous gratification at the success of the congress.

MAGNUS JOHNSON WINS GUBERNATORIAL NOMINATION

ST. PAUL, Minn., June 22—(AP)—Once more Magnus Johnson is an outstanding factor in Minnesota politics, for the former United States senator staged a come-back in Monday's primary that gave him the farmer labor gubernatorial nomination.

Johnson will oppose Governor Theodore Christianson, republican, and Judge Alfred Jaques, Duluth, democrat, in the fall election. Johnson sought the republican gubernatorial nomination several years ago, before his senatorial aspirations bore fruit, but he was defeated.

While Governor Christianson's renomination majority over Mayor George E. Leach of Minneapolis mounted today to a two to one advantage, Johnson's gradual gains carried him into a lead considered safe unless errors in tabulations should develop.

In 2,080 of the state's 3,559 precincts Johnson polled 63,598 votes as against 55,997 garnered by his opponent, Tom Davis of Minneapolis. Christianson had 238,590 votes in 2,730 precincts to Leach's 107,872. Judge Jaques was unopposed for the democratic nomination.

TWO CHILDREN KILLED BY A BOLT OF LIGHTNING

JERSEY CITY, N. J., June 22—(AP)—Two children were killed and seven persons injured today when a bolt of lightning struck a summer house in West Side park, where the children were waiting for the storm to pass while on their way to Crystal lake for an outing of St. Bridget's school.

The dead: Howard Van Haren, 16, and Helen Johnson, 8, both of this city.

The party had gone with several nuns into the summer house with Fallon, a park caretaker, to wait for buses to take them to the outing grounds. Fallon, it is said, had in his hand a rake or axe which is believed to have attracted the lightning.

Police reserves, five ambulances and nearby physicians rushed to the aid of the party but Young Van Haren died just after a priest had administered the last rites. The Johnson girl died as she was being carried into a hospital. All the other victims will recover.

MAINE REPUBLICANS RENOMINATE BREWSTER

PORTLAND, Me., June 22—(AP)—Governor Ralph O Brewster of this city was re-nominated in the republican primary yesterday with a margin of more than 16,000 votes over Major Arthur L. Thayer of Bangor. Elbert D. Hayford of Farmingdale was re-nominated for state auditor by the republicans with a similar lead over Edwin J. Morrill of South Portland.

Unofficial returns tabulated tonight from all except three score plantations and small towns, half of which are in Penobscot county and the others scattered through nine other counties, which will not materially change the results, gave the following totals:

For governor, Brewster, 46,677; Thayer, 30,717; Governor Brewster's plurality, 15,954. For auditor, Hayford, 36,677; Morrill, 20,584; Auditor Hayford's plurality, 16,903. The total republican vote for governor was 77,380, more than 20,000 greater than that for auditor.

THREE WOMEN ARRESTED IN MERIDEN FOR SHOPLIFTING

MERIDEN, June 22—(AP)—Mrs. Anna A. Bayer and Mrs. Eunice G. Parson, both of Hartford and Mrs Ethel Casterlin, of Wilkesbarre, Pa., were arrested here early tonight on a charge of shoplifting. Up to a late hour they had not obtained bonds and were locked up in the local station.

Mrs. Parsons is said by the police to have admitted the theft of three dresses from a local store and to have implicated the others. Mrs. Parsons was the last of the trio to be taken and was found at Besek lake, in the Bayer cottage, four miles from this city.

C. of C. Convention at Eastern Point

Governor John H. and Mrs. Trumbull Held a Reception Last Night.

EASTERN POINT, Conn., June 22.—(AP)—Railroad taxation problems were discussed by Robert S. Binkerd, vice chairman of the committee on public relations of the eastern railroads, in an address at the opening session of the Connecticut chamber of commerce in the 27th annual convention in Hotel Griswold this afternoon.

He said that railroads are the greatest corporate tax payers and that last year they returned to the public in form of federal, state and local taxes more than $358,000,000. He estimated that taxes for 1926 to be paid by the railroads would be possibly $380,000,000, or more than $42,000 an hour.

The afternoon session gave opportunity for President Ernest E. Rogers to make a review of the year and this was followed by the report of Acting Secretary Clark Belden.

R. W. Perkins, chairman of the Thames valley citizens committee and president of the Eastern Connecticut Power company, spoke of the industrial and social interest of the Thames valley.

While the men were at their session their ladies had opportunities to play golf or bridge.

Tonight the United States coast guard band played. Governor John H. Trumbull and Mrs. Trumbull held a reception and this was followed by a ball.

The board of directors of the state chamber of commerce today accepted the resignation of Henry T. Holt, president of the Hartford Aetna National bank as a director and elected Leroy W. Campbell, president of the City Bank and Trust company, of Hartford for the unexpired term of one year.

Horace B. Cheney, of South Manchester, chairman of the industrial committee of the state chamber, suggested the appointment of a special committee to advise on needed amendments to the state compensation law. It was suggested that the committee's report be submitted to the 1927 session of the legislature. President Ernest L. Rogers appointed the committee, the members of which include George D. Kimball, of New Britain, Stanley H. Bullard of Bridgeport, William Bronnith of Hartford, Edward P. Jones of Winsted, Alton T. Miner of New London, P. L. Gerity of Naugatuck and Howell Cheney of South Manchester.

The directors appointed a resolution committee to bring in a report tomorrow. Frank E. Sands, of the Meriden Journal is the chairman, and other members being Frank H. Johnston of New Britain, Theodore Bodenwein of the New London Day, P. L. Gerity of Naugatuck and George F. Hawley of Bridgeport.

COOLIDGE COMPLETES THE BOARD OF MEDIATION

WASHINGTON, June 22—(AP)—Carl Williams, of Oklahoma, was nominated by President Coolidge today for a term of three years as a member of the board of mediation set up under the Watson-Parker railway labor act.

The nomination completes the board of five, the other members of which were appointed several days ago. The appointments must be confirmed by the senate.

Williams resides in Oklahoma City, is a democrat and is editor of the Oklahoma Farmer-Stockman. He also is vice president of the National Council of Farmers Co-operative Marketing associations, whose headquarters are here. He was endorsed by Senators Harreld and Pine, republicans, Oklahoma.

While appointments to the board are without restriction under the law except that no appointee shall be identified with the employes or railway managements, it is understood Mr. Coolidge in naming Mr. Williams had in mind selecting a man who would represent the viewpoint of agriculture.

HELD FOR CONSPIRACY TO DEFRAUD GOVERNMENT

MONTREAL, June 22—(AP)—Four men, James J. Nelligan, J. D. Stormont, Eddy Tipaldo, and George J. Hearn, were placed on trial today on a series of charges involving a conspiracy to defraud the United States government by the manufacture of liquor withdrawal documents watermarked "prohibition."

L. T. Havill, a paper merchant, recounted how he became suspicious and informed the police when he was visited by Nelligan in the fall of last year. Nelligan wanted to obtain paper watermarked with three words "prohibition," "suffocation" and "application," for use in an insurance business that was being organized to insure persons against carbon monoxide poisoning in their garages. Havill could not make the paper and referred Nelligan elsewhere, and then informed the police.

PLEADED GUILTY AFTER HIS WIFE HAD EXONERATED HIM

NEW YORK, June 22—(AP)—Charles W. Bange pleaded guilty today to criminally receiving stolen property after his wife, Grace Ott Bange previously had exonerated him while herself pleading guilty to stock swindles amounting to more than a quarter of a million dollars.

Mrs. Bange confessed she told her friends that as an employe of the American Telephone and Telegraph company, she could buy stock below its market value. The stock was never purchased, although she obtained $64,000 from one individual and lesser amounts from many others. She went Lonkrupt immediately after her arrest.

PLANT AT MORRIS COVE FOR BOTTLING LIQUOR

NEW HAVEN, June 22—(AP)—Descending on a house and garage owned by Antonio Esposito at 46 Beecher street, Morris Cove, the police today found a considerable amount of liquor and a plant for bottling liquor. Esposito was not found at the place but later he gave himself up and was placed under arrest on a charge of violating the liquor laws.

A search of the basement disclosed 136 pint bottles bearing labels of famous brands of whiskey, together with cans and jugs containing about 30 gallons of alcohol, flavored and colored.

FRENCH FINANCE MINISTER IS DIFFICULT TO OBTAIN

Premier Briand Has New Cabinet All Ready to Announce, But None of Its Members Desires the Financial Portfolio—If M. Doumer Declines to Accept the Financial Post, M. Briand Intends to Sound Out Prof. Charles Rist, Member of the Experts' Committee.

PARIS, June 22—(AP)—The eighth day of the ministerial crisis has apparently ended with the new cabinet all ready to be introduced to the public, but held up by the difficulties of the financial situation.

Premier Briand has at his disposal enough men to form a new government, but seemingly none of them desires the post of minister of finance. The premier reported the situation to President Doumergue at seven o'clock this evening and later declared he expected the next meeting with his proposd collaborators at 9.30, would probably be decisive nad that the cabinet would be ready to be introduced to the president of the republic tomorrow morning.

The ministry as tentatively formed is as follows:

Premier of foreign affairs, M. Briand.
Justice, M. Poincare.
Finance, M. Doumer.
War, M. Painleve.
Marine, M. Leygues.
Interior, M. Durand.
Colonies, M. Perrier.
Public works, M. Laval.
Agriculture, M. Binet.
Commerce, M. Chaumet.
Instruction, M. Colrat.
Labor, M. Daniel-Vincent.

The feeling in the chamber lobbies is that M. Briand will lose ground if he prolongs his efforts. The delay in the construction of the cabinet has already developed feverish agitation in the senate and chamber, where groups more or less hostile to the premier are taking advantage of the difficulties he has encountered to add to them by manifestations tending to diminish M. Briand's authority in political circles.

It is not absolutely certain that M. Doumer has accepted the financial post, and if he refuses, M. Briand intends to sound out Professor Charles Rist, member of the experts' committee and professor of law in the university of Paris, for the position.

The Washington debt accord was brought conspicuously into the situation yesterday and today. Certain of the prospective ministers, among them Doumer and Poincare, wanted to know whether ratification of the agreement would be the policy of the new government. The two statesmen mentioned were both opposed to this because they considered that the accord puts too heavy a burden on the country.

M. Briand is understood to have replied with the argument that if the payments under the accord were too heavy, the payment of $400,000,000 in one lump sum in 1929, if the accord was not ratified, would be even more burdensome.

REPORT M. CAILLAUX AS NEW FINANCE MINISTER

PARIS, June 22.—(AP)—M. Caillaux, a semi-official communique says, is understood to have accepted the post of minister of finance provisionally.

M. Caillaux's appearance in the cabinet would throw out M. Poincare and might force the premier to seek new ministers allzned with the Caillaux policies.

K. K. K. DENIED RIGHT TO PARADE IN PHILADELPHIA

PHILADELPHIA, June 22—(AP)—The Ku Klux Klan today was denied the right by Mayor Kendrick to parade in this city or to use the sesquicentennial auditorium for its meetings at the proposed conclave next September. Police permits to hold the Klan pageant on the parkway and at the exposition grounds were ordered withheld and events scheduled in connection with the sesqui on September 9, 10 and 11 were stricken from the program.

Paul M. Winter, kleagle in charge of the local klan, said he was "amazed" at the mayor's action.

"They will pay in the long run, all right," declared Mr. Winter who declined to amplify his brief statement.

Despite the mayor's ban, A. L. Sutton, director of domestic participation and special events of the exposition, said the klan program for the sesqui would be carried out.

"Of course the klan will hold its session in the sesqui auditorium just like any other organization would," said Mr. Sutton. "They will have the use of the building morning, noon and night of September 10.

"There will be a parade on September 11. That naturally is a city matter as it will be held on the parkway. The parade will terminate inside the sesqui grounds. It originally had been intended to hold some other events along the banks of one of the lakes within the grounds, but that plan has been given up."

CHARGED WITH ENTERING COUNTRY ILLEGALLY

STAMFORD, June 22—(AP)—Charged with violating the immigration law, Helen Smith, 40, and Frank Bova, 32 both of Stamford, were taken to Ellis Island tonight and will be deported. It is alleged that they entered the country illegally.

Miss Smith entered the United States from Canada by the way of Buffalo in July 1923 and Bova came from an unknown port November 10, 1924.

BRITISH WOMEN TO OPEN FIGHT ON SUFFRAGE LAWS

LONDON, June 22—(AP)—British women are about to open a vigorous fight to do away with present suffrage laws which exclude them from the right to vote until they are 30 years old.

Many prominent men have agreed to join a great mass meeting staged by forty women's societies on July 7 in the interest of equal political rights. Among them are Lord Balfour of Burleigh, Lord Cecil of Chelwood and Pethwick Lawrence, member of the house of commons.

CHARGED WITH FILING FALSE INSURANCE CLAIMS

NEW YORK, June 22—(AP)—The disappearance of Sydney Denning of Woodside, L. I., a year ago, and the subsequent identification of the body of a man dead of alcoholism by his wife, Mrs. Edna Denning, as her husband resulted today in her indictment on a charge of grand larceny and filing false insurance claims.

A "woman" seen about the Denning home after the funeral turned out to be the missing man.

POLICEMAN WAS INJURED WHILE PURSUING MOTORIST

NEW HAVEN, June 23—(AP)—While pursuing a motorist who is said to have been speeding tonight Motorcycle Policeman Stanley Cudma, was thrown from his machine when the driver of the automobile cut in front of him in Day street. The extent of the policeman's injuries had not been determined tonight.

James Woods, the operator of the automobile was arrested on a charge of reckless driving.

MAJOR AND CADET KILLED WHEN AIRPLANE CRASHED

MITCHELL F. ELD, N. Y., June 23 (AP)—A West Point graduate who had risen to the rank of major and had seen nine years of flying service without a single accident, and a West Point cadet who was making his first flight, were killed today when their huge De Haviland plane crashed near the landing field.

The major was William L. Moose, Sr., 45 years old, in charge of the air service reserve of the second corps area and formerly commandant of Mitchel field. The cadet was William Point, who would have graduated from West Point next year, and who had arrived at the field only yesterday with 105 other cadets for summer courses in aeronautics.

A series of demonstrations for the benefit of the West Point cadets were in progress when the accident occurred. An officer on the observation tower at Mitchel field saw the De Haviland plane go into a tail spin at a height of 300 feet during an apparent attempt to make a left turn. In slow spirals it fell to earth, crashing in a wooded section of the Cold Stream golf course. The observer in the tower saw a flare of flames above the tree tops as the plane crashed.

When rescue officers hurriedly dispatched, arrived at the scene of the plane had been destroyed by fire. The bodies of the two victims were burned beyond recognition. Firemen from two nearby villages helped remove the bodies.

Major Moose was the father of two children. He was born in Arkansas and was appointed to West Point from the state, graduating in 1907. His father, now dead, once was attorney general of Arkansas.

Point's father, Lieut. Col. W. H. Point is attached to the war college at Washington. He took his son's body to Washington late today. Burial probably will be in Arlington cemetery.

Major Moose's body was taken to his home at Bayside, Long Island. He will be buried in Arlington cemetery.

FIRST COPY OF STATE REGISTER AND MANUAL

HARTFORD, June 22—(AP)—The first copy of the state register and manual for 1926, was received from the printer at the office of the secretary of the state today. The book contains the usual general information regarding state department and state and municipal activities and government besides several new features which have been added under the direction of Deputy Secretary Elmer H. Lounsbury.

The names of all registered pharmacists in Connecticut are now included in the volume. The names of lawyers, justices of the peace and notary publics which are frequently referred to, have been listed in alphabetical order by towns, supplying added convenience.

Another change of considerable interest is in the calendar, now arranged so that Hartford is the center of all calculations of time. Formerly New London was the point used in time computations and a number of complaints have been received, particularly from the western parts of the state, that there were inaccuracies in the calculations for the times of sunsets.

In form, the manual is virtually the same as for 1925.

SENATOR SMOOT WAS FORCED HOME BY ILLNESS

WASHINGTON, June 22.—(AP)—Senator Smoot, republican, Utah, was forced by illness today to leave his office at the capitol and go to his home.

Senator Smoot, who is chairman of the senate finance committee and a member of the American debt commission, recently suffered an attack of indigestion, which laid him up for several days. Against the advice of physicians who urged him to rest, he resumed his congressional duties.

The senator went home today. It was said at his office because he was not feeling well. His general condition has been considered good, and his present indisposition was not regarded as serious.

The attendants were Miss Eva Langois of this city as maid of honor and Andre Bernier, also of this city as best man. There were also local flower girls, the little Misses Claire Cote and Marcelle Bernier. The bride is well known and popular here.

The commencement exercises at Windham High school will start this (Wednesday) morning at ten o'clock in the school auditorium. Wednesday afternoon at one o'clock, the final rehearsal for graduation will take place. The graduation exercises will be held Thursday evening at eight o'clock.

CITY LIMITS TIME FOR SALE OF ALL FIREWORKS

(Special to the Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, June 22—Alderman Alme J. Martineau's resolution which was adopted at the last regular monthly meeting of the board and takes effect at its passage besides prohibiting the retail sale of fireworks also puts a ban on their exposure for sale before nine o'clock in the morning July 2nd. No sales can be made July 4th which this year falls on Sunday. Complaints have been received by the police department about one merchant, who, it is alleged, had made sales and Monday evening. It was said that this merchant disposed of a pistol and a quantity of blank cartridges, which were later discharged. An arrest in this case is expected. The resolution as adopted by the city fathers provides that no person or persons shall expose sell or offer to sell at retail any fireworks in the city except between the hours of nine a. m. on July 2 and 11 p. m. July 5th; that no person or persons shall discharge or set off or fire any fireworks in the city except between the hours of four a. m. July 5 and 1 p. m. on the same day and that any person violating any of the provisions of this act shall be fined not more than seven dollars.

LEBANON

Clark-Peckham

A very pretty wedding took place in the Baptist church Saturday June 19 at 3 o'clock when Miss Gladys Marguerite Peckham, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Myron C. Peckham, became the bride of Mr. William James Clark, son of Mr. and Mrs. Elbert Clark of Buckland. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Andrew G. Littlefield, pastor of the church, the single ring service being used. Miss Margaret Lynch was maid of honor, and Miss Edna Clegg and Miss Elizabeth Connelly acted as bridesmaids. The best man was Fred Clark, brother of the groom, and the ushers were James Pickles and Robert Pickles, cousins of the groom. The bride's dress was white crepe-de-chine. A long veil was held in place by a wreath of white flowers. She carried a bouquet of pink roses. The maid of honor wore pink and the bridesmaids wore dresses of pale green and peach. The wedding march was played by a friend of the bride from Hartford and Miss Helen Swisher sang I Love You and O Promise Me, accompanied by the piano and the cornet played by Henry Shamrock. The church was beautifully decorated with palms and white flowers. Following the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's grandmother Mrs. Ella Foster, with a large number of relatives and friends attending. The house was tastefully decorated with ferns and daisies. Sandwiches, cake, punch and ice-cream were served.

The bride's traveling dress was of apricot crepe-de-chine. The couple left on a wedding trip to New York and Waterbury. The bride, since her graduation from high school, has been employed by an insurance company in Hartford. The groom is a tester in Colt's Firearm Co., and is an electrician by trade.

DANIELSON

KILLINGLY HIGH HOLDS GRADUATION ON THURSDAY

(Special to the Bulletin)

DANIELSON, June 23—A class of 41 will be graduated from Killingly high school on Thursday. Class day exercises in the evening. Admission to the class day exercises will be by invitation, as has been the custom for years. The graduation exercises will be open to the public.

The members of the graduating class and the courses they have completed are as follows: Classical course: Zylpha Nichols Codding, Helen Theodore Haveles; General course. Herbert Ralph Bowen, Helen Elizabeth Brown, Helen Cecelia Gaffery, Philip Leslie Conklin, Robert Theodore Fulton, Sadie Estelle Gorman, Gunner Gundersen, Flora Frazer Keech, Henry Joseph Kilgariff, Elsie Mary Lane, Douglas Wheaton Logee, Ida Fay Logee, Elmer Joseph Major James Lloyd McMerriman, Doris Helen Potter, Reuben Ernest Shekelton, Mildred Jennie Tillinghast, Harold Edwin Warner, Mildred Anna Wilso, Paul Emerson Young; Commercial course, Thelma Reed Cogan, Gladys May Cooke, Beatrice Delena Foster, Edith Olive Gallup, Helen Louise Keech, Rose Milone, Rose Elizabeth Nielsen, Wanda Sophia Niejadlik, Thomas Scott Page, Clara Ella Sheffield, Mary Edna Young; Scientific course, John Franklin Crosby, Denton Twomey Gallup, Walter Alfred LaPierre, Ruth Margaret Litch, John Dyer Potter, Jr., Henry Clarke Stoddard.

At St. James' church Monday morning at 8 o'clock Miss Malvina Perreault, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Napoleon Perreault of the Connecticut Mills section of Danielson, and Theodore Omer Pechie, son of Mr. and Mrs. Leo Pechie, were united in marriage by Rev. Joseph Deschaux, M. S. who was also celebrant of the nuptial mass, at which many relatives and friends were in attendance.

Miss Delvina Cote was bridesmaid and Henri Perreault, brother of the bride, was best man.

The bride wore white georgette crepe with veil and carried a bouquet of American beauty roses and lilies of the valley. The bridesmaid's gown was of orchid georgette crepe and her hat to match.

Following the wedding there was a reception attended by many relatives and friends in St. John's hall. During the afternoon Mr. and Mrs. Pechie left for Providence from which city they went by boat for their wedding trip, to be spent in New York. The bride received a great many beautiful gifts for her homes, which will be on Maple street.

By a fluke that sometimes, but not often, happens in a baseball game, St. James' school baseball team lost the annual game with the LaSalette college team at Hartford Monday afternoon by a score of 8 to 7.

It was the intention of the St. James' team to play a 7-inning game, that a start for home might be made early, but the junior boys of the college team insisted that it be a full length game of nine innings and an agreement was made on that basis.

At the end of the seventh inning St. James' was leading 7 to 4. At the opening of the ninth inning the score was 7 to 5 in favor of St. James'. Then things began to happen. LaSalette had two men on bases when the batter hit a high fly to the outfield. This high fly could "went into the sun" and came down and hit the local fielder on the head and knocked him down, this resulting in two runs being scored by LaSalette and the score was tied. Another hit brought in the winning run. St. James' suffered a defeat with honor, as may be attested by citing the fact that the St. James' pitcher, Romeo Meegin struck out 17 of the LaSalette batsmen Francis Macdonald of Danielson, student for the priesthood at LaSalette, was umpire of the game.

In the great outdoors on a beautiful afternoon of June, Miss Gladys E. Salmon, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence A. Salmon, of Indian Spring farm in the Allen hill section of the town of Brooklyn, became the bride of George H. Holmes of Brooklyn on Monday. The marriage ceremony was conducted by Rev. John R. Pratt of Brooklyn.

The bridal couple stood under an arch of daisies and a bell fashioned from the same flower as they were made man and wife and all the witnesses of the marriage stood about on the spacious lawn. The bride was given in marriage by her father.

Miss Evelyn Salmon of Philadelphia was bridesmaid and the best man was Clarence J. Salmon, brother of the bride.

The bride wore white flat crepe fashioned into a very beautiful gown, a veil and a wreath of orange blossoms. The bridesmaid's gown was of georgette in pastel shades, her hat a picture model in blue and pink.

There was a bridal path from the house to the location near a maple tree close to which the marriage was performed. Mrs. Salmon, mother of the bride, wore a gown that came from Switzerland.

Mr. and Mrs. Holmes are now on a wedding trip by motor car. They plan to camp along the way on their journey to Philadelphia, where they will attend the Sesqui-centennial observance.

The bride is a graduate of Killingly high school and later attended Willimantic Normal school and then taught for several years in schools in Connecticut.

Mr. Holmes is a graduate of the Massachusetts Agricultural college in the class of 1918. For several years he was a supervisor of plantations in Costa Rica.

JULIUS WINKELMAN DIED MONDAY IN DANIELSON

(Special to the Bulletin)

DANIELSON, June 22—Danielson lost one of its oldest and most respected citizens and a really remarkable man during Monday night when Julius Frederick Winkelman, who would hvae been 83 years of age on July 28, died at his home on Main street.

Mr. Winkelman, a familiar figure about town for more than half a century, had been in poor health since the very early spring. However, it was not generally sensed that his death was impending and the announcement of it made the older people of the borough pause and express their regrets at his passing.

Mr. Winkelman was a native of Lepinie, Germany, and was born July 28, 1827. As a young man he came to the United States and settled in Mystic, where he remained for a number of years before coming to Danielson, 55 years ago.

He engaged here in his trade of shoe repairing and conducting a retail shoe business. The name of Winkelman eventually became synonymous with the retail shoe trade of this territory and Mr. Winkelman accumulated wealth.

He continued in business for 30 years and then, a quarter of a century ago, retired and has since interested himself in things that had a special appeal for him, particularly a farm place, on South street, where he was wont to spend many happy hours out in the open, cultivating a garden and flowers or walking about and enjoying life in the open. When he retired from business his store was taken over by his son, Charles, who died 20 years ago this month, and later by his sons Julius, now dead, and Frank, who has been conducting the business for a long term of years and who is the only surviving child of Mr. Winkelman.

Mr. Winkelman was a noted walker. He deemed it great exercise and credited it with being one of the reasons for his long life and constant good health. He was a fine citizen, commanding universal respect and esteem. Besides his son, Frank, Mr. Winkelman, is survived by his wife.

Mr. and Mrs. Pierre Bernier recently entertained Mr. and Mrs. Fred Cote, Louis Emery, Miss Mary O'Connor and Miss Laura LaPlante of Holyoke.

Mr. and Mrs. Damase Poitras of Reynolds street have been at Sharon Heights to attend the graduating exercises at Sacred Heart college, their son, Edgar, being a member of the graduating class.

The Alumni-K. H. S. baseball game scheduled for this (Wednesday) afternoon is to be played at the Paco grounds, not at the Connecticut Mills grounds, as previously stated in this column. The game is to start at 3 o'clock. Manager Norman Reeves of the Alumni team will have his players on the field at 2:30 for a workout.

Misses Claudia and Florida Bernier of Reynolds street left recently to spend the summer in the Adirondack mountains.

Leonard Metthe and Donat Dupuis of Frunance street attended the graduation exercises at Assumption college in Worcester.

Rev. F. W. Ledwith, M. S., a member of the mission band of the Order of LaSalette, is visiting for a few days at St. James' rectory.

Mrs. J. C. Witter and Miss Helen E. Aylward were visitors in Providence on Tuesday.

On Thursday afternoon the St. James' baseball team has a game scheduled with a North Grosvenordale tea mon the Paco grounds.

David A. Witter is entitled to step right out into the limelight and receive congratulations. It has been said there would be no green peas for local tables this June, a cold and unseemly month. Not so. Mr. Witter informs the Bulletin that he had peas grown in his own garden for dinner on Monday—and will have plenty more from now on.

Henry LaFevre, 41, a resident of Dayville, died early Tuesday morning at St. Joseph's hospital in Providence, where he was taken a week ago Tuesday to undergo an operation for appendicitis. Mr. LaFevre, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Lafevre, was a native of Canada. He leaves a wife and four children, resident in Dayville, where he was employed in the mill. The body was taken in charge in Providence by Undertaker L. E. Kennedy.

Kenneth S. Andem of Newark, N. J., is to be married this (Wednesday) evening to Miss Helen Wilhelmina Van Schagen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Cornelius Lawrence Van Schagen at their home on Selden street at Dorchester, Mass. Mr. Andem is the son of Mr. and Mrs. C. S. Andem of Grove street and a graduate of the Massachusetts Tech. Stuart Pease, son of Dr. and Mrs. H. L. Pease is to be best man.

A party was held recently in honor of Thomas Moore, a graduate of Villanova college, Villa Nova, Pa., and William Moore, a graduate of the St. Louis high school at the home of Mrs. John Hogan of North Grosvenordale. There was plenty of music and refreshments were served. The guests included friends from New Island, Putnam, Thompson and Webster.

Clarence Weaver, a former well known Woodstock boy, has been appointed chief engineer of the Central Georgia railroad. Mr. Weaver has many friends in the vicinity who are interested to know of his advancement.

Frederick and Burton Harrison, sons of Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Harrison, formerly of Woodstock, have been the guests of friends in this vicinity during the past week. Mr. Harrison now has charge of the Congregational church at Bridgewater, Mass.

Miss Mary Weaver, who recently died at the Masonic home at Wallingford, Conn., was buried at Woodstock. Miss Weaver was 71 years old and had lived the greater part of her life at Woodstock, but since her health failed had been at the Masonic home. She is the last of her generation but leaves several nieces and nephews.

Miss Tilton and Robert Hillyer, who are to be married at Rockport, Mass., on July 1, have been the recent guests of the Misses Stevens and Miss Boult at Pomfret.

Leonard Swain of Pomfret and Livingston Short of New York have sailed for Europe, where Mr. Swain will join Mrs. Swain, who is travelling on the continent with her mother. They will return in August.

Mrs. Gladys Noyes Wickes has returned to her home at Pomfret after a visit of several weeks in New York city.

Mrs. Joseph Clarke Hoppin has returned to Pomfret for the summer and is staying at the Ben Grosvenor inn until her own home, Courtlands, is ready for occupancy.

The many friends in this vicinity of Mrs. Hamilton Wright Mabie and Miss Helen Mabie who are annual visitors at Pomfret, were interested in the account recently printed of the opening at Summit, N. J., of the Hamilton Wright Mabie memorial playground. Lawrence F. Abbott made the dedicatory address, in which he paid high tribute to the late Mr. Mabie, famous author, editor and critic.

State Highway Commissioner and Mrs. John A. Macdonald of Hartford were recent Putnam visitors and Mrs. Macdonald's father, W. S. Johnson, returned home with them for a visit.

Miss Irene Richard of Southbridge has been the guest of her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Richard of Main street.

Mrs. Georgiana Longdon of Grove street has returned from a visit with her son, Winfred Longdon and family of Lowell street.

Mrs. Henry Morse of Lowell, Mass., formerly of Putnam, is critically ill at her home.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Duhamel and son and Mr. and Mrs. Henry Duhamel and daughter, have been recent visitors at Fiskdale, Mass.

Harold Wilcox, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Wilcox of Chaman street, attended the commencement exercises at Bates college, Lewiston, Maine, where his brother, Byron Wilcox was a graduate.

Mrs. George Connor of Woonsocket has been the guest of her niece, Mrs Bernice Delaney of Main street.

Owing to the graduation of the high school being on Thursday night, there will be no Thursday evening services at the churches.

The Young Peoples' society of the Congregational church will continue to hold its Sunday evening services during the summer. Owing to the baccalaurate service at the church the service was omitted last Sunday evening. In addition to the meetings they are planning social gatherings and a picnic is to be held soon.

Chief William J. Noble of the fire department, has gone to Manchester, N. H., to attend the annual convention of New England fire chiefs.

GALES FERRY

Children's day was observed in the Methodist church Sunday. At the morning service Rev. Wilfred D. Hamilton, administered the rite of baptism to Ellen Orynthia Stoddard, the young daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alton L. Stoddard who presented her, and following to Mrs. Charles Alton Chapman this preceding his sermon, on the theme, Life With a Worth While Purpose. A solo, Suffer Little Children to Come Unto Me, was sung by Miss Grace A. Chapman. The arrangement of branches of evergreens, which had been banked inside the chancel rail, terminating in a pyramid of crimson and white peonies was very effectively arranged by Mrs. Nelson Parker and Mrs. Alton L. Stoddard. Announcements included a special meeting of the Ladies' Aid society and of the Epworth League. A special program had been arranged by Mrs. R. Irving Hurlbutt superintendent of the junior department of the Sunday school of recitations and songs this taking the place of the study hour at noon. At the Sunday evening service, A Summer Time, songalogue. Out in the Fields With God, with songs and readings, was given as follows: Give Praise This Holy Day, junior choir; reading, Margaret S. Colver; song, The Smile of God; reading, Marjorie Gates, Rose Norcross; song, The Fields Are Telling; reading, Ethel Main; song, Praise the Creator with reading, Helen C. Colver, Miss Jennie G. Mrs. George St. John Sheffield, motored here, from New Haven, Thursday, and was a visitor at the Yale quarters, enroute to her home in Providence.

At the annual meeting of the Ladies Aid society, Thursday afternoon in the vestry of the Methodist church, the president Miss Alice Satterlee presided. The devotions were conducted by Mrs. Henry W. Hurlbutt. The reports of the secretary and treasurer were approved as read. Mrs. Nelson Parker, Miss Susan Mathewson, Mrs. Morton Crawford and Miss Satterlee were appointed a committee, to arrange for a supper.

The election of officers followed with Miss Mabel Smith and Mrs. Avery Main acting as tellers. The results follow: President, Miss Alice Satterlee, vice president, Mrs. Nelson Parker; secretary and treasurer, Mrs. Dudley C. Perkins. These were a re-election, four directresses were elected: Mrs. Fred E. Richards, president of the Long Cove auxiliary, Miss Sarah T. Latimer, Mrs. C. E. Colver and Mrs. Henry W. Hurlbutt.

Nelson Parker, who has been in Philadelphia, Washington and other southern cities, for about three weeks motored back Friday from Philadelphia, where he attended the Shriners convention, at the opening of the Sesqui-Centennial. He was accompanied to New Haven, by his mother, Mrs. Richard H. Parker, and his neice, Miss Mildred Doyle, from Glenside, Philadelphia. Other members of the party were Mrs. Jaffa and daughter, Miss Evelyn Jaffa, who are house guests of Mr. and Mrs. Parker.

Its Long-Suit is Performance

THE new Chandler is noted everywhere for its brilliant performance, and it certainly looks the part.

The classic refinement of its beauty, its harmony of proportion, its lithe gracefulness—all symbolize both the quality and the ability of the car.

Chandler is built for people who seek real quality, but buy judiciously, not recklessly—who like fine furniture in their homes—and wear good clothes—and insist upon having nothing less than the first-class pleasure of motoring.

The power of Chandler's great Pikes Peak Motor is such that you can roll along at walking speed, smoothly, without shifting back from high gear—and cruise right up extremely steep hills without a flutter, or semblance of labor.

And all you need to do to lubricate the car is to push a plunger with your heel. Chandler has the great "One Shot" System of centralized chassis lubrication!

It's a very unusual automobile, every way you look at it. Come in and look over the new models.

THE PRESIDENT'S POLICY

What the president had to say to the annual budget meeting this week is right in line with what he has said before. It is the same policy that has resulted in such a handsome reduction in federal indebtedness and the slicing of federal taxation. It is the policy that has been able to obtain greater economy and efficiency in the conduct of national business and it is that very same policy which he wishes to see kept in operation for the compounding of the benefits which have already been obtained.

Does it mean another cut in federal taxes? That no one knows, but it is certain that it is headed in that direction and if conditions are right for such action it will most certainly be brought about. Certainly tax cutting cannot be expected to go hand in hand with extravagance.

No one can look into the future and see what the conditions are going to be during the next two years. Because of that handicap it is impossible to tell just what the effect is going to be in the long run of the tax reductions which have been put into effect. There cannot fail to be gratification over the fact that four billions have been lopped off the national debt, meaning as it does a huge reduction of the yearly interest.

With a continuance of that reduction and the keeping down of expenditures the country is automatically feeling the effect each year of the lessening demand for federal taxes. How soon the time will come when these can be in addition another tax reduction rests with the future and the economy practiced to demonstrate.

President Coolidge has talked to his department heads in the same way that he has talked to the nation. He has had hearty cooperation from them in the past and it can be expected to continue. It would be a happy situation if there were the same response from municipalities that there is from the federal government. Where the government is cutting debt and reducing taxes too many of the states and cities are boosting expenditures, increasing their indebtedness and raising their taxes.

MAKE IT SAFER AND SANER

Within the fortnight the Fourth of July will have come and gone. The celebration of the nation's birthday will have passed for another year and there will be those who have given up their lives or suffered serious injuries because of the manner in which they entered into the observance.

The Independence day celebrations are on a much safer and saner basis than some years ago. There has been recognition of the mistake made in those indulgences which meant the shedding of blood and the loss of life without in any way displaying any greater patriotism. Progress has been made in the efforts to reform the old methods, but those efforts need to be continued if the sane and safe observance is going to become firmly established.

In this connection the United States Fireworks Manufacturers' association makes a strong appeal for preventive measures when it makes these recommendations.

Very young children should not be given fireworks to play with. Parents should try to make this a careful Fourth as well as a glorious Fourth for the children.

Keep burning sparklers away from clothing or inflammable material.

Avoid playing pranks and frightening people with fireworks. They are not for this purpose.

Do not attempt to experiment with explosives, but use fireworks as they are supposed to be used. Don't let little children put them in their mouths.

Above all, avoid using blank cartridges in any revolver, either expensive or cheaply constructed. Blank cartridges are not fireworks.

This advice and much that has been frequently repeated in the past deserves to be respected. It is far better to be careful and be here to enjoy other days than to enter into a reckless celebration, where care is abandoned and be numbered among the dead or the seriously injured on the fifth of July.

The time for serious consideration of these things is in advance of the Fourth, so as to plan to govern yourself in keeping therewith on the Fourth and thus prevent the needless and the distressing conditions which accompany the fatally or the badly injured.

OIL POLLUTION

What must be regarded as a sensible decision is that which has been reached by the representatives of several nations which have been holding a conference at Washington relative to dealing with the problem of oil pollution in navigable waters. In its report the conference recommends the prohibition of the dumping of fuel oil from ships in harbors or on the high seas, and in order to prevent either the escape or the willful discharge of the oil it is suggested that the shipping companies install devices on their ships to prevent it.

Such is the sentiment of the representatives of nations where oil has become a serious menace. The conference has upheld the contentions which have been put forth in large numbers against the practice of dumping the wastage of oil tanks into the harbors or out on the high seas from which point it floats in upon the shores, to the great annoyance of those using bathing beaches, to the detriment of fishing and sea life and to become a menace to vessels and wharves.

Now that the conference has met and acted and an international exchange of views upon this problem has taken place, it will remain for the respective nations to give heed to the recommendations and determine what and how much legislation is needed to obtain compliance.

To the shipping companies there has been served a warning which they will do well to heed. From such response as they make can be determined to a great extent just what legislation may be required. The situation can be met by the shipping companies if they are so disposed and it would appear to be to their advantage to display the right disposition. Self regulation is much preferable to restraint through legislation.

The fact is that the oil waste is thrown overboard because it is the easiest way. If use can be made of such material, as claimed, and the return at least equals the expense of proper disposal, there ought to be prompt compliance with the recommendations. But whether that is true or not there is no justification for creating a nuisance and a menace for others.

RAISING THE S-51

It is regretted that the first effort to raise the submarine S-51 with pontoons has failed. It was hoped by this time that the undersea boat would be on its way to the Brooklyn navy yard.

Weather conditions, the depth at which the sub lies and the task that is involved have required much time to get ready to raise it, but even though there has been a slip on the first attempt the fact that the prow of the sub has been brought to the surface indicates that had the chains holding the pontoons not snapped the sub would now be afloat.

Doing over again much of the hard work that has been done by the divers at a great depth is a bit disheartening, but there is nevertheless satisfaction to be gained from the fact that the results obtained indicate that through the continued application of the same methods successful results will follow. The test is encouraging. It shows what the pontoons will do if held in place and even though the work must be carried on under serious disadvantages the result thus far is much more encouraging than it would have been had it been impossible to have budged the submarine from the bottom.

As in many other undertakings it is a case of try, try again. It takes but a very short period of time to send an underwater boat to the bottom, though the sinking of the S-51 was not voluntary, but it is a decidedly different proposition when it comes to raising it by powers other than its own.

PROTECTING THE RECORDS

Recognition is given to the need which exists for properly protecting government records and papers by the announcement that the first of the new buildings to be erected in Washington under the appropriations made at this session of congress will be the archives building.

For a long time it has been pointed out that documents which could not be replaced are subject to danger from destruction by fire. They have to be kept in unprotected places because there is no other provision. It is plausible that the records are not much used, but there is no telling when they might be required and it would be a distinct and serious loss should they suffer from the ravages of fire to the extent that they could not be referred to if desired.

It is the case with government as it is with records of states, cities and towns in too many instances. Too little consideration is given to their protection until they have been wiped out by fire, and then it is of course too late to save them. Trying to rescue them after a fire breaks out means the taking of great chances. The thing to do is to have them placed in fireproof buildings so that the danger of loss through destruction will be reduced to the minimum.

Congress has acted none too soon in providing funds for the erection of such a building in Washington and it is in keeping with recognized conditions that the decision has been reached to make the first expenditure from the building appropriation for the archives structure. That it will be a fire proof building, capable of properly housing the records and providing easy access to them is to be expected.

UNDER FALSE COLORS

The eleven members of the Twelve Athletic Girls, rose with one accord as their missing club sister strolled in.

"Well," called the president, "here comes the conquering heroine. Come along and tell the rest of us poor orphans how you do it, girl chum."

The newcomer stepped languidly forward, raised wide, innocent blue eyes to their gaze. "Be yourselves, Dorables," she begged. "Tell you how I do what?"

"I'll tell the world you're good, Gazelle. Tell her how she does what?" mimicked the club secretary. "Goes ahead and captures the big stuff at the party last night, right from under our cute noses, and then wants to know what we're crying about!"

"Oh, you mean Forbes Randall, I suppose," drawled the newcomer. "Hope to die if I'm not surprised at you young and tender idiots. Where'd you all come from, anyway? Not a bit sunburned, any of you. A couple of simple rules on how to start a man goin', and you all fall flat!"

The club president handed her a chair. "Rest your weight on here while you tell us how to ensnare the male of the species, Gazelle."

"Act your age, Gazelle," coaxed the secretary. "Tell us how you angled for the Randall person. I threw a couple of wicked eyes at him myself, and all I got for my pains was a mean glare. Be a sport and spill the beans, kid."

"Well, it was like this," cordially explained Gazelle, perching on the arm of the chair. "Soon's I spotted the dear boy I knew it wasn't any use acting natural. Forbes is just the old-fashioned kind that thinks a girl ought to pass out when she sees a mouse. I knew it wouldn't do to live up to my rep for—"

"Oh, cut the sermon, Gazelle. Come across," urged the president.

"Well, when he asked me what our club letters T. A. G. stood for I didn't stand up and yell, 'Twelve Athletic Girls' or anything dumb like that. Oh no! I told him it was a secret, but it really had something to do with timidity and gentleness."

"My sainted uncle!"

"Timidity and gentleness," mocked the president. "Then you didn't crow about the cup you won last winter at the ski meet, did you, little girl chum?"

"Or the day you took a canoe out on Lake Michigan and—"

"Dumb-bells! Of course not. I told him we met once a week and swapped recipes for making marmalade and then we scheeted—"

"And he fell for your little act?"

"Headlong," confessed Gazelle. "You should've lamped him while I was feedin' him the applesauce. Stricken dumb! And what he said! All about how overjoyed he was to find a sweet little lady of the old-fashioned kind—"

"Applesauce like his mother used to make," interrupted the club treasurer, who had been listening carefully all the while and now spoke for the first time.

"And how he didn't know there was any such wonder left in these days of horrible slang and unfeminine women."

"Gosh! I bet you almost had a brainstorm keeping up the act," sympathized the club president. "Tell the truth, kid. Didn't you queer yourself once?"

"Almost," confessed Gazelle. "I forgot the pose and started on the good old lipstick, but I caught it in time. Gosh! You oughta see his car, Dorables. He sure can steer a wicked wheel!"

"Did he take you home, Gazelle?" breached the rest, wide-eyed. "Thought you came with Bob."

"Oh, Bob! I ditched him. Sure, Forbes Randall steered me home in his seven-passenger buggy. Expect he'll call me up soon."

"Why don't you call him, kid?"

"I'm surprised! Didn't I just get through slipping you how old-fash he is? He'd pass out if I phoned him. Gee, he fell hard all right," she sighed in blissful satisfaction.

And then the club treasurer spoke up. "Not so hard, kid. Not so hard. Forbes is my cousin, you know. Oh, didn't you? Well, he is. And he's been wise all along. Told me he was going to see how much torture you'd take. He sure had plenty of fun. I guess he's writing a book on it. Said he was naming it Kidding the Kidder, or something like that. Let's open the meeting girls."—Exchange.

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

Samuel E. Winslow, who has been named to head the new board of mediation under the Watson-Parker railroad labor act, is a former Massachusetts congressman and a veteran in republican politics in the Bay state. It might not be quite correct to say that Mr. Winslow skated into public life. But undeniably the skates helped, for Mr. Winslow is the greatest manufacturer of both roller and ice skates in the world. He is descended from the Winslows who came over in the Mayflower and received his education at Harvard. During his 12 years in congress he gave his attention especially to legislation relating to transportation. His place of business is in Worcester and near that city he maintains a model scientific farm. Mr. Winslow was an intimate friend of President Harding and is close to President Coolidge.

REMOVES WRINKLES IN 15 MINUTES—NEW WAY

A veritable wonder-worker for wrinkled and flabby faces is a simple, harmless application made by mixing a spoonful of Powdered Tarkroot with a spoonful of lemon juice. Not only does it quickly smooth out the wrinkles and age lines—before one's very eyes—but it has a stimulating influence upon the weakened and relaxed underlying tissues. The mixture is spread over the face with the finger tips, and in less than fifteen minutes the mirror shows that a most marvelous transformation has taken place. When the substance is washed off the average face actually looks ten or fifteen years younger.

The results are far better than those obtainable from the most expert massaging—and the cost is less than 2 cents a treatment! Powdered Tarkroot can be had at any drugstore.

From Small Beginnings

Charles Carleton Coffin, the Telegrapher, a Popular Writer

One of the most popular boys' books ever written is The Boys of '76, by Charles Carleton Coffin. Following the Flag and Winning His Way are almost equally popular. These and a number of other books that appeal strongly to the young are the work of a New England man who educated himself and became a popular writer.

Most of Charles Carleton Coffin's books are founded on the idea of fighting for the sake of liberty. They are full of an ardent, youthful spirit of patriotism that the author himself felt when giving service in the Civil war. His work was not that of a soldier but of the newspaper correspondent who experiences all the dangers and privations of camp and army life, who sees all the horror of war and who tries, more than the soldier does, to look upon battle or a campaign as a whole, and to think of causes and of results. The vividness with which Mr. Coffin pictures the scenes of war came not alone from the battlefields of the Civil war but also from the scenes he witnessed in Europe when he was sent there as a war correspondent.

In his boyhood days young Coffin had lived among the mountains of New Hampshire and had been brought up to carry on all the rough work of an ordinary New England farm. From some unknown ancestor he had inherited a love of adventure that made the farm life and the quiet surroundings of the New Hampshire hills seem dull indeed. Tiring of the lonesomeness and lack of events on the farm, he went to the city and learned the newly-developed art of telegraphy. He worked at this for some time, as Andrew Carnegie did at a later date. The messages that he had to send led him to an interest in the news of the world and into relationship with newspapermen. He became connected with a newspaper in Boston, and when the Civil war broke out he went south as a war correspondent, being then about 40 years of age.

The success of his work as a reporter led him to write books with great general appeal. He wrote so vividly that he made thousands of boys in later days see the Civil war almost as if they were present in the battles.

Stories That Recall Others

Flapper Wit

Two flappers in a store were discussing their work. "I wish I had my sister's job," said one. "She's third floor chambermaid in a bungalow."

"That's nothing," giggled the other, "my brother had a better snap—he drives the delivery wagon for a manicure parlor."

And What Makes One Year

Whether the daily ups and downs of an elevator have a peculiar effect upon the elevator operator or not is a question for a scientist.

One operator has developed a philosophy of life. He never meddles in the affairs of other people. Always he is courteous and willing to do anything he can to accommodate the passengers who ride in his car.

"You know what I have learned," he said the other day. "There are 52 weeks in a year. Twenty six of those 52 I mind my own business. And the other 26 I let other people's business alone."

Delightful New Vanishing Cream Containing True Buttermilk Makes Many a Woman Look Years Younger

There is no secret about it nor is there any doubt about the result—it's just common ordinary Buttermilk in the form of a wonderful cream gently massaged with the finger tips around the corners of the eyes and mouth.

No matter whether you are troubled with wrinkles, hard little lines around the mouth and eyes, coarse, sallow, faded looking skin, or simply roughness and redness caused by wind and sun, you will find that all these trials quickly disappear with the use of this old-fashioned beauty recipe brought up to date.

To prove this to your complete satisfaction obtain a small quantity of Howard's Buttermilk Cream at any good drug or toilet counter on the money back if dissatisfied plan. The directions are simple and it costs so little that every girl or woman can afford it. Lee & Osgood Co. is selling lots of it in the new jars.

IMPORTANT. Even the finest face creams fail if the soap you use is harsh. Howard's Buttermilk Cream Soap keeps skin smooth, soft and pliable.

The Slap on the Water

Obedience that is too slow
May be as bad as none, you know.
—Old Mother Nature.

Little Mister Know-It-All was as meek a little Muskrat as ever was as he followed his mother back across the Smiling Pool to where his six brothers and sisters were hidden among the rushes. He was so meek that he didn't even mesent it when one of his brothers whispered, "Serves you right, Smarty." He knew it did serve him right. He knew that he had lost the end of that tail because he had disobeyed and had thought himself so smart that he knew it all. A big pickerel, which, you know, is a fish had bitten off the end of that tail, and the wonder was that he had not caught Little Mister Know-It-All in those great jaws of his. So as long as that tail was sore Little Mister Know-It-All was nice and obedient a little Muskrat as ever was.

Now, in a big family no two children are just alike, unless they happen to be twins. There were no others in the Muskrat family just like Mister Know-It-All, which was rather fortunate for Mother Muskrat. One there was who was very slow. He wasn't willfully disobedient, as was Little Mister Know-It-All, but it sometimes took him a long time to get around to obeying. He fully intended to obey, but sometimes he couldn't see the need of hurrying about it.

"That habit of yours is going to get you into trouble one of these days," said Mother Muskrat. "I don't know of anything more important than immediate obedience. Now, when you hear the slap of a tail on the water it means that some one has discovered possible danger. Now, what are you children to do when you hear the slap of a tail on the water?"

"Dive and hide," they cried together. Mother Muskrat nodded. "Right," said she. "Quite right. But don't forget that it is to be done instantly. The one who waits to find out what the danger is may find he has waited too long. Always dive the very instant you hear the slap on the water."

"Yes'm," said the seven little Muskrats. "Yes'm, we will."

It happened later that evening that they were having a grand feast, while Mother Muskrat watched out for danger. Their father, Jerry Muskrat, was not there. He was down at the lower end of the Smiling Pool, while they were up where the Laughing Brook enters the Smiling Pool. Suddenly there was the sound of a sharp slap on the water. They knew what it was. They knew it was the tail of their father, Jerry Muskrat, down where the Laughing Brook left the Smiling Pool.

The instant Mother Muskrat heard that slap on the water she slapped the water with her tail, but even before she had time to do this six little Muskrats had dived. The seventh, the one who always was a little slow, fully intended to dive. There wasn't a thought of disobedience in that little head of his, not a thought. But he didn't see any need for hurrying about it. Supposing his father had discovered danger. It was way over on the other side of the Smiling Pool and nothing to worry about. So he didn't dive as promptly as the others. Really, he wasn't much behind them when he started to dive, but he was a little behind them and that made all the difference in the world. Just as he plunged under water he felt something sharp close to the root of his tail. For just a minute it hurt, but it frightened him more than it hurt him. What could it have done it he hadn't the least idea.

When at last they were all safely together again with Mother Muskrat, she turned and spoke to this one very severely. "You don't deserve to be here," said she. "No, sir, you don't deserve to be here. How many times have I told you to dive instantly when you hear the water slapped. You didn't dive instantly, and so Hootly the Owl almost caught you. As it was, he tore your coat, and you may consider yourself fortunate that your coat tore."

"I-I didn't see Hooty," said the slow little Muskrat.

"Well, he saw you!" replied Mother Muskrat.

A "Russian" Business

Between $15,000,000 and $25,000,000 worth of goods, mostly textiles, hides, knitted articles and silks, were smuggled into Soviet Russia last year according to Moscow authorities. Most of the stuff came across the Polish border and was distributed in Moscow. The business in contraband goods is very profitable. A $6.50 sweater sells in Moscow for $15, a 75-cent box of face powder for $3 and other articles on a proportionate scale.

POETRY

Out Fishin'

A feller isn't thinkin' mean—Out fishin'—
His thoughts are always good and clean
—Out fishin'—
He does not knock his fellow men,
Or harbor any grudges then,
You see he's at his finest when—Out fishin'.

The rich are comrades to the poor—
Out fishin'—
Brothers are all of a common lure—
Out fishin'—
The urchin with a pin and string
Chums with Rail Road President or King—
Vain pride is a forgotten thing—
Out fishin'—

We always get a chance to dream—
Out fishin'—
And learn the charm of lake and stream
—Out fishin';
A chap can wash his soul in air
That isn't foul with selfish care,
Relishin' plain and simple fare—Out fishin'.

Fishermen have no time for hate—Out fishin'—
Nor are they eager to be great—Out fishin';
Not always thinking thoughts of self,
Loans piled high on Bankers' shelf—
Never other than just ourself—Out fishin'.

Who ever heard of plottin' schemes—
Out fishin'?
Anglers are busy with their dreams—
Out fishin';
Your uniform a coat of tan,
Your creed to do the best you can;
A comrade always—mostly man—Out fishin'.

Who isn't glad to meet a friend — Out fishin'?
A helpin' hand to always lend — Out fishin'—
A brotherhood of rod and line
On lake or stream is always fine,
Comes closer to nature's design—Out fishin'.

To a Rose

Thou hast not toiled, sweet Rose,
Yet needest rest;
Softly thy petals close
Upon thy breast,
Like folded hands, of labor long oppressed.

Naught knowest thou of sin,
Yet tears are thine;
Baptismal drops within
Thy chalice shine,
At morning's birth, at evening's calm decline.

Alas! one day hath told
The tale to thee!
The tender leaves unfold
Life's mystery:
Its shadow falls alike on thee and me!
—John B. Tabb.

HUMOR OF THE DAY

Hewitt—Did you say that I was "all wet?"

Jewett—Yes, dry up.—Cincinnati Times-Star.

Little Girl to Neighbor—Please, Mrs. Smith, one of the eggs ma borrowed from you was bad, so she sent it back. —The Progressive Grocer.

Employer—Have you ever done any night work?

Applicant—Yes, sir, I courted for two years.—Philadelphia Inquirer.

Diner (haughtily)—Is this a first-class restaurant?

Waiter—Oh, yes, but we don't mind serving you.—Philadelphia Inquirer.

Beau—See that bow-legged girl over there? She's one of the healthiest girls I know.

Nash—Humph, she doesn't look in very good shape to me.—Washington Purge.

Benedick—That luminous paint is a splendid invention.

Singleone—What do you use it for?

Benedick—We paint the baby's face so we can give him a drink in the night without turning on the light. —Good Hardware.

Did you make these biscuits, my dear?

Yes, darling.

Well, I would prefer that you wouldn't make any more.

Why not, dear?

Because, angel, you're too light for such heavy work.—Masonic Craftsman.

Bessie—When I grow up and marry, mother, will I have a husband like father?

Mother—Yes, dear.

Bessie—And if I don't marry, will I be like Aunt Jane?

Mother—I suppose so.

Bessie—O-o-oh! What a fix I'm in! —Kansas City Star.

One of Queen Mary's favorite occupations is to send flowers to London hospitals when she is staying in the castle at Windsor. The queen picks all the flowers herself and after tying them into little bunches, personally superintends their transport.

A municipal fishing pond, ten miles in length and a mile wide, stocked with millions of trout, is Tacoma's recreational enterprise. The "fishing paradise" will be open to any angler who will agree to use nothing but a fly or trolling equipment. The city council will have jurisdiction of the pond with power to declare the fishing season open or closed at will.

Rare old stamps of the south are in much demand in New York. A 3-cent stamp issued at Tuscumbia, Ala., in 1858, recently sold for $150, while a 2-cent, semi-official Charleston (S. Because of automatic telephones, Selfridge's department store of London has lost its telephone number, Gerrard 1, which was obtained 17 years ago after much difficulty and negotiation with the owners of the first 40 numbers of the Gerrard exchange. The automatic telephones require four figures. As 1111 is reserved for the police and 2222 for the firemen, the store decided that the next most distinctive number was the first four consecutive numerals. Its number is now 1234.

A children's labor union has been formed in China by representatives of the juvenile workers in Shanghai mills. About 20 representatives were present and were addressed by an old-time laborer at one of the Japanese-owned cotton mills. Resolutions were adopted calling the union into existence and providing for the collection of 10 cents a month from each juvenile member. It was decided to press for a reduction of working hours for minors from 12 hours to eight hours a day, and to work for increased pay and for schools which the youngsters may attend after their work-day.

WHEELER SCHOOL HOLDS ITS GRADUATION EXERCISES

Wheeler school at North Stonington graduated its senior class of three young men Monday at exercises held in the school library and attended by a good sized audience. Diplomas were presented to Gordon Dwight Bevin of East Hampton, George Percy Whitelaw and Edgar Nicholson Harland of North Stonington by Henry A. Tirrell, principal of Norwich Free Academy and a director of Wheeler school and library.

The exercises opened with the processional into the hall by the pupils of the school, the graduating class, the faculty and board of directors, Mrs. Morton N. Fisher playing Mendelssohn's "War March of the Priests" for the processional.

The invocation was by Rev. Inor Partington, pastor of the North Stonington Congregational church. Each member of the graduating class read an original essay. They were as follows: Gordon Dwight Bevin, "The Value of an Education"; George Percy Whitelaw, "The Humor of Mark Twain" and Edgar Nicholson Harland "Disarmament."

The Norton Downs, Jr., prize of $20 in gold, awarded annually to the student exhibiting the best evidence of school spirit and loyalty, was presented to Miss Sally Stewart of the sophomore class. Rev. William S. Williams rector of Calvary church, Stonington, and a member of the school's board of directors, presented the prize.

The inspiring address to the graduates by Miss Laura E. McIntyre of the Westerly high school faculty was followed by remarks by Thomas D. Hewitt, speaking for the board of directors.

Fisher, Mrs. Edward Man, Mrs. William F. Williams and Mrs. Arnold Todd.

CONCRETE ADDITION FOR NORWICH-NEW LONDON ROAD

Another addition of concrete roadway is to be made on the Norwich-New London turnpike, according to plans of the state highway department, which has just put the specifications out for bids. It will run through the towns of Waterford and Montville for about 13,150 feet, which is about 2½ miles.

The southern end of the new work, which is in the town of Waterford, will connect with the concrete near the Jerome place. From there the new work will run northerly through Montville and will end at the small gift shop a short distance north of the witch hazel mill.

PRIEST, NOANK NATIVE, DIED IN HARTFORD HOSPITAL

Rev. John M. McDonald, pastor of the Immaculate Conception church in Norfolk, this state, since 1917, died of pneumonia Monday afternoon at St. Francis' hospital, Hartford, after an illness of a week. Father McDonald was a native of Noank, born March 31, 1875 and attended the Bulkeley school at New London, graduating in 1893. He graduated from Holy Cross college and the Grand seminary in Montreal, Canada. He was ordained in 1900 by Cardinal Gibbons at St. Mary's college, Baltimore, Md.

Since his ordination Father McDonald had served as curate at St. Mary's church, Bridgeport, for three years, later going to Colchester where he remained for a short time.

He was a curate of St. Michael's church, Hartford, for nearly ten years, during which time he organized the largest Holy Name society in the city.

He was appointed pastor of the Norfolk Immaculate Conception church in 1917 by Bishop Nilan, succeeding Rev. Patrick Keating.

Father McDonald leaves a brother, Alfred McDonald of Hartford, a sister and niece in the convent, also several nieces and nephews.

J., and Frank Croker of Norwich.

CHAUTAUQUA SPEAKER WARNS OF DANGER TO CONSTITUTION

Montaville Flowers, former president of the International Lyceum and Chautauqua association, was the speaker at the Norwich Chautauqua Tuesday evening. His topic was "Of One Mind." Mr. Flowers traced the basis of international strife which has prevailed since the end of the great war. He emphasized the low reproduction rate of American born as compared with that of other peoples.

Mr. Flowers held the audience tense as he developed the results that must ensue in the competition of nations if the native-born continue to reproduce at the present low rate, from the point of view of the preservation of the ideals and constitution which that nation has cherished.

The Harrison-Huffsmith artists gave a prelude to Mr. Flowers lecture which was very well received, Miss Harrison, soprano and Mr. Huffsmith, tenor, were well received in both duet and solo numbers. Miss Helen Hall, well remembered by many Norwich people from her appearance here last year as a member of the Versatile Ladies Quartet, was roundly applauded for her piano solo numbers.

Junior town of Norwich met at the close of the afternoon performance and rehearsed for the pageant which the youthful citizens will present on Thursday afternoon, the last afternoon of Chautauqua.

Apple Sauce, the sensational comedy success of the 1926 season in Boston, New York and Chicago, will be presented by an all New York cast this (Wednesday) evening. LEBANON TO RECEIVE MONUMENT TO FAMOUS NATIVE PHYSICIAN

A monument to the memory of Dr. William Beaumont, former surgeon of the United States army, will next Tuesday afternoon be presented to the town of Lebanon. The monument has already been placed at the northern end of Lebanon common. The exercises will be held at 3 o'clock standard time. The famous physician in whose memory the monument has been erected was born in Lebanon in 1796 and died in St. Louis, Missouri April 25, 1853. He was a surgeon in the United States army and when stationed in Mackinac, Michigan, in 1822 he had occasion to treat a young man named Alexis St. Martin, who had received the discharge of a shot gun in his left side. By good care the wound was healed but an opening remained about two and one-half inches in diameter penetrating into the stomach. Through this aperture Dr. Beaumont was able to watch the process of digestion and to make experiments, extending over a series of years, regarding the digestibility of the different kinds of food and the effect upon the stomach of alcohol and various drugs; and he was the first to obtain the gastric juice and study its properties. The results of these physiological experiments were published in 1833 and attracted much attention in America and Europe. After resigning from the army, Dr. Beaumont practiced medicine in St. Louis and he continued the experiments upon St. Martin until his own death.

The experiments and observations of Dr. Beaumont on the gastric juice and the physiology of digestion were reprinted with notes in 1840 by Dr. Andrew Combe, a famous physician of Edinburgh, upon which the Dublin Medical Press commented as follows: "The profession owes Dr. Beaumont a debt of gratitude for his disinterested labors which we are convinced they can never repay and Dr. Combe is entitled to their thanks for putting the work within their reach at so moderate a price."

Programme of Exercises

During the exercises next Tuesday afternoon there will be an address on the topic, William Beaumont's work, by Prof. Chittenden of New Haven, late director of Sheffield Scientific school. The exercises will be held on the Lebanon common on the ground immediately adjacent to the monument, or, in case of rainy weather, in the Lebanon Baptist church close by.

The Beaumont Medical club, which is to present the monument to the town of Lebanon, cordially invites any of the residents of Lebanon or its vicinity who may be interested in the occasion to attend the exercises. The presentation speech will be made by Dr. Leonard W. Bacon and Karl F. Bishop, first selectman of Lebanon.

Dr. William Beaumont was grandson of William Beaumont, who was one of a party who came from Saybrook and settled in Lebanon. A monument in the Kingsley burying ground at Village Hill was erected by Rev. Leonard Bacon and by Prof. Thomas Thatcher, who were also grandsons of the elder William Beaumont, to commemorate the name of this early Lebanon settler and that of Stephen Buckingham, the grandfather of Connecticut's war governor, William Buckingham.

No one by the name of Beaumont now remains in Lebanon, but several of their descendents are now living in Hartford. Many of the older residents of the town remember Uncle John Beaumont and his two sisters, Misses Ann and Mary Beaumont, who lived and died in the house where Mr. and Mrs. George Martin now lives. John Beaumont, who was a cabinet maker in Hartford, had the house built for his sisters and later came there to spend his last days.

One of the features of the place which is well remembered is the picket fence with two gates, with a harp built in the center of each gate. These were built by John Beaumont. Miss Ann Beaumont used to weave carpets while Miss Mary Beaumont acted as housekeeper.

An indirect relative is Mrs. Lyman Pitcher, wife of Lebanon's only surviving Civil war veteran. Other more or less direct connections of Dr. Beaumont's family have been invited to attend. The U. S army will be represented by an officer designated by the surgeon general. There will be representatives present from the American Medical association and from the Connecticut Medical society.

The Jonathan Trumbull chapter, D. A. R., has shown its interest in the affair by arranging to open the old War Office for that day. Dr. Leonard W. Bacon, a professor in Yale college, has spent a great deal of time and effort to place the monument in the town. A huge boulder was taken from the farm where Dr. Beaumont was born, set up on the northerly end of Lebanon Green, and a bronze tablet set into it. The grounds about the monument have been graded making an addition to the looks of the Lebanon Green.

BOYS FIRING TORPEDOES ADMIT RAILROAD BREAKS

(Special to the Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, June 22.—With the arrest early this evening by Traffic Officer Arthur Hurley of two 14 year old lads, the solution of the mystery as to who broke into the freight car at Columbia junction and who placed the railroad hand car on the rails, which was wrecked by passenger train No. 112 from Hartford Saturday morning of last week, was brought about. The boys who reside on Quercus avenue admitted that they were the culprits, according to the police. The boys will probably be arraigned in the juvenile court tomorrow morning on a charge of breaking and entering.

Suspicion has been directed against other individuals in connection with the break of last Friday and the placing of a hand car on the rails. The local police tonight at 8:15 o'clock received a complaint from a Quercus avenue resident that somebody in that locality was discharging firecrackers. Traffic Officer Hurley found the two boys there with a quantity of torpedoes, which they admitted they had been firing. At the police station they also said that they had broken into three box cars this evening before they were arrested. According to their admissions they took two boxes of lifesavers last Friday night and Tuesday night they stole a box of Victory torpedoes from one of the box cars. The boys said last week Friday they placed the handcar on the rails and operated it for about a mile, and then they were unable to take it from the tracks with the result that when the train came along in the morning it smashed into it. They spent Saturday night in a shanty on the railroad property.

CALLS RAILROADS LARGEST CORPORATE TAX PAYERS

Robert S. Binkerd, vice chairman of the committee on public relations of the eastern railroads, addressed the 27th annual convention of the Connecticut chamber of commerce at the Hotel Griswold, Eastern Point, Tuesday afternoon on the subject of "State and Federal Taxes."

Mr. Binkerd said, in part: "Railroads are the largest corporate tax payers. For the year 1925 they returned to the public in the form of federal, state and local taxes more than $338,000,000. Tax payments made by the railroads for the first four months of the present year would indicate a total tax bill for 1926 of possibly $380,000,000—more than a million dollars a day—$42,000 an hour.

"More than three fourths of all the taxes paid by the railroads are levied on the railroads by state and local governments and the bulk of this taxation is levied on the real property of the railroads. In other words they are the same taxes which fall on the farmer and his land and buildings; on the merchant and his store; on the manufacturer and his plant; on the home owner and his home; and on the tenant whose rent must include the taxes paid by his landlord."

MARINES AND POLICE WILL REGULATE TRAFFIC

HARTFORD, June 23—(AP)—Seventeen posts for the direction of traffic will be established by the state police along the four miles of highway on the east side of the Thames river during the Yale-Harvard boat races on Friday. Fifty three men, seventeen state policemen and thirty six marines from the marine base at New London will patrol the roadway.

Five state policemen will be posted at the drawbridge to control the stream of traffic into the highway. Each of the other twelve state officers, directing three of the marines, will have charge of one-third of a mile of the straight-away.

The arrangement will allow twelve men on each mile of the course, on the east side of the river.

The traffic directing forces on the west side highway, where but little parking space is available at places where the boat race may be seen, will be lighter, Captain Frank M. Nichols said today. The main difficulty is presented, he said, in keeping clear ways on the other side of the river, where the best parking stations are located for viewing the race.

Superintendent Robert T. Hurley and Captain Nichols, who will be on duty in charge of the traffic forces, have been busy working out the plan of operation for some time.

STATE TREASURER HASDEDT INSTALLED FOR EAGLES

There was a large attendance at the regular meeting of New London aerie, No. 594, F. O. E., on Tuesday evening when State Treasurer W. H. Hasdedt and staff from Norwich installed the officers of New London aerie.

The members of Norwich aerie that accompanied the state treasurer were: N. Petrone, E. P. Mullins, H. Herring, W. Caughey, C. O. Wright, J. Dwyer and E. J. Mullins.

On Monday evening of this week A. Hasdedt held the chair of worthy president of Norwich aerie for the first time. Routine business was transacted, and among the special committees to report was the initiation committee, whose chairman, N. Petrone, reported that plans were being made to hold another extensive membership campaign until Saturday, July 17, when an old time entertainment will be given. Every member is urged to be there at least one candidate for this class.

George N. Dolny, junior past worthy president, and N. Petrone, worthy vice president, were elected delegates to the state convention to be held in Stamford on Sunday and Monday, June 27 and 28. It will be very interesting for any Eagle to journey to Stamford on Sunday afternoon to witness the ritualistic work of the order exemplified by the various degree teams of the state that will compete for prizes.

NORWICH PLAYGROUNDS ARE TO OPEN NEXT MONDAY

Plans have been completed by the recreation commission for the opening of the Norwich playgrounds on Monday, June 28, under the supervision of Earl E. Brigham, athletic coach at the Norwich Free Academy, who has served as supervisor during the past two seasons. Among the appointments as playground instructors are the Misses Eleanor Counihan, Katherine V. Farrell, Irene Werth and Terrence P. Finnegan, John P. Murphy, Matthew J. Sheridan, Edward J. Sullivan, who have previously served on the playgrounds. The new appointees are, Misses Beatrice Ableman, Teresa Fitzgerald, Geraldine Moore, Mildred Peckham, Constance Raymond, Cecelia Stanton, Madeline Thune and Thomas Winters as office assistant.

The playgrounds which will be put into use at once are Lake street, Greeneville, Elizabeth street, Laurel Hill, Thamesville, Hobart avenue, Falls and East Side. Plans are being made to care for the children on Jail Hill and the center of the city with a new playground in some central location.

The fence which is being erected at the Greeneville playground next to the railroad track is nearly completed and will be finished before the opening of the ground.

MAKES DEAD CENTER TO WIN RIFLE PRIZE

The Baltic Rifle club held a very successful shoot last week with shooters from Norwich, Plainfield and Voluntown, some very high scores being hung up.

Mr. Grimes, the grand old man of the rifle, was on hand and also Mr. Cady of Willimantic, 80 years young. John Kaufman of Voluntown put up a gold medal for the best center shot out of five to win. This was won by Mr. Brand of Norwich with a dead center. There was hardly a 16th of an inch between the shots.

The following were the scores:

REALTORS TO GATHER FOR STORRS OUTING

Agency Manager James A. Whitmore of the Phoenix Mutual Life Insurance company will speak on "Successful Real Estate Selling," Thursday, at the second annual outing of the Connecticut Association of Real Estate Boards and as guests of the Connecticut Agricultural college at Storrs. President C. L. Beach of the college will give greetings and President G. Harry Abbott of the State Presidents and Secretaries association, will give the response.

Other talks will be: By Chief Appraiser E. D. Strait of the Federal Farm bank of Springfield, on "Points to Consider in Appraising Farm Lands," by Professor A. W. Manchester on "Normal Returns in Farming," by Past President Samuel C. Doty of the Hartford and the state real estate boards on "Organization Objectives for Connecticut."

The meeting will be preceded by registering and a dinner. It will be held in the armory and T. D. Faulkner head of the state association, will preside. The college buildings, gardens and greenhouses are to be inspected. There will be athletic sports on the field and the swimming pool and bowling alleys will be available. Ladies are invited.

STATE ENGINEERS WILL HOLD PUBLIC SESSION

A session that is open to the public will be held Friday evening at the Community house by the state convention of engineers, which will hold sessions Friday and Saturday. Two speakers will be on the programme for Friday evening, H. D. Larrabee of this city, general manager of the Eastern Connecticut Power Co., and H. W. Heinrich, assistant superintendent of the engineering division of the Travelers Insurance company.

Mr. Larrabee's subject will be, "Conservation of Fuel Supply Brought About by Increased Power Plant Efficiency." Mr. Heinrich will talk on general lines relative to engineering subjects. He will also discuss and explain indemnity insurance and will answer any questions that manufacturers or engineers wish to ask.

The Norwich association is working hard to make this convention a success, not only for their own benefit, but for the benefit of the Rose of New England, and is hoping to have a large attendance.

NEW HALLVILLE ROAD TO NORWICH-WESTERLY HIGHWAY

The new Poquetanuck-Hallville road, on which the state highway department is asking bids, will provide an outlet from Poquetanuck to the Norwich-Westerly highway. It will be of 7-inch native stone macadam, a little over a mile in length from where it connects with the Norwich-Westerly highway.

CONNECTICUT SHORT ON TRAINING CAMP QUOTA

Connecticut's quota of 648 for the Citizens' military training camp this summer is only 38 per cent., filled. Colonel Charles Gerhardt, chief of staff of the Seventy-sixth division, announced Tuesday. Only 246 have been accepted from this state as of June 9.

Graduates at New England Colleges

Receiving his degree at Williams on Monday with special distinction was Edward A. Smith of this city and Warren P. Livingston of Thompson.

At Smith the degree of bachelor of arts was received by Patricia Cassidy of New London and Marion Utley of Waterford, the last named receiving her degree magna cum laude.

At Bates college Byron F. Wilcox of Putnam was among those receiving the B. S degree.

At Amherst those receiving the B. A. degrees were Edward C. Andrews, Norwich; Paul R. Chesbro, Mystic; John Troland and Ralph E. Wadleigh, New London.

YANTIC COMES FROM BEHIND TO BEAT OUT EAST END IN TWILIGHT GAME

The Yantic A. A. team nosed out the East Ends in Tuesday evening's twilight game at the Duwell field by the score of 5 to 4.

Considering the drizzling rain which fell most of the time, the game was exceptionally fast and free from errors. Gil Jones for Yantic, mixing a fast-breaking curve with plenty of speed, he held the heavy-hitting East Enders to 3 scattered hits while nine went out via the strikeout route.

Harry Mills, in the box for the East Siders, also pitched fine ball but one bad inning, the fourth, in which Yantic bunched three hits with an infield error, proved his undoing. Harry was touched for eight hits, and fanned the same number as Jones, nine. Five of Mills' strikeouts came in a row, the first five men to face him in the game, going out in this manner.

The East Ends were the first to score, tallying three times in the initial inning. Duffy, leading off was hit by Jones, and when Morin sacrificed, went down to second. Duffy took third on a passed ball, and when Porter, the Yantic catcher, dropped the third strike on Mills, scored. Mills being safe at first on the play. Harry stole second, and after Moore had flied out to center, scored on E. Papineau's single to left. Papineau went to second on the throw-in, and tallied a moment later on Tim. Coughlin's single to left. Bamford closed the inning by striking out.

In the third, the East Ends pushed across another run on a walk to Moore, an error by J. Lamphere, and a long sacrifice fly by Coughlin.

Yantic could do nothing with Mills for the first three innings, but in the fourth, they started their attack with three runs. Mills got himself in trouble when he hit Charlie to start the frame. Sweet singled to right, and Charlie took third. H. Hoxie fanned, but J. Lamphere came thru with a short single over second, scoring Charlie and sending Sweet to third. Lamphere then stole second, At this point, one of Mills shoots got away from Papineau, and Sweet scored, and Lamphere went to third. Marchand shot a grounder to short, but Coughlin dropped Files' throw to first, and Lamphere tallied with the third run of the inning. Marchand took second on the play, but was caught a moment later when he tried to score on Porter's single to center.

In the next inning, Yantic bunched three more hits, which were good for two more runs, which proved enough to win the game. Jones singled to short as a starter stole second, and after Lamphere and Charlie had gone out, scored on Sweet's long two-bagger to left. Hoxie kept up the attack with a hit to left, and Sweet crossed the plate with what proved to be the winning run.

Tonights' Game

Tonight will see the Eastern Connecticut Power company and the Saint Joseph's team get into action at the Duwell field, and a real thriller should be the outcome. The E. C. P. won their first game, Friday evening, when they made such an impressive showing against the Bon Tons. All those who witnessed Friday's game know that the Power nine is a real outfit and one that is bound to be among the leaders throughout the season.

The Saints met the East Ends in the opening game of the league, last Wednesday, and although losing showed plenty of ability, especially hitting power. Stanley, who twirled in last weeks game was not right, which was largely responsible for the Saints defeat. This boy is a real pitcher, however, and if given another chance tonight is bound to give a better account of himself.

Tommy Simcoz and Mace Goldblatt will be the probable battery for the Power Team, while, either Stanley, Koslowski, or Spike Liberty will twirl for the Saints with Bill Liberty doing the catching.

MOOSUP DEFEATS WEST ENDS IN TEN INNING STRUGGLE

On Sunday last the Moosup Town Team took on the fast West Enders of Willimantic on the Carpet Grounds, at Moosup, and after an exciting ten inning battle were returned victors by a score of 6 to 5.

The Moosup boys started scoring early in the game taking kindly to Meiha's offerings while the Thread City men could do nothing with Ainsworth's slants until the sixth inning when the visitors scored 3 runs. They scored again in the 7th and 8th taking the lead. The Moosup boys however tied the score in their half of the 8th on Frechette's double and Stevens single, and tallied the winning run in the tenth after two men had been retired.

The batting of Kendricks, Frechette and Pechie was the outsanding feature of the game this trio gathering 9 out of Moosup's 12 bingles. The Moosup boys showed a vast improvement in their playing, putting up a fast, snappy aggressive game and will undoubtedly, make their future opponents step along at a fast clip.

AMERICAN GOLFERS ARE CONFIDENT OF TAKING TITLE

ST. ANNE'S, England, June 22—(AP)—Buoyant with the high morale of repeated victories, America's golfing army tonight was encamped on the outskirts of this Lancashire town ready for the final drive against the one and only golfing prize remaining in this country—the open championship.

Eighteen holes will be played tomorrow, another 18 Thursday and the final 36 Friday, all entrants fifteen strokes behind the leader after the first 36 holes retiring from the field. With Bobby Jones, the American champion, leading a quartet of lusty amateurs, including Watts Gunn, Roland Mackenzie and George Von Elm; and the fighting Walter Hagen, with new laurels on his bronzed brow after his match with Abe Mitchell, heading the squad of professionals, the Americans are confident one of their number will speed from St. Anne's Friday night with the open championship trophy to blace beside Jess Sweetser's grandly won amateur prize and the Walker cup.

The open title has gone to America annually since 1921 with the exception of three years ago, when the Englishman Arthur Havers defeated Hagen by a single stroke.

ACADEMY LOSES TWILIGHT GAME TO TAFTVILLE A. A.

At the Providence street grounds in Taftville Tuesday evening the Academy team lost a practice game to the Taftville A. A. by a score of 6 to 4. The Academy team was unable to gather more than three hits off the combined pitching efforts of Gauthier and Finn. The game was a workout for the Academy in preparation of the championship game to be played at New London on Thursday afternoon. The score:

QUALIFYING ROUND IN INVITATION TOURNAMENT TO BE PLAYED TODAY

With a record field of entrants for the Norwich Golf club Invitation tournament the qualifying round will be played at the Norwich Golf club today. The field that will tee off today in the opening round includes the best amateur golfers in the state and without doubt the local invitation tournament will assume practically the same proportions of the state amateur title play which will be held next week. Many of those who are to enter the state tournament have entered in the local play.

There has been no set time for the individual play which is 18 holes medal play and qualifiers may start at any time during the day. All score cards are to be turned in to the score keeper and the sixteens will be named and paired after the qualifying round and the pairings for the match play will be published in The Bulletin on Thursday morning.

It is expected that the field in qualifying round will be close to 100 and that in the match play there will be five sixteens. The play is for the handsome trophy given by Mrs. Charles D. Noyes which will become the permanent possession of the golfer winning it three times. Other prizes have been offered for the winner of each sixteen and for the runner-up and for the winner of each beaten eight.

SENATORS DIVIDE HONORS WITH YANKS IN DOUBLE BILL

WASHINGTON, June 22.—(AP)—Washington divided a doubleheader with New York, winning the first in sensational manner 8 to 7, and losing the night cap 9 to 1. In the second game Babe Ruth bagged his 23rd homer, putting the ball over the right field wall with one man on base.

In the ninth inning of the first game when the Yankees had a five run lead, the Senators filled the bases, fell into a double play and then put six runs over the plate for a win. Hoyt's effectiveness in the second game was in contrast to the wildness of Palmero, Cuban pitcher recently signed by the Senators, and making his first start. He lasted only three innings.

LYONS HANGS UP HIS TWELFTH VICTORY

CHICAGO, June 22—(AP)—Ted Lyons hung up his 12th victory of the season today when Eddie Collins' double broke up a ten inning game which gave the locals the second game of the series from Cleveland. Collins' batting was the outstanding feature of the White Sox victory, as he led the attack with four hits in five times up. It was Lyon's 13th time that he has defeated the Cleveland club since coming into the American league in 1923. As a result of today's game Chicago, Cleveland and Philadelphia are tied for second place, the Athletics having been idle on account of rain. Score:

MULDOON SAYS DEMPSEY AND WILLS BOUT UNFAIR

NEW YORK, June 22.—(AP)—The opinion that Jack Dempsey or Harry Wills, because of long inactivity, are not entitled to box for the heavyweight championship "until they have proved they are fit" was expressed today by William Muldoon, 81-year-old member of the state athletic commission. Muldoon registered the only voice among the three members of the commission today in support of a Dempsey-Tunney title match first, as proposed by Tex Rickard.

Muldoon declared his belief that Dempsey is now "underweight, close to being a nervous wreck and probably not within 50 per cent. of his best." The condition and ability of Wills "also are doubtful," he said, adding that both men should have preliminary bouts before being put in the ring together. Tunney, he indicated, would furnish a desirable "try-out" for Dempsey.

"It would not be fair to the public," said Muldoon, "to match them without first testing their qualifications now. Both have been inactive too long to be at their peak."

RICHARDS AND MISS BROWNE ARE BEATEN BY FRENCH STARS

WIMBLEDON, England, June 22—(AP)—America's worst blow in jubilee tennis tournament came late today, when Vincent Richards, the leading entrant from the United States for men's singles honors, again fell a victim to the French champion, Henri Cochet.

Another reverse, although, of course, it was taken virtually for granted, came with the defeat of Miss Mary K. Browne at the hands of Suzanne Lenglen, thus putting the leading American woman candidate out of the running in the very first round.

The match between Richards and Cochet was replete with brilliant tennis. The American star was the favorite, despite his recent defeat on the French courts by Cochet, but his powerful backhand strokes were not strong enough to carry him over his obviously weak service. Cochet won after a terrific battle, 4-6, 6-3, 6-4, 6-2.

Seldom did Richards get over his first ball and often he netted Cochet's return of his second. The Frenchman's service was steady and his deep court volleying accurate and effective. Wimbledon enthusiasts tonight declared there would not be another singles match this year in which better tennis will be exhibited.

Of all the sets, the third was the most bitterly contested, one game going to deuce eight times.

The Lenglen-Browne affair found the dashing Suzanne much on the defensive at times. She peeled off her jumper and danced about in tiptoe, obviously concerned, especially after she had failed to intercept some of Miss Browne's drives. Several were as hard as were ever seen on the Wimbledon courts from a woman's racquet.

Baker-Cohen Bout Postponed

NEW YORK, June 22—(AP)—A 10-round welterweight fight scheduled for tonight at Queensboro stadium between Sergeant Sammy Baker of Mitchel field and Meyer Cohen of Holyoke, Mass., was postponed on account of rain. The contest will be staged

WESTERLY

RUSHED ROAD WORK BECAUSE OF RACE TRAFFIC

(Special to the Bulletin)

WESTERLY, R. I., June 22—Work was rushed this morning by Highway Engineer A. L. Leon and force of workmen in the Westerly highway department for the completion of the laying of the hot mix on the upper end of Main street to the center line junction with Broad street at the east approach to the Pawcatuck river bridge. At the close of the day's work the laying and rolling had been completed and that section of Broad street, a part of the Boston Post road, will be in readiness for the heavy automobile traffic which proceeds and follows the rowing of the Yale-Harvard races at New London. In the course of the work a one-way traffic was required at times and Police Patrolman George H. Champlin was kept busy in alternating the blocks of traffic east and west. Main street now is completed from Union to Broad streets and vehicular traffic now has a smooth and widened surface on which to travel.

Letter carrier service at Pleasant View beach began on Tuesday with two delivery men from the Pleasant View post office. Westerly Postmaster Thomas E. Lenihan and Assistant James F. Spellman were at the beach on Monday to lay out the routes. Recently Civil Engineer Thomas McKenzie, superintendent of the Westerly water works, went over the plats and maps, carefully checking up with conditions at the beach and each house or building site was given a number to facilitate the location and delivery of mail matter.

George E. Egger, chief of the Westerly Fire department, is in attendance at the convention of New England Fire Chiefs which is being held in Manchester, N. H. He will return to his Westerly home on Monday next.

Perpetuation of historical papers is being planned by the Westerly Historical society, Everett E. Whipple, president, when through its publication committee it is planned to publish in book form a collection of outstanding historical papers that have been read before the society at its meetings in recent years. The proposed book also will contain a series of reminiscent articles on Westerly and its leading men of the 19th century, written by Albert P. Pendleton, and a similar series of reminiscent papers on Pawcatuck, written by Judge Elias B. Hinckley of Stonington borough.

The publication committee of the Historical society consists of the Rev. Samuel M. Cathcart (chairman), Joseph Stedman and Arthur M. Mills.

Harvard university class of 1906, passing its 20th reunion at the Ocean House, Watch Hill, with an attendance of nearly 200, brought to a formal close its outing on Tuesday night with a banquet and entertainment.

During their sojourn at the beach there were sports, such as golfing or tennis at the Misquamicut Golf club, bathing for the more hardy in the surf, or bowled on the Watch Hill alleys, while others were content to stroll or ride about the country. That they could be identified large buttons with the bearers' name and class numeral, hat bands and bow ties with the green and white class colors, were supplied the grads of a score years ago.

At the Monday evening dinner Prof. Arthur N. Holcombe of Cambridge, Mass., presided and acted as toastmaster.

William M. White of Pawcatuck left home Tuesday morning for a visit in Boston.

George Dewey of New London was a visitor in Pawcatuck and Westerly on Tuesday morning.

A Happy Woman

A MAN dreams of wealth, success and power.

A woman dreams of a home of her own and babies to love.

Happy is the young woman whose dream is fulfilled. With good health, housework is not a burden. Her home echoes to the prattle of healthy children. She must not fail those tiny hands. Her husband is still her comrade and confidant, sharing her new responsibilities. She is content.

Happy, too, is the older woman who holds her children's children in her arms and lives to see a new generation dreaming dreams of its own.

A young girl in Iowa was in such a weakened condition that she had to leave school. One day, after being in poor health for about two years, she picked up an advertising booklet and read about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

"I began to take your medicine," she writes. "Now I am a housekeeper with six children and I have taken it before each was born. I cannot tell you all the good I have received from it. I read all of your little books I can get and I tell everyone I know what the Vegetable Compound does for me."

BUILDING OPERATIONS IN NORWICH

During the past week 13 building permits were granted by Fire Marshal Howard L. Stanton. The permits with the exception of two are for garages, porches and alterations to present building. Two permits are for dwelling houses, one a brick bungalow on Laurel Hill avenue and the other a frame house on First avenue. The total valuation as placed by the owners is approximately $15,000. The permits issued are as follows:

To Albert A. Belliveau to add a frame veranda, 6x35 feet, to present frame house on Second street.

To Stanley Kowalewski to erect a frame garage, 20 x 20 ft, at 234 Summit street.

To William J. McNeely to build a frame addition to the present garage owned by Dr. C. C. Gildersleeve at 39 Lincoln ave. The addition will be 12 x 18 feet.

To Contractor P. F. Sweeney to erect a frame porch to the house at 54 Prospect street owned by Nicholas Spellman. The porch will be 6 x 24 feet.

To Zachae Bros., to alter present brick building at 30-42 Market street for the Sons of Herrmann lodge No. 11. New steel ceilings and hardwood floors will be put in and the entire building reinforced with steel girders.

To John F. Sautter to add a frame porch to present house on Asylum street.

To American Thermos Bottle Co., to erect a frame garage, 30 x 30 feet, on Thermos avenue.

To N. Lubchansky of New London to alter present brick building at 110 Main street for Beckenstein and Taylor. An entire new front will be built in for a store and the building will be reinforced with steel girders.

To John C. Tracy to add a single room, 10 x 10 feet, to the present house at 117 Laurel Hill avenue for John F. Cochrane.

To Frank Duch to add a frame veranda to the present house on Valley street.

To Margaret E. Kennedy to build a brick bungalow on Laurel Hill avenue. The bungalow will have cement foundation, hard wood floors and trim, tile bath and hard finish plaster. The size is not given.

To John Senrtzki to erect a frame garage, 12 x 20 feet, on Geer avenue for himself.

To George E. Boucher to erect on First avenue for Emily I. Delgado a frame house, 28 x 37 feet. The foundation will be of stone. The exterior finish will be in clapboards and shingles with composition roof. The interior will be in plaster and hard pine trim with oak floors. There will be four rooms on the first floor and three on the second.

REAL ESTATE SALES AND MORTGAGE LOANS

During the past week there were nine sales of real estate in Norwich as compared to five sales for the same week a year ago. The mortgage loans for the respective weeks were $25,915 and $63,350.

In New London there were 14 sales of real estate, two less than for the same week in 1925. The mortgage loans for the respective weeks were $68,196 and $53,200.

State Building Permits

Building activity in this state continues to exceed the rate for last year. A total of 436 building permits were issued this past week in the building centers reported by The Commercial Record, while the total for a year ago was 295. The total estimated cost of construction was also larger during the past week amounting to $1,736,319 as compared with $1,114,934 for the corresponding week in 1925.

New London

Little if any change was noted in the local building situation the past week. Although the number of permits granted Monday dropped below the average number the previous weeks' permits more than balanced the scales.

The cost of buildings to be erected according to permits issued last week is estimated to be $41,600 as to $39,100 for the same period the year previous. Both figures are considerably more than the figure of 1924 when the cost of buildings for which permits were issued was $8,700.

Ground has been broken for a new private dwelling for Mrs. Annie Hissop of Vauxhall street in Ledyard street. The contract was awarded a Waterford contractor. The structure will be of cottage design with dimensions of 32 feet by 36 feet. The cost is estimated at about $6,000.

Work has been started by the L. E. McLaughlin, Inc., of this city, on the construction of a concrete arch bridge at Centerville, R. I. The bridge will have an 80 foot span and is estimated to cost $45,000.

The two-family duplex house being built for Marie M. Grove in Marshall place is nearing completion. Only the finishing touches of the interior is necessary before the new structure can be occupied.

A new frame garage has been completed for James L. Wilkinson in Ashcraft road extension. The dimensions are 12 by 18.

The exterior is completed on the two story cottage being built for B. M. Youngs at Ledyard and Vauxhall streets. Work is progressing on the plastering and finishing of the interior with the installation of wiring, plumbing and heating equipment.

The two story combination tea room and residence building being constructed for C. S. Bailey on Fort hill, Groton, is about completed with only minor finishing required. Mr. and Mrs. Bailey will occupy the new structure which is of exquisite design of stone for the first floor and colonial clapboard for the second floor with large enclosed verandas.

The one story brick store building built for Peter Woviotis at 345 Bank street has been completed and is ready for occupancy. The structure is 27 by 42 with two large plate glass show windows.

The frame is going up for the two story cottage 24 by 28 being built for Felix Neidzweeki in Bayonet street. The house will be of frame construction and designed for occupancy by the builder.

Work is nearly completed on the construction of the new roadway being constructed for the C. E. Schal, Inc. at Shirley and Rocktourne parks in Pequot and Hillside avenues.

Work is progressing on the foundation of a new bungalow type construction for Charles J. Long at 28 Colman street during the past week. Specifications call for a structure 28 by 30 feet.

A frame garage has been completed for F. S. Hitchcock in Waller court.

The frame work is going up on a new cottage 25 by 23 being built for Harry Rakosky at 29 Waller court. The foundation was completed last week and consists of stone and concrete block. The cottage will be arranged for one family use of story and a half construction.

The plastering has started on the two story double tenement frame house being built for Josephine Dlugencki at 324 Jefferson avenue. The new house is provided with large front verandas on both floors with a one story store or frame construction attached to the east side of the house.

The plastering is nearly finished on the two story cottage being built for Seiachin and Mary Saunders in Bayonet street. The dimensions of the new house are 26 by 24, designed for one family use. A large front veranda is included.

The following seven applications for building permits, approved and recommended, were granted by the council recently:

Peter Mros, two-family dwelling, 28 by 52, Squire street.

Elizabeth Boyle, two-family dwelling, 52 by 28 Ocean and Dell avenues.

William M. Davidson, cement block garage, 30 by 18, 18 Brewer street.

William Malkowski, enclosed porch, 4 by 8, 593 Main street.

Ferruccio Alviani and wife, frame garage, 10 by 20, 32 Fourth street.

Rosaria Purpo, addition 28 by 19 feet, 6 inches, second story veranda 5 by 20, 74 West Colt street.

Dennis M. Falvey, addition to garage, 11 by 18, 15 West Colt street.

AGRICULTURAL INTERESTS

CLOVER LEAF WEEVIL AND ITS CONTROL

The clover leaf weevil sometimes does considerable damage to the clover crop, but seldom causes total crop failure because of the rather effective control afforded by a fungous disease which attacks it in the larval or grub stage, says the United States department of agriculture. The damage is most severe in backward seasons.

The presence of the pest is indicated during April and May by a ragged appearance of clover and alfalfa plants, when the dirty greenish wormlike or larval stage of the insect may be found around the base of the plants, according to Farmers' Bulletin 1484-F, The Clover Leaf Weevil and Its Control.

The principal food plants of the clover leaf weevil seem to be red clover, alfalfa and white clover. All the other varieties of clover are also eaten, including alsike and occasionally sweet clover, and some varieties of beans. The beetles have been recorded as feeding also on timothy, green wheat leaves, hurdock, soybeans various flowers, and even leaves of corn.

In view of the effective control over this pest given by the fungous disease, it is seldom necessary or practical to apply direct control measures against this insect alone. However, by spraying the crop with a mixture of arsenate of lead at the strength of two pounds of the powder to 50 gallons of water, including 1 pound of laundry soap as a sticker, the mixture being applied at the rate of 100 gallons to the acre, a kill of 85 per cent of the larvae has been obtained under the usual seasonal rainy weather condition.

NINETY POUNDS PASTURE DAILY, IS COW'S LIMIT

A cow giving an average of 35 pounds of milk a day would have to consume 175 pounds of good pasture every day to maintain her yield and keep in good condition, according to the Larrowe Institute of Animal Economics. Since few cows can eat more than 90 pounds of grass in one day even from the most luxuriant growth, a big portion of the 35 pounds of milk she gives come right off her back unless the pasture is supplemented with a grain ration.

"All grass, regardless of condition or location, is well over one-half water," states the institute. "In ordinary field grasses this percentage runs from 53 to 77. Sweet clover is 75 per cent water. Alfalfa ranges from 70 to 80 per cent water. From any pasture a cow gets not more than 2 to 5 per cent protein and a fraction of 1 per cent of fat; and of all the grasses she eats, only 15 to 30 per cent is made up of the very necessary carbohydrates. Because grass does not contain enough of the feeding elements a cow needs in proportion to its bulk, the cow cannot keep on producing to the limit of her capacity on pasture alone. Supplementing the grass with a grain ration, however, keeps her from using up her bodily reserve. It gives her the balanced ration she needs to keep on producing milk in profit-making quantities. It keeps her in condition and brings her into the fall in shape to produce the most milk during the winter months when milk prices are highest."

SOME CROP PROSPECTS IN NEW ENGLAND

Nearly all farm crops in New England and most farm activities are late and slow in getting under way due to the cold, backward spring. Moisture has been deficient generally except in eastern and northern Maine. There excess wet weather hindered all farm work. Frosts were frequent in May and to date in June, but damage to crops has been small because few crops are far enough advanced. Southern New England has fared somewhat better than northern regions. There have been light showers, but much high wind. The need now is for a good soaking rain more sunshine and warm weather. Cutworms have been unusually numerous and destructive.

Condition of the grain crops on June 1 was considerably below average mainly because of being backward. Seeding and planting of crops were much delayed, but a period of favorable conditions could soon bring most crops up to their usual condition. Outlook for New England hay is now from 11 to 13 points below average and 4 to 14 points below last year. This is due to frosty nights, cold windy days and deficient rain. The United States hay condition is 76 per cent of normal compared with 78.1 per cent last year and the 10 year average of 88.1 per cent.

New England pasture condition June 1 was 76 per cent of normal compared with 87.1 per cent last year and the 10 year average of 92 per cent. Pastures are better in New Hampshire and Rhode Island than elsewhere. They need more rain and warmer weather. June 1 condition of United States pastures is 77 per cent of normal; last year 74.9 per cent; 10 year average 89.8 per cent. Farm pastures are almost as poor as a year ago and are poorer than on any previous June 1 during the past 21 years. They are poorest in North Atlantic, South Atlantic and North Central regions. Hay, too, is poorest in these regions.

Oats in nearly all important states have made a poor start. For the country the June 1 condition is slightly below last year and substantially lower than on any previous June 1. June 1 forecast is for 543 million bushels of winter wheat against 398 millions harvested last year.

Due to continued cold weather milk production for New England as a whole has shown less than the usual seasonal increase to date; and the same adverse conditions have kept the consumption of milk from the usual increase expected at this time.

Connecticut Valley onion acreage is 13 per cent larger than last year with 4,410 acres compared with 3,906 last year. Seed onions have 2,271 acres last year 2,464. Set onions 2,139 acres, last year 1,260—a 70 per cent gain. Sets have 48.5 per cent of the total and seed onions 51.5 per cent.

New England apple trees generally carried a heavy, vigorous bloom, compared with usual bloom, except in Maine where the bloom was moderate. The five varieties with best bloom were McIntosh, Gravenstein, Wealthy, Baldwin and Greening. Northern Spy was poorest. Blossom time was cold and windy; bees could not work freely; the set of apples is somewhat irregular and uncertain. Compared with a normal or 100 per cent condition June 1 the present condition is: Maine 73; New Hampshire 82; Vermont 85; Massachusetts 91; Rhode Island 93; Connecticut 86; New York 85; New Jersey 80; Pennsylvania 86; Virginia 70; West Virginia 76; Ohio 82; Illinois 72; Michigan 74; Missouri 65; Arkansas 62; Colorado 92; Idaho 80; Washington 82; Oregon 90; California 79; United States 78 3

Leading varieties being set are McIntosh, Baldwin, delicious, Cortland Present outlook is for a good peach crop in New England. Pears are a little below average. Small fruit prospects mostly good.

V. A. Sanders, C. D. Stevens statisticians.

EFFORTS FOR CONTROL

The Japanese beetle, which for some years has infested a limited area in New Jersey and Pennsylvania, is a far more injurious pest in the United States than in its original home, Japan, says the United States department of agriculture. The insect is believed to have been brought to this country as larvae in soil about the roots of certain nursery plants, presumably the Japanese iris.

The most important economic crops attacked by the beetle are apple, quince, peach, sweet cherry, plum, grape, blackberry, clover, soybean, and corn. The shade trees affected include linden, birch, oak, elm, sassafras, horsechestnut, and willow. The beetle also feeds on ornamental shrubs, particularly althaea and rosé, flowers of all kinds, and weeds of many varieties. The grubs are quite injurious to lawns, golf courses, and sod in general.

Its rapid spread and the serious injury in this country are attributed largely to an abundant food supply and to conditions favorable for the development of the pest, according to department 363-C, The Japanese Beetle, recently issued by the department.

Although efforts to stamp out the infestation in New Jersey and Pennsylvania have failed, stringent quarantine regulations requiring inspection of farm products and nursery stock going out of the infested area have prevented further serious spread of the pest. The control work has been aided in some measure by diseases attacking the beetle as well as by certain insects, birds, and other parasites that feed on the pest.

SOUTH KILLINGLY

Mr. and Mrs. Winsor Barlow of Hillsgrove, R. I., spent Sunday with Mr. Barlow's parents, Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Barlow.

Two automobiles came together at the foot of Spaulding hill Tuesday during the rain in the late forenoon. Both machines were considerably damaged and the occupants more or less injured. First aid was given at the home of A. E. Hall and later one woman was removed to Day Kimball hospital. This is the first serious accident which has occurred here in several months. When the state road was first completed they were almost a weekly event.

Several local people were in Danielson Sunday evening to attend the baccalaureate exercises of Killingly high school.

Herman Barlow and family of Danielson spent Sunday with local relatives.

Edmond Goodness who has been at Day Kimball hospital several weeks for treatment was thought to be recovering until Saturday when he suffered a relapse and passed away early Sunday morning.

Mr. Simas of Providence was at A. E. Hall's mill Monday inspecting timber for the N. Y. N. H. and H. railroad.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Bragg of Central Village were callers Friday at A. E. Hall's.

Phebe Barber who has been spending a week at The Oaks left for Providence Sunday where she will visit at the home of her sister, Mrs. William Holland, before returning to her home in Norwich Town.

Friends of Mrs. Nehemiah Wood of North Sterling were grieved to learn of her accident, in which her hip was broken Saturday. Mrs. Wood was a former resident of this place.

The heavy frost Wednesday night did much damage to potatoes and other vegetables in this vicinity.

These 3 great engineering factors —throw an entirely new light on present-day-performance standards

Here is a remarkable new-type of car, different in performance, comfort and ease of driving from anything you have ever known before.

It is a complete new departure in automobile engineering.

The whole car is designed as an integral, harmonious unit. All parts are co-related with each other. It is unit-engineered to meet modern performance standards.

You can drive an Overland Six hour after hour at high speed without wear on the engine. It was designed for an average road speed of 40 to 55 miles an hour.

Its low gravity center gives you a feeling of security never before found in any car of this type. Without side-sway or slipping or wandering . . . the car fairly hugs the road.

This big, sturdy Six will actually out-pull, out-run and out-perform anything else of its size, or weight, or price-class.

It is a car of exceptional comfort. The big, broad door openings are 32½ inches wide. You can get in or out with the utmost ease.

The beautiful lines of the Overland Six are universally commented upon by its owners.

Nothing has been spared to make this car a positive comfort-revelation. In fairness to yourself, see the Overland Six before buying any car today.

DESCRIBES ADVANTAGES THAT ARE ENJOYED BY THAMES VALLEY

Speaking Tuesday afternoon at the Connecticut Chamber of Commerce annual meeting at the Griswold, Eastern Point, Robert W. Perkins of this city, who is chairman of the Thames Valley Citizens' committee, related some of the interesting history of the Thames valley and described the advantages it enjoys as a place for business and residence.

In part Mr. Perkins spoke as follows:

A little more than 300 years ago before the white man had settled in Connecticut, the Thames valley became the focal point of interest for a tribe of Indians known as the Manhheas, or Mohicans, then dwelling in the Valley of the Hudson. Following the trails through a portion of Massachusetts and into Connnecticut, lured by the stories of the abundance of game in this valley and quantities of fish in the Sound and its estuary, now called the Thames, they found their way into this area so rich in natural advantages, fought off the Indian inhabitants who had used this territory as a hunting ground, and became the possessors, eventually, of all that portion of the area from the Sound north to what is now the Massachusetts line, practically the entire drainage area of the Thames and its tributaries.

They were a fierce and war-like tribe, and led by the great Sachem Uncas, they maintained their hold upon this territory against attacks of the Narragansetts and other tribes, until the coming of the whites, who, influenced by the same attractions as those which resulted in the early contest for possession of this territory, in 1646, made a small settlement at New London. In 1648, this was increased to about 40 families.

Dutch Explorer First Visitor

It is interesting to note that perhaps the first white man who visited this section of the state of Connecticut was a Dutch explorer, Adralen Block, six years before the settlement of Plymouth; namely, 1614, made an expedition up the Hudson—visited the settlement at Manhattan—and then sailing through what is now known as the East River (to which he gave the name of Hellegat, which name has clung to it ever since) passed through Long Island Sound, exploring the various rivers—ascending the Connecticut to a point above the present city of Hartford—then sailed east along the Sound to New London harbor, where he found the Pequot tribe settled in what was called Nameaug, now the city of New London. In 1658, this settlement at the mouth of the river received the name of New London, in honor of London, England. At the same time, the name of the river was changed from the Pequot to Thames.

In 1781, a large portion of the city was burned by the British, and the great battle of Groton Heights was fought, commemorated by the monument erected in 1830 from funds raised by a lottery authorized by the state.

Many Natural Advantages

In 1660, Norwich was settled, and it is interesting for us today who make this valley our home, to feel that both the Indians and the whites selected this area because of the tremendous natural advantages possessed by it. Some of us, who have modern higher ideals of business ethics, like to feel that the whites came into possession of the area not wholly by force of arms, but through negotiations with Uncas, who was then Sachem of the great tribe, and friendly with the early settlers, for it is recorded that they purchased the land from the Indians—Norwich, for instance, containing an area 9 miles square, was paid for in the sume of 70 pounds—not a munificent sum, but, still, better than nothing, and we are helped a little to learn that even after this transfer of ownership Uncas continued his friendly relations with the whites.

Two Neighbor Cities

Norwich and New London grew apace, and, across from New London, was Groton bank, a part of New London until 1705, when it was incorporated, and between these three settlements the only means of communication was the river and the Indian trails.
